Skelton vs. Reagan Charity Basketball

Don't miss the basketball game when comedian Red Skelton plays with his "Mean Widdle Kids" against Ronald Reagan's "Fighting Fools" at the Shrine Auditorium, Monday, Feb. 16 for the benefit of Pacific Lodge Boys Home building fund.

Some of the biggest stars of screen and radio, along with the country's outstanding athletes, including Skelton, Reagan, Dennis Morgan, Robert Mitchum, Rod O'Connor, "Rookie of the year" Jackie Robinson, Barry Sullivan, Burt Lancaster, Keenan Wynn, and many more will be playing.

Pacific Lodge is an outstanding example of improved methods in the handling of boys who need a change of environment and habits. Its non-sectarian religious program is a part of every Pacific Lodge Boy's experience.

The game is sponsored by the Beverly Hills Kiwanis Club. Tickets range in price from $1.20 to $5.00 inc. tax—all seats reserved—and may be purchased at the Southern California Music Co., 737 So. Hill St., and all Mutual Ticket Agencies.

Fight Pushed On Job Bias Of Local Bank

The campaign to persuade the 28th and Central branch of the Bank of America to hire qualified Negro accountants and tellers is surging ahead, John Forrester, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Negro Congress announced yesterday.

"Individuals and organizations throughout the city are joining us in this fight against job discrimination," Forrester reporter.

A letter and postcard campaign, which protests the racial discrimination practiced by the Bank of America, was initiated shortly after a delegation called upon Personnel Manager Winsor of the 28th and Central branch to urge a change in policy. When members of the delegation pointed out that depositors in that particular bank are comprised of 90 percent Negro people; that the Bank of America has been advertising for personnel; and that qualified Negroes have applied, Winsor is reported to have stated plainly that it has not been the policy of the Bank of America to hire Negro accountants or tellers.

Indicative of the growing resentment over the bank's jim-crow policy is a letter recently sent by Dr. S. S. Brown of 43rd and Central who pointed out that such a practice is "unfair, unwise and undemocratic." Dr. Brown also stated that he is "delaying any further business with the 28th and Central branch" until there is a change in hiring policy.

Paul Robeson At 2nd Baptist Friday, Feb. 27

Paul Robeson, world famous singer and actor, will make his only public appearance in Los Angeles at the Second Baptist church, 2412 Griffith ave. on Friday, February 27, under the auspices of the CIO United Public Workers, the L. A. Civil Rights Congress and Local 558, State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL.

The purpose of the mass meeting and concert will be to launch a community campaign against job discrimination, for passage of the federal FEPC Act, anti-lynching and anti-poll tax legislation and citizen's action to defeat the witch-hunting county "loyalty purge."

Robeson, an outstanding Wallace supporter, will sing and speak at the mass rally to be held at the Second Baptist chuhch. There will be no admission charge to the public.

CIO Counsel Resigns To Help Wallace

WASHINGTON—Lee Pressman has resigned the post of CIO chief counsel to be free to help Harry A. Wallace's campaign for president. Pressman has held the post for the past 12 years.

Pressman was one of the dissenters when the CIO high command recently voted against endorsing the third party movement at this time.

Court Reverses $14,000 Award Against Pastor, 2 Board Members

also claimed their expulsion illegal and asked the court to reinstate them. The trial, which resulted in verdict for $14,000 in favor of appellants, lasted more than two weeks.

Judge Alfred L. Bartlett who presided at the trial refused, however, to grant appellants a writ of mandamus to compel the church to reinstate them to membership. When the court refused to grant the church a new trial, an appeal was taken.

According to Atty. Griffith, the decision of the district court of appeal establishes a precedent in California, as it is the first court decision here on the right of a Baptist church to discipline its members. In vacating the award of damages to Brewer and Fisher, the court ruled:

"When the matter of disciplinary action against plaintiffs came up before the board of deacons, defendants Hilton and Hudson were authorized and directed by the board to prepare a statement against Messrs. Brewer and Fisher. Defendant, Hilton, acting as chairman of the board, and defendant Hudson, acting in his capacity as secretary, under authority conferred upon them by the board, prepared and presented to the board the charges contained in the documents sent to plaintiffs Brewer and Fisher, who were notified to appear before the meeting of the board on October 12 to answer the charges. However, neither plaintiff saw fit to attend this meeting. The statements contained in the documents were accusations prepared by defendants in connection with church disciplinary action against plaintiffs.

"The matter was exclusively a church affair, concerning plaintiffs' membership in the church and their right to continue as members thereof. The preparation and presentation of these exhibits to the board of deacons and the reading of them to the members assembled at the regular business meeting were exclusively in connection with disciplinary action then pending against plaintiffs before the members of the church.

"Therefore under rule 1, supra, such documents were privileged communications between the members of the church, and under rule 2, supra, the publication in the National Baptist Voice was likewise a privileged communication. Under rule 3, supra, since the publications were privileged, neither was actionabel in the absence of evidence of malice on the part of defendants.

"As an examination of the record fails to disclose any evidence which would sustain a finding of malice upon the part of defendants, or any of them, and plaintiffs in their brief by failing to direct our attention to any such evidence concede the lack thereof, the judgment predicated upon the alleged libelous publications must be reversed."

Russia Spends More Of National Income On Schools Than U.S.

WASHINGTON — Admission that Russia was spending three times as much on education as the U. S., in proportion to national income, was contained in a statement issued yesterday by the U. S. Office of Education accusing the Soviet of using its vast school system to poison children's minds against the Anglo-Saxon bloc.

The statement made no mention of the current anti-Russian drive in this country and the growing ban on textbooks which present Russia in a favorable light.

Foe of Racism To Run Against Talmadge in Ga.

MACON, Georgia—An ex-navy chaplain, ousted from his church for denouncing "white supremacy" yesterday announced his candidacy for governor of Georgia in the Democratic primary.

He is Rev. Joseph A. Rabun, who received nation-wide attention last year when he was removed from his pastorate at McRae, Ga., the home and political stronghold of Georgia's No. 1 racist, Herman Talmadge who seized the governor's office a year ago on the theory that he was the heir-apparent of his father, Gene Talmadge. The elder Talmadge had been elected to the office in a typical anti-Negro election campaign, but died before he could be inaugurated.

Gov. Thompson, who contested Talmadge's claim to the office and was upheld by Georgia courts on the basis of his election as lieutenant governor on the elder Talmadge's ticket, is expected to be a candidate in this year's primary.

Mickey Rooney won't have much time for sightseeing during his stay in England, where he is scheduled for a four-weeks personal appearance in London's Palladium, starting soon.

Blasts Truman's Conscription Plea

WASHINGTON—The U. S. is spending six times more money on militarism than on weapons of peace, the CIO said yesterday.

In a new attack on the Administrations request for peacetime conscription legislation, the CIO declared that dollar for dollar, effective international peace machinery could be bought more cheaply than conscription.

evidence in the case which corroborated Adamson's testimony at his trial as to his whereabouts on the day of the murder.

Adamson's attorney, Morris Lavine of Los Angeles, finally induced Judge Harris to grant a stay of execution to permit presentation of the new evidence and a review of Adamson's trial, which Adamson has denounced as unfair and prejudiced.

Adamson has insisted on his innocence all along. Last week the Los Angeles NAACP appealed to Gov. Warren to at least commute to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed upon Adamson. That appeal, like others from Adamson's attorney and others, was ignored by the governor.

Adamson's conviction was appealed to the U. S. supreme court, which split 5-4 in its decision. The majority upheld the conviction, but a minority report upheld Adamson's contention that his constitutional rights had been violated at the trial.

supporting Henry Wallace's candidacy. For such belief are they now to be blacklisted as 'subversive,' denied jobs in government os even in private industry."

Benson demanded that Truman call on the District Commissioners and the senate district committee to investigate "this intimidating procedure and its threat to fundamental civil liberties."

● 'Cain and Abel'

picked up a butcher knife and the two men engaged in mortal combat.

Attorney Taylor on cross-examination drew from all parties an admission that both men were seen to fall to the floor. It was evident from the line of questioning followed by Attorney Taylor that he intends to show that the fatal wound was inflicted by accident and, that there was no intention on the part of the accused man to wield the deadly blow.

Congress Urged to Pass Anti-Lynch Bill; Implement Civil Rights

WASHINGTON—Calling lynching but one symptom of sickness in American democracy, Walter White, NAACP secretary, told a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee that the 80th congress should enact not only anti-lynching legislation, but anti-poll tax, FEPC, and federal aid to education bills, as well as amend the senate rules to prevent filibusters.

"To do one of these things," said White, "and ignore the others is equivalent to a surgeon removing one-sixth of a malignant growth in a patient's body and declaring the patient cured. For the sake of the democratic process we plead with the congress to destroy the concer of racism in American life by wiping out all of these ills as has been so brilliantly and unequivocally recommended by the President's Committee on Civil.

Speaking in support of S. 1352, introduced by Senators Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.) and Wayne Morse (R., Ore.), White scored the compromise proposal, mentioned in some quarters, which would eliminate punitive provisions from the bill.

"Let me say unequivocally that it would be better to pass no anti-lynching bill at all than one which is toothless and ineffective. A weak bill will merely increase dangerous disrespect for the law. There will be widespread resentment if a worthless bill is passed solely to be used as a political football in the critical 1948 Presidential election."

TREASURES

Happiness in life is not gained by mere acquisition of the things we want and love, but true satisfaction is won by knowing the right use and placing th eproper evaluation on them.

When love permeates the soul, and one is free of fear, life becomes rich and joyous. Peace of mind and soul-satisfaction come mainly from seeing the nothingness of selfishness and the emptiness of false appetites.

What kind of wealth are you seeking to acquire? Whether it is the materials things in life or the spiritual, to attain and reach the goal you seek, it will be necessary to try and make your life more productive, more alive and more bountiful.

B. B.—Dear Prof. Herman: I have been reading your column in our paper each week and find it very interesting. Would you please try to help me with this problem. What is the real trouble with our marriage?

ANS.—A careful analysis of your question indicates that many of the arguments are due to others in the house meddling in your affairs. You should put a stop to this at once, or better still, move to yourselves. Of course I realize this is not so easy to do because of the housing shortage, but you will find that there is nothing wrong with your marriage as soon as you can make this adjustment.

A. W. S.—Will I get married soon?

ANS.—According to your Zodiacal Sign, marriage will enter your life within the next few months. The man you have in mind is very fond of you, and would make you a good husband.

J. L.—Will I be able to get back in school?

ANS.—It seems that you were expelled from school because you talked back to your teacher. I feel that some consideration would be given you, if you talked to the principal and also had your parents talk to this teacher. By all means make every effort to become re-instated, especially since you are in the 12th grade.

M. C.—What can I do to prove I am honest and truthful to him?

ANS. — Sometimes people are going to believe what they want to believe regardless to the facts. However, it seems to me that your swetheart might be hiding behind this excuse so that he might continue to drink as much as pleases him. He knows you do not like this habit, and tries to find some reason for continuing. If you will write in for a private reply, I shall be glad to aid you further, as the space in the column does not permit my doing so.

A. K. H.—Will I ever settle down?

ANS. — My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals your desire to travel and always be on the go. At your age, you should be considering a permanent residence and home, as it is becoming quite a task to keep up. In your travels, I am sure one of these places must have impressed you as being a lovely place to live. Concentrate upon this location and cultivate it to such an extent that you will not want to leave.

Negro Heads Scientific Body

WASHINGTON—Dr. E. Franklin Frazier, eminent scholar and head of the department of sociology at Howard university, was elected president of the American Sociological Society at its recent annual meeting held at the Commodore Hotel in New York City.

ardson. Her husband, whom she charges with cruelty and adultery, is represented by a white attorney, Lawrence Edmonston Sr., of 12049 Ventura blvd., Studio City. Lucius Lomax Sr., and Mrs. Minnie Lomax are represented by Atty. Morris.

The case had attracted wide attention in the local community following the publication by the EAGLE last Thursday of a scoop story on the filing by Mrs. Lomax for divorce, and a large crowd turned up Tuesday morning to witness the opening bout in what is expected to be one of the most sensational trials in Los Angeles in decades. Members of the crowd were visibly disappointed when told by court attendants that the famous case had been postponed.

The EAGLE's story created a sensation, despite the fact that many local residents were already familiar with the sordid details included in the brief filed by Mrs. Lomax. Throughout Thursday and Friday the EAGLE's office was flooded with scores of telephone calls and letters, most of them commending this paper for being the first to give the facts to the general public. In addition, many persons including local notables, dropped in to congratulate the paper on the way the story was handled, including the presentation of lengthy documentary evidence of Miss Davis' frequent attacks and slanders against her own people. One civic leader described the story as "The Story of the Year."

The few critical comments came from two men and one woman, in the form of two letters and one telephone call. One of the letters gave the information that its writer was a man, but had no signature or address. The other letter was signed, Edward M. Spearman Jr. Its writer was clearly representative of the type of Negro suffering from an acute inferior complex, supersensitive of what "the white folks" might think, and blissfully unconscious of similar treatment of divorce cases in the white press. Spearman, if that is really his name, signed himself "A Disgusted Reader." The gentleman could not muster up any disgust, however, over the habitual smearing of the Negro people by Miss Davis. He blithely ignored the documentary proof of such smearing presented in the EAGLE story.

Several of those who called us found it difficult, after reading that evidence to believe she was a Negro. They asked repeatedly, "but is she really colored."

Meantime Miss Davis and the Tribune were completely mum about the whole affair. Neither the Tribune publisher, Lucius Lomax, nor his editor and alleged paramour had a mumbling word on the case in the last issue of the paper, which came out several days after the EAGLE appeared on the newsstands.

● Truman Ready

a new meeting of the governors to "review developments." It rejected an alternative proposal by Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi to call a meeting of Southern Democrats on March 1 to consider a bolt from the Democratic party. Most of the governors considered that the proposed bolt would be still-born, in view of the political traditions of the Southern white masses of voting Democratic.

According to the congressional source previously quoted Truman will restate within the next few weeks, his civil rights program, using the occasion to omit those points of his 10 point charter of human freedom most distasteful to the polltax politicos. He is expected to eliminate his request for federal legislation to prohibit racial discrimination on railroads and other forms of interstate transportation.

The U. S. supreme court recently outlawed state laws requiring segregation on interstate transportation, but the high courts' decision has been ignored in most Southern states.

It is understood that Truman in his efforts to compete with Wallace for the Negro vote, will repeat his requests for anti-lynching, anti-poll tax and fair employment legislation, presumably on the theory that the Southern politicos already have blown off steam on these issues.

Mrs. Ruth Ramsey Found Murdered

At the hour when working people were returning to their homes last Saturday evening or were visiting nearby grocery stores to gather in their Sunday rations and prepare for church on the coming Sabbath, the quiet neighborhood in the vicinity of 1228½ East 43rd street, was aroused by the report that one of their best-loved neighbors, Mrs. Ruth Ramsey, had been found murdered.

Mrs. Ramsey was found by her nephew, Robert Bruner, 1194 East 35th street, knifed to death, when he stopped for a friendly call. Her throat had been cut, and an eight-inch butcher knife was lodged in her chest.

Detectives arrested her estranged husband, John W. Ramsey, 39, of 321 East 57th street, on suspicion of murder. He denied, however, any knowledge of the crime, and said he last saw his wife the night of February 6.

Mrs. Ramsey, 50, was the former maid of actress Jane Withers. Officers found an autographed picture of Miss Withers in the apartment with the inscription: "To the best maid I ever had."

FREEDOM TRAIN is on its way to Los Angeles.

In preparation for the welcoming of Freedom Train, Mayor Fletcher Bowron has called upon all citizens to rededicate themselves to the principles of democracy.

Rededication certainly means that sometime in the past you had pledged to obey and respect the Constitution of the United States, and the rights of all the citizens of the United States, of which you are a part.

The mayor declared that the Freedom Train and the symbols of democracy it carries, are an answer to any and all threats of Communists in this country.

These are some pretty words. They just sort of thrill you when you read them. But what the average citizen, especially those denied full citizenship rights, is asking: When will the citizens (collectively) stop getting as our portions symbols instead of real democracy?

You tell us not to be misled by foreign ideologies because democracy is the best form of government yet devised by the mind of man. To this I believe every right thinking American will agree. But the definition of democracy is a government by the people.

Our mayor, like many other Americans, feels that we have had too much Communistic propaganda, and not enough of the true doctrine of Americanism. In my opinion the energy used by investigating committees, the newspaper space, and radio time, fighting Communism — a so-called foreign ideology — could be used to better and more telling advantage fighting our real enemies of democracy. It is needless to say that these enemies are native. A few of them are: the Ku Klux Klan, and restrictive covenants — close enough to be seen from a city hall window.

MOST OF THE people who listen to so much talk about Communism haven't the faintest idea what it is. But they do know about lynching in the nation ,about the poll tax that denies some ten million people the right to vote. They know also that because of their race and color they cannot live where they please. Cannot eat in certain sections of the city, especially in the district where the Freedom Train will linger. They know also that they are denied equal educational facilities, and the right to ride in the same railway coach their brother of a lighter hue may ride.

Let's stop talking about democracy, and rather dedicate our energies to the task of securing it.

The United States is a big nation. But not big enough to house two classes of citizens — first and second class.

While Rev. Hiram E. Smith, of Baltimore, calls upon Christians in these terms: "As Christians, we believe God has made us first class citizens of Heaven, and in view of the fact that He is no respecter of persons and still owns the earth as well as the heavens, we know He can make us first class citizens of the earth."

The local N.A.A.C.P., the N.N.C., the churches, and all civic, social, and political organizations of Los Angeles should welcome the Freedom Train with banners flying high, demanding that we discard the symbols of democracy and replace them with real democracy.

Wallace Man Beats N. Y. Trumanite 2 to 1; Victory Rocks Old Parties

The astounding victory of Leo Isacson, American Labor Party candidate for Congress from an overwhelming Democratic district in New York City, is sending all politicos to consulting their charts to see what the future holds.

Isacson, supported by Henry Wallace, won hands down in a three-party fight. He ran up something like 22,000 votes, more than both the Democratic and Republican candidates put together.

The Democratic candidate, Carl Propper, was supported by Mayor O'Dwyer, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, and Democratic leader Ed Flynn. All three spoke in the campaign for his election, and his defeat makes the victory of Isacson all the more spectacular.

Vito Marcantonio went all out for Isacson, who based his campaign on the defeat of the Marshall plan.

"The people have spoken," said Isacson. "They have said in no uncertain terms they want no more twiddling with the American government."

Commented Henry Wallace, when told the news, "Well it may turn out that the Third Party will be the First Party after all in 1948."

Federal Bldg. To Be Picketed Friday, Saturday

PAUL ROBESON

Paul Robeson, world-famous singer and actor, will make his one and only appearance in Los Angeles at this meeting.

Robeson, an outstanding Wallace supporter, will sing and speak at the mass rally at the Second Baptist church. There will be no admission charge to the public.

NEW YORK—Ferdinand C. Smith, one of the nation's top-ranking Negro unionists and civic leader, today was under arrest in the current KFI drive on militant Negro leaders. National secretary of the CIO National Maritime Union, Smith is known throughout the country for his active support of progressive causes, his relentless fight on racial discrimination in and out of the trade union movement.

Smith is the second prominent Negro leader to be arrested by FBI agents in recent weeks. The first was Claudia Jones, Harlem woman leader and secretary of the National Women's Commission of the Communist party. Both Smith and Miss Jones are held for deportation on the charge of

Brown Acquitted Hits Smear Tale In Local Paper

Almena Davis' predilection for depicting Negro men as eternally running after white women, ala the Rankins and Eastmans, backfired on her this week when a court unceremoniously threw out a trumped-up police charge against William Brown, 31, of suspicion of an attempt to "kidnap" a white woman.

Brown lives with his wife, Andree, at 4305¼ S. Hooper Ave., is highly respected locally and has never been arrested before. He is the manager of a liquor store at 4322 S. Central Ave.

Miss Davis, who prides herself on being out of step with the Negro press, published in toto the police version of the incident, without bothering to inves-

Map Fight on Covenanters In Pacoima

White and Negro community groups in Pacoima, San Fernando Valley, today were planning counter-action against a group of white property owners beginning a restrictive covenant drive to oust Negroes from the area.

The covenanters belong to the West Pacoima Park Property Owners Assn., and met last Friday in the Pacoima Chamber of Commerce building.

Invitations to the meeting, sent out on the groupe's stationery, read in part that a "new streamlined plan to obtain racial restrictions" would be revealed.

Truman To Be Guest Of Negro V. I. Governor

WASHINGTON—The names of two Negroe reporters were on a list released by the White House this week of 28 reporters, radio and camera men who will accompany President Truman on his Caribbean tour.

The president and his party will visit Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. In the Virgin Islands Truman will be entertained in Government House on the island of St. Thomas by Gov. William H. Hastie, first Negro appointed governor of a United States possession.

The Negro reporters selected to accompany the President are P. Bernard Young Jr., of the Norfolk Journal and Guide, and Llewelyn A. Coles, representing the Negro Newspaper Publishers Association.

It will be the first time that Negro reporters have covered a presidential trip of this nature.

Motion for New Trial To Be Heard Saturday

ATLANTA, Ga.—A mother and her two teenage sons are facing death in the electric chair because they killed in self-defense a white Schley county farmer who threatened them with a rifle.

The family trio, convicted by an all-white jury in Ellaville, Ga., Jan. 26, was scheduled to die in the Reidsville State Prison death house February 27, but yesterday won an automatic stay when their motion for a new trial was granted. Hearing on the motion is set for Saturday.

Mrs. Rosa Lee Ingram, 45, the condemned mother, had a disagreement with John E. Stratford the white farmer, Nov. 4, 1947. She testified at the trial that Stratford became enraged when some of her hogs wandered into his field. The farmer seized a rifle and advanced on Mrs. Ingram.

Two Ingram boys, Wallace 17, and Sammie, 14, both sentenced to die, came to their mother's aid and a tussle ensued. Stratford died from a blow on the head.

Another son, Charles, 18, was acquitted of the murder charge. Jackson Ingram, a fourth son, was sentenced to serve 12 months in prison on a charge that he removed a purse containing $133 from Stratford's pocket.

The all-white jury in adherence to southern practice of

The Los Angeles Negro Congress this week urged all organizations to send wires, postcards and letters to Governor Thompson of Georgia, and to President Truman urging a stay of execution for Mrs. Ingram and her two sons who have been sentenced to die Feb. 27 for an act of self-defense.

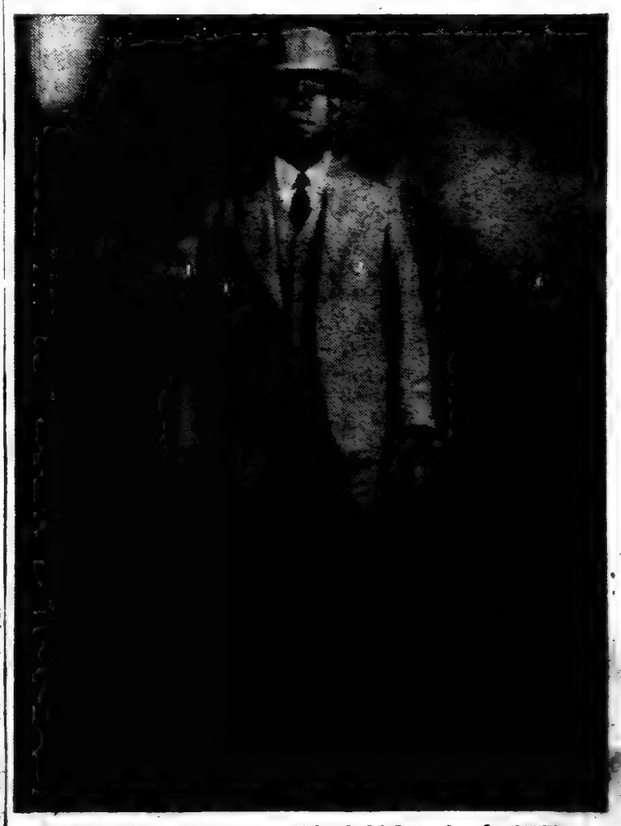
The organization's civil rights committee already has gathered 500 signatures on postcards and forwarded them to Gov. Thompson and President Truman, John Forrester, Negro Congress secretary, said.

Rickey Bares Plot to Bar Negro Players

NEW YORK—Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, yesterday announced that Jackie Robinson had signed his 1948 contract, and at the same time charged that Big League moguls held a meeting in 1945 at which plans were drafted to keep Robinson and any other Negro out of big league baseball.

Terms of the Robinson contract were not announced, but it was believed that Robinson will receive $15,000 for the coming season.

Last year, when he was a vital cog in the Dodgers' drive in the National League pennant, Robinson received the major league minimum of $5000 a year.



Rickey announced plans to shift the former UCLA flash to

Studios Block Film On Life Of Jackie Robinson

Hollywood producers, intimidated by the Rankin-Thomas un-American Committee's attack on progressive films and personnel, have turned thumbs down on a project for a film on the life of Jackie Robinson.

Martin Mooney, independent producer who sought to make the film charged this week tha film would be "too controversial" when he tried to find a release for the picture.

Mooney said he had very much wanted to make a movie portraying Negro baseball star Robinson, his mother and sweetheart as the main leads, with the remainder of the cast white, but that "I went to every single studio with a releasing set-up and they all told me diplomatically it was too controversial."

Mooney's dilemma is faced by most independent producers trying to get release of good films in the face of the monopoly stranglehold of the field by the Big Eight (MGM, Fox, Paramount, Warners, RKO, Columbia, Universal, and United Artists). The Big Eight, never too progressive in the past, was quick to capitulate before the attacks of the Rankin-Thomas Committee on such anti-bias films as "Crossfire" and "Gentlemen's Agreement."

The Big Eight can effectively control distribution because the monopoly determines rentals; running time and film clearance provisions in 80 percent of first-run movie houses in the country.

An anti-trust suit to divorce control and ownership of theatres from the studios now is before he U. S. supreme court.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1—Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion,* thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2—Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Negro Achievements Stressed in Exhibit at Rodger Young Village

Rodger Young Village, Griffith Park, observed National Negro History Week last week by holding an exhibit showing the many things Negroes have contributed to the history of America.

Prominent leaders contributed to the success of the exhibit, including Loren Miller, attorney; G. William McKinney, executive secretary N.A.A.A.C.P.; John Forrester, executive secretary National Negro Congress; Rev. Clayton Russell, pastor people's Independent Church of Christ; and Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor the California EAGLE.

A film strip of Negro history was shown last Thursday, February 12, and on Saturday the film, "The Negro Soldier" was shown. Sunday there was a premiere performance, "Salute to the Negro Veteran."

The exhibit ranged from aircraft models to books and pictures by Negroes and on the history of the Negro people. The affair was pronounced a decided success.

Heart Disease No. 1 Killer Of Both Races

NEW YORK—How's your heart? You you know that heart disease is the Number 1 Killer of Americans, including Negroes? This fact is pointed out this week by the American Heart Association, as it launched its nation-wide educational campaign and fund drive.

Contrary to the popuar belief today that tuberculosis is the cause of the highest number of deaths among Negroes, statistics reveal that diseases of the heart rank at the top of the Grim Reaper's list.

Since 1928 heart disease has killed more Negroes than any other disease, says the recognized Negro merical authority, Dr. Herman Julian Lewis, associate professor of pathology, Nniversity of Chicago, in his book The Biology of the Negro. This has been true for white people since 1912, he s tates. Before heart disease became the leading cause of death, tuberculosis ranked first for both races.

According to Florence Murray's Negro Handbook, 26,978 Negroes died from heart disease in 1938, 32,737 in 1941 and 34,173 in 1943. The ratio of Negro deaths to the total is approximately the same as their ratio in the population, one-tenth.

You can help fight heart disease by contributing to the local heart chapter of the American Heart Association in your city. The Association, founded in 1922, is the only national organization exclusively devoted to fighting heart disease through organized scientific and educational work.

Job Bias Victim Must Go to Detroit to Get Union to Hear Case

Eugene Howard, 3285 South Gramercy pl., will get a chance to present his grievances to the general executive board of his union, but he will have to make a trip to Detroit at his own expense to do so.

Howard, who was fired several months ago by the local transit company, has charged that his frring was motivated by race prejudice. He has also charged that the Los Angeles local of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric and Motor Coach Employes of America, of which he is a member, did nothing to protect his rights, gave him the run-around when he took his case to the Local.

The general executive board of the union meets in Detroit early next month. Howard, with the aid of Fay Jackson and other union and civic leaders, is now trying to raise money for his roundtrip fare to Detroit.

Wm. T. Green Passes

Affectionately known as "Billy the Barber," William T. Green quietly slipped away Sunday, February 15.

Green was one of the oldest residents of the city of Los Angeles, having resided here for over 60 years. After operating a barber shop for more than 30 years, he was later employed by the county for a period of over 25 years, retiring after that time for "Service" in 1939.

Funeral services will be from the Angelus Funeral Home Saturday at 10 a.m. Green leaves a devoted wife, Ellen Green, seven daughters and one son, namely: Mrs. Estella A. Broady, Arthur P. Green, Willie Ethel Neal, Dora Virginia Palmer, of San Francisco; Lillian Lee, Mary E. Williams, Margaret Porter, of New York; Juanita M. Davis, all natives of Los Angeles; ten grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

3-Year Masonic Battle Ends in Superior Court

A legal battle waged between two grand lodges of Scottish Rite Masonry for the past three years reached a climax reecntly at San Francisco when following testimony and arguments of a seven-day trial, Superior Court Judge Stanley Murray awarded to the Most Worshipful Hiram of Tyree Grand Lodge, A.F.A.M. exclusive rights to operate in California. The complaint was brought against the Most Worshipful Sons of Light Grand Lodge A.F.A.M. Inc. in June 1947, but final decision was not rendered until last week.

In accordance with Judge Murray's decree the 'Sons of Light, Inc.' were restrained from organizing, operating or maintaining a grand lodge of Freemasonry in the state; using the words, "Mason," "Freemasonry," "Masonic," "Ancient Free and Accepted Mason" or phrases or symbols calculated to cause the general public to believe them ('Sons of Light, Inc.' to be a bona fide grand lodge of Freemasonry, or operating subordinate Masonic lodges in the State of California.

Use of Masonic rituals, decorations, buttons, jewels and other insignia as well as Masonic teachings and doctrines was also denied the 'Sons of Light.'

C. B. Tarance, grand master, Hiram of Tyree grand lodge, who figured prominently in the case told reporters, "Freemasons throughout California regard the decision as a great victory in that confusion which heretofore existed in California has been definitely eliminated.

Petitions Ready For Housing Initiative Drive

An initiative constitutional amendment to create a State Housing Agency with authority to issue 100,000,000 of state bonds for the construction of low rent dwellings, yesterday received its official title from State Attorney General Fred N. Howser in Sacramento.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. O'Dwyer of Los Angeles is chairman of the California Housing Initiative Committee, which is spearheading the drive for the 204,672 petition signatures needed to put the measure on the ballot next November.

State director of the campaign, Harold F. Wise, announced that, "Our petitions are now being printed and will be ready for distribution in ten days. We are confident that the people will support this measure by an overwhelming maojrity. This is our chance to break the bottleneck holding up decent low rent housing for the thousands of Californians caught between excessive rentals and outlandish purchase prices for presently available homes."

Supreme Court Ducks Issue in School Bias Case

WASHINGTON—Ignoring the issue of rank inequality in jimcrow education and sidestepping the obvious implications of its original mandate to the state of Oklahoma, the U.S. supreme court on Monday refused to order that state to admit 23-year-old Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher to its lily-white university.

The justices divided 7 to 2, with Justices Wiley B. Rutledge said Oklahoma clearly had not complied with the court's original mandate declared that he mandate "plainly meant, to me at any rate, that Oklahoma should end the discrimination practiced against (Mrs. Fisher) at once, not at some later time, near or remote."

Murphy said the court should have held a hearing on whether the action taken by Oklahoma in setting up a one-room law school for Mrs. Fisher "constitutes an evasion" of the high court's order.

But the court majority asserted, "It is clear that the (Oklahoma's Cleveland county) district court did not depart from our mandate."

The unsigned opinion stressed that the majority was not passing on the question whether the school set up for Mrs. Fisher did in fact provide her with equal opportunity. It aserted that issue was not before the court, and indicated that if Mrs. Fisher wished to raise the question she must do so in lower courts first.

Justices Rutledge and Murphy dissented from another majority opinion when they joined Justice William O. Douglas in voting to review the case of Leon Josephson, noted labor attorney who was sentenced to one year in jail for refusing to testify before the Rankin-Thomas Un-American Committee. The majority declined to review Josephson's conviction.

Denounces Indonesian Settlement

The settlement of the Dutch-Indonesia quarrel as effected by a United Nations good offices mission to Indonesia was denounced yesterday by Hugh DeLacy, chairman of the Conference on China and the Far East, as giving "international sanction to Dutch aggression since July 20, 1947" and providing "no basis for a lasting peace in Indonesia."

DeLacy sharply criticized the attitude of the United States during the negotiations which preceded the so-called settlement, pointed out that "two members of the United Nations Good Offices Committee, the United States and Belgium, blocked every move in the Security Council to return Dutch forces to their positions before the attack upon the republic." He added that the State Department declaration of Jan. 20, promising economic and financial assistance to the rival Dutch regime in Indonesia could only be interpreted "as further American buttressing of Dutch colonial aspirations.

He listed the official United States attitude and the threat of the Dutch to continue "police action" against the Indonesian republic as reasons which might have impelled acceptance by the Indonesians of the unfavorable accord.

Civic Leaders Urge Community Mobilization for Freedom Train Visit to City, Feb. 23 to 26

Negro citizens from all walks of life met this week with representatives of the mayor at City Hall to plan community mobilization to greet the Freedom Train and to popularize the "Message" of the American Heritage Foundation which is sponsoring the Freedom Train.

Among the various citizens who responded to the call to stimulate community interest in the Freedom Train were members of the N.A.A.C.P., Fred Douglass Voters League, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Veterans Committee, the Negro Press, Masons, Elks, National Council of Negro Women.

Members of the community who are active on the community's Freedom Train Committee are: Lorenzo Bowdoin, Mrs. Lobelia Dingee, H. A. Howard, Moody Staten, Mrs. Noreen Forney, Floyd C. Covington, Mrs. Jessie Terry, Dr. H. Claude Hudson, Joe Oliver, Dr. M. C. Cooley, Rev. Frederick Jordan, Percy Buck, Frederick M. Roberts.

The Freedom Train will arrive in Los Angeles February 23 and stay until February 26 and will be parked on the sidetracks of Exposition Park between Figueroa and University avenue.

On the train there are 100 original documents of American history upon which the development of American democracy and Civil Rights is based.

Under the leadership of Col. Moody Staten, the veterans of this community will hold rededicatory services, pledging themselves to work for democracy in peace as they fought for freedom and democracy in time of war. All veteran groups will participate, including American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American War Veterans, American Veterans Committee.

The Peoples Independent church will dedicate their Sunday morning broadcast at 10:15 a.m. to rededication of the community for the development of democracy for all.

Atty. Thomas L. Griffith, president of the local N.A.A.C.P. and chairman of the Mayor's Committee said this week:

"The arrival of the Freedom Train in Los Angeles has a very special meaning to the minorities of this growing area of the West. The seeds of democracy have been planted by the forefathers of all of us. The soil has been irrigated by their blood and tendered by their lives—we must see that the seed gives fruit.

"The Freedom Train is but a sign of the reawakening of America to her heritage and destiny in the world. To achieve this destiny, we, all of us, must rededicate our energies to making the visions and struggles of our forefathers a reality. Every member of the community must participate in the serious rededication to the citation of a land "With liberty and justice for all," the job has just begun with the arrival of the Freedom Train."

Kansas City Group Shows Power of Vote

CHICAGO—"In no other city in the United States are Negroes as strong as they are in Kansas City, Kansas," declares March Ebony, "for in politics votes are the key to power and K. C. Negroes have the votes that count in the city and county elections."

"As a result," the article continues, "party bosses are anxious to please colored voters and have given three out of every ten government jobs to Negroes although only two out of every ten votes are Negro."

Aside from jobs, the Negro vote as a balance of power in K.C. politics has meant better education, better health facilities and more police protection for the man in the street, Ebony says.

"Voting as a bloc, colored voters represent a balance of power and are as reliable a barometer of K.C. voting as Maine is to the nation. When K.C. Negros voted for Roosevelt, the whole city went for FDR. When in 1946 some 97 percent of the colored precincts went Republican, the city went to the GOP."

Aomng the important Kansas City and Wyandotte county officials featured in Ebony's story are:

County Commissioner Fred White, State Representative William Towers, City License Inspector Roosevelt Butler, Deputy County Attorney Cordell Meeks, County Physician William Blount, State Sales Tax Inspector Marcelle Kennedy, Assistant City Safety Director James Hamlett, Deputy Court Clerk David Wilhite, Probation officers George Minor and Maeday Waters, Deputy Marshall James Cox, Deputy Sheriff Clayton Bell, Welfare Officer Shellie McClendon, and Courthouse Superintendent John J. Parks.

Union Housing Project Set To Get Going

local 770 of the Retail Clerks Union hasn't the resources of the 80th congress, but it has what the congress lacks: the will to provide low-cost homes for Americans, and yesterday the local announced that construction will begin next month on the first 31 of the 1000 homes it expects to build this year.

Joe DeSilva, head of the local, and Al Criz, architect and builder, said these houses will cost from $1500 to $2000 less than the current price on houses of their kind.

Since DeSilva and Criz recently publicized their intention of launching a mass low-cost housing project for clerks and friend, they have received more than 5000 applications.

Criz said yesterday he expects to build for $7 a square foot, subject to drops and rises of the market. Volume buying, mass construction and refusal, to gouge the public will do the trick, he said.

Solons Warned Rent Controls Still Are Needed

WASHINGTON—The NAACP yesterday urged congress to pass effective rent control legislation to cover the duration of the housing shortage. The senate banking and currency subcommittee on rent control is currently holding hearings to determine whether the present rent control law, which expires on February 29, should be extended.

During the past few days the committee has heard Republican-sponsored proposals that the present rent ceilings be extended only 30 days. Pretext for the proposal was the recent limited price drops on the nation's food exchanges.

Another Republican proposal was to extend the existing law in a much weakened form for 14 months. This proposal is embodied in the Cain Bill which calls for the removal of all ceilings in any area where there are vacancies in more than one percent of the total dwellings "for sale or for rent." Opponents of the bill point out that landlords could easily manipulate such a percentage of vacancies by evicting tenants and by holding apartments off the market.

Testifying on behalf of adequate rent control legislation, Leslie Perry of the NAACP Washington Bureau, told the committee:

"As this committee well knows, the housing situation today is just about as acute as it was on V-J Day. During the past two years the amount of new housing constructed has been little more than a trickle when compared to the vast and urgent need. Rental vacancies are practically nonexistent. The congress itself has repeatedly failed to take a solid step toward meeting the situation by enacting long-range legislation such as the Talft - Ellinger - Wagner Bill which, in one variation or another, has been pending since the latter part of 1945.

"When these facts are considered," Perry continued, "in conjunction with the present all time high cost of consumer commodities, it is apparent that any relaxation of rent controls at this time will open for milions of families the floodgates of great suffering and privation. On behalf of the membership of the NAACP, I therefore urge that the present rent conrolt law be strengthened and extended."

Meantime, indicated Republican strategy is to delay action on rent control legislation to the last minute, then present the administration and the nation with a "take it or leave it" law which would finish the job begun by the first session of the GOP-controlled congress of torpedoing all rent controls.

Southern Educator Predicts Jincrow End In Dixie Colleges

NEW YORK—Dr. Luther Foster, president of Virginia State college, told the Brooklyn Chapter of the Virginia State Alumni Association at its Founder's Day meeting this week that he predicted the end of discrimination in the graduate schools of southern universities soon, perhaps within the next few years.

Virginia, North Carolina, and other states nearer the North, he said, would probably voluntarily admit Negroes to their graduate courses, while those in the deep South would be forced to do so by court decree.

He supported Miss Florence Murray, the main speaker on the program, in stressing progressive action in politics as the most important way open to Negroes throughout the country to win their struggle for civil rights and "real democracy," declaring that recent strides in suffrage, both in the South and in the North had brought about progress in Negro education.

Miss Murray, editor of The Handbook, gave a practical talk on politics, setting forth the important issues facing voters in the coming elections and urged strong support of those political leaders who follow the New Deal philosophy of government.

She declared that recent pressure launched against "so-called subsersive" persons and groups by the present administration was only a smoke-screen to blind the masses of the people to rising living costs, supression of liberal forces, and other reactionary trends, holding both major political parties to blame for the situation.

Do not be afraid to vote for those persons and politicies which you know to be right," said Miss Murray, "simply because Communists are said to support them."

Kansas City Prepares For NAACP Convention

Navy Sits on Report Blasting Islands' Rule

WASHINGTON—Opponents of dictatorial naval rule over the peoples of Pacific islands this week accused navy brass hats of suppressing a report which charges that to date the United States has not made good its obligation to these peoples.

The report calls the navy to task for lack of an over-all administrative plan, for imposing a heavy tax on goods shipped in from areas other than the United States, hints at the imposition of forced labor in the islands, and declares there is no concentrated effort to restore the islands' economy to something like its pre-war levels. It adds that the islands' native populations are now worse off than they were under Japanese rule.

The report covers not only the islands taken over from Japan, but former American possessions in the Pacific, including Guam and American Samoa.

The first group is known as the Trust Territory and is supposedly subject to United Nations stipulations on self-government.

A legislative battle over the future of the islands is currently shaping up in congress, with opponents of navy rule pointing out that peoples the world over are closely contrasting United States democratic professions with United States colonial practices.

UNAVA Council Maps Plans for National Convention in June

COLUMBIA, S. C.—Plans for the second national convention of the UNAVA (United Negro and Allied Veterans of America), to be held in Birmingham, Ala., in June, were outlined at a meeting of the national council of the organization, here Friday and Saturday.

Council members of the organization, which has chapters in 22 states and the District of Columbia, discussed programs for an intensivee membership campaign in the southern states, based on political action, meeting the problems affecting veterans' service claims GI Bill of Rights, and job training in agriculture, industry and business.

The Council called upon all veterans to "ally themselves with every progressive group that is working through organized political action for justice, security, and peace," denounced those white southern politicians who, under the slogans of a "Solid South," "white supremacy," "racial purity," and "states' rights" oppose the extension of democracy in the South.

"We veterans," the council declared, "take our stand in this swiftly moving struggle for security and peace. We declare that the time for legal discussion of basic civil rights is passed; that we have passed beyond the stage of so-called "educational" correctives; that we have passed the stage of constitutional arguments; that we have even passed beyond the stage of Presidential messages. We, along with the majority of people in this country, want action from the federal government."

Recruits Sought To Fight Cancer

NEW YORK—Mrs. H. V. Milligan, national commander of the field army, the volunteer branch of the American Cancer Society, has called for one million recruits, Negro and white, to carry on the war against cancer, it was announced this week.

Recruitment to double the one-million membership of the field army was started two months ago, Mrs. Milligan reported.

"With the annual drive for funds starting April 1," Mrs. Milligan said, "the need for volunteers takes on added emphasis."

The American Cancer Society officially explained that fund-raising is an important part of the field army's activities but is only one of the many services performed by this nation-wide organization.

Says Landlords Assured of End Of Rent Controls

WASHINGTON — Any decline in housing construction designed to ameliorate the current acute shortage of homes could well bring on a depression, housing expediter Tighe E. Woods told President Truman this week.

He made the statement as the house banking committee wound up rent control hearings with CIO testimony that many landlords expect rent ceilings to end on March 1.

John W. Edelman, representing the CIO Textile Workers Union, said he had received numerous telephone calls "during the past 24 hours" indicating "that landlords must have ha dsome assurances from Washington or elsewhere that the sky would be the limit as of March 1."

On another housing front, the government asked the federal district court here for an immediate injunction to halt alleged illegal price-fixing by the National Association of Real Estate Boards and its Washington, D. C., affiliate.

The government has accused the national group of boosting housing costs by conspiring to fix real estate commission rates.

Wallace In '48' PCA Delegates Give Reports

The story of how Henry Wallace was nominated at the national convention of the Progressive Citizens of America held in Chicago, was told graphically at a meeting of the executive board of the PAC for Southern California.

When the endorsements committee made its report to the convention, said Jack Berman, delegate to the convention from the 40th A.D. chapter, there was a demonstration that lasedt half an hour. There was even a serpentine dance, with the delegates joining in from each state, carrying banners with placards. "They say he's left—we think he's right," was one from New Jersey which attracted much attention.

On the way out to Chicago the California delegates who traveled on the El Capitan, aroused the curiosity of the other passengers with their "Wallace in 48" buttons. Each delegate displays his button prominently. finally a meeting was arranged, held in the diner after dinner. A large number of the passengers attended, asked questions and many were converted to the Wallace in '48 movement.

There were 446 delegates from 25 states at the convention including prominent persons from various professional fields as well as many of the rank and file. The convention was highlighted by its truly democratic nature—the "little guys" participated equally with the "big guys." This report was given by Joel Fluellen screen and radio star.

Getting down to brass tacks, on the best way of electing Henry Wallace president of the United States in November, it was decided, as reported by George Pepper, that inasmuch as each state had different election laws, no uniform method could be prescribed. Each state is to merge, wherever possible, with all organizations working for Wallace. In some states as in California a new party may be on the ballot. In others a different method is being pursued.

"But" reported Pepper " a National Committee for Henry Wallace will embrace all people and all organizations which are for Wallace. This committee will run the Wallace campaign and will coordinate the Wallace activities of other groups in the country." It will be established by Mr. Wallace himself shortly, and will take more definite shape at a canference to be held about April 12."

John Howard Lawson reported on the formation of the National Arts, Sciences, and Professions Council. It adopted resolutions pledging its members to "place at the service of the American people their skills and talents," and to "conduct a consistent fight for freedom of thought, speech, and expression."

There are six points in the planned program of ASP, as reported by Lawson. They are: To work for peace which can be achieved only by adopting Henry Wallace's program; To champion the freedom to think speak, and create as guaranteed in the Bill of Rights; To support international cultural cooperation; To build toward economic security; To fight toward ending discrimination of race, religion, sex; To support a strong government-supervised program of public housing.

Howard Koch reported that he had met with Wallace in Chicago on behalf of a group of key people in films, radio, and literature to outline a plan for establishing a National Communications Committee to guide the Wallace campaign in matters of press, radio, and publications activities. Mr. Wallace approved the plan, and it will shortly be put into effect.

Jack Tenner read the list of the newly elected national officers. They are: chairman, Robert W. Kenny; secretary, Thomas I. Emerson; treasurer, Abraham L. Pomerantz. Southern California members elected to the National Board are: Vice-chairmen; Norman Corwin, John Cromwell, Mrs. Wm. Dieterle, Dr. Linus Pauling. Board members: Clarence C. Carlson, Albert Dekkar, Hon. Augustus Hawkins, Lena Horne, John Huston, John Howard Lawson, Howard Koch, Lewis Milestone, Sam Moore, Edward Mosk, Seniel Ostrow, Percy Solotoy, Jack Berman, Rueben Borough, Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, A. C. Rogers, and Mrs. Inez Crawford.

The Southern Callofrnia delegation which attended the convention consisted of: Bert Witt, executive director; Joy Darwin, ASP division organizer; George Pepper, ASP executive director;

ASP Divisions—Actors, Joel Fluellen; Radio, Sylvia Compinsky; Music, Jerry Fieding; Medical, Dr. Murray Abowitz;

Rosenthal Backs Sears Roebuck Job Bias Policy

SANTA MONICA—Directors of Sears Roebuck and company, visiting their stores in the Los Angeles area last week, were greeted by a picket line protesting discrimination by local management when they visited the Santa Monica store at 3rd and Colorado.

Here they say pickets of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and their picket signs with slogans such as:

"Who sets policy for Sears—the board of directors or the local management?"

"We buy at Sears, Why can't we sell at Sears?"

"Veterans, the war for human equality is not over."

"Sears refuses to hire Negroes."

On Wednesday of last week Frank H. Barnes, president of the Santa Monica NAACP, sent wires to two members of the board of directors at the Biltmore hotel, where they were staying during their visit.

The wires, addressed to Robert M. LaFollette Jr. and Julius Rosenwald II, called attention to the dispute between the Santa Monica store management and the NAACP over discriminatory hiring and appealed for direct intervention by the members of the board.

A reply was received from Julius Rosenwald Friday in which he stated:

"Have reviewed telegrams with local management who reserve right to select employes according to their appraisal of best qualified applications for specific jobs. The company policy has always been non-discriminatory. Several Negroes have been employed in Santa Monica since store opened."

Text of the wires from the NAACP follows in part:

"Do you know on November 14, 1947, the NAACP was compelled to institute a boycott against the Santa Monica Sears store after negotiations between the local manager and the NAACP had failed to eliminate a policy of the local store discriminating in hirng?

"Advce from Sears Chicago office stated that hiring policy is determined by local store manager. Long aware of your personal convictions against discrimination, we are making this direct appeal for your intervention in this matter. May we hear from you before your departure?"

Local Leaders Hit Arrest of Harlem Woman

Six local union leaders and an NAACP executive board member this week added their protests to the deportation arrest of Claudia Jones, New York Negro Communits leader.

Miss Jones, secretary of the Communist party women's commission, is being held on Ellis Island on charges of being an alien who desires the forcible overthrow of the government.

A statement signed by the protesting group said Miss Jones' arrest was a " most unjust and dangerous action."

It noted that the U. S. supreme court rejected in the Schneiderman case the "force and violence" tag pinned on the Communist party, and said "it is incumbent on the federal government and all its agencies to obey the spirit and letter of supreme court decisions."

Signers of the protest, which has been sent to President Truman, Atty. Gen. Tom Clark and immigration authorities were: Max Roth, International representative of the CIO Fur and Leather Workers Union; Eunice Craig, secretary-treasurer of the same local; William Lawrence, regional director of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union; Bernard Lusher, regional representative of the CIO United Office and Professional Workers, and Mrs. Carrie Carroll, president of the CIO Women's Auxiliary.

Despite their defeat, 52-44, by the Louisville Municipal college last Saturday, the Fisk second stringers nevertheless made an impressive showing in Kentucky. Theye were defeated January 22 by Morehouse college 59-39 on the university's court.

Sophomore Harry Blake, Fisk's scrappy forward from Mt. Vernon, Ohio, was the high point man of the game. He registered 17 points. Joseph Williams, sophomore from Yazoo City, Miss., scored 9 points.

Forrestal Urged To End Jimcrow In U.S. Army

WASHINGTON—The American Veterans Committee has asked Defense Secretary Forrestal to extend to the department of the army and air force the same policy of racial non-discrimination which he introduced in the navy while secretary of that department. A similar request was made to Forrestal by the NAACP several months ago.

Navy Secretary Sullivan, in answer to an AVC inquiry, firmly reiterated his predecessor's determination that there should be in that department "no discrimination . . . between individuals wearing the naval uniform or the uniform of any armed service of the U. S. because of race, color or creed."

But Col. C. C. Blakeney of the army's legislative and liason division said the army had long considered the utilization of Negro personnel consonant with its desire to achieve the maximum effectiveness. He pointed to the assignment of small Negro parts o flarge white units. The department, he said, intends to continue this policy.

The AVC committee interpreted Blakeney's double talk as meaning that the army will continue to practice discrimination through segregation of Negro officers and men in all-Negro groups, up to the sieze of regiments, which will operate as component parts of larger white units.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Dr. L. D. Reddick, curator for the special library of Negro literature and art for nine years, resigned recently, charging the city officials and library administrators with not providing adequate funds to maintain the instiution.

This special library is known as the Schomburg Collection. The news of Dr. Reddick's resignation and his accompanying charges, was spread on the front pages of the three Harlem newspapers and has been the topic of many discussions to see if something cannot be done about it.

EDITORIALS AND COMMENTS

Henry Wallace, 1st, 2nd, Last

Count us this way: Henry Wallace, first, second, last and all the way through for president.

The enemies of the peace, of the Negro people, and of all the minorities, are so bold that it is impossible to mistake them. The line between friend and foe should be however sharply drawn.

On the presidential race track, there are more entries than ever before recorded. And to date the dark horses have not yet entered.

Among the nine or ten presidential candidates, only one has had the temerity to speak out in favor of the things America needs to become a more perfect union, and on the other hand, against such evils as the poll tax, segregation in education, lynching, and discrimination against Negroes in public places and on public conveyances such as street and railway cars. With such glaring facts shining in our faces daily, one can hardly understand how any section of the Negro voters can register disapproval of Henry Wallace as a candidate for president.

In New York the other day, when the American Labor Party staged a mass rally in the interest of the Wallace presidential campaign, some Negro political big-wigs took exception, and by innuendo and otherwise hurled some not very nice criticism at some of the participants on the program.

Congressman Vito Marcantonio spearheaded the meeting. During his tenure of office as Congressional representative from New York, Marcantonio has never wavered in his support of such legislation as the passage of an anti-lynch bill, anti-poll tax bill, and the passage of a Federal FEPC. He has always been on the side of Labor, and fights for equal rights for all minorities.

The recommendation of a man like this should certainly make the proper appeal to even the big-wig Negro politicians who in regards to the Wallace-for-President campaign, waver on the side lines with the hope they will be able to fool the people that they are waiting to support the best man.

At this meeting Wallace praised Truman's 10-point program. "But," said he, "not a single proposal was made by the president that he could not have made a year ago."

Wallace concluded by saying, "We are building a new party of Americans of all races, religious faiths, and national origins, dedicated to overcoming the problem of differences, not perpetuating them."

That's the kind of man we want for President of the United States. It's Henry Wallace for us — first, last and always.

As New York went in Tuesdays election, so goes California.

Something in the Woodpile

The Justice Department strikes again. A few weeks ago it accused a young Negro woman in New York, Miss Jones, of attempting to overthrow the government and ordered her back to her native land, Jamaica. This week it applies the same treatment to Ferdinand C. Smith, eminent secretary of the National Maritime Union (CIO).

In the case of Miss Jones, she had been refused, as she states, naturalization papers.

The statement that Mr. Smith did not have a visa the last time he entered the United States, smacks of the same kind of treatment rendered the Jones girl.

Ferdinand Smith is as well known on the West Coast as he is in the East. And all who know him testify to the fact that he is a loyal American subscribing to all things that make for a healthy nation, socially, politically, and morally.

In this case, as in many others, the FBI inquiries have revealed that subversion is a scattered, fragmentary phenomenon.

Mr. Smith, like Miss Jones, Mr. Bittelman, and others are the victims of a witch-hunt.

"As of today," reports The New York Post, "we can authoritatively report that the FBI has examined the cases of 418,000 federal workers. Checking their names against its own and related files, the G-men found that only 399 even warranted further inquiry — somewhat less than one-tenth of one per cent."

It's just too bad the FBI can't find some one somewhere who is subversive. But no doubt they'll keep on hunting until some day they'll stir up some one that will satisfy their desire.

The myths about inferior races and the biologically unit are obviously calculated to show that there can be no social or economic equality throughout mankind.—Barrows Dunham in Man Against Myth.

The Ax Is at the Root Of the Tree

A decision handed down by the High Court of the land upheld the decision of Oklahoma to segregate Negro educational facilities this week.

Just a few weeks ago when the United States Supreme Court issued an order in the case of Mrs. Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher, 23-year-old law student, that she be granted equal opportunity for training in the State of Oklahoma, there was an echo of rejoicing ringing across the nation.

Those who for more than 80 years have prescribed patience as the remedy for proscription, said, "I told you so." Meaning we had come to the end of the trail in the American way of discrimination in education.

In the same breath, however, the Court refused to hear an appeal by Leon Josephson, who has been sentenced to one year in jail for contempt of Congress when he refused to testify before the House un-American Activities Committee. It unanimously upheld the constitutionality of the rent control law, refused a hearing to 14 Nazi doctors convicted at Nuernberg of war crimes, and divided 7-2 in the Fisher case.

In our opinion, no greater crime can be committed than that of accepting a place on the bench of the United States Supreme Court, where last decisions affecting the lives and liberties of human beings are made, and then permit a miscarriage of justice such as that of the Fisher case.

The Supreme Court, on January 12, ruled that Oklahoma was bound by the U.S. Constitution to make a legal education as readily available to Mrs. Fisher as to any white student.

The school authorities of Oklahoma went on their merry way, knowing full well that there would be no un-American Committee to investigate them. They made a sham acceptance of the Supreme Court ruling, set up a Jim-Crow three-professor law school, and said to Mrs. Fisher and all other Negro law students, "Take it or leave it."

This is the sort of un-American activity that seeks to overthrow our government.

The time is now when all Americans worthy of the title, "Good American," should stop bewailing whats' happening in Europe, and turn their attention homeward.

"The ax is at the root of the tree."

Congratulations

The Wendell L. Willkie memorial awards will not be made this year, according to a recent statement by the Negro Newspaper Publishers Association.

Congratulation! It is always a good idea to get your house in order before you invite inspection.

Negro newspaper publishers, in and out of the nation, did not agree with the judges hasty decision last year, nor did they for the most part approve its selection of prize winners.

There should be no vast difference in editorial content of so-called Negro and white journalism. Nor should there be inaugurated any set pattern for judging. However, there are those in the newspaper profession, as in other professions and avocations, who believe that nothing noble in journalism can come out of Afro-America. Such individuals cannot qualify as judges in the Wendell L. Willkie memorial award. So take your time, brothers, and be sure you are right the next time awards are made.

Newspaper to Celebrate

The only daily paper in Los Angeles, and one of the few in the United States, that takes a firm stand against race and color bars, that makes a tooth-and-nail fight against residential covenant restrictions, is celebrating its 10th anniversary come Friday evening, February 20, at the Embassy auditorium, Ninth & Grand ave.

All liberal minded, progressive citizens should strengthen the hearts and minds of the "People's World" editors and publishers by making this 10th anniversary a grand success in every way.

Congratulations and best wishes for a future even more successful than the past.

Mr. Wallace, a former vice president of the republic, has to speak on the curbstone, for want of a building in which to address an audience, and Mr. Truman, a present President, is heatedly informed that he has no right to differ with the conservative majority on taxes, or labor. Orthodoxy rides high these days; it has been many years since dissent has been treated to so large a brush-off.—Samuel Grafton, in his syndicated column.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

George Washington, whom we all honor today as the Father of Our Country, was not always so honored. At least not after he became president of his country. He wrote Jefferson one time near the end of his second term that he had not believed until lately that he could be "accussed of being an enemy of one nation and subject to the influence of another, and to prove it, that every act of my administration would be tortured and the grossest and most insidious misrepresentations made by giving one side only of a subject, and that too in such exaggerated and indecent terms as could scarcely be applied to a Nero, a notorious defaulter, or even a common pickpocket."

It was just the common gratitude or ingratitude of human nature. After the Revolution had been fought, and Washington had led the American colonists to independence, those same colonists who had fought so valiantly in the war for the most part forgot all about their ideals for a new government, and let the country drift along as best it could while they busied themselves with their own little affairs.

But the Tories of the Revolution didn't forget. And what they lost in the war, they tried by every means in their power to regain after the war by subtle intrigue, by propaganda setting one group against another, by confusing and dividing the people, by turning the people against President Washington.

The same strategy is being followed today. The reactionaries of America, of the world, lost World War II. But today the winners of that war are either asleep or are quarreling among themselves, while the reactionary forces are working overtime to regain what they lost, by their devilish propaganda torturing the truth and making the grossest and most insidious misrepresentations to confuse and divide the people, and to turn them against the country which was their greatest friend during the war. It remains to be seen whether or not the American people will fight this insidious war of ideals, and come out victorious for real democracy as they did more than a century and a half ago, or whether after all we shall lose the peace again, which would be just as fatal as losing the war. We lost the peace after World War I, you know, by stupidly permitting the victory to slip out of our hands while we were asleep.

But to get back to Washington again. We usually think of him as being stern and severe and remote. Those who knew him best said he was "one of the most charming men in the world, always in good spirits, and makes it his chief duty to render all around him as happy as possible."

He was the President or the commanding officer when with adults. But with children, he unbent, told stories, and even played games with them. (That tight-lipped, straight-line mouth of his, by the way,, was caused, debunkers of history say, by his efforts to keep his false teeth where they belonged.

Washington was always of rather a serious nature, however. Even as a boy. He lived in a time when life was taken seriously, of course, and when boys in school were given long, laborious tasks in arithmetic or penmanship or any other subject to do.

While a boy in school he once copied 110 "Rules of Civility and Decent Behaviours in Company and Conversation" as an exercise in penmanship. They filled 10 pages of one of his copybooks, and that copybook is now in the Library of Congress in Washington, D. C.

Some of those rules were: Eat not in the streets. Keep your nails clean and short. 'Tis better to be alone than in bad company. Think before you speak. Talk not with meat in your mouth. Shift not in the sight of others, nor gnaw your nails, etc., etc.

And so when we observe the birthday of the Father of Our Country next Sunday, let's try to put ourselves back into his time and try to decide whether or not, if we had lived then, we would have upheld him in his efforts to form a new government ,a government of the people and for the people. Or would we have been among those who threw stones and mud or who slept while the enemy was sowing tares.

Our answer to such a question should decide our course today in a similar situation.

Tribute to Gandhi

By MARY McLEOD BETHUNE

When Mahatma Gandhi fell mortally wounded in the garden at New Delhi, my heart trembled with the thought that here again is Gethsemane and Golgotha. With all men of conscience across the world, I turned my saddened eyes to the East, joined in spirit with the wailing worshipers that followed his body to the funeral pyre and his ashes to the sacred river. A great warm light had gone out and men of earth shivered in the cold and the dark.

Almost his last words were to absolve his assassin, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." He died as he had lived — seeking through understanding and compassion and love to absolve the ignorant and the bigoted and the self-seeking. To the restless, he taught patience; to the prejudiced, he answered with the brotherhood of man; the imperialist, he undermined with appeal to conscience. His convincing gospel saved men in spite of themselves.

This spirit reached for the stars and sought to win a world without gun, or bayonet, or blood. The essence of man is the Spirit of God, and only through a realization of that spirit can he fulfill his life.

"Not by might nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord." Gandhi freed himself of earthly goods, sloughed off material entanglement and humbled himself before God and man. Clean in body and soul and mind, his hands were ready to seek the Holy Grail. Out of his love of God and for his fellowmen, he forged a political weapon. His tools were not airplane nor machine gun nor atom bomb; but, a spinning wheel, a Great Salt March and peaceful non-cooperation. He fought oppression with self-denial, fasting and prayer. He glorified the chains and jails of his captors into the shining ornaments of martyrdom.

Could such a spirit die? Did Buddha die? — or Christ? My heart leaps at the thought that when power and greed struck that final blow, they freed the Great Soul of its last earthly and material restraints allowing it to soar farther and wider and higher to exalt the spirits of men everywhere. Mohandas Gandhi is not dead, he is resting in the bosom of the Lord of us all. The Mahatma cannot die; his spirit is free to stir men's souls in every corner of the earth. His spirit will live in a free and independent India. It must live in a strengthened United Nations. He will live in a rededication of all men the world over to the power which sustained him — the glorification of the Spirit, the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

To Mahatma Gandhi, the Untouchables were Harijan—children of God. He showed men the way to lift themselves above considerations of nation or race or creed or color. He brought a new birth of confidence in the power of disciplined faith and unalloyed love. He is a clarion call to the minorities and the little people everywhere that they have a power in them which 'they can learn to release which transcends hate and greed and power and armies of conquerors. His spirit beckons us lovingly along the only safe and sure road to Universal Peace.

As we Mothers of the earth stand in awesome fear of the roar of jet planes, the crash of atom bombs and the unknown horrors of germ warfare, we must turn our eyes in hope to the East where the Sun of the Mahatma blazes. We have tried "sacred" treaties and balances of power. We have met weapons with weapons in endless destruction. We have seen two world wars bring us close to the brink of the abyss. As we falter here, we must learn carefully the lessons of the Mahatma and the Christ. These are the only answers to the atom bomb that we have not yet tried. In the name of our sons and daughters we must forge a network of spirit and of compassion and love that will restrain the men on horseback. We Mothers of the earth hail you, Mahatma Gandhi. We will hold high the torch and follow you up the rugged path to human brotherhood and Universal Peace.

Recovery Plan Doomed

Seventy-four year old Harry F. Ward, in a press conference Monday, told a California EAGLE reporter, Ellis Spear, and other news reporters that America's plan for recovery is doomed to failure. It is economically ridiculous because it splits Europe's industrial and agricultural sections, and plans aid only to the western half of Europe. Not the people, but American capital is dominating European recovery.

"We are riding hell-bent for either economic collapse or war," he said.

The remedy is to turn all resources for recovery over to the United Nations, and have Europe's recovery program handled by the UN Economic Commission.

Dr. Ward, national chairman of the Civil Rights Congress, and professor emeritus of the Union Theological Seminary, New Jersey, is so concerned with the world outlook under present maneuvering by the powers that be, that he came out of retirement to help the cause of world peace and the fight against depression.

"We have now a coalition of anti-democratic forces cracking down on our civil rights," he told the newsmen. "Henry Wallace is our only hope."

Dr. Ward spoke of 1948 as the turning point which will decide in which direction America will move—to the right towards reaction and fascism or to the left towards fredom and food and homes for all.

Touching on the Freedom Train soon to come to Los Angeles, he remarked "Yes, the Bill of Rights is truly there for display. But what are we doing to see that those rights are enforced in the United States? It is up to the American people to see to it that these rights really become a part of the life of America."

Dr. Ward has no fear of any attack upon the United States by Russia. Russia does not want war, he maintained, and if we finally drift into a war it will be due to the American capitalists who are doing all in their power to provoke such a struggle.

He condemned the movement to deport good American citizens under the guise that they are Communists. "Why were they not deported at an earlier date?" he wanted to know, "if they are so terribly dangerous."

Again referring to Wallace, Dr. Ward said Wallace had a recovery plan present to the president, but President Truman pigeon-holed it.

"Wallace is our only hope," he insisted. "He is the people's candidate for president. He will make this a people's government again. We must elect him."

Back the CIO

There are people in all organizations, even in Labor Unions, who from selfishness, greed or bias, never understand the real issues involved.

The CIO has done a great job in bringing about and cementing unity among the laboring people, and yet there are crawling individuals who worm their way into even the CIO to disrupt and destroy it.

The fighters must beat such enemies back into the grave from which they came and march on to victory — a free world and a free people.

W. J. Wheaton Sa

We had a lot of explaining to do when we had finished reading the blasts of those senators from the Deep South who foamed at the mouth and threatened to secede from the Union, and all because the President of the Union asked for fair play for all its citizens. Mary Ann couldn't understan it; to tell the truth, neither could I. How selves statesmen could be so dense as to show their ignorance to the world.

We read to Mary Ann a part of the vituperations which the inept representatives from the deep South had to say, and to say, and though she was southern born and reared, her eyes widened with astonishment; particularly when we read the statement of the senator from Mississippi, Eastland, that:

"The recommendations would destroy the last vestige of the South's social institution, and mongrelize her people."

Mary Ann looked at me for a minute or so, then, with a twinkle in her eye, said," Wonder where all them different colors down South come from?"

Then Cox, from Georgia, shouted that "Harlem still is wielding more influence with the Administration than the entire white south." Sam Hobbs, of Alabama, whined that "The President's proposals grew out of an overwhelming desire to keep the South a conquered province. Of course all of these mouthings came from irresponsible sources but the trouble is, that they reach the attention of governments and retard the progress toward World Peace. BOOKS & AUTHOR

From Slavery to Freedom: A History of American Negroes, by John H. Franklin, is an attempt to bring together the essential facts in the history of the American Negro from his ancient African beginnings down to the present time. It also considers briefly the Negro of the Caribbean and of Latin America and Canada because their history belongs to the larger pattern of development of the Negro in the New World. The author tries to interpret critically the forces and personalities that have shaped the history of the Negro in the United States but avoids a subjective and unscientific treatment of the subject. He does not try to recite the achievements of the Negro but to tell the process by which the Negro has sought to cast his lot with an evolving American civilization.

Immortal Helen, by Elizabeth Corbett, well-known author of the Mrs. Meigs stories and others, is the story of wealthy Duke Hastings, the acknowledged ruler of Marmion, Wisconsin, during the 1870's. He dominates everyone but his daughter Eve who has inherited his own willful disposition. When her father opposes her marriage with the son of a local doctor and takes her away to New York Eve falls in love with a charming ne'er-do-well and Duke acquires a stepmother for her. The conflict between father and daughter grows and she defeats him and humiliates her stepmother and dominates the life of her first love—leaving her father with only the memory of his gentle first wife. It is a dramatic story and highly colorful.

To Secure These Rights

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

(Installment No. 12)

CIVIL RIGHTS IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL

We have seen how, throughout the country ,our practice lags behind the American tradition of freedom and equality. A single community—the nation's capital—illustrates dramatically the shortcomings in our record and the need for change. The District of Columbia should symbolize to our own citizens and to the people of all countries our great tradition of civil liberty. Instead, it is a graphic illustration of a failure of democracy. As the seat of our federal government under the authority of congress, the failure of the District is a failure of all of the people.

For Negro Americans, Washington is not just the nation's capital. It is the point at which all public transportation into the South becomes "Jim Crow." If he stops in Washington a Negro may dine like other men in the Union Station, but as soon as he steps out into the capital, he leaves such democratic practices behind. With very few exceptions, he is refused service at downtown restaurants, he may not attend a downtown movie or play, and he has to go into the poorer section of the city to find a night's lodging. The Negro who decides to settle in the District must often find a home in an overcrowded, substandard area. He must often take a job below the level of his ability. He must send his children to the inferior public schools set aside for Negroes and entrust his family's health to medical agencies which give inferior service. In addition, he must endure countless daily humiliations that the system of segregation imposes upon the one-third of Washington that is Negro.

The origin of the pattern of discrimniation in Washington is partly explained by its location in a border area where many southern customs prevail. Certain political and local pressure groups, and the administrative decisions of municipal officials contribute to its persistence. Attempts to guarantee equal rights on a segregated basis have failed. In recent years the "separate and unequal" pattern has been extended to areas where it had not previously existed.

Except where the federal government has made a few independent advances, as in federal employment and the use of federal recreational facilities, racial segregation is rigid. It extends to ludicrous extremes. Inconsistencies are evident; Constitution Hall, owned by the Daughters of the American Revolution, seats concert audiences without distinctions of color, but allows no Negroes on its stage to give regular commercial concerts. On the other hand, the commercial legitimate theatre has had Negro actors on its stage, but stubbornly refuses to admit Negro patrons.

DISCRIMINATION IN EDUCATION

The core of Washington's segregated society is its dual system of public education. It operates under congressional legislation which assumes the fact of segregation but nowhere makes it mandatory. The Board of Education and a white superintendent of schools administer two wholly separate school systems. The desire of congress to insure equal facilities is implemented by a requirement that appropriations be allocated to white and Negro education in proportion to the numbers of children of school age. But this has not been successful. Negro schools are inferior to white schools in almost every respect.

The white school buildings have a capacity which is 27 percent greater than actual enrollment. In the colored schools, enrollment exceeds building capacity by eight percent. Classes in the Negro schools are considerably larger and the teaching load of the Negro teachers considerably heavier. Less than one percent of all white school children, but over 15 percent of colored children, receive only part-time instruction. Similar inequalities exist in school buildings, equipment, textbook supplies, kindergarten classes, athletic, and recreational facilities.

The district superintendent of schools recently answered charges of inequality in school facilities with the statement that absolute equality of educational opportunity is impossible. Reasonable equality . . . is the goal." The conditions described above eloquently document the extent to which even "reasonable equality" is impossible in a segregated school system.

Official freezing of the segregated school system is complete. The Board of Education frowns on visits by whites to Negro schools and by Negroes to white schools. Intercultural education programs are still-born because they are considered a threat to the prevailing pattern.

Interracial athletic and forensic competition is forbidden. Two cases illustrate the lengths to which the District's officialdom goes to prevent interracial contact. During the war, the Office of Price Administration (OPA) asked permission to use a school building at night for in-service training of its clerks. The request was denied solely because the class would have included both white and colored employes. In the other case a white girl was ordered to withdraw from a Negro vocational school where she had enrolled for a course not offered by any other public school in Washington.

Private universities in the iDistrict have followed the lead of the public schools. Two of the large universities and most of the smaller schools admit no colored students. American university admits them to its school of social science and public affairs, but not to the college of arts and sciences. Catholic university, on the other hand, presents an outstanding example of successful interracial education. In the last few years, Negroes have been admitted, and there is no color distinction in classes. Last year a Negro was elected a class officer. The presence of Howard university in Washington alleviates somewhat the problem of higher education for the District's Negroes. While Howard university is primarily a Negro institution, it also admits white students.

DISCRIMINATION IN HOUSING

In the past, many of Washington's Negroes and whites have lived close together in many parts of the city, and where mixed neighborhoods still exist, incidents of racial friction are rare. Now, however, Negroes are increasingly being forced into a few overcrowded slums.

Programs for the development of highways, parks, and public buildings have often played an unfortunate role in rooting out Negro neighborhoods. There has been a commendable desire to beautify the city of Washington. But there has been little concern for the fate of persons displaced by beautification projects.

The superior economic position of whites also contributes to the shrinkage of Negro neighborhoods. In areas like Georgetown and the old fort sites, white residents and realtors have been buying up Negro properties and converting them to choice residential use. Only occasionally does this process work in reverse; in deteriorating areas, white owners can sometimes get higher prices from Negroes, who have little from which to choose, than they can from white buyers.

The chief weapon in the effort to keep Negroes from moving out of overcrowded quarters into white neighborhoods is the restrictive covenant. New building sites and many older areas are now covenanted. Some covenants exclude all nonmembers of the Caucasian race; others bar only Negroes, or Negroes and members of "Semitic races."

Even where covenants do not prevail, the powerful local real estate fraternity protects white areas from "invasion." The all-white Washington Real Estate Board has a "code of ethics" which prohibits its members from selling land in predominantly white areas to Negroes, and the realtors are supported in this practice by nonmember dealers, banks, and loan companies. Two of the city's newspapers will not accept ads offering property in white areas for sale to Negroes. Because the policy of the National Capital Housing Authority is to follow the "community pattern," all public housing projects are completely segregated and housing for Negroes is built only in established Negro neighborhoods. The Authority has spent most of its funds for permanent housing to build homes for Negroes, but its appropriations have been limited.

Housing conditions are poor for Washington residents in general, but largely because of the pressures just described, they are much worse for Negroes. According to a recent Board of Trade report on city planning, 70 per cent of the inhabitants of the city's three worst slum areas are Negroes. The largest single slum in the District houses about seven per cent of the White and 30 per cent of the Negro population. In 1940, one-eighth of the white dwellings in Washington and 40 per cent of those occupied by Negroes were substandard; 15 per cent of white-occupied and 38 per cent of Negro-occupied dwellings had more than one person per room.

DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT

More than one-third of the jobs in Washington are with the federal government. Therefore, discriminatory practices by government agencies, which have already been discussed, are important to District Negroes. The District government itself has only a small proportion of Negro employes, and most of these are confined to unskilled and menial jobs. Partial exceptions to this are the metropolitan police, the segregated fire service, and the school system with its segregated staff. A ranking District official during the war told an interviewer: "Negroes in the District of Columbia have no right to ask for jobs on the basis of merit," the rationalization being that whites own most of the property and pay the bulk of municipal taxes.

Negroes are confined to the lowest paid and least skilled jobs in private employment. In 1940, three-fourths of all Negro workers in Washington were domestics, service workers or laborers, while only one-eighth of the white workers held jobs of that type. At the other end of the scale, only one-eighth of all Negro workers were clerks, salesmen, managers, proprietors or professionals, while two-thirds of the white workers were in jobs of this kind. There are similar striking racial differences in average income and length of work week.

A few examples will illustrate the part discrimination has played in causing these differences. During the war, Washington's public transportation system bogged down badly for lack of qualified street car and bus operators. The Capital Transit Company advertised for workers hundreds of miles away and even recruited government employes on a part-time basis. In spite of this, the company would not employ qualified Negroes as operators.

In building construction, one of Washington's largest industries, the various trade unions discriminate against colored craftsmen. They are either excluded completely, allowed to work only on projects to be occupied by Negroes, admitted only as helpers to white journeymen, or not allowed to become apprentices. The numerous large hotels employ Negroes only in such capacities as chambermaids, busboys, waiters and coal stokers.

There are no colored salespeople in the large department stores.

In laundries and cleaning plants where wages are low and hours long, most of the workers are colored, but supervisors are white; where whites and Negroes perform the same work, there is a wage differential of from 20 to 30 per cent. The District Bar Association and the Medical Society are for whites only.

DISCRIMINATION IN HEALTH SERVICES

The greatest inequalities are evident in Washington's concern for the health of its residents. Freedmen's Hospital, federally supported and affiliated with Howard university, is for Negroes only, and three-fourths of the beds in the municipal Gallinger Hospital are usually occupied by Negroes in segregated wards. Four of the 12 private hospitals in the city do not admit Negro in-patients, and the rest accept only a few in segregated wards. It is peculiarly shocking to find church hospitals practicing discrimination. Far fewer hospital beds in proportion to population are available to Negroes than to whites. Sickness rates are higher among Negroes than whites, which aggravates this situation. All but the smallest clinics are segregated. Group Health Association, however, does not discriminate either in membership or service.

No Negro physician is allowed to practice in Gallinger Hospital, although it is publicly supported and the majority of its patients are colored. Nor are they allowed in St. Elizabeth's, a federal institution, or any of the private hospitals. Only Freedmen's is open to them, and then only for the care of assigned ward patients. Thus the Negro physician cannot follow his own patients into the hospital. Negro medical students are similarly discriminated against in the provision of training facilities.

Public and private agency welfare services are available to both colored and white residents, but institutional care is provided only on a segregated basis and the institutions for Negroes are far inferior in both number and quality to those for whites. Here again, the lower economic position of Negroes and their consequent need for care aggravates the problem.

DISCRIMINATION IN RECREATIONAL SERVICE

In the field of public recreation, compulsory segregation has increased over the past 25 years. Various public authorities have closed to one race or the other numerous facilities where whites and Negroes once played together harmoniously. In 1942, the District of Columbia Board of Recreation was set up to centralize the control of public recreation facilities. Congress eliminated from the locally sponsored bill a provision that would have required the new Board to continue segregation. But it took no positive stand on the issue, and the Board has adopted regulations which enforce segregation in all the parks and playgrounds under its control.

Under this policy, facilities in seven out of 26 "natural areas" in the District have been turned over to Negroes. Because the Negro areas are disproportionately concentrated in the older, crowded parts of the city, white facilities are generally superior to those allotted to Negroes. Furthermore, whites and Negroes alike who live far from facilities open to their race have easy access to none. White residents who had shared with Negroes the use of the Rose Park Tennis Courts protested in vain against being barred from them.

On the other hand, recreation facilities under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior are open to all races, and serious friction is nonexistent. District officials have tried repeatedly to have these facilities turned over to the Recreation Board. The transfer has not been made because the Board will not agree to refrain from imposing segregation in their use.

Most private recreational groups follow the official policy of segregation, although occasional interracial competitions have been held successfully become. The Washington branch of the Amateur Athletic Union allows no interracial contests under its auspices. For example, no Negro may enter the local Golden Gloves Tournament, although they compete in the national tournament.

Discrimination in Places of Public Accommodations. — Public transportation is provided without separation of the races, and the spectators at most professional sporting events are unsegregated. But other public accommodations are a focal point of Negro resentment, because rigorous segregation in practice means exclusion.

No downtown theatre except the burlesque house admits Negroes. They may see movies only in their neighborhood houses. Some department stores and many downtown shops exclude Negro patrons by ignoring them or refusing to show the stock they request or making them wait until all white customers have been served. A Negro is seldom accepted at the downtown hotels unless special arrangements are made. Although they may dine at the Union Station, the YWCA, and the cafeterias in government office buildings, the overwhelming majority of downtown restaurants are closed to them.

The shamefulness and absurdity of Washington's treatment of Negro Americans is highlighted by the presence of many dark-skinned foreign visitors. Capital custom not only humiliates colored citizens, but is a source of considerable embarrassment to these visitors. White residents, because they are the dominant group, share in both the humiliation and the embarrassment. Foreign officials are often mistaken for American Negroes and refused food, lodging and entertainment. However, once it is established that they are not Americans, they are accommodated.

This is the situation that exists in the District of Columbia. The Committee feels most deeply that it is intolerable.

30,000 Adults, 5000 Children Treated in Year at Clinics of Famous Mt. Sinai-Duarte Center

Statistics released by the Mt. Sinai-Duarte National Medical Center this week showed that more than 35,000 patients in need of medical help have visited the Mt. Sinai Clinics in the past year, and that over 5000 of these were children. Thirty-two departments of medicine and surgery are conducted by this unit of the Mt. Sinai-Duarte National Medical Center, which also operates the Mt. Sinai Hospital and the Los Angeles Sanitorium at Duarte. The new 700-bed facility, now under construction at Duarte, when completed, will be the largest institution of its kind in the world.

Open to all sufferers of long-term illnesses, such as cancer, tuberculosis, non-tuberculous chest ailments, heart disease, and rheumatic fever, there has been a policy of no restrictions due to race, color, or creed at the institution since its inception more than half a century ago.

The medical center is now engaged in a capital funds drive for $2,100,000 in Southern California to help its building program. The national goal, which is $7,215.00 is being achieved by a series of campaigns in 12 other American cities, besides Los Angeles.

In answer to the many demands for a pediatric-cardiology department, the Mt. Sinai Clinic today conducts a complete department that takes care of rheumatic fever, rheumatic heart disease, as well as congenital heart cases under the direction of a staff of Pediatricians and Cardiologists. This department provides diagnosis and treatment, as well as occupational therapy and hospitalization for those cases where acute and long-term hospitalization is required.

Cases at the Clinic which require acute hospitalization are referred to the Mt. Sinai Hospital for medical and surgical care. During the past year the surgical cases included neurological surgery, benign and malignant tumor cases referred there by the Clinic's Tumor Board.

Further statistics released by the clinic revealed that there were over 15,000 prescriptions, 10,000 laboratory tests, and more than 5000 physio-therapy and X-ray treatments given free to visitors at the clinic in the past year. Approximately 500 electrocardiographs were done, and 752 pairs of glasses were prescribed and issued to the needy.

Seeks Action on Charge of PRR Seniority Bias

NEW YORK — The rights of Negro workers of the Pennsylvania Railroad are seriously jeopardized by the failure to date of the State Commission Against Discrimination to act on a complaint filed with it in June, 1946, the NAACP charged this week. The organization urged SCAD to determine "swiftly" whether the workers have "probable cause" for their charges of racial discrimination.

The case involves the use of super-seniority rights for recently hired white veterans to place them in the grade of mechanic with greater seniority than Negro workers of long standing who had not been promoted to the grade of mechanic prior to the war because of racial discrimination by the company and the union.

In its letter to the commission, the NAACP points out that while the commission delays action in the case, the company is "continuing its discriminatory promotion policy to the damage of all Negro employes."

Trail Blazers: K. K. Alexander

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

Books, valises, people, and radio scripts are part of Katherine Alexander's standard equipment. She neatly tucked aside her social work experience and slipped into her present position as information officer for the Metropolitan Los Angeles offices. And quite a romantic job it turned out to be, with plenty of excitement, invention, and sensitivity.

Katherine Alexander, a proficient and gifted person of gentility and culture, is a native Californian. Her grandmother brought her family to settle in this state in 1887 so she has been a definite product of the community's growth. Educated in the Los Angeles public schools, she did her collegiate work at the University of Southern California, where she majored in Spanish and social welfare work.

Before graduation she was thrust into a social relief job because of the emergency necessitated by the depression. It was the only occupation open at that time for Negro graduates. However, her destiny was shaped by an organization that was to intertwine her life with theirs almost indefinitely. In September 1934 she received the Urban League Scholarship to continue graduate study at Bryn Mawr college in Pennsylvania. Her field work was completed at the famous Henry Street Settlement in New York, where she worked in the midst of the workingmen's community.

In the early part of '36 she went to Cuba to do research work for the Foreign Policy association. The balance of the year she returned to California and accepted a position as Activities Director at the Riverside Community Settlement. Last year marked her 10th successful year at the California State Employment Service. During the war and immediately following she gained prominence for her public relations work.

Miss Alexander was working in the information department doing background research writing. When the management changed the supervisor of the department left. The next day the new manager, left without a supervisor, needed a speech immediately. Katherine Alexander whipped up one for him and became the new supervisor.

Katherine K. Alexander

One of her main assignments was the responsibility of the one sustaining radio show put on by the employment department. But as she took over the reins new radio programs were established over featured spots, transcontinental, and television shows. Receiving cooperative responses from sources beyond expectation, she worked with such colorful personalities as Ginny Simms, the late Ben Bernie, Frederic March, Joe Crail, Art Baker, Edgar Gordon, Peter de Lima, Frances Scully, Art Linkletter, Norma Young, Matt Weinstock, on the Army-Navy shows, and on her own show sponsored by the Wilshire Oil company.

Katherine Alexander, who was able to fill a position when the new ob opened, is a firm believer in preparation and training. Says she, "We need a year round coordinated campaign for guidance, a conscientious effort on the part of the community to emphasize the need for such a program. I believe in selling job openings."

She is a member of the Women Voters, Sigma Delta Pi National Romance Language Honorary, Bryn Mawr club of Southern California, Southern California Vocational Guidance association, Delta Sigma Theta sorority, Cosmopolitan News features, Los Angeles and National Urban League, contributor and donor to the YMCA, Helen Hayes Foundation for Riverdale Orphanage, information chairman for Incorporated Artists, and will resume work with the Radio Writers Guild and Workshop.

By her intimate friends she is known to be an art enthusiast. She has priceless collections gathered from her travels in Cuba and Mexico. What spare time she has is spent gardening at her cute little hilltop bungalow overlooking the city in Highland Park. She participates freely in the musical activities of Zion Temple and is interested in interpreting to the public various textiles and sculptured pieces.

The People Have Not Forgotten

By GRADY W. VANDIVER

People who think for themselves and have read and traveled a little and mixed with all classes and kinds of people will never connect names with the good, or the bad. What I mean is that a good idea or cause really has no name, the name is given it after it is born. If the idea or the cause is good the name doesn't matter.

We have some hard-shells in our society who will try to connect a personality with a name and proceed to judge the individual according to the name, and in many cases the color of the skin has a lot to do with their judgement. They don't like Kernesky because the name is Russian, or Einstein because the name is Jewish, or Johnson because his skin is dark.

The name of a person or thing becomes imoprtant only after the person or thing becomes well known. The name Franklin D. Roosevelt wouldn't mean anything to us if we didn't know what the man Roosevelt was and what he stood for. But suppose our only source of knowledge of this great man Roosevelt had been through the news paper articles of Westbrook Pegler and the news commentator Fulton Lewis Jr. the name Roosevelt would have meant little to us. (In the first place if Roosevelt had not been a great man Pegler and Lewis wouldn't have bothered to mention the name Roosevelt).

The name of a political party seems to explain to many people its principles. Maybe the name would explain the principles of the party if they would practice what they preach. The man who thinks for himself knows the name doesn't matter as long as long as the cause is right. The progressive minded people are in constant search for the truth. The truth is hard to find with so much propaganda against it.

The Republican party at times was more liberal than the Democratic party, one of those times was during the administration of Abraham Lincoln. Woodrow Wilson made the Democratic party much more liberal during his administration and it remained that way through the great leadership of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Today we have a one party system. We have a president who is flying the democratic colors but really has no beef with the Republicans. To prove my point of opinion, how many New Dealers are there in the Truman administration today? After ousting Marriner S. Eccles as Federal Reserve Chief the figure is just about ero. Who has the President appointed to his cabinet? Men with big money interests. Did the Republicans make any kick on them? If they did it is more than I know.

In my opinion the speech of President Truman before both houses of congress and to the people of the nation against A. F. Whitney and his railroad strikers in 1946 was anti-labor and anti-liberal. That speech was music to the ears of Taft-Hartley and their anti-labar colleagues. The President castigated labor leader A. F. Whitney as No. 1 enemy of the nation. He failed to mention that the railroad workers made an agreement with the War Labor Board that there would be no strikes or any stoppage of work for the duration of the war: they kept that agreement even though they were very much underpaid all during the war, they only had a five cent increase; now that the was was over they made an attempt to bring their wages up to the level of living cost.

Add up all the things that have happened in the past two or three years and the answer is: we must have a third party to represent the common man. It's really not a third party, it's just a lot of people who would like to see the Roosevelt ideals carried onward, it's a real democratic party that the people want. In my opinion the third party is made up of Democrats, Republicans and all progressive people who want a real practiced democracy; such as we had from 1932 to 1945.

Labor says they will not support the Tihrd party. They are: William Green, Philip Murray and A. F. Whitney and their general executive boards; however, at this time the general executive boards are split on the question. These gentlemen in high office of labor evidently don't have the same thoughts on Wallace and his Third party as the rank and file membership.

The wage earner knows already who to vote for in this 1948 election; his mind is already made up, and I am sure that the power politicians will never succeed in changing them. I am sure the rank and file of labor and all the working people will go to the polls and vote for our man for the common man; the same as they did in 1932, 1936, 1940, and 1944. Those 12 years were righteous years. Just keep your eye on the rank and file of labor and all the common people of this great country and watch them put Henry A. Wallace in the chair that our beloved Franklin D. Roosevelt died in.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is not dead; neither is the New Deal, they will never die. There will always be a Woodrow Wilson, an Al Smith, a Fiorello La Guardia, a Franklin Roosevelt and a Henry Wallace.

As Wallace said: "Lets "stand up and be counted."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Bass:

For a number of years I have had occasion to come in close contact with the activities of our Board of Supervisors. I have been especially impressed by the administrative ability of Leonard Roach.

Although his first concern and interest is for his constituents and the problems of his own district, nevertheless he has shown a broad vision which encompasses the needs of the entire county. I have been particularly impressed with his splendid work on the Recreation Committee and his outstanding contribution. He realizes that Los Angeles county, second largest in the United States, faces major difficulties in the coming years and he has dedicated himself to surmount these problems.

I consider Southern California most fortunate indeed in having a man of the ability and integrity of Mr. Roach in its leadership.

Faithfully yours,
Stewart P. MacLennan

Call for the Saint," is Leslie Charteris' newest book in his "Saint" Series which contains more than 20 titles. There are two new cases here in which the Saint helps to solve the mysteries. There is plenty of excitement and some terrifying experiences.

Not Quite a Dream, by Kathleen Hughes, a 23 year old winner of the 1946 Avery Hopwood Award, is a sensitive story of two young people who prove that their love can survive when age, religion and background are aaginst it. A Gentile girl and a Jewish man, both realizing the problems that they must face, marry feeling that their deep love will make their marriage work. The emotional conflict and clashing traditions are very real. Joselynn goes away to school and Sidney to New York hoping they can look at their problem objectively but both are unhappy until they decide to make a go of it together.

The Path of Thunder, by Peter Abrahams is a novel of the rigid social system of South Africa. Here the mulattoes are as much above the blacks as whites are above the mulattoes. The South African author tackles the theme with much force as he tells the story of dark-skinned educated Lanny wh pays with his life for wanting to help his people and for loving Sarie Villier, a white girl.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

HOUSEHOLD EMPLOYMENT seems to be the big question under discussion at the California State Employment Service. In fact, to bring about a better relationship between the employer and the employe, a special forum is held on Fridays, at which time a serious appraisal of the employer's responsibilities and techniques for improving relationships between the household employer and the household worker are discussed. At the past meeting, formulae for good employer-employe relationships were exchanged by 50 household employers. To attract a good type of worker into house work, the stigma must be removed from the occupation and its standards must be raised through the development of satisfactory employment standards for hours, wages, working conditions and other questions of welfare; coverage of workers by feasible social and labor legislation, such as old-age and survivors insurance, workmen's compensation, etc. A vocational education program giving opportunity for advancement of trained domestic workers through courses which will qualify them for managerial work in institutions were some of the points decided by the group.

Annual Dawn Dance Sets Pace As Most Outstanding Social Event

An air of exclusiveness prevailed over the annual Kappa Alpha Phi Black and White Formal this year. The famous social affair that is known throughout the country as "the most outstanding California social event," was chaired by John Brewer of the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter and Bernard Johnson, undergraduate representative.

The beautiful Avodon Ballroom was the scene of the formal and the time was from 11 until 3 a.m. with cocktail party preceding from 10 to 11, for early arrivals. Bringing the setting more in line with the spirit of the occasion, the Great Kappa Insignia stood lighted throughout the whole of the affair.

Guests, including a large number of out of town visitors, were thrilled with the traditional intermission capers of the Kappa Brothers, of which they have heard so much about. Lacking was the traditional "Loving Cup," that has been voted out of public fraternity gatherings. However, John Brewer's leading of "Satisfied," and Sherill Lukes leading of the "Kappa Sweetheart Song," and other familiar fraternity refrains kept tradition intact.

Kappa men of the three local chapters were identified with fraternity bands, and the friendly spirit of being perfect hosts. The guests were many, however, the overflow crowd that held sway last year was not repeated.

The women, as usual, were elaborately garbed. Noted by this writer as definite displayers of fashion were: Ilene Cook, who chose a bouffant creation of bridal satin; Dorothy Bradley, wearing the new length in white satin, with gold compliments; Dolores Bell, also featuring the new length in black taffeta with gold slippers; and Mrs. H. L. Richardson, wearing the new pencil slim style in black. Ouida Williams chose black this year, while Mrs. Crispus Wright was breath taking in a new satin quilted, gold spangled ballerina gown; Dorothea Fearonce wore white lace, Mary Frances Peterson was lovely in a new length silver leme gown.

Bouffant nets, sophisticated blacks, spangles of sequins and gorgeous corsages of every description and color helped to make the '48 Black and White Formal one of the best.

White again was the dominant color chosen by the ladies attending. A view from the top balcony was truly a picturesque sight.

Sammy Franklyn's orchestra played with the addition of good male and female singers.

The Kappas have every reason in the world to be proud of their annual Black and White Formal. It definitely stays out in front as a leading event in the social lives of Californians, Northern and Southern. Working untiringly on the dance committee were the following frat brothers: Vance Jones, Hurd Jones, Joulis Brown, Price Cobbs, Tilman Thomas, Norman Houston Jr., Robert Green, Horace Johnson, Taom Bradley and John T. Johnson.

13 Aides Hear Prominent Chicago Woman Attorney

The Negro woman has yet to realize her potential power in politics.

Revelation of this fact was made Tuesday evening, when Edith Sampson, prominent Chicago lawyer and Assistant State's Attorney for Cook County, Illinois, addressed the Thirteen Aides Charity Club.

Using as her subject, "The Negro Woman Today," Attorney Sampson lambasted the laxity of race women for failing to take a more active part in politics and stressed the power of the ballot, saying that in it lies the solution to many of our present day problems.

Urging the club membership to alert themselves to world problems, she re-emphasized the need for closer relationship and stronger organization as a means of fostering interracial goodwill and coping with the numerous problems that arise from time to time.

Delving further into her subject, the learned barrister listed opportunities Negro women enjoy through political affiliations and pointed out the future advantages for Negro youth.

She commended the group for their noteworthy charitable efforts and urged continuance of their many projects.

One of three distinguished Chicago visitors attending the group's monthly meeting, held in the La Salle Street residence of Mrs. Mildred Reid, Attorney Sampson's address followed a brief business session during which plans were laid for an elaborate affair.

Attorney Sampson, Mrs. Jacqueline Dennison of the Chicago Defender family and Mrs. Ethel Smith were all the house guests of Miss Louise Beavers, president of the Thirteen Aides.

SHOPPING WITH DORIS

By DORIS AUSTIN

Hi There:

Spring is definitely in the air, it would seem and with it comes the same old urge for new and lots ond lots of clothes; the one good thing about this trend of the "new look" fashions is that it's so versatile. The essence of fashion for you is not what everyone else is wearing but what's best suited to your personality, coloring and above all, to your measurements. The present trend has a varied and alluring distinction in any of its many styles . . . the pencil slim . . . the flare . . full gores and the ballerina creations . . . add much to the wearer but can also take away from your personal charm if not carefully planned to match your own requirements.

Vassie D. Wright Honored at Reception

The beautiful home of Mrs. Bessie Campbell, 3472 2nd ave., was a scene of loveliness Sunday afternoon.

A surprise reception was given in honor of Mrs. Vassie D. Wright, known by her many friends as Vassie.

After 20 years of faithful service as financial secretary of the Second Baptist church, Mrs. Wright was so honored.

Many tokens of love from members and friends of the church were received by the honoree.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

ager of the service section at the CSES, brought forth a cross-section of opinions. The Employment Service is a new program for an old problem. During the war years there was an exodus of 400,000 persons from domestic service into other employment. The changing times find a goodly number of these persons returning to old jobs. It is interesting to note only one state has a minimum wage law for household workers, and this is Wisconsin. In California, every person who employs a household worker must carry workmen's compensation.

Oftimes in these columns we point to the professional and white-collar workers of the community. This writer thinks it high time the domestic realm claimed the spotlight, especially since special effort is being made to bring this type of work up to the standards of other types. By the way, if you readers have any question in mind concerning the steps being taken in behalf of the domestic worker, please address letters in care of the California EAGLE, and they will be answered by the Employment forum.

THE GAY SIDE

Of all the weekend offerings, the First Annual Club Festival looms ahead as one of the most exciting. The many, many clubs of the city will be represented in one way or another, for a matinee of out and out fun, on Sunday evening between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m. From all indications, the Club Congo (old Alabam) will be a very festive scene of affairs. In looking over reservations, see that ringside tables will be occupied by the frats and social aggregations. Just who will wear the queen's crown is yet a question. However, the Cavalrettes, Inc., Favorettes, Crop 'n' Tails and Alpha Gamma AKAs, along with the Douze Mignonettes are way out in front. At this point, we throw orchids to Suzette Harbin and Dorothy Nichols, who have worked untiringly to get an all-star show together for the festival highlight. These two lovelies are certainly all out for sweet charity, believe me. They are giving their all to help swell the summer camping fund, for which proceeds of the festival will be used. If you don't have your ticket yet, you still have a chance to make that purchase when the box office opens at 2 p.m. at the Congo Sunday.

The four-year plan for Los Angeles City College calls for that wonderful means of exchange, MONEY, and the campus kids, led by Bob Fox, are trying to help out. Had a brief chat with Alfred Moore, one of the workers, and promised to let you readers know about the Jazz Concert scheduled for Monday night, Feb. 23, 8:30, in the C. C. Auditorium. Am quite sure the Phrateries, Sprites and other campus orgs will be out that night in large numbers. The cause, as you can see, is a very good one.

Leaving the realm of charities, must mention the "Chili Feed" at Fay Hopkins' abode last Saturday night. Hostesses, and very lovely ones at that, were members of the Pi chapter of Delta Sigma Theta. Noted enjoying a dance or two were Leola Beavers, president of the chapter, James White, UCLA Alpha man, Evelyn Strickland and Harold Garrison, while Kappa gent Edgar Bishop enjoyed dining on chili along with the Derrick twins and Lorraine Tennett. Gene Walker and Dorothy McGlaughlin were the interesting twosome of the evening. Sadie Weems, Lucille Wilson and Chanie Bijou spent the whole of the affair performing duties of lowly pledges. Just before leaving had a word or two with S. C.'s law student, Stan Malone, who thinks a certain Miss Gloria Bunch, from the crown city of Pasadena, is what Gertie Gipson would call "God's gift to man." All in all Pi chapter may chalk the "Chili Feed" up as another successful venture, for it was well attended and the guests present had a very enjoyable time.

BRIDES AND SUCH

Coming as a surprise to the younger social set is the marriage of popular Gloria Ford and Robert O'Neal. The couple said "I do" on St. Valentine's Day, and Rev. L. C. Cleaves was the presiding minister. Congratulations are in order, but definitely.... Dan Cupid also took his toll on the engagement line, Jean Brown of the Phidelphians club plans to take to the middle aisle sometime in July and her intended husband is Ted Harrison, formerly of Oakland. . . . Wilma Fox and James Harris have decided to become Mr. and Mrs. Don't know the date yet. By the way, Albert Jones has been married to the lovely Alphonso Curry for more than a month and Fergie Rem's departure from the single realm dates back just about that far. . . . Zepher Brown, past prexy of the Sigma Gamma Rho sorority, surprised all of her friends when she up and married Leroy Gill last Sunday night. Rev. L. C. Cleaves also officiated this ritual.

Sunday, Feb. 22, will be Mattie Cook's wedding day, and the Second Baptist church will be the scene of the ceremony immediately following regular services. Her intended is Artist Grant, and both are well known at the church. By the way, invitations were sent to the reception in Long Beach, since that time plans were made for the Sunday wedding, and the many friends of the couple will be expected to gather to witness the ceremony.

One of the pre-nuptial affairs honoring Mattie was given last Sunday by Lucille and Kay Wilson. The affair was lingerie and listed among the many guests were: Constance Duffy, Mildred Murray, Ruth Brothers, Bobbie Dennis, Vivien Dumas, Dorothy Dumas, Ruth Scott and many another.

Mabel Scott, sweetheart of the singing stage, has changed her name to Mrs. William Lester Jones. The popular couple will be honored with a wedding reception by Mrs. Rachel Ann Scott from 6 until 9 p.m. at Casa Rafael Sunday. Congratulations!

The Campbell Smiles (Juanita Mars) will also be felicitated on Sunday afternoon. They, too, are newlyweds.

WELL! WELL! WELL!

Ken Murray's "Blackouts" was a fitting climax to the "Hell Week" for pledges to the Alpha Gamma chapter of AKA. On Wednesday the 11 new sorors joined their sisters with dinner and a jam up show. . . . Faustina Johnson and the "12 Big Sisters" have postponed their "thank you" party until Feb. 29, giving way to the Club Festival, in which Faustina is scheduled to play an important part. . . . Wythea Simms and Willie Sparks will appear with other well-known artists in the California Association of Negro Musicians program Sunday afternoon at the Progressive Baptist church. . . . The Lomepa Pledge club to Iota Phi Lambda sorority entertained the group at dinner last Saturday. Don Wheeldon brought the recognition of "Negro History Week" into the program by appearing as dinner speaker. . . . The play, "Deep Are the Roots," is now in its sixth week at the Belasco. Must say the award the cast will receive on Friday night from the Negro Congress is certainly merited. The play definitely feels the pulse of this wonderful democracy of ours. . . . Received an invite to the testamonial dinner honoring Mary McLeod Bethune. The affair is scheduled for the ballroom suite, Roosevelt Hotel, New York City, on March 4. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Eleanor Roosevelt, Mordecai W. Johnson are programmed, with Hubert T. Delany serving as toastmaster. . . . So sorry my many activities in the Angel City will not permit my taking advantage of the invite. . . . By the way, the list of sponsors for the affair reads like an all-American Who's Who. . . . Lionel Cade, Alpha leader, is opening his accounting office. Here's wishing him loads of luck. . . . Understand that Booker Stevens will be escorting Wesleen Foster to the Club Festival Sunday afternoon. La Foster is enjoying a rest here in L.A. She returned from N.Y. last week. Making deadline. 'Til Next Week.

Phi Beta Sigma To Sponsor Scout Group

The members of the Phi Beta Sigma chapter of Phi Beta Sigma fraternity, at their monthly meet-meeting last Monday nite at Dent's Tea Room, voted unanimously to sponsor the Boy Scout Troop at Foshay junior high school.

Plans were also outlined for the 1948 Conclave to be held in Los Angeles August 11-12-13-14.

A one-day Regional meet is scheduled for May 8th at the Clark Hotel—at which time Phi Beta Sigma national president, Dr. R. O. Johnson, director of education at Washington, D. C., will address the body.

'Y' GUEST — Miss Mamie Davis, national figure in Y work will be key speaker.

Panorama of Art Marks Another Successful Event For Beta Pi Sigma

A general exhibit designed to promote enjoyment of art and to lay foundation for an intelligent appreciation of the artist and his work was the purpose of the art show given Sunday by the Beta Pi Sigma sorority. The sorority worked under the supervision of Dr. Glen Luken, professor in the School of Fine Arts at the University of Southern California.

The show was so interesting as well as entertaining that the patrons expressed the general idea of regretting to depart.

Many well known personalities representing a cross-section of professions as well as laymen were seen viewing and inspecting the work of the exhibiting artist.

George Farmer, ceramist, who recently gave a one-man show at the Biltmore; Arthur and Margaret Williams, ceramist, who demonstrated the methods of making ceramics; Beulah Woodard, sculptor, dreams of a permanent place for artists to exhibit; Gladwyn Ball, ceramist, Tanya Izanhour, painter, drawing from real life; Del Davis, functional designer and consultant; Calvin Bailey, painter, drawing from real life; Del Davis, functional designer and consultant; Calvin Bailey, painter, drawing from real life model during the evening; Jeannette Collins, noted dancer and painter; Paul Williams, architectural designer who recently received third contract from County of Los Angeles; Curtis Tann, designer of textiles, working on a design; Lester Matthews, ceramist who has done very extensive studying of the arts; Julian Dempsey, noted designer; Gilbert Olmstead, Photography, a fellowship student at one of the universities in Los Angeles; Arnold McNeeley, painter; and Tony Hill and Wilmer James, popular ceramists, and Jimmy Joyce.

Blanch Groggs was mistress of ceremonies for the evening. Mr. Covington of the Urban League spoke on the history of the Negro. Mrs. Elizabeth Hampton Robinson encouraged a desire for preparedness in order to cope with situations present today in a brief yet emphatic talk on education. Miss Jeanetta Collins gave quite an insight into the meaning of the dance. Jester Hairston, whose musical group was heard in "Duel in the Sun," rendered "Beautiful Mother of Mine."

The sorority wishes to express its gratitude to the artists who cooperated so well and made the evening informative and enjoyable.

Mrs. Bernice Nance, general chairman of the 1948 "Panorama of Art," Mrs. Dorothy Landry assisted, and the members also worked tirelessly to make the exhibit one not to be forgotten.

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

If the American and Russian governments continue to hurl harsh charges at one another, we are going to, sooner or later, learn the real reasons for the Second World War. In addition, we might also learn who aided Hitler and Italy, and there might even be the lowdown on a lot of other things.

It intrigues me to see two strongest governments in the world today acting like two children after a brawl. When they're called before the parents, one says: "He did it!" And so does the other. They keep it up, until they're blasting away again, and the parents have to separate them. It seems as though that's going to be the case with the United States and Russia. We might even start another war arguing about who was responsible, and who had anything to do with the recent conflict.

Digging into the arguments for just a few words, it's no secret that Russia and Germany had a non-aggression pact at the beginning of the European drive by Hitler. And it's no secret that America sold scrap iron to the Chinese aggressor, Japan. And in Europe, I wonder just how much America did in the beginning to stop the two dictators, Hitler and Mussolini. But that is all immaterial, now that the wars are over. It's time for Wall Street and the Kremlin to declare a treaty of some sort.

TOPIC OF THE WEEK

The disillusionment that the younger generation faces today is no teaspoon of the bitter medicine of life. Among the greatest fears that human beings can suffer is uncertainty. If we know what is going to take place today, or tomorrow, we can prepare to meet the circumstances that we must encounter, and adjust ourselves to the changes when they come. But there is nothing like uncertainty. And the youth of the world, not America alone, are facing the most bitter degree of uncertainty today.

A criminal paces the floor of his cell day in and out, perhaps, until the day of the trial ,and until he knows just what is going to happen to him. And then perhaps the real punishment ceases. The real punishment is uncertainty.

"What's this younger generation coming to?" should be abandoned by the parents today, and preserved for the generations of people who do more to secure the future of that generation which will be expected to take over. But we, the youth, find the situation so badly mangled today that we are inclined to feel a desire to give up even before we start. The situation is like aiding an injured victim. You want to help him, get him out of the gutter where he has fallen, for example, but you can't touch him for fear of inflicting further injury. Well, the world is certainly injured today, but what can be done without causing further confusion and turmoil?

And youth are expected to take over within a few years. There are still war debts from the first World War, and there are millions of expenditures due for the recent conflict. The veterans have to be taken care of, and the battle grounds still smell of smoke. But there are some who would anxiously whisper, and listen to rumors of another war.

I am glad to see today, however, that many of the boys and girls who will be of voting age within a few years are wide awake to the things that are going on in the world about them. They have fair conceptions of the Marshall plan, the 'Truman Doctrine' and many other issues. They have their own opinions about the fall elections, and have affixed in their minds their ideals for fair government during the next four presidential office years.

We can attribute some of the aptness of youth today to the plan of Progressive Educaion. In many of the city schools, and schools throughout the country, an agreeable degree has been maintained between progressive education and the basic fundamentals of 'book knowledge.' There isn't, in many schools and school systems, an extreme of progressive learning, or if classified learning from books. The old expression of 'having the cake and eating it too' might be employed for the situation. This program keeps the young people up-to-date, and prevents being bored to exasperaion by 'RRR.' Then too, the awareness of what's taking place in the world is just as essential in education as anything else. I often believe that this should have been the case all along.

The present generation, internationally, has failed in every sense of the term for unity and humanism. As a matter of fact, there has been everything else except humanism. They failed, and now the burdens of the past, future, and present lie on the shoulders of the younger generation. Two wars in one generation, World Wars, and perhaps a third, exceed all records. It must not happen again, and the young people of today are the only ones who can do anything about it. We must work, and strive for a better world, while our parents argue about who started the Second World War, who aided in it, and who did nothing to prevent it. But I feel that youths today have the necessary preparaions, and nothing is impossible. The future is ours, and what we make of it. The Young World will not fail.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

The Sunday School Lesson

Subject: The Fellowship Of Christian Believers, Lesson Text and Outline Acts 2:37-47; Ephesians 4:1-6. Motto Text Ephesians 4:4-6.

Introduction

The New Testament church as to organization was a body of Christ's baptized disciples. To become a member one had to repent, believe, and be baptized. No church should have any one but Christians in its membership. As to the ordiances the converts were baptized into the fellowship of the church and then observed the Lord's Supper, Note the place and order of the ordinances. As to doctrine the apostles' teaching was good enough for the church at Jerusalem, and for all churches today the Bible should be the only and sufficient rule of faith and practice. As to fellowship it is not enough to inscribe name on a membership roll; there must be sympathy, co-work, mutual forebearance, and helpfulness. Comments:

1. Sinners, when their eyes are opened, cannot but be pricked to the heart for sin; cannot but experience an inward uneasiness; this is having the heart rent, a broken and contrite heart. These that are truly sorry for their sins, and ashamed of them, and afraid of the consequences of them, are pricked to their hearts. A prick in the heart is mortal, and under these commotions (says Paul, Rom. 7:9) "I died." All my good opinion of myself and confidence in myself failed me." Ministers are spiritual physicians; they should be advised with by those whose consciences are wounded; and it is good for people to be free and fimiliar with these ministers, as men and their brethren. who deal for their souls as for their own.

2. Here the apostle Paul proceeds to more particular exhortations. He enlarges upon unity and love, purity and holiness, which Christians should very much study. We do not walk worthy of the vocation wherewith we are called if we be not faithful friends to all Christians, and sworn enemies to all sin. By lowliness we are to understand humility, entertaining mean thoughts of ourselves, which is opposed to pride. By meekness, that excellent disposition of soul which makes men unwilling to provoke others, and not easily to be provoked or offended with their infirmities; and it is opposed to angry resentments and peevishness.

Comment on the Motto Text

Here is our sevenfold cord of fellowship: "One body . . . Spirit . . . hope . . .Lord . . . faith . . . baptism . . . God and Father." It is the tie that binds believers together. Nothing else can do it. It alone, eternally and amply, is sufficient. No strand can be emitted without endangering true fellowship. Yet this unity is not only possible but definitely commanded.

13 Religious Leaders Challenge Church On Race Relations

How does it happen that the Christian Church, which preaches the brotherhood of man lags far behind so-called godless Russia and the Mohammedan world in the practice of that brotherhood? Is riddled with racial prejudice, with Negroes excluded, politely or otherwise, from white churches? Is silent on social injustices, racial and economic? And how explain the triumph of bigotary and lynch law in the Bible Belt of the Deep South?

These are some of the questions raised directly or by implication, by 13 Negro religious thinkers in a book just released by Harper Brothers, The Christian Way in Race Relations.

Edited by Dr. William Stuart Nelson, dean of the School of Religion at Howard university, the book presents 12 views of how the solvent of Christian practice may be applied to "America's Number One Problem"—race relations. These men, leaders who have learned in their separate fields how far apart creed and conduct can be, speak their minds on current issues, in the context of three questions:

- What, theoretically, might be required of a Christian society in these matters?
- What is actually the present status in the U.S.A?
- What specific, concrete advances are in process?

The book discusses not only the Church and its role in modern society, but the role of the YMCA and the YWCA, contrasts the advances made by the YWCA in race relations with the generally stand-pat attitude of the YMCA.

Rev. S. H. Marion

Marion. He will deliver his own anniversary message, which will mark his 25th year in the ministry. "Rethinking 25 Years Back, Would I Do It Again?" will be the subject of his address.

His record speaks for itself. He has taken around 2000 members into the church during his 25 years in the ministry. The pastor is requesting of all members and friends a special anniversary offering of 25 cents each, a penny for each year of Rev. Marion's service in the ministry. This will be his first sermon following his five months' illness.

The Membership Conference and dinner will be held on Thursday, February 26, at 7:30 p.m. S. H. Marion, minister.

Christian Science Sunday Text 'Mind'

"Who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he may instruct him?" This question of Paul to the Corinthians will be the Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Mind" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

It is recorded in Matthew's Gospel that a centurion came to Jesus, "beseeching him, And saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented. And Jesus said unto him, I will come and heal him. The centurion answered and said, Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed. . . . When Jesus heard it, he marvelled, and said to them that followed, . . . I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel. . . . And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour."

Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "Are we to believe an authority which denies God's spiritual command relating to perfection,—an authority which Jesus proved to be false? He did the will of the Father. He healed sickness in defiance of what is called material law, but in accordance with God's law, the law of Mind."

Churches Hold Week Of Fasting

A week of mourning, weeping, fasting and praying for full citizenship rights in the United States of America was planned by the Baptist Ministers' Conference in Baltimore. The week will begin Monday, April 7th, "Passion Week." The plan was presented by Reverend Hiram E Smith, minister of Mt. Lebanon Baptist church, Perkins Ave. and George St.

All churches that believe in the power of God and justice for all men are asked to entreat God on behalf of the people of color for full citizenship. Every colored minister especially of whatever persuasion is urged to have his parishioners to join in this plea.

The most effective time for this service is naturally "Passion Week", when a suffering and harmless minority would be immediately linked with a suffering and harmless Savior. It will also mean that Christians will want to sacrifice more for the cause of the suffering minorities, as well as for the cause of Christ.

There is no formal organization connected with the movement. It will be more like a spontaneous effort arising from the hearts of the people themselves. There will be no president, no secretary, no treasurer. It involves absolutely no money raising to perpetuate its interest.

The demonstration will last one week—Passion Week. Every person of color who feels the sting of segregation, and every person who feels the sting of injustice of this unfair discrimination, whether white or black, and who believes in an orderly democratic society is asked to join in this week of service.

"But this not not mean that no thought will be given to the project before the week of dedication, mourning, and supplication," says Rev. Smith. "It means just the opposite. It means that after long meditation and preparation before God, a national demonstration of faith is to be shown by Christians and by other religionists.

"God will surely prosper our cause. The colored people are the most despised minority in America. They have sought aid for bettering their citizenship status through political, legislative, educational and even religious channels. And all these mediums have failed. Why not try God who never fails?"

The Baptist Ministers Conference unanimously adopted the program as being worthy of national acceptance. The members of the conference now hope that every newspaper in the United States will carry an announcement of this request, and that all churches in America will cooperate in bringing it to fruitation.

PIRATES STOP DELAWARE, LOSE TO BISONS

HAMPTON INSTITUTE, Va.—Howard university's Bison cagers came from behind in the last three minutes of play here last week to hand the Hampton Pirates their second beating from the Bisons in as many weeks, 50-41. Two days earlier, the Pirates had gained revenge from an early season 70-35 drubbing when they turned on the heat to knock over Delaware State college, 60-39.

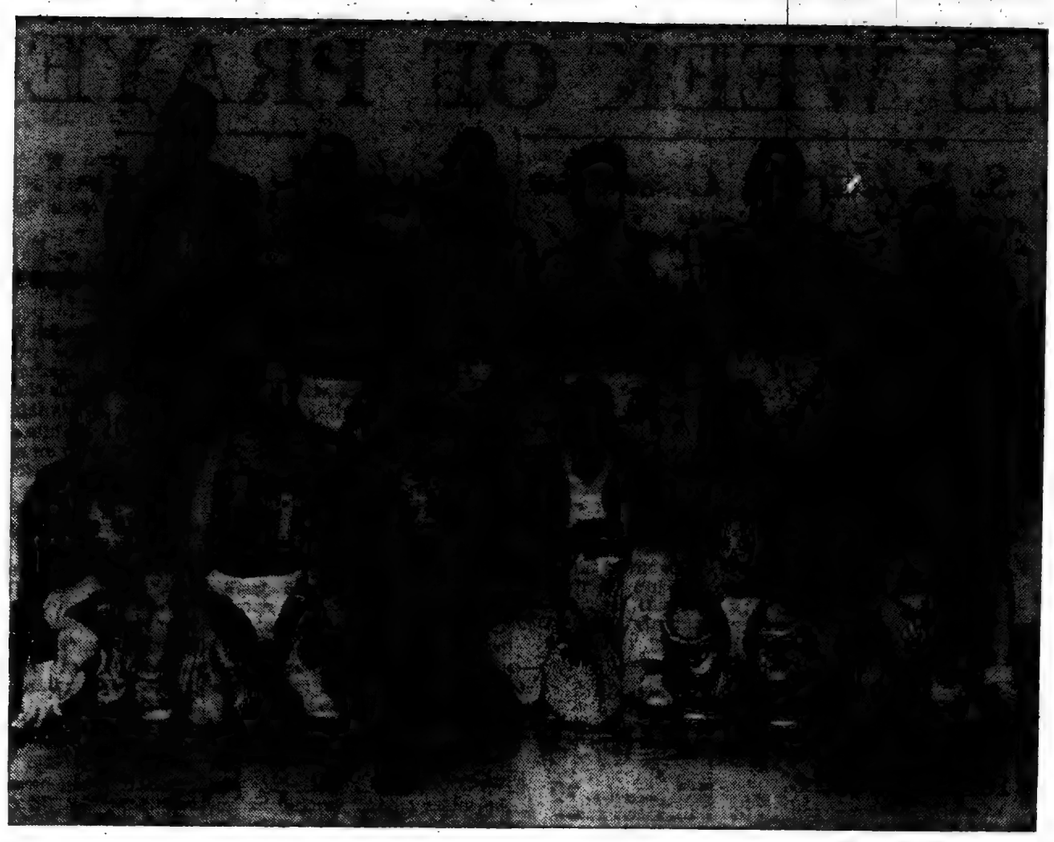
BRAVES TURN BACK DILLARD

NEW ORLEANS—With all conference center Riley Williams leading the barrage with 25 buckets, Alcorn (Miss.) college's fighting basketball Braves, overwhelmed a weak Dillard University team here last week end in the Xavier university gym, 72-47. Sharing scoring honors with lanky Williams was speedy Alcorn forward Joe Kennedy with 21 markers. The Braves led 33-20 at halftime.

T. S. U. SHADES GAMBLING, 65-64

HOUSTON—Thomas "Toothpick" Johnson, a long gangling lad with a deadeye and a tricky dribble, hit the hoop for 26 points here last week as the Texas State university for Negroes edged a hard charging fast breaking Gambling college quintet, 65-64, on the Tiger's home hardwood. Bill Crawford, Gambling center led his team's attack with 17 points. T. S. U. led 38-31 at halftime.

BENEDICT TURNS BACK BEARS



RALEIGH, N. C.—Benedict college (N. C.) handed the Shaw university Bears their third defeat over a period of three years here Saturday night when the Benedict quintet turned back the Bears 29-28.

TRACK RETURNS TO DILLARD

NEW ORLEANS—The third major sport to return to Dillard university since the ending of the war will be activated when track and field again returns to the school's athletic calendar this spring, it was revealed this week by William N. Wasson who will serve as track coach. Dillard has scheduled meets with Prairie View, Tuskegee and other leading colleges of the southern states.

WYTHE LEADS BROWN TO VICTORY

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—William Wythe, a break away forward with a sizzling right hand shot, sunk 24 points here last week to lead the Morris Brown quintet of Atlanta to a well won 51-43 victory over the Fisk university cagers on their home court. Fisk led 25-24 at halftime, but Wythe's right had got hot in the second frame and ht Atlanta boys pulled further and further awoy from the tiring and outclassed Fiskmen as the game wore on.

SECOND BAPTIST'S POWERFUL BASKETBALL TEAM which opened its 1948 basketball campaign last Tuesday night in the First Baptist gymnasium, and travels to the Redlands Y.M.C.A. to battle the Redlands varsity, Saturday, Feb. 21, at 7:30 p.m.

Second Baptist goes into this season with the impressive record of having lost but four of its last forty-eight games since 1942 and has the most powerful church casaba team in this city.

Sports of All Sorts

Former city high school sprint champion BOB USERY, o JEFFERSON HIGH SCHOOL, surprised everybody, including the local press, when he entered PHOENIX JUNIOR COLLEGE instead of LOS ANGELES CITY COLLEGE, as reported by the local sporting gentry. . . . BIG BOB entering PHOENIX substantiates something we've been suspecting for a long time, it is that PHOENIX is openly and unshamefully recruiting top-flight prep athletes. . . . Before the war, PHOENIX was a real JC power, but with the war's end, COMPTON and LACC have almost completely dominated western junior college athletics, and the COWBOYS down ARIZONA way haven't exactly appreciated this metropolitan LOS ANGELES domination. . . . With URSERY in the fold and what we understand to be a score of top-flight trackmen on hand, PHOENIX will definitely be in contention when the NATIONAL JUNIOR COLLEGE TRACK CHAMPIONSHIPS are held early in June at PHOENIX.

Although when he was in town he denied it, ABE SAPERSTIEN, roly-poly manager of the HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS, is definitely interested in securing the services of DON BARKSDALE and DAVE MINOR. . . . SAPERSTIEN is reported to have talked turkey with both the cage aces, and it is rumored that MINOR will pass up his last season of college eligibility at UCLA to go with the TROTTERS. . . . As we have said many times, MINOR isn't the greatest lover of book learnin' in town ,and since this year's BRUIN basketball team hasn't come up to expectations DAUNTLESS DAVE will probably be wearing a TROTTER uniform next season. . . . As for BARKSDALE, he is rumored to have "a most promising future" up north with the AAU OAKLAND BITTNERS, and will probably think long and hard before joining the pros. . . . DON if he does sign, won't reveal it until after the OLYMPIC GAMES, for the lanky ex-BRUIN wants to participate in the hop-step-and-jump event at LONDON. . . . BARKSDALE right now is AMERICA'S No. 1 candidate in this event. . . . He holds the NCAA record in the odd event. . . . If BARKSDALE and MINOR do decide to join the GLOBETROTTERS next year, the HARLEM lads should regain the WORLD'S PROFESSIONAL BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP which they haven't been in possession of since 1940.

JEFFERSON HIGH SCHOOL'S defending city spike champion DEMOCRATS may have a tough time in regaining the prep title this May when the annual CITY TRACK CHAMPIONSHIPS will be again combined with the COLISEUM RELAYS. . . . Around FULTON FIELD they're crying for a good miler, half miler, weight man, and depth in the sprints. . . . The DEMOCRATS' crying may be a big farce, for with EDWIN YOUNG, JIM HOWARD, and CHUCK WOODS back in the high jump and broad jump, the three "B" hurdlers that finished 1-2-3 in th e"City" last year, GORDON back in the sprints, and added to this array of talent CHUCK BUTLER, defending STATE 440-YARD CHAMPION, the GREEN and GOLD will probably still have possession of the City Championship they've won more than any other school come the COLISEUM RELAYS.

Dillard Ties Hurdle Marks

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Harrison Dillard, America's No. 1 hurdler from tiny Baldwin-Wallace college of Berea, Ohio, tied the American record for the indoor 70-yard high and low hurdle events here last week, but the lanky Negro's efforts were all in vain for his team was handed a 79-35 lacing by the University of Illinois track squad in a dual meet held in the Illinois State Guard Armory.

Dillard stepped over the high hurdles in 8.5 and came back to skip lightly over the lows in the time of 7.8, tieing both indoor marks which he himself holds.

Not satisfied with double victories in the hurdles, Dillard came back to win the 60-yard dash in 6.2 seconds.

ON THE TURF

— Geo. A. Ramsey

CALIENTE, Old Mexico — It was favorite day at Caliente last Sunday and the books took the worst beating of the year. Not only did the favorites score but two good things also helped to make the books weep even more. The slaughter of the books began in the first race when "Silky Maiden," a field horse, scored handily to pay $6.20 and in the second race the real good thing was sprung. "Vix" first opened in the books at ten to one. The first bet was $10,000 to $12,000. He was promptly cut to three to one. But in the mutuels "Vix" first paid the big price of $16.00 for two. And then in the next three races the chalk players assaulted the books with the favorites scoring. "After School," "Blue Agent" and "Go Silver" helped to dampen and bring gloom to the men that lay the prices. Yes, it was a sad day for the entire ring. The feature event of the day billed as "The Good Fellowship Handicap" was won by the well backed "Cargo Ship." He opened at six to one and was played down to three to one, got up in the last jump to win by a head over the favorite "All Faith" who set the pace from the start to lose by a nose. The winner paid in the mutuels $8.00 for two. The secondary event was won by the good sprinter "Blue Agent" who was making his first start over longer distance. He carried his speed the full mile and seventy yards to win by two lengths. 'Til next Sunday this George saying Drive carefully.

BEULAH'S REDUCING

In her role as CBS' "Beulah," Hattie McDaniel is always talking about losing weight, and now she's doing something about it herself. Following the diets prescribed by Dr. Gaylord Hauser, whose patrons include Greta Garbo, Hattie is shedding a few inches around the waistline. By way of company, she has put her Dalmatian dog, Danny, on the diet too.

In the ordinary business of life industry can do anything which genius can do, and very many things which it cannot.—

SUGAR RAY HARD LUCK GUY

CHICAGO — Tragic death of Jimmy Doyle at his hands was a knockout blow to Ray Robinson, says sports writer Charles Dexter in a March Negro Digest article declaring that this tragedy was the last of a series of mishaps which left "Sugar" bittersweet.

Even from the start, Dexter declares, Ray, whose real name is Walker Smith, was pushed around. At first he was considered too skinny to fight and had to act as waterboy for a Harlem team of amateur boxers. Given his first chance, he had no license and was forced to use another boxer's license. Hence his ring name of "Ray Robinson" is actually the name of the boxer he replaced.

And after 85 amateur fights when Ray, now nicknamed "Sugar" because he was such a sweet fighter, set a record 85 wins (69 by KO, 40 of these in the first round) he still had tough sledding as a pro. Since he stuck by colored manager Sam Gainford, white promoters wouldn't give him good matches. He had to fight month after month in out-of-the-way clubs for peanuts before public demand got good fights for him.

With the fates still plaguing him, Sugar beat every boxer in his class but the Champ, Freddy Cochrane, who wouldn't agree to a match under any circumstances. Ray was drafted without a chance at the title. After over a year in the army, Ray still couldn't get a title shot from the new champ, Marty Servo.

Winning the welterweight championship at last after a fight with Tommy Bell, Ray was set for his happiest year, 1947. His second fight ended in death for his opponent, Jimmy Doyle.

Avalon, National Guard Win Pioneer Crosses

The Avalon Athletic Club led by Clement Pyles' 20 points, and the National Guard five sparked by Vernon Greene's 17 markers, walked off with second round honors last week as the 28th street YMC cage tournament went into its second round on the 28th street court.

The Avalon Athletic Club turned on the heat against a tall but weak Basketeer squad to hand the tall lads a 46-25 drubbing. Pyles' with 20 points and Leon Henderson with 15 points were high scorers for the victors, while Fred Bluett's 10 markers was tops among the losers.

In a rapid firing race horse encounter, the National Guard lads, with experience and height telling in the closing moments of the game, put the stops on the Glover Institute Vikings, 77-53. Greene with 17 points and Alfred Hines with 15 digits led the National Guard scoring attack. However, David Ross, a promising young taylor with a deadly right arm, was high point man for the night as he bucketed 27 points for the losers.

The "Y" tournament goes into the third round Wednesday (Feb. 23) when the Glover Vikings go against the Boilermakers, and the Bombardiers square off with the National Guard five in the night cap. Games begin at 8 p.m.

East LAJC News

On hand to greet East Los Angeles Junior college's new track mentor, Coach Ray Smith, for the 1948 track season, were some 40 track aspirants. The veteran coach comes from Huntington Park High school after having great success with their track and gridiron squads.

Prospects whom Coach Smith expects to shine during the season are Frances Kachaturian, Al Gasperian, Gil Espinosa, John Sonday, Gordon Johnson, Dave Diaz, Roy Deretich, Tom Clark, Walt Lumpkin, Rosendo Perez, Ed Toney, Manuel Ramirez, Ozzie Williams, "Killer" Cain, Dave Butler, and Jack Zipperman.

The Huskies go up against San Bernardino Valley College's cinder men in their initial meet of the season Friday, February 27, at San Bernardino.

The thrice-clipped East Los Angeles Junior college hoopsters move over to the Garfield High school gym Friday evening, February 27, to take on a traveling Bakersfield City college quintet in a scheduled Metropolitan league play-off.

Coach "Ching" Duhm's hardwood charges were last week clipped to the score of 55-41 by the league-leading Glendale City College Vaqueros.

In meeting the Bakersfield casabamen the Huskies will encounter a five-some that relies strictly on team work and a fast break.

Leading the Huskie cause will be Jerry Norman and Dick Corrales at the forward posts. Norman hit the hoop for 12 against the Glendalites last week.

Chapman Stars For Foxmen

Two ineligible college forwards and a center who is playing his 22d year of organized basketball, joined forces here last week end to give the underdog 20th Century Fox cagemen a 48-44 victory over the L. A. Police team at the City College gym.

The two ex-college boys, UCLA's Emerson Chapman with 7 points, and Los Angeles City College's Hal Uplinger with 11 markers, aided by the perennial sophomore Frank Lubin's 17 buckets were too much for the hard playing police five.

Fonville Breaks American Shot Record

EAST LANSING, Mich.—Powerful Charles Fonville, 194-pound University of Michigan weight star, tossed the 16-pound shotput 56 ft. 6 and ½ inches to shatter the existing American record of the late Al Blozis by 6 inches here last week in the annual Michigan State College Relays held in the giant Spartan Field House.

Fonville's record breaking heave came on his second try in the weight event of the big indoor meet which attracted 300 athletes from 21 schools. The well built Negro's put was six and three-quarters inches short of the recognized world's record set by Jack Torrance of Louisiana State university at Oslo, Sweden, in 1934.

Fonville's toss was th ebest of his career. He won the N.C.A.A. title last year with a toss of 54 ft. 10 inches. Relay official claimed that it was the best performance ever given by a shot putter on an indoor field.

The old American record of 56 ft. ½ inch was set in 1940 at Minneapolis, Minn., by the late Al Blozis of Georgetown university, who was killed during the war.

Other outstanding performances in the star-studded event were turned in by Horace Smith of Michigan State and Lorenzo Wright of Wayne university. Smith, fast-stepping halfback on the Spartan football team, set a new 75-yard high hurdle record when he skipped over the timers in 8.4s. Wright jumped 24 ft. 9½ inches to set another record in the broadjump. Both records were held by Fred Johnson of Michigan State, who ran the hurdles in 8.5 and broadjumped 24 ft. 5⅝ inches a year ago.

TAYLOR NATURAL GOLFER

HOLLYWOOD — If Elizabeth Taylor ever swaps her make-up kit for golf clubs, she will be a champion, according to Art Stewart, golf professional who is coaching the young Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer actress for scenes in "Julia Misbehaves," which stars Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon. Elizabeth had never handled a golf club until this film.

second base during the coming season.

Robinson became the 11th Dodger to agree to terms for the 1948 season and the fifth to sign within 24 hours. Outfielder Gene Hermanski signed yesterday, and infielder Tommy Brown, outfielder Cal Abrams and Pitcher Henry Behrman signed last night.

Speaking before the annual football banquet of Wilberforce University last Tuesday night Rickey revealed that he had defied the opposition of 15 major league club owners when he signed Jackie to a Dodger contract 2 years ago.

"After I had signed Robinson," Rickey said, "but before he had played a game a joint major league board adopted a report that said," however well meant, the use of Negro players would hazard all the physical prospects of baseball.

The report was adopted, Rickey said, after the appointment of A. B. ("Happy") Chandler as baseball czar.

Inkspots Sought For Labor Film

DETROIT — Officials of the United Auto Workers last week were in conference with Bill Kenny and his Ink Spots here, seeking the services of the famed quaret in the making of a projected film telling the story of a modern labor organization.

The film's message would be largely documentary. The idea of the major union chiefs is to incorporate "name" entertainers into the picture not only to break the monotony but also to aid in attracting audiences for the important message that the organization has to tell to its members and the world at large. The group, singing at the Bowery here, will make a decision within the next few days.

Gertrude Gipson's CANDID COMMENTS

He softly looked into my eyes
And gently stroked my head,
And then out of a clean, blue sky
Said: "D'ya think Hitler's dead?"

THE PRIVATE FILES OF A CANDID COMMENTATOR:

Mr. and Mrs. Reader of Candid Comments. Wanna do me a favor? This is no high-pressure sales talk, and I'm not trying to sell you Gen. Doug McArthur for president . . So if you're lookin' for me anyplace Sunday afternoon . . . Come to the CLUB CONGO, to the CLUB FESTIVAL 'cause I'll be there . . . Joe Watkins, of the Westside coterie, and Muriel Williams, the shapely waitress, will wed in April . . . His entire family opposed her but she had Mother Nature on her side!! . . . Eric Johnson, the moon pitcha czar, denied those Herman Hill reports, but don't bet against Herm, he bats 1000 in the reportorial League . . .

In lawyers jargon, when an attorney is "Trying a case in the country" is means he's at the races (Oh Gert, you old tattle-tale you!) . . .

Jimmie Parker's new tune is hilarious, about an Industrial cirsis, and titled "The Day A Cake of Ivory Sank at Proctor and Gamble"! . . . And Hal Winslow called Ruth Watkins in the middle of the ayem to quip "It's better to have halitosis than to have no breath at all"!!

The doctor ordered sportsman Raymond Brown on the water wagon for the good of his health . . . "Don't you know whiskey kills more men than bullets: the medico asked Brown, to which Raymond remarked "Yeah, I know, that's why I'd rather be full of whiskey"!!

Opening at the Red Feather, and having all the pretty "drirls" searching in their bags for smelling salts, Bill Eckstein handling, so very nicely the vocal spot at the Club . . . Eunice Finley of the Gen Hospital staff, denies those marriage rumors, tho' we hear she'll wed before Easter . . . On the subject of marriage, songtress Mabel Scott (our fave) will have her wedding reception Sunday the 22nd at the Casa Rafael, where she and hubby William Lester Jones will again repeat their marriage vows . . . I've never noticed but those who have said that Nat King Cole bites his fingernails, if that'll improve their playing other pianists should follow suit . . Velma Miles (whose smile could be used for a Pepsodent ad) is as happy as a mouse in a barrel of cheese . . . The reason: A tall, dark and hands-off" sez Vel whose name is Nick Ramirez . . .

SCANNIN' THE NEWS TICKER TAPE

Ooodles of orchids to little 8 year old versatile Tonie Harper who'll have a nice spread in LIFE magazine come next month . . . Don't know how you feel about it but it turns my stomach the way some garrulous fiends try to drag a decent girl's name through the mud . . . the reputation-wreckers are trying to soil the good name of Ruth Shelton . . . It's being widely cocktail-rumored (where the elite meet to eat) that her "actions" at the Elks Hall, during a recent white tie-and-collar affair were caused by over-indulgence in stagger-soup. Oh, please! The poor girl was taken suddenly ill and had to be rushed home immediately, and people told other people that she was "inebriated." Oh, well, that's people for you. They'll do it everytime . . . Memo from SEC: Letter from Abie Robinson on the desk, wants a mention in your column, Okay Abie is sports editor of the San Francisco SUN, no other sports editor can make that statement!!

Amiel Arnoud doesn't know how those marriage rumors got started "I need a wife, he moans, "like I need a hole in the head!"

Mrs. Bailey's little girl Pearl is in town to do a pic, don't tell anyone you've never heard of PB or you'll be listed as a boob . . . Paul Shaw tells us he's in love with Nolita, she's Pord Rick . . Port Ric . . . Puerta R . . . Ih, heck, she comes from Cuba . . . Met the handsome Frank Levine, you know he's one of those big shots in the Fire Dept. What we like about the man, is the fact that he tells us he NEVER misses reading candid Comments . . . The singsational Treniers out at the Melody Room (They're my boys) . . Roy Milton plays music like I wanta hear it played, to say nothing of the torrid sax blowin' of Bill Gaither and the oh, so fine singing of Camille Howard . . .

BROUSING IN BROWNSVILLE:

Muriel Gary, the Pasadena socialovely, shelved 18 pounds that many days, not an unrequited love affair, her own private diet, eats two hard-boiled eggs (and drinks a cuupa Lemon juice) half hour before each meal, and when eating time comes she isn't hungry—natch! (a simpler way, dahling, is to shake your head slowly from left to right when offered a second helping) . . . Lloyd Reese (remember him?) He played all that fine horn with the Les Hite ork, is a teacher of music(and trumpeter Lamar Wright is one of his best advertisements . . . Sounds enough like Reese to be his musical twin . . .

In closing we'll leave this with you "For every man that makes a fool out of a woman, there is a women to make a man out of a fool" . . .

DEEP ARE THE ROOTS, which has been described by critics as being more daring than 'Crossfire' and more provocative than 'Gentleman's Agreement,' will be given as a benefit performance for the Laura Slayton Foundation on Sunday, February 29 at 2:30 p.m.

PEG LEG BATES, the famous handicapped dancer, now starring in Blackouts of '48, will be one of the main attractions at the mammoth "Club Festival," at the Club Congo Old Alabam), Sunday afternoon from 3 to 7 p.m. Suzette Harbin is heading the show along with Dorothy Nicholas. "INTERCULTURAL" DANCES

HOLLYWOOD—Jeni LeGon, noted Negro singer and dancer who plays a comedy role in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Easter Parade," is planning a formal opening of Hollywood's first "intercultural" dancing school. Bearing her name, the new school is located in the heart of Hollywood's "Radio City."

Big Washington Birthday Dance at the Elks

You can sleep all day Monday if you wish, but Sunday night be at the Elks Ballroom for the big Washington's Birthday dance when Joe Liggins and His Honeydrippers say farewell to California for 15 weeks.

Since this is the Honeydrippers last local appearance for a long time, they are planning to go all out with their best of the type of music that has made them the nation's hottest little combination.

Joe Liggins has promised to give special attention to requests for Sunday night. It is expected of course, that there will be a generous offering of such hot numbers as Blow Mr. Jackson, I Know My Love Is True, Breaking My Heart, Down Home Blues, and some of the new ones such as Groovey Groove, Meloncholy Blues, and Siboney.

"Siboney" Tops

Incidentally, the Liggins arrangement on that new Siboney record has brought comment from critics over the nation who class it as an outstanding number since it has the Liggins touch. The Peanut Vendor, the companion piece, is also a juicy number for the lovers of rhumba music.

After playing the Appollo Theatre in New York in April, the Honeydrippers will start the homeward journey which gets them here in time for a dance at the Elks Ballroom on Sunday night, June 6.

Violinist Will Appear Feb. 24

One of today's most celebrated musicians, the French violinist, Jacques Thibaud, will be heard in Los Angeles the only time this season on Tuesday evening, February 24 at 8:30 o'clock at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre under the sponsorship of Irwin Parnes.

M. Thibaud arrived in the United States for a three months' transcontinental tour last December. His schedule includes solo performances with the San Francisco Symphony, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Detroit and Indianapolis Symphonies and Les Concerts Symphoniques in oMntreal. The tour concludes with an engagement with the Chicago Orchestra on April 2.

From Chicago, M. Thibaud flies to Mexico City to begin a tour of Mexico, Central American countries, Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uraguay and Brazil. He will return to Europe the first of July.

Dizzy Gillespie Thrills Swedish Jazz Devotees

STOCKHOLM—Every attendance record ever established has been broken to smithereens as Dizzie Gillespie, the goatoed American and his amazing aggregation have played to capacity crowds on three different occasions during the last few weeks.

The enthusiastic response to his initial appearance presented a problem for the law officers, which they had never experienced. A minor riot ensued as the normally phlegmatic Swedish jazz fans strove to gain entrance to the concert hall. The result of all this is that Europe now eagerly awaits the visits of all America's leading jazz instrumentalists and bands. Dizzy thus has become a good will ambassador as well as entertainer.

Polio Tenor Aids Victims Of All Races

CHICAGO—Pruth McFarlin, a 35 year old concert singer who has been paralyzed for 30 years, uses his voice to aid handicapped youth of all races and recently raised $10,000 for the Sister Kenny Fund.

Touring the country in an automobile which he drives himself in spite of the fact that he is paralyzed from the hips down, Pruth has donated thousands of dollars of the money concert-goers pay to hear his fine tenor voice to help polio-stricken kids. Singing from a wheel chair designed by Lionel Barrymore and given to him by James Melton, the singer who is built like Joe Louis from the waist up also fights racial prejudice and discrimination.

In Twin Falls, Idaho, a local white pastor admitted to McFarlin that he had never liked Negroes. "I don't know why, except I had an idea they were somehow different. But after hearing you sing, my idea about Negroes has completely changed. Any man whose singing can touch me like yours can't be different from me."

The minister then obtained accommodations for Pruth in the lily-white hotel.

Muriel Rahn Sings Before Non-Jim-Crow Audience in Miami

MURIEL RAHN

MIAMI, Fla. — Muriel Rahn, brilliant young soprano who won nationwide fame as "Carmen" in the Americanized version of Bizet's immortal opera, will appear in concert here next Thursday at City auditorium.

Sponsored by the King of Clubs, a group of local professional and business men, the concert will follow the pattern of the recent Edward Matthews recital at which there was no segregation in the seating arrangement.

Greatest surprise on her present tour came in Winston-Salem where one of the city's leading daily newspapers, the Sentinel, carried a three-column spread praising her fine artistry and ignoring one of the South's famous taboos in referring to her as "Miss Rahn."

Attacks on County Relief Discussed

"Public Relief Attacked in L.A. County" was the subject of discussion at a meeting held in the First Unitarian church last Wednesday evening. Among the speakers were Rev. Clayton D. Russell, Independent Church of Christ; John Dillencourt, American Association of Social Workers; Joseph De Silva, AFL Retail Clerks; and Joseph H. Levy, CIO United Office and Professional Workers.

"Native Land," the picture reaction suppressed, with Paul Robeson, will be shown next Saturday, February 21, at 8 p.m. in the Embassy auditorium.

The following Saturday, February 28, 8 p.m., there will be a dance and drawing at Park View Manor, 2200 West 7th street.

Probably the outstanding American social commentator in the field of modern dance, Weidman will be assisted by Feliso Conde, Betts Lee, Carl Morris and Betty Osgood, among others. This is Weidman's first Los Angeles visit in several years.

When a young man vainly boasted, "I am wise, for I have conversed with many wise men," Epictetus made answer, "And I with many rich men, but I am not rich." The richest blessings are obtained by labor. — Mary Baker Eddy.

Interracial Experiment of Belasco Production Receives Commendation

By Phyllis Scott

The Los Angeles Interracial Unity committees will present theatrical producer Ray Spencer with the 1948 Drama Division award for his "outstanding contribution to interracial understanding" through his production of the play "Deep Are the Roots." Presentation will be made at the Second Baptist church on Sunday, February 22.

Meanwhile, as "Deep are the Roots" goes into its sixth successful week, it is interesting to note a few sidelights from the management of the production. "Deep are the Roots," which is undeniably the most significant controversial play to come out of the war, merits an important place in the history of the theatre. For it marks the first time that such a drama, interracial in its entire aspect, has achieved such acclaim.

Not only is its cast interracial but its sponsorship and support as well. In fact, it's been rather encouraging to find that 50% of its current support comes from the Negro community, which hasn't been especially theatre-conscious, heretofore. Originally scheduled for a 4 week run, the Belasco theatre presentation has been playing before packed nightly audiences.

Before the play went into production, several theatre goers raised a critical eyebrow saying that Los Angeles would never accept such a serious drama, but "Deep are the Roots" has proven that a play can be good theatre and say something without losing any of its entertaining value.

Just as the Negro is becoming more theatre-conscious so is he freeing himself from his old position of passive resistance. Highpoint of the play is reached when 'Bella' tells the senator that she can no longer work in her old capacity while they force upon her son insufferable degradation. Jessie Coles Grayson represents the passing of an old, decadent South, symbolized by the senator. Jimmy Edwards, Betsy Blair, and Rose Hobart symbolizes the emergence of a new South, spirited and courageous.

Producer Ray Spencer believes that there is a place in Los Angeles for a permanent professional theatre and the low-priced policy of the Belasco production proves its workability. He hopes to produce plays in the future that have a definite relationship to the American scene.

Dick Powell Fights World Opium Racket

Opium racket exposed and smashed in, "To the ends of the Earth." Taking a story from the hitherto secret files of the U. S. Treasure and Bureau of Narcotic Customs and Coast Guard, Columbia pictures, "To the Ends of the Earth," exposes in epic fashion the magnitude of the world wide opium market. The picture whose original story and screen play is by J. Richard Kennedy, who also acted as Associate Producer, dramatizes the smashing of the most sinister threats to humanity.

Mexican-Americans Here Responding to Registration Drive

Mexican-American registrars, participating in a big registration drive sponsored by Community Service Organization, had registered some 2200 Mexican-Americans during the last three weeks, organization spokesmen said yesterday.

The Community Service Organization, a group of some 150 citizens of Mexican parentage, launched the largest register-to-vote campaign in the history of the Mexican community with the mass deputizing of 46 volunteer registrars Jan. 6.

Ed Roybal, chairman of the organization, said the registration goal was 12,000 new qualified voters by April 22, closing date for registration.

'Declaration' Raises Contemporary Issues

Coincidental with preparation for the arrival of the Freedom Train in Los Angeles, the Actors' Lazoratory theatre presented the world premiere of the Janet and Philip Stevenson play, "Declaration," on Friday night, Feb. 13, before an enthusiastic and receptive audience.

Dramatizing American history in terms of compelling theatre, "Declaration" presents such figures as Washington, Jefferson and Hamilton in modern dress, facing issues that are completely contemporary in their impact on the audience.

A cast of 55 actors, including Lloyd Gough, Roman Bohnen, Arno Tanney, Harlan Warde and others, under the skillful direction of Daniel Mann, perform the play with understanding and vigor.

The Actors' Lab will present the Jefferson play for four weekends at their Laurel avenue theatre in Hollywood.

Upsets 'No Dance' Policy at DC Club

WASHINGTON—Patrons at the Bali club here threw the "no dancing rule" out the window last Sunday night when Ella Fitzgerald's riff singing started a wave of impromptu dancing among the packed audience. Once it started, the management decided there was nothing to do but let the customers enjoy hemselves.

Angelenos Introduced to Nash Singers' Light Opera Plans for May 20

On Saturday, February 14, the Luvenia Nash Singers entertained with a luncheon at the Venia Tea Room, 37th dr. and Western ave. Present Bill of Rights

Leaders of minority peoples here, together with the CIO, this week pushed proposals for a broad bill of rights to be included in the state constitution now being drafted for the California legislature.

At a meeting in CIO Hall, labor and minority group representatives protested the absence of minority representation on a citizens advisory committee appointed to aid an interim legislative committee now working on the draft constitution. Only one Negro is on the committee. No Mexican-Americans have been appointed to it.

Wilma Chapman Entertains Committee

The Woodlawn Branch YWCA Committee of Management had an unusual meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Wilma Chapman who has given untiring service as a member of the committee. Final plans were made for the annual membership meeting dinner to be held Friday, February 20 at 6:30 p.m. at the First A.M.E. Church at 8th and Towne.

Mrs. Marie Fredericks announced the Western Regional YWCA conference to be held at Asilomar, March 18-22nd. Several members plan to attend this conference from the branch representing the Y-Teen, Young Adults, Public Affairs and Administrative departments. At the end of the business meeting Mrs. Bess Vaughn, hospitality chairman ask Mrs. Josephine Brown and Mrs. Chapman to stand, presenting each with an orchid. Mrs. Brown has been an untiring worker and member of the board for six years helping to promote better felowship among women and girls throughout the city.

Miss Mamie E. Davis, secretary for administrative affairs in the community division of the national board of the Young Women's Christian Association, will arrive in Los Angeles March 1 for a three-day visit with Miss Mary P. Lewis, Los Angeles metropolitan executive, and YWCA leaders, on problems of local interest in the association.

Miss Davis has been assigned to work largely in the eastern and western regions for the coming year, although her travels take her city wide.

On March 1 Miss Davis will meet with YWCA ladies on the Watts area; March 2 with branch executives and downtown leaders; March 3 with the total YWCA staff, Los Angeles. Climaxing her visit will be an open committee of management meeting for the Woodlawn Branch, Wednesday, March 3, at 4 p.m., at the branch.

Mrs. Marie Fredericks, chairman of the committee, is very desirous of having as many YWCA volunteers and leaders present. Miss Davis will discuss at this time "How We Make Our Inclusive Purpose Work."

THE MEANING OF LIFE

Human beings live in the realm of meanings, and, there are many expressions given to life. Even at its source our experience is qualified by our human purposes.

If we distinguish the mistakes that are made from the various experiences we have, we can discover what it is that the better meanings share in common, and what it is that the worse meanings lack.

There are three main ties that usually affect every human being, the first of which is that we are living on the planet, earth, and must develop under the restrictions and with the possibilities which our place of habitation sets us. The other two are the fact that we are members of the human race and human beings are living in two sexes. The problem of love and marriage belongs to the third tie.

There are many ways in which the human being attempts to solve these problems, but the way can be made so much brighter and easier if you let Prof. Herman help you through the medium of Astrology.

L.A.H.—Dear Prof. Herman: I have been reading your column each week in the paper and find it very interesting. Will you please help me with two questions. Will I be successful this year? Will I move into another house?

ANS.—Your Lucky Stars and Guiding Palnet indicate a change in your circumstances this year, and your being successful in your endeavors. Only one question is answered in the column due to the limited amount of space.

R.S.B.—What should I do?

ANS.—It seems that you are worried over a package you did not receive. I suggest you contact the post office, giving them all details. They will place a tracer on it, and notify you when it is found.

R.E.W.—Does he love me?

ANS.—A careful analysis of your question indicates that this young man is very fond of you. Do not doubt his honesty, especially since he is giving you no cause to do so.

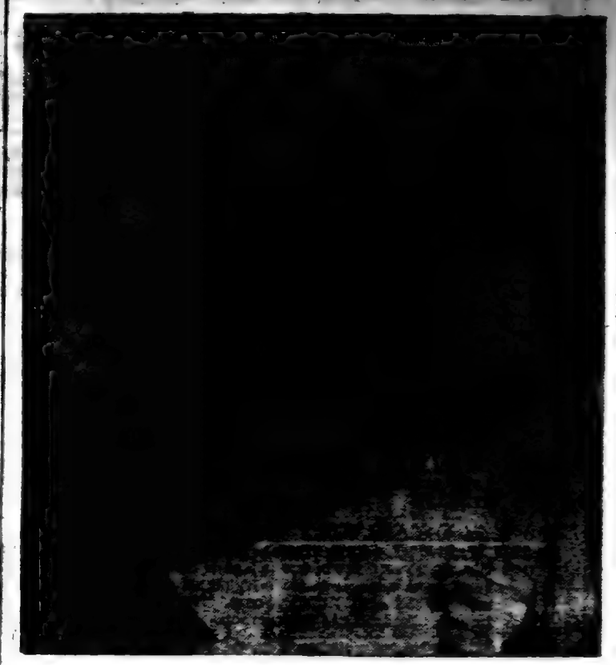
M.T.—Was my girl friend sinstre?

ANS.—Probing into the matter I find that you had reason to believe that your girl friend was going out with your husband . . . and you are wondering if these accusations are true. Because of the nature of this question I would rather answer it privately, write in for a private reply at your earliest convenience.

T.T.—For what is the Eiffel Tower of Paris used?

ANS.—This tower is used as a trans-Atlantic wireless station, and by scientists in observing air currents and weather. Elevators carry passengers to the top to see the wonderful view of the city, as well as the surrounding country.

Social Club



The Original Cavalrette Social Club met Sunday, February 1, with Mrs. Billie Browne, hostess, at her home, 357 West 50th St.

Plans were completed for the coffee and Fashion Revue, which will be held Sunday, March 7, at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Browne, 357 West 50th St.

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Davis and Mr. Charles Anderson came as a delightful surprise to members of the club. Miss Davis is a former president of the club and is now holding the office of financial secretary. Mr. Anderson is employed by the United States Mail Service. Cocktails and a buffet dinner were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Mr. Thomas Clark, with the assistance of Mr. William campbell, took technicolor moving pictures of the newlyweds, members and their escorts. The pictures will be shown at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clark, 1830 West 35th Pl; Mrs. Francis Campbell will be hostess.

An oldfashioned breakfast, served promptly at 10 a.m. Sunday, February 8, at the home of Miss Valerie Harding, was the highlight of the first Quarterly Social Meeting of the year. Hostesses for this elaborate affair were Wilda Clark, Valerie Harding, Rosa Lee Johnson and Mozell Herring.

SOUTHEAST LEADER PROMOTED—Dr. George M. Uhl, city health officer, hands Dr. Ruth J. Temple, southeast district health officer, her notice of promotion to Director of Special Health Services Section of the Los Angeles city health department. Dr. Uhl, praising Dr. Temple's minority group health work, said her services would now become city-wide. Dr. Uhl announced the promotion during the fourth annual Disease Prevention Week, which Dr. Temple originated. Dr. Temple will be succeeded in her district post by Dr. Monroe Epstein.

Federal Building To Be Picketed Friday, Saturday

membership in an organization "advocating the violent overthrow of the U. S. government," despite the fact that the U. S. supreme court rejected in the Schneiderman case the contention that the Communist party advocates the violent overthrow o fthe government.

Smith was arrested at his Harlem home on Monday and taken to Ellis Island. Smith, a native of Jamaica, British West Indies, has been a resident of U. S. for many years. He is a longtime NMU official.

The deportation warrant charged that Smith was, at the time of his entry into this country and afterward, a member of the Communist party.

Also held for deportation are John Williamson, labor secretary of the Communist party, and Alexander Bittelman, Jewish leader and a member of the Communist party.

Communist party. Smith and Williamson are being held without bail.

Local groups plan to picket the Federal Building here Friday and Saturday to protest the government's action. San Pedro members of the NNU voted last night to support the picket demonstration. The San Pedro NMU local also wired President Truman a demand he halt the deportation proceedings against the labor leaders.

Brown Acquitted –

tigate or to take into account the well-known racial bias of most white officers on the force, particularly where a white woman and a Negro man are involved. She gave the story, police version, a play on the front page of last week's L. A. Tribune.

Following his acquittal and exoneration, Brown told his story to the EAGLE. He was driving home from the westside on the evening of Feb. 5 when, at Denker and Vernon he stopped for a red light. It was raining and when a white woman signalled him from the curb he thought she was asking for a lift. He asked her where she was going, and the woman came over to his car, looked at him and returned to the sidewalk.

Brown says he drove on when he got the green light, and had gone about a block when a police car signalled him to stop. He pulled up to the curb, got out and asked the officers "What's the matter?"

The two white officers, Brown says, then accused him of trying to "pick up a white woman," called him a "black s..of a b.." several times and proceeded to search him. One officer told him, Brown said, "if I had you across the (Mason-Dixon line, I'd shoot your damned nigger guts out."

At the police station, the two members of "Los Angeles Finest," as Miss Davis calls them, were somewhat nonplussed as to what charge to book Brown on. One suggested attempted kidnapping, but the desk sergeant pointed out that the girl, Lillian V. O'Keefe, 8801 S. Alameda, had admitted that Brown had not toched her, had not even gotten out of his car. The desk sergeant ,however, agreed that they should book "the black s . . of a b. . ." for something or other, gave the arresting officers a book, told them to look up something to book him on.

The arresting officers finally came up with "suspicion of attempt to kidnap," and after a telephone call to one fo his superiors the boliging sergeant booked Brown on that charge.

Brown was held incommunicado from 10:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. the next day. Meantime, his wife, scouting the police story that her husband had tried to "kidnap" a white girl, got busy and retained Attorneys Walter Gordon Jr. and McClain. Mrs. Lilly Mae McFadden signed bond for Brown and he was released on $500 bail.

A few days later the police story and their fantastic charge of suspicion of attempt to kidnap Miss O'Keefe was laughed out of court.

Brown told the EAGLE he would ask the Tribune to retract its story, which he considers unfair and a defamation of his character. He added he would sue the two arresting officers for false arrest and defamation of his character.

'Negro Who's Who in California' Publication Date Set for April 1

Negro Who's Who in California, the authentic and comprehensive standard reference volume now being compiled from names submitted by Selections Committees representing pioneers, church and pulpit, the professions, business and industry, music, and art, social and civic and In Memorium, will be published and ready for release around April 1, 1948.

This was the information given to the press by the editorial staff of Negro Who's Who in California this week.

The initial effort in the publication of the volume was launched in November of 1947 when a group of outstanding citizens met at the home of Lorenzo Bowdoin where the purpose and mechanics of the project were presented by John W. Roy, director, and Commodore Wynn, editor.

It was the opinion of the group that there was a definite need for a volume of this type, due to the lack of information on representative Negro men and women available in public and school libraries, and private homes.

The response on the part of men and women selected by the Selection Committees and their willingness to share in the cost of this civic and group project assure Negro Californians a permanent record of their recognition, success, and achievement, Roy said.

In this connection Roy pointed out that Negro Who's Who in California should not be confused with other similar named publications. Negro Who's Who in California will be a volume of biographies and histories only, conforming to the dignity and format of nationally recognized standard reference books of this kind.

Application is the price to be paid for mental acquisition. To have the harvest we must sow the seed.—Gamaliel Bailey.

NAACP Seeks Price Rollback

WASHINGTON—Leslie S. Perry, administrative assistant of the NAACP Washington Bureau, yesterday urged the Senate Banking and Currency Committee to report favorably on legislation to "roll back prices to the June 1946 level, the date controls on basic commodities were abandoned." He also asked that they "restire price controls and rationing on essential consumer commodities and other goods in short supply."

Stressing the impact of spiralling prices on the Negro consumer, Perry stated "Low wages and spiralling prices have a stranglehold on an overwhelming majority of the 14,000,000 Negroes in the U. S."

Meantime, further hikes in food prices were reported this week by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which added that Californians were paying food prices generally higher than the American average.

With a national food index of 206.9 on Dec. 15, San Franciscans paid prices on an index of 215.24, while Los Angeles residents paid an index of 211.1.

The new index represented increases of more than 2 percent in one month. All consumer prices were up from 1.2 percent in Los Angeles

LEAVE TOGETHER FOR EUROPE—Reports of an impending divorce suit in the Louis family were confounded this week as Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, and his lovely wife, Marva, left together on a European tour. Joe is seen waving goodbye to friends who went to the dock to see them off.

On The Sidewalk

By C. A. B.

LAST WEEK-END a committee composed of three top ranking citizens, representing the legal, military, and business professions, called on me in my office.

While I have always had profound contempt for individuals who write letters or other documents to which they were either afraid or ashamed to sign their names, I am nevertheless refraining from using the name of any member of this committee.

I understand that the committee had been sent by an organization of which I am a member. I understand also that its only instruction from the organization was to ascertain if another organization, of which I am an officer, was planning to picket the Freedom Train. And if so to prevail upon me to call off the picket line.

I immediately advised the committee that for the sake of peace, at the time when so much confusion was in the atmosphere, the other orgainzation had decided there would be no picketing of the Freedom Train.

However, we feel that the Freedom Train, with its sacred documents—the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence, and the Constitution—is holding out no olive branch of hope for an American way of life to some Americans who are denied their inalienable rights and privileges guaranteed them by the Constitution, because of their race, religion, or color.

We want, not symbols of freedom, but freedom itself, I explained to this committee.

My explanation of our position did not satisfy at least one member of the committee. As if fresh from the Jack Tenney un-American Activities Committee, he turned his attention from the organization he was sent out to investigate and advise, and centered his attention with force and to some extent of fury on me.

"Do you believe that foreign elements should come into our country and attempt to overthrow our government?" he shot at me.

Well, a question like this coming from anyone except Rankin himself, the moving spirit of the Federal un-American Activities Committee, or from Parnell Thomas, his partner, or our own "beloved" Jack B. Tenney, of the California wing of the un-American Activities Committee, was a surprise for me, especially coming from a member of my own racial group.

Not being entirely satisfied with my answer to this question, he seemed bent on inquiring into my political beliefs. Using the same bombastic formula employed by Parnell Thomas on the ten movie actors and directors at the Washington trial, he wanted to know how I felt about the Hollywood writers' answers on the question of whether or not they were members of the Communist Party.

I told him I thought a mans' political beliefs were his own.

I believe it was Voltaire who said, "I don't agree with what you say, but I'll defend to the death your right to say it."

FOR YEARS I HAVE been identified with groups of citizens who have had to fight to work for the Telephone Co., the Los Angeles Railroad Co., and lately against residential restrictive covenants which deny some of us, purely because of the color of our skins, the right to live in the homes we worked and paid for.

And I wish to call to the attention of my friend, for instance the 92nd Street or the Henry Laws case. It be-

ATLANTA, Ga. — Hearing has been set for March 6 on a motion for a new trial for a mother and her two teenage sons condemned to die in the electric chair.

The family trio, Mrs. Rosa Lee Ingram, 45, Sammie 13, and Wallace 15, were convicted by an all-white jury for killing a white farmer in self-defense.

Negro Presides Over Indiana Murder Trial

INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana—History was made in this formerly Klan-dominated state on February 16 when the second degree murder trial of Eugene L. Jackson opened in Marion criminal court No. 1 in the Marion county court house with a Negro judge presiding.

Atty. Henry J. Richardson Jr., of Indianapolis, former member of the Indiana general assembly and ex-member of the Indiana State Board of Public Welfare was selected to preside in the place of the regular judge. The selection was made by agreement of the prosecutor, Judson L. Stark, the defense attorneys and the regular judge. All of the jurors and the prosecutors were white.

Atomic Worker Blames Bias For Discharge

SEATTLE, Wash. — Charging that racial prejudice and not communism was the reason for his dismissal from the Richland Atomic Energy plant, Samuel G. Whitney, Vanport, Washington, has filed an appeal with the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington, D. C.

Whitney, discharged Nov. 13, for unstated reasons was denied reinstatement, back wages and public apology, according to him, after a second hearing at Richland Jan. 20. During that hearing, Whitney said, he again was accused of "communist affiliations" but no specific charges were made and no witnesses produced.

Charging he has been victimized by "President Truman's witch hunting committees," Whitney revealed yesterday that he had quit the Democratic party. He was formerly a committeeman for Precinct No. 2, Vanport. His wife has also resigned as Democratic committeewoman in the same precinct.

Whitney is asking a personal hearing in Washington in order to protest his alleged "kangaroo court" treatment in violation of his constitutional rights.

IPP Sigs Filed; New Party on Primary Ballot

Some hundred or more of the 5000 volunteers who circulated petitions in Los Angeles county to get the Independent Progressive party on the ballot, gathered before the registrar of voters office, 808 North Spring street last Tuesday morning and staged a demonstration in celebration of their success in securing 278,619 signatures.

This was the culmination of a 5-month campaign. This was the goal they had been fighting for. The petitions were brought up in a truck, escorted by other cars with banners telling the world this is "The Independent Progressive Party of California."

There were 10,700 petitions all told, neatly arranged in blundles of 100, filling the truck from end to end. Stacked one above the other, they would make a pile, so it was said, 25 feet high.

Honor bearers, those who had worked hardest and longest in the fray, carried the petitions up the stair to Room 200, while employes of the county hung out the window and watched in wonder.

"We never dreamed they could get that many," said more than one onlooker.

Up they marched—James Daugherty, chairman of the Southern California organizing committee; Harper W. Poulson, Southern California director for the campaign; Bert Witt, Southern Califoriia director for the Progressive Citizens of America; Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor and publisher of The California EAGLE, most active in urging voters to sign; Dr. Francis Townsend, founder, the Townsend Old Age Pension Plan; Reuben Borough, co-chairman, California Legislative Conference; Herbert Biberman, screen director, and scores of others.

They filled a large table in Room 200. Another. And then piled them on the floor, utnil "Mike" Donoghus, registrar of voters, held his head in dismay. (He and his corps of workers must examine all signatures to see if they are valid.)

The total number of signatures

For Negro Newspaper Publishers Assn.

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, V. I.—(By wire)—Arriving here at 10 a.m. Sunday, President Truman went directly to Emancipation Garden where he told thousands of residents of the island that "political freedom is one thing, but it is only the beginning. We must have freedom of spirit—religious freedom, freedom from want and freedom from fear," in response to a welcome address delivered by Gov. William H. Hastie.

The President received an engraved mahogany scroll of welcome from Ralph Palewonsky, chairman of the reception committee as a gift from the people of the Virgin Islands. He unveiled a plaque commemorating the 100th anniversary of the abolition of slavery in the islands.

The president commented on

2 Coeds Expose Racist Views Of Ore. Governor

SALEM, Oregon—An attempt by Gov. John H. Hall to alibi his way out of statement derogatory to the Negro people was a flop today as two white coeds who interviewed the governor for their paper bluntly denied they had misquoted Hall and produced notes to prove it.

Mary Elizabeth Tedford and Alice Turtledove of Willamette university, seeking material for a class assignment, talked to the governor for a half hour about minority problems in Oregon. The interview, printed in the school paper, quoted Hall as saying:

"It's Negroes like Kaiser brought in that cause trouble. The ones that lived in Oregon before know their place and stayed where they belonged."

Asked if he would sit in a cafe next to a Negro, the girls said Hall replied:

"I would not."

They then asked him if he would support a state civil rights bill.

"I would not," he replied. "There is no racial problem, as

Robeson, who gave much of his time and energy to the Isacson campaign, will discuss the significance of th eIsacson victory to the people's demand for anti-lynch, anti-polltax and FEPC legislation.

"Will President Truman fight for Civil Rights legislation or will he buckle under to the 'Southern revolt'" will be the subject of community speakers, who join Robinson on the rostrum at the Second Baptist church tomorrow evening. Community leaders who will speak include Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor of the California EAGLE, Philip M. "Slim" Connelly, secretary-treasurer of the Los Angeles CIO Council. Sydney Moore, of the United Public Workers, CIO, will be chairman.

Pickets Protest Smith Arrest

Negro and white workers picketed the Federal Building here last Friday and Saturday as part of a nationwide protest against the arrest of Ferdinand Smith, outstanding Negro CIO leader and secretary of the CIO Maritime Union. The picketing was organized by the San Pedro local of the union.

Smith, now held without bail on Ellis Island, was arrested for deportation, charged with being an alien "who desires overthrow of the government by force and violence." Smith, an ardent supporter of Henry Wallace's campaign for the presidency, was arrested one hour prior to the opening of the meeting of the national council of the union. His arrest followed within a few weeks that of Claudia Jones, Harlem woman leader and Wallace supporter.

Judge Rules B'lyn. Fraternal Lodge Illegal

WASHINGTON—Grand Lodge Elks headquarters yesterday announced it would follow up its smashing court victory over Brooklyn Fraternal Lodge No. 32 Inc., by seeking injunctions against "fraternal lodge" setups throughout the country.

In a decision rendered by Judge Jacob H. Livingston, the supreme court of the state of New York recently ruled that the procedure initiated by the Brooklyn "fraternal lodge" of setting up "holding corporations" to control properties of lodges was in violation of the grand lodge's constitution and by-laws.

Freedom Train Arrives As Tenney Departs

Cutting through the thick fog and stench left behind by State Sen. Jack Tenney's un-American Committee, the Freedom Train arrived in Los Angeles on Monday and was met by more than 10,000 citizens. Before the end of the first of its days here more than 90,000 persons had lined up to view its historical documents.

Long lines of children, who enjoyed a holiday from school, stood for two, three and four hours on Exposition and Hoover waiting their turn to board the train. A galaxy of Hollywood stars welcomed the train together with the Mayor, his official committee, the radio and the press.

Some of the important documents carried on the train were Thomas Jefferson's rough draft of the Declaration of Independence, the Emancipation Proclamation, Lincoln's Gettysburgh address, Petition for Woman Suffrage, the Iowa Jima flag and the Bill of Rights.

The Tenny committee wound up its latest witch hunt in this city, two days before the arrival of the Freedom Train.

Amvets Play Host To 50 Children

The Business and Professional chapter of the American Veterans Committee last week went picnicking with 50 boys and girls from Pilgrim House of Los Angeles. Chapter members took the children in cars to the Griffith Park zoo, played games and prepared food donated by the Arden Dairy, Van De Kamps Bakeries and the Kentucky Boys restaurants.

Luke Fishburn, chairman of the chapter, stated that the picnic was a part of the chapter's program to combat juvenile delinquency by encouraging closer relationships between veterans and childre[illegible] rising generation. "We [illegible] shocked to discover," stated Fishburn, "that it was impossible to fing either play or picnic grounds within reach of where these children live in the commercial district of East First st. In this area are approximately 25,000 persons. There is a complete lack of play facilities. Our chapter intends to take an interest to see what can be done about the problem."

Truman Again Urges Congress Act On Housing

WASHINGTON—The Republican majority in congress was on the spot today following receipt of President Truman's latest request for legislation to provide low-rent housing for Americans and extention of rent controls until April 30, 1949. Ten GOP solons, abetted by Southern Democrats, have ignored previous Truman housing proposals are currently fiddling with a 30-day "stop-gap" rent control extension.

In his message to congress, delivered in his absence on a Caribbean tour, Truman outlined a five-point short- and long-rang housing program. And in addition to recommending extension of rent controls, declared it is "essential that congress provide vitally needed enforcement authority which is now lacking."

The President pointed out that most of the housing built last year was "priced beyond the means of those who needed it most." He asked congress to:

- Continue and strengthen rent control.
- Stimulate a higher volume of home building on a sustained basis, with special emphasis on rental housing.
- Reduce building costs.
- Assist communities in providing low-rent housing for families in the lowest income groups.
- Aid cities in rebuilding and modernizing slum areas.

That the President's proposals will get short shrift from the GOP congress unless the people speak up was indicated in a debate in the senate yesterday as to whether a housing shortage really exists. Center of the debate was Sen. Harry P. Cain, Washington Republican, who told his colleagues that there is no "actual shortage."

Angeleno 'Top Kick' Of Army Transport Squadron in Roth

ROTH, Germany — First Sergeant Hugh D. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Wilson, of 465 E. 29th st., Los Angeles, is currently serving the Occupation army as 'Top Kick' of the 15th motor transport squadron stationed at the Roth Air Ammunition Depot, an important link in the United States air force in Europe.

Sergeant Wilson's duty assignment is assisting the squadron commander in maintaining discipline and handling military admistrative procedures.

Prior to entry into the armed services in May 1942, 1/Sgt. Wilson was graduated from Belmont High school and later attended Los Angeles City college where he was active in many extra curricular activities including the James Wildom Johnson Club.

He is very interested in athletics and was a member of his squadron softball team which annexed the base championship and went on to the United States air forces in Europe sectional finals.

Seeks Non-Bias Rule For Women Units in U.S. Armed Services

WASHINGTON — "The WACS, WAVES and the women marine corps must commission officers and accept enlistments without discrimination or segregation," Leslie Perry of the NAACP's Washington Bureau, told the house armed services subcommittee on organization and mobilization during its hearing on a bill to establish, for the first time, these units as permanent parts of the regular army, navy and marine corps.

The proposed law, which passed the senate last year without a non-discriminatory provision, would allow women enlistees and commissioned officers to make up two percent of the armed services. The army would be empowered to commission 51,000 women officers, and ten percent of the women personnel in the navy could hold officer rank. The NAACP is seeking to have a non-discriminatory amendment introduced to this bill, S. 1641.

Army and navy brass hats have uniformly opposed anti-discrimination amendments to legislation affecting the armed services.

Norfolk Guild Launches Fight On Segregation

NORFOLK, Va.—The Norfolk Newspaper Guild with the cooperation of several local civic, fraternal and social groups, has launched a campaign to secure signatures to a petition urging Norfolk members of the Virginia general assembly to introduce and support a bill to abolish segregation of the races on common carriers and in public assembly in Virginia.

The petition is in line with one being circulated by the Richmond Committee on Civil Rights and is the outgrowth of the recommendations of the President's Committee on Civil Rights.

CIO Institute Sunday To Teach Methods Of Fighting Race Bias

The Los Angeles CIO leadership institute on the fight against racial and religious discrimination in the shop and in the community will be held in the CIO auditorium, 5851 Avalon blvd., Sunday, Feb. 29 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. It is the first in a series of such institutes planned by the labor organization.

On the agenda will be:

How to recognize discrimination, how to convince the membership of the necessity for fighting discrimination, introductory material for panels, panel group meetings, reports from panels and suggestions for future schools on discrimination.

Local unions have been urged to select their representatives to the leadership school, particularly from among their officers and shop stewards as the "individuals charged with responsibility for carrying out CIO nondiscrimination policy." All members of the CIO are invited to attend the school, however.

The school is part of the Los Angeles CIO Council's program to combat discrimination and is sponsored by the council's minorities committee.

Negroes Bad As Whites, Says Jewish Writer

CHICAGO—"You can't elbow your way to freedom!"

This is the reminder white writer and University of Chicago instructor Milton Mayer makes in a March Negro Digest article entitled "Negroes Are Almost as Bad as Whites," which describes a harmless incident that nevertheless nearly got him lynched by Negroes.

"Hey, lady, take it easy," is all that Mayer said when a Negro woman elbowed him out of his place at the head of the line on a station platform. "But that started off a near-riot," he adds. "It finished short of a lynching and it was I who was just about lynched."

Mayer explains that it was all a case of mistaken identity because "I am not a white man, socially speaking, but a Jew. As a Jew I am so busy being oppressed myself that I have no time to oppress Negroes."

Nearly $400,000 worth of trucks, trailers and construction machinery, some of it reserved for veterans will go on sale Thursday, March 4 at the Advance Base Depot, Port Hueneme, War Assets Administration said yesterday.

American, British Diplomats 'Insulted'

VIENNA—Did the cap fit? That's what local diplomats were asking today following the walkout of United States and British diplomats from a ceremony marking the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Red army when the Soviet occupation commander accused unidentified "imperialistic powers" of plotting "another war."

Russian Col. Gen. V. Kurassov made the charge toward the end of a speech praising the Red army. Immediately Sydney Mellon, an attache of the United States legation, and John Cheetum, British charge d'affaires, rose from their boxes and stalked angrily out of the hall.

Speakers Laud Character, Prowess of Jackie Robinson At Presentation of Awards

Jackie Robinson, rookie of the year, was presented the Omega Psi Phi fraternity's annual National Achievement Award and the Helms Foundation Award for being the outstanding baseball player of 1947. The Helms Award is shared with Joe Page, pitcher of the New York Yankees.

"Robinson, whose choice by the fraternity was unanimous, displayed not only superb athletic ability in breaking into the major league, but also showed excellence of character that has not been equaled in a long time," said James P. Perry Jr., district representative of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity, in presenting the two awards to Jackie. Previous winners of the achievement award are Paul R. Williams, Col. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., L. Alexander Looby, and Col. Campbell C. Johnson.

"We, representing 10,000 Omega men throughout the United States, Canada and the Virgin Islands are proud to present this achievement award to you and wish you lasting success in your chosen field," Perry said.

Robinson, in accepting the two awards, expressed the desire to have all of his awards duplicated so that he woul dbe able to give one to his wife, who has been his source of inspiration to him when things were really tough. Mrs. Robinson was with the star athlete throughout his spectacular career in the minor and major league.

Father H. Randolph Moore, basileus of the local Omicron chapter, and Charles W. Thrash, basileus of the local Lampda chapter, were the principal speakers of the evening. "Four men of similar ideals, ideas and interest met at Howard university, Washington, D. C. on November 15, 1911 to establish the Greek letter society," Thrash said. "They chose as their motto "Friendship is essential to the soul" and formulated four principles: Manhood, Scholarship, Uplift, and Perseverance by which all Omega men are chosen.

"Not being satisfied with merely formulating the high standard for the fraternity, the four men, E. J. Just, Oscar J. Cooper, Edgar A. Love and Frank Coleman set out to establish themselves in their individual fields. Just won the Phi Beta Kappa key from Dartmouth college. Love has distinguished himself in the field of ministry. Cooper is a leading physician in Philadelphia and Coleman won his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota," Thrash said.

"The Omega Psi Phi fraternity fits into our everyday life very adequately," continued the speaker. "Our social action program for 1948 includes a national photographic contest, a national high school essay contest, and a socio-economic action committee to work in the fields of civil rights, full and fair employment, housing and public education. This program is designed to set in motion machinery that will cause the fraternity to occupy a progressive and constructive place in the civil life of the nation and in each and every community in which a chapter of Omega Psi Phi fraternity is established," Thrash said.

Father H. Randolph Moore, in his short address "The Philosopher's Stone," compared Robinson's success with the hunt of the precious stone by alchemists who believed the stone to have the power of transmuting the baser metals into gold. Jackie, said Moore, through tireless energy, courage, and strength has found the philosopher's stone in his field.

Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, Mr. Woodard, and Dr. Robinson were also on the program.

His fight has not been confined to the study or editorial room. Dr. Du Bois has traveled the length of this country many times and has made lecture tours in Spain, Portugal, Turkey, Russia and Africa.

His limited west coast tour will be devoted to talks on the theme of "The Fight for Peace and Equality."

Meat Packers Face Strike for Wage Increase

CHICAGO—Plans to strike the nation's leading meat packing plants was authorized by the strike strategy committee of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, CIO, announced Ralph Helstein, UPWA president, yesterday. The committee also had determined a date for the strike action.

The committee's decision followed a 20 to 1 vote by more than 100,000 packinghouse workers to strike in order to secure an adequate wage increase.

The union is asking for a 29 cents an hour increase as an initial payment toward meeting minimum family budget standards indicated by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Helstein pointed out that two-thirds of the packinghouse workers earn a wage rate of less than $1.10 an hour. The BLS budget allows a $1.39 an hour income for a family of three—one child. Present minimum rate in the industry is $1.02 an hour in large cities, with lower rates being paid in the South and smaller communities.

Councilman Hahn Fights Fare Hike

Councilman Kenneth Hahn, of the 8th district, moved at a meeting of the city council this week that City Attorney Ray L. Chesebro take all necessary steps to block the imposition of higher rates of fare by the Los Angeles Transit Lines and the Pacific Electric Railway. The motion was unanimously adopted by the city council.

Savannah Churchill Seeks Purchase of Philly Theatre

PHILADELPHIA—It was learned here this week that Savannah Churchill, sultry song stylist is seriously considering the purchase of one of the darkened local theatres as a location for Negro vaudeville shows. Should she succeed in acquiring the theatre, Miss Churchill made it clear that she has no intention of giving up her own career for the management of the house. That would be put in the hands of an experienced manager.

La Churchill observed that with the number of locations for Negro artists rapidly dwindling, that the answer to the growing problem might best be found by the people in show business taking the initiative via an active hand in the creation of new spots. She even suggested that in some instances such projects might be conducted on a cooperative basis. Miss Churchill was emphatic in pointing out that in the event she should gain control of any such enterprise, only the very best ideas in presentation and production will be used.

LOCAL GIRL REPORTS LIBRARY CONFERENCE

Miriam Matthews, former head of the Vernon Avenue Branch of the Los Angeles Public Library, and the only delegate from Los Angeles to attend the midwinter conference of the American Library Association held recently in Chicago, has given a most interesting account of that conference.

A new program of action called the "Four Year Goals," was adopted by the conference. It recognizes the heavy responsibility placed upon libraries and librarians in the critical problems facing America today.

"Every library," says the A. L. A., "should redirect its program of services with major emphasis on spreading information and stimulating citizen action toward the peaceful solution of current economic, political, social, racial, and spiritual problems."

Included in the "Four Year Goals," which it is hoped will be attained by 1951—the 75th anniversary of the Association — are good library service for every American, no matter where he lives. Also there should be an adequate number of forward-looking professional librarians, eager and competent to perform the public service needed.

Support for H. R. 2465, the Public Library Service Demonstration Bill, was urged in order that it may be passed this year.

Among the "Fifty Notable Books of 1947" selected by the A.L.A., and announced at the conference, were: "Gentlemen's Agreement" by Levi, and the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights, "To Secure These Rights." Attention was called to the need for librarians to be more aware of the current threats to freedom, and how vital the maintenance of civil liberties is to them professionally. National publicity to the civil rights issue was urged through educational and library periodicals, and through special programs planned by individual li-

A Spanish Reader, compiled by Alfonso R. Carrillo, is "A Collection of Anecdotes and Fables with Exercises for Translation and Conversation" and is intended as a third year course. It does not have grammar but has the translation of each section followed by questions with reference to the preceding paragraph. There is a preface which tells how to get the most benefit from this book.

Robert Kennard Wins Maywood Community Center Competition

In a recent competition sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Maywood Post 2830, Robert Kennard USC student, was unanimously named winner.

The competition, entered by the Junior class in the University of Southern California's College of Architecture called for the solution of the proposed Maywood Community Center to be erected in that city in the near future.

Among the requirements of the problem was the consideration of recreational facilities and meeting areas for the youth of Maywood as well as ceremonial headquarters for the Maywood VFW post.

ROBERT KENNARD

This is the second time Kennard has won awards for design in the field of Architecture, having been the recipient of first prize in a competition for the design of an architect's home and office while a student at Pasadena City college.

The winning designs for the Maywood Community Center will be on exhibit for a limited time at the Maywood VFW post.

Robeson Heads Drive For Fund to Help Victims of Franco

Veterans of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade are raising a fighting fund to help free Spain of its fascist dictator, Franco. The drive is headed by Paul Robeson, internationally-known singer, speaker, actor, and leader in the liberation of all the oppressed.

"I was in Spain during the war against Franco," says Paul Robeson, "and I saw the Spanish people stop tanks with their bare hands, and die by the thousands so that Madrid would be free. Then we said, 'Madrid will be the tomb of fascism.' The Spanish people still say it. They have never given up the struggle."

After a strike inaugurated by the workers of Spain against the fascist rule of Franco, although the strike could not be broken, thousands were imprisoned after the strike, and their families left without any support.

"We must say to them," says Paul Robeson, "to these noble and brave comrades of ours: 'You are fighting our fight. You are fighting for our liberties, our freedom, and we will not abandon you.'

"Madrid will still be the tomb of fascism. The monster of fascism first raised its ugly head in Spain, and in Spain it will die. But it cannot be slain without your support. We do not ask for charity. We ask for solidarity. Every penny collected will be put to work immediately to defeat fascism in Spain."

U.S. Court Upholds Amusement Park Bias

NEW YORK—The anti-discrimination provisions of the federal civil right law do not apply to a "private" amusement park, U. S. Judge William F. Smith ruled this week in dismissing 20 counts of a 26-count damage suit charging the owners of Pallsades Amusement Park and the police chief of Fort Lee with conspiracy to violate the civil rights of ten Negroes and whites from New York.

Six counts charging false arrest and police brutality were allowed to stand by Judge Smith. He stated he would in addition permit amendments to these charges.

Plans for an appeal were promptly announced by lawyers for the complainants.

Directed by Freita Shaw, the chorus meets each Thursday, 7:30 p.m., at the Woodlawn YWCA, 43rd and Woodlawn streets.

Lewis said the chorus is presently rehearsing the "Seven Last Words" which will be presented by the combined city adult choruses on a network brodacast March 26.

L.A. CIO Council to Maintain Neutrality on Marshall Plan, Wallace Third Party Movement

The Los Angeles CIO's fight against inflationary prices, anti-labor laws and racial and religious discrimination will not be disrupted by "the brazen effort of a handful of persons to stampede a walk-out of local union affiliates," the CIO Council declared yesterday in an official statement over the signatures of William S. Lawrence, president; Ernest Messinger, vice president, and Philip M. Connelly, secretary-treasurer.

The statement was issued in connection with the resignation of two Council officers in protest against a majority decision refusing to (1) endorse the Marshall Plan for unilateral American action in Europe outside the United Nations, (2) condemn the Third party movement.

"The Council," the official CIO statement said, "will not be disrupted by this minority defection and will continue its unremitting support to all local unions in their third-round fight for higher wages, for the lowering of prices and an end to inflation for the fight to end discrimination against minority groups and for the repeal of the infamous Taft-Hartley law

"Our political action program will be to indorse and work for and elect progressive candidates who support Labor's program to the nine congressional seats in Los Angeles county and to the state legislature, and for the adoption at the polls of the several initiative measures already indorsed.

"In carrying forward this united fight for progress through the ballot box the Council will seek the cooperation of all other labor bodies and all like-minded organizations and individuals in the community.

"We indorse no political party. We will strive to unite all CIO local unions and members on this program, regardless of the disagreement there may be over a third party, the candidacy of Henry Wallace or support or opposition to the Marshall Plan.

"This Council will continue to stand by the basic position taken by the overwhelming majority of its delegates throughout the past two-week debate over the question of the third party, Wallace and the Marshall Plan. That position, supported by all the Councils in California, and in many other parts of the country, is that Councils have a right to maintain a neutral position on these questions which divided the board of national CIO and on which the local unions in this area have a wide variety of opinion.

"To take no action on such questions, but allow local unions the democratic right to decide their own positions on these questions while all unite to elect good congressmen and assemblymen, is certainly NOT to violate any policy or rule of the CIO. This Council, and we are sure many others in California and throughout the country, will challenge any interpretation to the contrary. We are confident no contrary interpretation will hold up."

The position outlined in the CIO statement was upheld by an overwhelming majority of the delegates at the recent conference. When a few delegates, including Albert Lunceford, president, and Robert Clark, vice-president, walked out in protest, the majority delegates proceeded to elect a new president, William B. Lawrence of the Longshoremen and Warehousemen, and a new vice president, Ernest R. Messinger, president of a large steel local.

SACRAMENTO—State revenues from excise taxes on alcoholic beverages distributed in 1947 amounted to $16,947,671, a total 21.49 percent below the revenues realized from 1946 distributions, according to figures released by William G. Bonelli, chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

THE SIDEWALK

came necessary to picket for the protection of the family on one occasion.

At least 3 times I have been threatened by the Ku Klux Klan. On not one of these occasions did my friend come to my rescue.

Several years ago when a riot after the fashion of Georgia K-K-K demonstration, the Zoot Suit riot, menaced the Negro and Mexican youths of the Eastside, ripping off their clothing and beating them with clubs—with my young nephew, John Kincoch who finished his task fighting for world freedom on a European battlefield, I spent the whole night following in the wake of the rioters, rescuing as best we could those who were being attacked. The only person who joined us that evening was the Rev. Clayton D. Russell, pastor of the People's Independent Church of Christ.

Were these activities un-American?

On none of these occasions the people, among them you, who are so bothered about un-American acts, were to be seen. Nor was there any Sen. Jack Tenney committee investigating who was responsible for the Zoot-suit riot.

While I join with those citizens who fight for freedom and liberty for all Americans, because of this my loyalty to my government is not lessened.

Beech-Nut Company to Feature Ork Leaders, Performers in Ads in Nation's Negro Press

The Beech-Nut Packing Company rejoins the list of EAGLE advertisers with a series of ads featuring Beech-Nut Chewing Gum, first of which is slated to appear in this issue, the company announced yesterday.

Each of the dozen 300-line ads in the series will be built around leading Negro personalities in the entertainment and amusement fields. Dolores Martin, night-club and musical comedy favorite currently appearing in the Broadway hit "Finian's Rainbow," aappears in the first ad, and Gladys Hampton, manager of the Lionel Hampton Orchestra and president of her own record company, in the second. Other equally well-known figures will follow.

A pioneer not only in purity but in flavor, the Beech-Nut Packing Company was organized in 1891 for the purpose of curing, storing and distributing the hams for which the Mohawk Valley had long been famous.

Soon, other products were added to the line, notably peanut butter and tomato products, and these too were quickly and eagerly accepted by housewives throughout the country. Entry of the company into the chewing gum, candy and coffee fields was a logical and easy one.

Expansion has been steady and persistent. Today the Beech-Nut Packing Company manufactures foods and chewing gum in three large, upto-date plants in Canajoharie, Rochester and Brooklyn. But the governing principles today are exactly the same as they were when the organization was formed in 1891, namely, to perform each production task at least a little better than it has ever been done by anybody else before.

The Beech-Nut Packing Company is also to be favorably remembered for its integration of colored samplers in the distribution of its products to the millions of people who visited the World's Fair in New York in 1939 and 1940.

War Veterans Can Still Apply For State Aid

SACRAMENTO—The State Department of Veterans Affairs yesterday assured veterans there are not time limits for utilizing farm and home purchase or educational benefits provided by the State of California.

A qualified veteran of any war may obtain up to $7500 for purchase of a suitable home or up to $13,500 for purchase of an adequate, family-type farm. The money advanced by the state is repaid in low monthly installments over a period of not to exceed 20 years.

State educational assistance up to a maximum of $1000 is available to World War II veterans to supplement educational benefits provided by the federal government. This program is of principal advantage to the veteran who has insufficient federal entitlement to complete his planned educational course.

Extension Agents Push Attack On Poor Housing in Rural South

WASHINGTON — Negro agricultural extension agents throughout the South are helping farmers to repair, enlarge, remodel, or rebuild their homes, according to reports received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture from State Extension Service directors.

The urgent need for rural home improvement in the South is indicated by census data which show that about three-fourths of the farmers in the South are ill housed. Most of these farmers live in homes that are over-crowded, run-down, and otherwise inadequate. Less than one farm home in 20 has in-door toilet facilities, while three out of 20 have no toilet facilities at all.

Seking to help remedy this grave rural housing problem, extension agents are showing farmers how to repair, remodel, or rebuild their homes. The agents not only furnish plans for new homes, but in some communities, they also are showing farmers how to make and lay concrete blocks and how to build.

Extension workers in Alabama and Georgia have taken the lead in developing a complete block-house program. In Alabama, extension workers have joined with Tuskegee institute in carrying out demonstrations in home construction with concrete blocks.

Recently in Georgia, a one-week rural housing school was held by the colored extension for the purpose of showing farmers, some states.

step by step, how to improve their homes. Among other things, the farmers were taught to make and lay concrete blocks, set window and door frames, build and hang doors, replace window panes, cut steps and rafters, erect frame and concrete block houses, install plumbing and bathrom fixtures, and wire homes for electricity. Similar schools are being planned in other states.

Extension Service officials point out that the housing problem of the South is directly related to low-income. The lack of funds they say, makes it extremely difficult for the average farmers to hire all the labor and buy all the material for building his home. The best outlook for better housing in the South, say these officials, is through the use of family labor and local materials such as sand, gravel, field stones, and rough lumber.

County agents say that by supplying most of their labor and materials, farmers with only a few hundred dollars will be able to build "Home-Made Homes" as they are lacled in some states.

U. S. Agency Urges Written Farm Leases, Longer Tenure

WASHINGTON—Within the next few weeks thousands of white and Negro tenant and share-cropper families will shift from one farm to another at a staggering cost to landlord and tenant in farm deterioration, human erosion, and actual hauling expenses, say economists of of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Bureau of Agriculture Economics estimates that about 2,000,000 new leases or verbal agreements are made every year. This is because nearly two-thirds of all farm leases and rental arrangements in this country run for only one year.

Department economists say that the length of farm leases has an important influence on the welfare of landlords, tenants, and the land itself. They express the belief that all would benefit from longer-term leases of about five years or more.

In order to help farmers with their leasing arrangements, the Department has prepared an information folder entitled Your Farm Lease. In addition to carrying an explanation of the importance of written leases, the folder also contains a sample flexible farm lease.

Employees of D & G Still Picketing

The D & G Mfg. Co., manufacturers of glass used in furniture, located at 314 E. First st., is still being picketed by its employes, who struck last October 10.

Several weeks before that date a group of workers from the D & G plant asked to be admitted to the United Furniture Workers of America, CIO, Local 576. One hundred per cent of the workers in D & G had signed membership cards.

The union requested the management to meet with its employes and discuss wages and general conditions at the plant. The company refused. Unhealthful conditions were among the grievances of the employes. The use of quicksilver spray and wet floors caused an employe to contract pneumonia and die. Others have been ill due to the same cause.

The United States Conciliation Service was called in as a mediator, but the company has persistently refused to meet with them. The Urban League, the NAACP, and the L.A.U.C. have stated they will gladly investigate and decide what action will be most appropriate for the benefit of the workers and of the community.

Meanwhile, until the D & G Company grants the request of the United Furniture Workers of America, CIO, Local 576, the picketing will go on.

Bay City Names First Negro As High Teacher

SAN FRANCISCO—San Franciscans today can feel proud or ashamed—according to the point of view—that at long last a Negro has been employed in a San Francisco high school.

Mrs. Josephine Cole, 2142 Bush st., was appointed to a high school post last week. She is now teaching English at Balboa high school, Omandaga and Cayuga sts.

Prepares Report for World Congress on U.S. Negro Youth

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Acceptance of the preliminary report of the Fisk university and Meharry Medical college Preparatory Commission for the first International Congress on Mental Health, was announced yesterday by Dr. S. Oliver Roberts, chairman of the group. The Congress meets in London this August.

The commission chose to develop a report on the mental health and world citizenship of Negro American youth. Their goal is to determine the "effects of the cultural marginality of Negro American families on the mental health of children and their participation in world citizenship. Such factors as migration, employment, income, health, housing, education, recreation and religion, together with their influence on personality and mental health will receive consideration in the final report. To date this is the only commission to indicate its desire to study the problems peculiar to the American Negro.

Local Group Hits Arrest Of Bittelman

The arrest of Alexander Bittelman is "an intensification of the hysteria waged by the Truman administration against the American people," the local Morning Freiheit Association asserted yesterday.

Bittelman, a national Communist leader and national secretary of the Morning Freiheit Assn., was arrested in Miami last Thursday on direct order of U. S. Atty. Gen. Tom Clark. He was released Friday on $5000 bond, pending deportation hearings.

Bittelman's arrest was "calculated to intimidate the Jewish people away from supporting the independent presidential candidacy of Henry A. Wallace and his Roosevelt program for peace, democratic rights and security," Abraham Olken, local Freiheit secretary, charged.

Dr. Wilson Speaks At Dillard Univ.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—"Americanism is the hope of a nation where men and women are not judged by their race, nationality, or religion, but by their worth as a neighbor," was the definition for Americanism given by Dr. A. O. Wilson to a large gathering at Dillard university last Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Wilson was formerly president of Shorter college, Little Rock, Ark., and is now minister of the historic St. James A.M.E. church in the Crescent City. He is the endorsed candidate of the eighth Episcopal district for bishop of the A.M.E. Church. He has traveled extensively and has contributed much to the development of the Negro in the South.

Ink Spots Bar Novelty Songs That Slur Race

NEW YORK — Sweet singing Bill Kenny, leader of the world famed Ink Spots, raised an angry voice again this week against the rash so-called "novelty" songs, which in reality hold various racial and religious groups up to thinly veiled ridicule. The romantic tenor lead and director of the popular quartet last week laid down an iron clad rule to all songwriters and others, who submit material to the renowned foursome, that under no circumstance would the group consider any song that held any group or sect up to real or implied ridicule. Furthermore, Kenny made it clear that any writer or publisher, who persisted in submitting such material would write himself off as a possible contributor to the Ink Spot repertoire.

This action on the part of the wide awake leader of the group marks a significant milestone in the fight against intolerance and will probably be followed by other fair-minded and progressive thinking artists. The move has particula dramatic impact coming from the Ink Spots for the group is one of the most sought after by song writers, publishers and song pluggers. A recording by the Ink Spots of any tune practically insures its success.

Said Kenny, when questioned backstage at the Strand theatre on Broadway, where his group is headlining a brilliant bill, "We have no objection to novelty ideas, in fact we like them, but this group refuses to be the vehicle by which hate spreaders circulate their propaganda through subtle references that hold any race or religious group or nationality up to ridicule. Popular music is an important force in American life today and probably appeals to more people than any other single form of expression. I think it's criminal to use these people, whom the public admires, as poison carriers. We hope other artists will join the Ink Spots in stopping the spread of hate through so-called 'novelty' songs and routines.

"Knowing many of them and their fair-minded attitudes I'm sure they will. And finally, considering the long uphill fight of the Negro against this very thing, we should be the first to join in a crusade to stop indignities to any group, including our own."

Thefunctions of the Music Commission are to foster and promote the art of music in Los Angeles County. It is an official part of the county government and its 15 members serve without compensation.

The Wallace Way Is the Only Way

The "Times," leading spokesman for the Republican Party in Los Angeles, used as its byline last Sunday. "Wallace Threat to Truman may put Republican in the White House."

This sounds like wishful thinking on the part of the "Times" and its Republican following.

The gains being made by Henry Wallace as a people's candidate for president is astounding. And if the people who put Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House for a fourth term realize that Wallace and only Henry Wallace has the intestinal fortitude to speak and act for all the American people, as did Roosevelt, they will not hesitate to put him in the place where he can do the greatest good.

Of course the plan mapped by Roosevelt on both foreign and domestic policies, has been shattered or broken in many places.

The building crew which gave the people a WPA, a Fair Emploment Practice Act, a Rent and Price Control, and a Slum Clearance Plan to make possible fit dwelling places for families hitherto living in garages and shacks, has been changed into a wrecking crew.

Price and rent control established for the protection of the humble daily worker, is now the instrument of the profiteers, or hired politicians and is used to whip the people into line—Republican or Democrat, as the case may be.

Our Fair Employment Practices Commission which sought to establish a better understanding among the races by teaching them how to work together on an equal par with regards to wages, working accommodations, etc., etc. has been replaced by loyalty tests and the even more drastic device of The Un-American Activities Committee.

Our foreign policy is the Marshall Plan, and it, briefly, is to recognize even among our allies in World War II, only those nations who see eye to eye politically with our nation.

But the poor little average American voter, if he believes what he reads in the newspapers and hears over the air, understands that our American foreign policy's mission is to restore those countries devastated by war, to their former status. In other words, to feed and clothe the homeless starving people of Europe.

Wallace in the presidential race is not only a threat to the Democrats, but likewise to the Republicans—because Henry Wallace believes in freedom for all people. If elected to serve the American pople as president, he will correct the destructive forces in the inside and on the outside of our government setup, change the present course of our Ship of State—set her sails to the winds that blow in the direction of that peaceful world envisioned and worked for by Franklin Delano Roosevelt and predicted by Wendell Willkie.

No, not universal military training, but universal brotherhood is what we need.

Let's work for it. Our boys died for it on the battlefields of Europe. We can't let them down. We will work, fight and pray, 'til victory, a free world is ours.

Actors' Lab Strong For Constitution

Roman Bohnen, chairman of the executive board of the Actors' Laboratory Theatre, termed the Jack Tenney committee charges against the theatre as an attempt to impose censorship by intimidation and flately denied that any set of political views whatever are taught, suggested, or implied to pupils in this Hollywood acting school. The Lab has some 60 World War II veterans attending classes under the GI Bill of Rights.

"I think it is imperative for Americans always to defend our Constitution," said Bohnen, "and always to abide by the sanity of the Supreme Court, which ruled, 'If there be any fixed star in our Constitutional constellation, it is that no official high or petty, can prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, nationalism, religion, or other matters of opinion, or force citizens to confess by word or act their faith therein."

Our Constitution Must Be Strong

The committee for the revision or rewriting of the Constitution of California, set up in 1947 by a joint assembly-state senate committee, is meeting currently to devise plans for the revision of the constitution.

A number or representatives of the minority groups of Los Angeles met with the CIO Council to discuss the new constitution, and they pointed out the great danger to the working people generally in the possible formation of a constitution detrimental to every goal for which they have been struggling for years.

There are 250 members in the committee. Of this number, 120 are officers of big corporations — the L. A. Merchants & Manufacturers, Associated Farmers, California Bankers Association, etc. etc. There are 53 judges, mayors, administrative officials; 29 professional men; 24 members of the American Legion, Sons of the Golden West, etc.; and only 24 members from Labor organizations—the CIO, AFL, and RR Brotherhoods.

Representatives of minority groups on the committee are conspicuous by their absence. There is only one Negro, C. C. Dellums of the NAACP, Oakland; only one leader of the Jewish oragnizations; and none for the Mexican-American, Korean, or Japanese-American peoples.

Augustus Hawkins, of the 62nd Assembly District, who has fought for the rights not only of the Negro people but of all the minorities and of all working people for many years in the State Assembly, was not asked to be a member of this committee.

It is obvious to everyone why the committee to revise the Constitution of California is composed of the kind of "representatives of the people" that it is. They do not represent the people at all but the vested interest of the state—the big monopolies, the bankers, the farmers who direct their ranches from their offices in the city.

But the composition of this committee follows the pattern set by the political leaders who have ever had the interests of Big Business at heart, and not the interests of the common people. There is a slim chance of the minority groups, of the labor organizations being recognized in the new Constitution. Rather civil rights may be curtailed, the new Constitution could establish a constitutional right for property owners to apply restrictive covenants. (Now these nefarious covenants are unconstitutional even if they are still enforced by the judges of the state.)

Under the present set-up the new Constitution could permit legislation in the field of public utilities, setting up milk prices, promoting everything in favor of the moneyed interests, and nothing in favor of labor, the working people, or minority groups, including the Negro people.

The representatives meeting with the CIO pointed out these dangers, and suggested a number of proposals for the new California State Constitution that would make this state the most liberal in the Union. The committee will meet during this year, possibly next year, and the Constitution will likely be presented to the people to be voted in 1950.

That new Constitution can be made one that will favor the people. If we the people of California ourselves will realize what depends upon us. If we will not allow ourselves to be duped into believing—as we so often have been duped—that we are getting something wonderful handed out to us, when in reality it is nothing but a bag filled with promises that are nothing but wind.

We the people of California can make these members of the Constitutional Committee sit up and take notice if in this coming election this year we elect by an overwhelming majority every progressive and liberal candidate on the ticket, from Henry Wallace on down. The membership of that committee would be changed, labor, the minority groups would be given a very fair representation.

And the new Constitution to be presented to the people in 1950 for their approval or disapproval, would be one that would really grant to the people of California the life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness they crave and that they have been battling for.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

"Save us from hotheads that would lead us to act foolishly," prayed the chaplain of the United States Senate the other morning, "and from cold feet that would keep us from acting at all."

That's asking for a lukewarm something or other, the kind that even the Lord said He couldn't stand. What we need in the United States Senate and in the House of Representatives and in fact in every part of the United States, in and out of government, is not a lukewarm body of men and women to make our laws. Nor a lukewarm citizenry indifferent to our government, indifferent to the welfare of the people, caring not at all, or at best very little, whether or not the people have a place to live in and enough food to eat.

We in the United States of America need men and women who are alive to the struggles, the difficulties, the sufferings of human beings everywhere, at home right next door to us, in Europe, in Mexico, in China, in Africa — everywhere. And we need men and women who are interested in people for their own sakes, not because we want to placate that terrible bogey man—Communism.

We still have a long ways to go for the majority of us to realize such an ideal. Even in our most generous all-out efforts, like the sending of the Friendship Train to Europe, the element of selfishness forms a large part of the basic reason for our gesture.

"Uncle Sam is competing with Russia under a great handicap," writes an observer of the two systems of economy and so of government. "We boast about our great Christian democracy—with its capitalistic system—as over against the materialism of Communism. But there is a quality about Communism that gives Russia a great advantage. Communism demands a selfless devotion to 'the cause,' and is prompted with such missionary zeal that it gains the passion and force of a religion.

"But while so many of us talk about Christian democracy, our system is so burdened with materialism and self-seeking that our national strength is sometimes in jeopardy. War investigations are revealing a host of sickening examples of greed that made a travesty out of patriotism while our sons died on the battlefield.

"And now, as we try to win the peace, the national cry is 'Do what you must for starving Europe, but don't disturb our comfort at home.' If democracy fails to meet the challenge of today, it will not be the materialism of Communism that defeats us. It will be the materialism of our democracy."

From an American newspaper correspondent in Moscow comes this unique comment on American food speculators.

"The Russians have been reading the news about Edwin W. Pauley and other American commodity speculators with the greatest interest.

"Speculators move in somewhat different circles here. Five persons have just been sentenced to long prison terms in a government campaign to stamp out speculation since the derationing and general price decrease. One man got seven years for speculating in a pair of galoshes. Three others received five years each for the same offense in the same commodity. The fifth offender got five years for trafficking in gloves."

Virtually unbelievable! What would they do to Edwin W. Pauley in the USSR? And to all the others who have grown wealthy at the expense of the suffering of others? No, we do not need to pray that we be kept from the hotheads in our government. We need to pray for more hotheads. We need to pray that each and all be imbued with a missionary zeal for others. That we be as much interested in securing homes for others as in the making of profits out of this necessity by asking high rents, bonuses, selling for three, four times the amount the bit of property is worth.

As if that could happen in America! It would take more faith than most of us have to believe such a prayer could be answered. It can not be answered as long as the private profit system dominates this country. Change that. Bring in a cooperative system. Then we, too, will work for a "cause" dear to our hearts with real missionary zeal.

Letters to the Editor

My Dear Mrs. Bass:

As publisher of The Los Angeles EAGLE, hewing to the line, regardless of where the chips fall, you have earned the congratulations and support of all fair-minded citizens.

Your editorial in The EAGLE of Feb. 5 excoriating the "backward" and intolerant unreconstructed nullifiers of the U.S. constitution who are denouncing President Truman, hit the nail squarely on the head, and commends you to fairminded people throughout the world.

I was born in the South, but left early when it became apparent that the Republican party had deserted us, sacrificing us and our rights to the god "Mammons," to the "interests" that were bent upon protecting the wool on the backs of sheep, but determined never to protect the humble, but human NEGRO, who is among the most patriotic, heroic and productive of all our citizens.

And this fact emphasizes another fact, viz, the apparent determination of the once "solid South" to "rule or ruin," even to resort this time to political "revolution," instead of Civil War, as in 1860, in order to maintain institutions it has reared and is supporting in defiance of the U.S. constitution and the supreme court of the United States.

The South (12 states) is complaining that the Democratic party is not allowing it to have its way, just as it complained prior to 1860, and is talking of nominating a reactionary "white supremacy" Southerner for president on an anti-Democratic ticket, just as it did when Abraham Lincoln, our martyr president campaigned for "union and liberty, one and inseparable, now and forever." And the South, badly beaten at the polls, did not hesitate to fire on Ft. Sumter, and form a Confederacy which ended in disaster at Appomottox, Va.

Every state in the now recalcitrant, unreconciled, and professedly irrenconcilable South was readmitted to the Union under pledge to support the constitution as amended, articles XIII, XIV, and XV included, and every one of these states has resorted to patent subterfuges, when it did not openly defy all the amendments and all the decisions of the supreme court, in order to uphold its "rebel" determination not only to rule every Southern state, but also to control congress and the presidency through annulment of the constitution.

The South today has far more power in congress than it had before the Civil War, when there were 4,000,000 slaves within those states who were represented in congress by approximately 25 "white supremacists." Today more than 10,000,000 so-called Negro "freemen" resident in the South, and citizens of the United States, but by Southern practice, denied the rights of citizenship within those states, are represented by more than 35 white nullificationists of the Cong. John Rankin type, dominant in Mississippi.

In other words, the South has at least 25 percent more representation in the lower house of congress, based on suppressed Negro citizenship, than it had when Negroes were slaves and counted for only three-fifths of their numerical strength.

This extra representation, in addition to the normal strength based upon the presence of white men and women, good and bad, should have been reduced under the 14th amendment to the U.S. constitution, in proportion as the suffrage was denied on account of race, color or previous condition; but the Republican party, which surrendered to the South in 1876, in order to put Rutherford B. Hayes into the presidency, has let the South get away with it.

In getting away with this nullification, through Negro disfranchisement, poll taxing, judicial lynch law, murderous lynching, jimcrowing, segregation, jim crowing, segregation, public school discriminations, peonage, etc., the South got itself into the "national saddle" several times, through the election of Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt, who displayed discomfitting liberality and independence, and was succeeded by the stalwart Missouri Democrat, Harry S. Truman, who is trying to carry out "New Deal" policies, and has put before the country, in the report of his committee on Civil Rights, the equivalent of an American Magna Carta—a really Democratic document which, if its recommendations are followed, will convince the world that we say what we mean and mean what we say, and that the government at Washington is not a government of a few "backward," unreconciled nullifitionist Southern "rebels," but a government of all the people, white, black, yellow and brown.

The once embattled North, which preserved the Union the South has been trying for 100 years to destroy, has suffered itself to be governed by Southern "statesmen" of the Tillman, Talmadge, Bilbo, Eastland and Rankin types, who, because they refuse to obey the constitution, vote for all the Negroes within their states, and give to every white Southerner practically three times the voting power of every white man in the more liberal, wealthy and law abiding North.

Using this power ruthlessly these Southern states have been siphoning out of the U.S. Treasury billions of dollars they never taxed themselves to put into the treasury.

The little state of Rhode Island, a "hive of industry" and enterprise, pays more cash into the U.S. Treasury than several Southern states that have several times as much representation in congress. The empire state of New York pays more federal taxes than all 12 of the Southern states combined, but is outvoted in the filibuster-controlled U.S. senate 24 to 2, and in the house by more than 3 to 1, because the South's representation in the house is not reduced, as the constitution makes mandatory.

Republicans, who are once more in control of both branches of congress, as they were in 1890, when "Czar" Thomas B. Reed of Maine was speaker, should teach the South a much-needed lesson by enforcing the constitutional provision; could not only uphold President Truman in his fight against lynching, polltax, denial of "fair employment practice," and discrimination on street and stream railways, jimcrowism, etc., but could show that they are truly worthy descendants of Charles Sumner, Thaddeus Stevens,

An Open Letter to President Truman

We are alarmed by the extent to which certain actions of the Justice Department conflict with the democratic traditions of the American people and threaten to subvert and destroy our institutions and our freedoms.

Since October 1946, the Justice Department has initiated action unnecessarily in 11 states against 21 non-citizens, seeking their deportation on identical charges of political opinion and membership in the Communist Party.

The attempted deportation of non-citizens on the ground of political opinions is a violation of the Constitution of the United States and of the Bill of Rights. The activities of the Justice Department in carrying out these arrests, and their attendant newspaper publicity are therefore political in character and not legal.

We condemn these arrests as endangering American democracy and the rights of all of us, citizens as well as non-citizens, since they provoke hysteria and discrimination.

We are alarmed by the attempt that is thus being made by the Attorney General of the United States to use his high office to further political persecution and for partisan political purposes.

We call upon you, as President of the United States, to order the Attorney General to discontinue immediately his practice of planned political arrests of legally-resident non-citizens. We are opposed to any attempt to use the immigration laws of the United States for the purpose of hounding or persecuting non-citizens in the United States.

W. J. Wheaton Says

When we had done justice to the superb supper, which was a gastronomic feast, we settled down for our after meal chat. Said Mary Ann: "I was to a meeting 'tother night . . . Wish you'd been there, perhaps you would rave understood and explained it better than my Mary Ann . . . 'twas 'bout being a leader of folks, and that folks should follow 'em. Now I knows a heap of folks who say they're leaders who I wouldn't follow 'cause they says so." We pondered for a while before answering. Then we said, Mary Ann, that word "Leadership" is greatly overworked, especially where minority groups of people are concerned. For instance, our group: The Negro. We have many outstanding representatives, who are termed leaders. Marion Anderson, in song, Joe Louis and Jackie Robinson, as athletes; Du-Bois, as sociologist; and numerous others, who are outstanding. To group them all as leaders would be a misnomer. They are outstanding in their several fields, and have many admirers. They are representatives of a group. Our group has scores of pseudo leaders. It brings to mind a Negro preacher we once knew; whenever he would lack for words he would gather the Bible in his arms and pace the length of the pulpit moaning, groaning and mumbling incoherent sounds. Then an emotional member in the "Amen" corner would shout, Halleluya! Then pandemonium.

Mary Ann was shaking with laughter; tears were running down her cheks and she was gasping for breath. "Oh Lawdy, lawdy," she exclaimed, and broke out in another gale of laughter. "Lawdy, lawdy! If thats' just like uncle Stewart back home. After he got through "Rattlin the Dry Bones," he'd run out'er words 'en begin to prance and moa, 'en we-alls took him for a leader."

Yes, we replied, we have those kind of leaders galore; leaders who seek emotion rather than logic. The emotional kind are usually demagogic, have some self-interest. The true and efficient leader appeals to reason. He presents a logical viewpoint for his convictions. He gives you reasons to think, and ascertain whether he or she is correct in their premise.

"Yes, I get you," said Mary Ann, "if you don't think they're right, you don't have to follow, but they's the kind to follow, 'en if you can't be the "Bell Sheep, Follow the Gang," that's what my Eb used to say. Dontcher know since I be goin out with little Mary Ann I'se learned a whole lot of things. Lots of furs that used to cover animals, cover a lot of deceit and domestic unfaithfulness, 'en fglashy clothes 'en diamonds are payments for per . . . What's that word you said 'tother night when you talked 'bout 'Southern men who got so hot' cause the President told 'em to stop lynching?" Perfidiousness?, we asked. "Yes, that's it, perfidiousness. I pray to the Lord every night to keep little Mary Anh in the path of righteousness. I'm trusting Him.

When Mary Ann asked, "What about them men down South that don't want to stop lynching?", the coversation naturally turned to hates, discriminations and other humiliations which the leaders or representatives of the South seek to impose on Negroes of that section of the United States. In 1944 the Southern delegates to the Democrat National Convention sought to pressure the party by the same tactics. They howeld, frothed at the mouth, gave the rebel yell, and all to no avail. If you remember, South Carolina and Georgia were the two main states that opposed Thomas Jefferson when he sought to amend the constitution, abolishing slavery. South Carolina was the leader in the rebellion of states which led to the Civil War. That state has been the breeding place, and has spawned more race-hating national characters, sponsored more acts of brutality, rapine and murders, than any other state in this Union of States. Georgia and Mississippi are tied for second place, with about nine close runners-up.

The recent revolt has clearly shown that the President will be placed on his mettle. The least wavering or catering to the demands of the recalcitrants will alienate millions of votes in key states necessary to his election. As one columnist said recently, "To revive itself the Democratic party must weed out the obstructive southerners." Candidly speaking, we don't believe that the rank and file voters of the South will countenance such a break as that proposed by the professional higher-ups — the nomination of a candidate in a rump convention. It would be cutting of ftheir political noses to spite their political faces. Even with the dynamic personality of F.D.R. the election was close. This election promises to be closer. There are 15 states in the North that the Negro vote can swing, they have a total of 270 or so votes; 266 electoral votes elect. The Negro vote in California must be reckoned with. It is safe to say that there are more than 200,000 Negroes in the state. Los Angeles alone has in excess of 155,000. San Francisco and the Bay area above 40,000. The thing, Mary Ann, is to get them registered to vote. "Yes Sir, I'se going to see that Josh 'en my Mary Ann do that thing soon as they gets here. But say, 'Sposen we go to the farm 'fore time for election, what will we do?" We informed her that all she had to do was carry her certificate of registration or register in the district where her farm is located. That is, if she has resided there long enough. "I'm going to vote even if I have to come back here to vote," she said. How grand it would be if all those folk who have, until now, been deprived of that privilege, would deem it their sacred duty to exercise the right of franchise. To exercise that right is the sacred duty of all citizens, the Negro in particular.

It includes individual batting scores and has pictures of outstanding champions and various other records.

How Much and How Many" by James Bendick is "The story of weights and measures." With many clever cartoon-liek illustrations to clarify the text the author takes us back in history to other times and countries to explain the beginnings of trade and the ways people made exchanges. He also takes us into the scientific fields of electricity, time, navigation, weather, surveying, cooking, medicine, photography, guns and ballistics, the metric system and gives a chapter on the National Bureau of Standards and the Tables of Weights and Measures. The prosaic sounding subject is made most intriguing.

Toward a Better World," edited by William Scarlett is a collection of papers by outstanding leaders of the day on subjects which are of special interest. They were written at the request of the Joint Commission on Social Reconstruction of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The problems of the day are discussed from the standpoint that the solution is to be found only within a religious view of life and the world and emphasizes the social responsibility of the Christian and of the church. It recognizes that the world is so closely knit that no nation can live to itself. Anna Eleanor Roosevelt has a chapter on "The Minorities Question," Walter Russell Bowie one on "The Negro Problem;" Sumner Welles one on "The United Nations". These are only a sample of the contents. There are also short biographite of each contributor.

Eagle at My Eyes," by Norman Katkov is a new novel of mixed marriages but with a new viewpoint. A Jewish boy who has been taught to consider Christians as his enimies falls in love

To Secure These Rights

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

(Instalment No. 13)

GOVERNMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY: SECURING THE RIGHTS

The national government of the United States must take the lead in safeguarding the civil rights of all Americans. We believe that this is one of the most important observations that can be made about the civil rights problems in our country today. We agree with words used by the President, in an address at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington in June, 1947:

"We must make the federal government a friendly, vigilant defender of the rights and equalities of all Americans . . . Our national government must show the way."

It is essential that our rights be preserved against the tyrannical actions of public officers. Our forefathers saw the need for such protection when they gave us the Bill of Rights as a safeguard against arbitrary government. But this is not enough today. We need more than protection of our rights against government; we need protection of our rights against private persons or groups, seeking to undermine them. In the words of the President:

"We cannot be content with a civil liberties program which emphasizes only the need of protection against the possibility of tyranny by the government . . . We must keep moving forward, with new concepts of civil rights to safeguard our heritage. The extension of civil rights today means not protection of the people against the government, but protection of the people by the government."

There are several reasons why we believe the federal government must play a leading role in our efforts as a nation to improve our civil rights record.

First, many of the most serious wrongs against individual rights are committed by private persons or by local public officers. In the most flagrant of all such wrongs—lynching—private individuals, aided upon occasion by state or local officials, are the ones who take the law into their own hnads and deprive the victim of his life. The very fact that these outrages continue to occur, coupled with the fact that the states have been unable to eliminate them, points clearly to a strong need for federal safeguards.

Second, it is a sound policy to use the idealism and prestige of our whole people to check the wayward tendencies of a part of them. It is true that the conscience of a nation is colored by the moral sense of its local communities. Still, the American people have traditionally shown high national regard for civil rights, even though the record in many a community has been far from good. We should not fail to make use of this incombatting civil rights violations. The local community must be encouraged to set its own house in order. But the need for leadership is pressing. That leadership is available in the national government and it should be used. We cannot afford to delay action until the most backward community has learned to prize civil liberty and has taken adequate steps to safeguard the rights of every one of its citizens.

Third, our civil rights record has growing international implications. These cannot safely be disregarded by the government at the national level which is responsible for our relations with the world, and left entirely to government at the local level for proper recognition and action. Many of man's problems, we have been learning, are capable of ultimate solution only through international cooperation and action. The subject of human rights itself, has been made a major concern of the United Nations. It would indeed be ironical if in our own country the argument should prevail that safeguarding the rights of the individual is the exclusive, or even the primary concern of local government.

INTERNATIONAL PROBLEM NOW

A lynching in a rural American community is not a challenge to that community's conscience alone. The repercussions of such a crime are not heard in the locality, or indeed only in our own nation. They echo from one end of the globe to the other, and the world looks to the American national government for both an explanation of how such a shocking event can occur in a civilized country and remedial action to prevent its recurrence.

Similarly, interference with the right of a qualified citizen to vote cannot today remain a local problem. An American diplomat cannot forcefully argue for free elections in foreign lands without meeting the challenge that in many sections of America qualified voters do not have free access to the polls. Can it be doubted that this is a right which the national government must secure?

Fourth, the steadily growing tendency of the American people to look to the national government for the protection of their civil rights is highly significant. This popular demand does not by itself prove the case for national government action. But the persistent and deep-felt desire of the American citizen for federal action safeguarding his civil rights is neither a request for spoils by a selfish pressure group, nor is it a short-sighted and opportunistic attempt by a temporary majority to urge the government into a dubious or unwise course of action. It is a demand rooted in the folkways of the people, sound in instinct and reason, and impossible to argue. The American people are loyal to the institutions of local self-government, and distrust highly-concentrated power. But we have never hesitated to entrust power and responsibility to the national government when need for such a course of action has been demonstarted and the people themselves are convinced of that need.

Finally, the national government should assume leadership in our American civil rights program because there is much in the field of civil rights that it is squarely responsible for in its own direct dealings with millions of persons. It is the largest single employer of labor in the country. More than two million persons are on its payroll. The freedom of opinion and expression enjoyed by these people is in many ways dependent upon the attitudes and practices of the government. By not restricting this freedom beyond a point necessary to insure the efficiency and loyalty of its workers, the government itself, can make a very large contribution to the effort to achieve true freedom of thought in America. By scrupulously following fair employment practices, it not only sets a model for other employers to follow, but also directly protects the rights of more than two million workers to fair employment.

The same is true of the armed forces. Their policies are completely determined by the federal government. That government has the power, the opportunity and the duty to see that discrimination and prejudices are completely eliminated from the armed services, and that the American soldier or sailor enjoys as full a measure of civil liberty as is commensurate with military service.

The District of Columbia and our dependent areas are under the immediate authority of the national government. By safeguarding civil rights in these areas, it can protect several million people directly, and encourage the states and local communities throughout the country to do likewise. Finally, through its extensive public services, the national government is the largest single agency in the land endeavoring to satisfy the wants and needs of the consumer. By making certain that these services are continuously available to all persons without regard to race, color, creed or national origin, a very important step toward the elimination of discrimination in American life will have been taken.

Leadership by the federal government in safeguarding civil rights does not mean exclusive action by that government. There is much that the states and local communities can do in this field, and much that they alone can do. The committee believes that Justice Holmes' view of the states as 48 laboratories for social and economic experimentation is still valid. The very complexity of the civil rights problem calls for much experimental, remedial action which may be better undertaken by the states than by the national government.

Parallel state and local action supporting the national program is highly desirable. It is obvious that even though the federal government should take steps to stamp out the crime of lynching, the states cannot escape the responsibility to employ all of the powers and resources available to them for the same end. Or again, the enactment of a federal fair employment practice act will not render similar state legislation unnecessary.

BOTH LEGISLATION AND EDUCATION

In certain areas the states must do far more than parallel federal action. Either for constitutional or administrative reasons, they must remain the primary protectors of civil rights. This is true of governmental efforts to control or outlaw racial or religious discrimination practiced by privately-supported public service institutions such as schools and hospitals, and of places of public accommodation such as hotels, restaurants, theatres, and stores.

Futhermore, government action alone, whether federal, state, local, or all combined, cannot provide complete protection of civil rights. Everything that government does stems from and is conditioned by the state of public opinion. Civil rights in this country will never be adequately protected until the intelligent will of the American people approves and demands that protection. Great responsibility, therefore, will always rest upon private organizations and private individuals who are in a position to educate and shape public opinion.

The argument is sometimes made that because prejudice and intolerance cannot be eliminated through legislation and government control we should abandon that action in favor of the long, slow, evolutionary effects of education and voluntary private efforts. We believe that this argument misses the point and that the choice it poses between legislation and education as to the means of improving civil rights is an unnecessary one. In our opinion, both approaches to the goal are valid, and are, moreover, essential to each other.

It may be impossible to overcome prejudice by law, but many of the evil discriminatory practices which are the visible manifestations of prejudice can be brought to an end through proper government controls. At the same time, it is highly desirable that efforts be made to understand more fully the causes of prejudice and to stamp them out.

These efforts will necessarily occupy much time and can in many instances best be made by private organizations and individuals. At the close of this section on government responsibility, further attention will be given to the problem of prejudice and its elimination.

The Committee rejects the argument that governmental controls are themselves necessarily threats to liberty. This statement overlooks the fact that freedom in a civilized society is always founded on law enforced by government. Freedom in the absence of law is anarchy.

Because it believes there is need for leadership by the national government, the Committee has not hesitated to recommend increased action by that government in support of our civil rights. At the same time, it has not overlooked the many possibilities for remedial action by the states, nor the benefits to be derived from private efforts in the never-ending struggle to make civil liberty more secure in America. Certain of the Committee's recommendations look in each of these directions.

CONSTITUTIONAL TRADITIONS

Constitutional Traditions As to Governmental Protection of Civil Rights—The Committee believes that national leadership in this field is entirely consistent with our American constitutional traditions. It is true that the federal government does not possess broad, clearly defined delegated powers to protect civil rights which it may exercise at its discretion. A detailed examination of the constitutional aspects of the civil rights problem makes clear that very real difficulties lie in the way of federal action in certain areas. It also makes clear that effective federal power does exist under the constitution.

The constitution, as it came from the Philadelphia Convention in 1787, granted to congress no express power to enact civil rights legislation of any kind. Moreover, the first ten amendments, which make up our Bill of Rights, far from granting any positive powers to the federal limitations upon it. The 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments added to the constitution authorize congress to pass laws in certain civil rights areas. But the areas are of limited extent and are not clearly defined. Thus, there is nothing in the constitution which in so many words authorizes the national government to protect the civil rights of the American people on a comprehensive basis.

The Committee is aware of the fate of the civil rights program developed by congress following the close of the Civil War. Between 1866 and 1875, congress passed seven statutes which in a collective sense were designed to give more specific meaning and reality to the three Civil War amendments. By these acts, congress attempted on a broad basis to provide federal protection of the civil rights of individuals against interference either by public officers or private individuals.

This early program was largely a failure. But it is important to note that remnants of the legislation remained on the federal statute books in 1939. Furthermore, in that year they served as the basis for the creation of the Civil Rights Section in the Department of Justice. The rest of the legislation had disappeared as the result of a series of six adverse decisions by the supreme court between 1876 and 1906, and the passage of repeal acts by congress in 1894 and 1909.

U. S. Schools are Institutions to Promote Ignorance

By PAUL FRENCH

The fact was recently given some publicity that, in proportion to the national income, Soviet Russia spends three times what the United States spends on the education of its people. One out of every four Russians, it was said, goes to school.

That is a credit to the Soviet government, you will say. However, since every department and bureau of the Truman administration never lets any occasion pass to toss some hostile or provocative statement at our recent ally, the U. S. Office of Education felt compelled to offset this credit by publishing, in its official magazine School Life, a whole series of articles attacking Soviet education. The whole issue of that official government magazine was given over to anti-Soviet articles, six in all.

That being the case, it seemed rather ironic, that the chief accusation against Soviet education was that it was used "to poison children's minds against America." What was that issue of School Life doing, if not poisoning the minds of American children against the Soviet Union?

Further, as I was reading about it, the radio brought to my ears a program in the Los Angeles schools, sponsored and run by Hearst's Examiner, in which a Hearst newspaper man was allowed, by our Board of Education, to teach Los Angeles school children that which was not and is not true, about the Soviet Union's policy in Korea. A perfect example of poisoning minds of children against the Soviet Union.

Just who elected Hearst to teach lies to our children? How is it that nobody, not even other newspapers, supposedly competitors of Hearst's Examiner, publicly protests this mental corruption of school children? Is this mis-education symptomatic of how American schools are run?

In confirmation of such suspicion, we do not have to go to what the Soviet may say about our schools. We have only to turn to page 36 of the February issue of the magazine Redbook, by no means as "red" as its name might imply, to find what the editor of the Gallup Poll says about "What's Wrong With Our Schools." An article by William A. Lydgate tells how America's school turns out people who know rather less than nothing.

For 12 years Lydgate has been gathering information about what people know—and don't know. A reading of his article will show you that Soviet education would have to be appelling, indeed, if it could produce more ignorant people than those who go through American schools. Lydgate gives some examples which he declares "shock" him. For instance:

Although every American's standard of living is seriously affected by it, one in every four Americans hasn't the faintest idea of what "inflation" is. One-half the nation's voters don't know what a "filibuster" is. One-third of the people of Cincinnati cannot say what the United Nations is. Less than half American adults know how many U. S. senators each state has. Only half the people know who their congressman is. Only one-fifth of the people pay the least attention to what their congressman does in congress.

One-third of the people never heard of Senator Vandenberg, one-half of them don't know Harold Stassen from Adam's off ox. But Lydgate says that far more of them seem to be intensely interested in the comic strip about the adventures of "Blondie."

Right now, with our warmongers trying to provoke a war in which millions of Americans may be killed, over the question of Greece, Lydgate tells us that polls show that one-third of the American people have no idea where Greece is. Although thousands of Americans have died on the soil of France in two wars in this generation, only one-third of the American people know just where France is.

After the Marshall Plan had been publicized for months, half the voters had no idea what it was, less than half ever heard that India ever had any struggle with British imperialism (Lydgate politely calls it "Britain") to get its freedom. Some of those who "knew about" the Marshall Plan thought it had something to do with Herbert Marshall, the movie actor! Eighty percent of all American adults never read books, and, says Lydgate: "In countless millions of American homes there are no books at all."

Obviously, an American educational system which results in such abysmal ignorance among its adults, is hardly one to criticize the Soviet educational system, which, by the way, teaches Soviet children that racial prejudice is a relic of barbarism and racial discrimination a crime punishable by Soviet law.

With such teachings, no doubt Soviet children's minds are set "against America," where racial prejudice and discrimination are dominant social phenomena. But one can scarcely call this "poisoning" those children's minds, unless, indeed, the truth is poisonous to American imperialism.

Abraham Lincoln and other loyal citizens.

If we could only awaken the North to this Southern audacity, this new "rebellion," the North would see the imperative need of a drastic change for the better rise in its political might and suppress these nullificationists who are appealing to "states rights" to cement them in their false position, and to political intimidation to dominate the government at Washington.

John C. Minkins,
Providence, R. I.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

Efforts are now under way to place up on the November ballot in California an initiative constitutional amendment titled, "Local Control of Intoxicating Liquors."

Known under various aliases, such as "Community Control," "Local Veto," and "Alcohol Education," this is a most deceiving measure. It would destroy the present statewide jurisdiction of the California Alcoholic Beverage Control Act. This Act sets up positive local tontrol through the State Board of Equalization. These can be fully exercised.

By the initiative, city councils and county boards would be given absolute power to establish prohibition in cities and counties. They could tamper with the law at will by determining whether any or which licenses should be issued, renewed, extended, transferred and reissued, all strictly by political favor.

History shows election to local offices could no longer be on the basis of merit and integrity.

With the voters themselves enabled through charter revision or initiative ordinance to establish local prohibition, the state would be infested with countless WET-DRY elections. No candidate could avoid the issue.

If passed, California would become "DRIER" than any other state, for even beer is outlawed by specific definition.

Unbiased critics believe this initiative is so restrictive it could not help but attract every corruptive influence we all remember from national prohibition. Law enforcement would decay with disrespect. Entire industries would be uprooted, with loss in production, employment, merchandising and advertising affecting every phase of the state's economic and social structure.

We urge your consideration of the effects of this measure.

Very sincerely yours,
ALBERT V. WEIGEL,
Executive secretary, Southern California Business Men's Association.

Trail Blazers: Lorenzo Bowdoin

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

Behind that warm glow of Lorenzo Bowdoin lies a story both realistic and positive. Deeply and passionately he spoke of his native Griffith, Georgia, where he spent his youth. The most singular influence upon his life was one hard driven point of his father that kept him in check.

From infancy the chilren of his family were taught that accomplishments are generally few to those who seek the easy way. But the worthwhile things, the gratifying things are those secured from toil, sacrifice, and service to others. And these, he believed, should be applied in solving our personal problems as well as our everyday livlihood.

This was impressed upon him from the example of his father's background. A graduate of Atlanta university, Dr. John L. Bowdoin taught school in Georgia for 33 years. He came up from slavery with such distinguished men as Richard R. Wright, Dr. John Hope, Dr. Crogman of Clark university, and other fine men, who were among the first free men to take advantage of a college education. And their success was measured by their unswering desire to achieve accomplishments of purpose. They labored toward that end. Dr. Bowdoin owned a plantation, grocery store, bakery shop, and a very comfortable eight room house. In those days such holdings were almost unheard of. Therefore, the honors were not only shared by the families of these men but the community at large because they symbolized the awakened spirit and industry of Southern freemen.

It was after John L. Bowdion's trip to Detroit to attend a conference that he decided to move away from the South. In 1904 he brought his family to Los Angeles so that his children might enjoy the full advantages of equal opportunities of citizenship, education, and higher living standards. But he died soon afterwards, before he could realize his ambitions for them.

LORENZO BOWDOIN

Young Bowdoin had completed one year of law at the American Law School in Los Angeles when his father died. The elder son he was thrust into the world to cope with this immense problem of becoming the family breadwinner. There were five brothers and sisters who received his help through school. Entering the post office in 1906, he worked there until retirement in 1944, giving 38 years of service. He was the third Negro clerk apointed in the post office and some years later, became a special clerk.

During this time he finished a two year course in accounting at the University of Southern California that was to equip him for his present position as secretary-treasurer of the Angelus Funeral Home, one of the finest mortuaries in the entire country.

Still no visible signs of struggle twist his optimism for the future. And success hasn't made him arrogant. Besides his fraternal and civic affiliation with the Garrison Masonic Lodge No. 45 F. & A. M., Consistory, Egyptian Temple, Ancient Order of Mystic Shrine, Ancient Order of Forresters, Court Solomon No. 8677, Los Angeles Lodge of Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, Westside Benevolent Society No. 1, YMCA board of management, NAACP treasurer he is a devout member of Wesley Methodist church, where he serves as chairman of the trustee board and district conference lay leader.

Bowdoin holds a very high and important position in the Methodist church. He is on the trusteeship of the California Temperance Federation and has been asked to serve on the nominating committee of the Southern California-Arizona conference of the Methodist church. This conference is one of the most powerful and democratic in the country today. He has served in this Methodist conference with distinquished educators, civic and business leaders in various important capacities.

A strong family man he is married to the former Frankie L. Johnson of Little Rock and is the father of Lorenzo W. and Frances Lillian Vaughn. For relaxation he enjoys fishing and hunting.

I Believe in Democracy

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

(While Los Angeles this week observes the arrival of the Freedom Train and National Brotherhood Week, the California EAGLE offers excerpts from a reprint of a Thomas Jefferson oration delivered at Wayne university in March, 1943.—Editor.)

I was reading an interesting poem in Racial Digest entitled, "I Believe in Democracy." It went something like this

"I believe in Democracy so much
That I want
Everybody in America
To have some of it."

Thomas Jefferson was such a believer. His love of liberty and independece, his militant devotion to democracy, his hatred of religious and racial intolerance have made him a symbol of the American ideals, those very ideals which reaction is now attempting to exterminate.

Apparently some have forgotten his principles—the principles which are the definitions of our free society today, the principles we are now fighting to preserve.

In that great and powerful preamble to the Declaration, Thomas Jefferson wrote the creed of democracy: "We hold that these truths be self-evident; that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by the creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." With that creed he flung the challenge of freedom to the tyrants of all time.

Today, many of us question its real meaning to minorities. In our own country certain overlords have used the theory of racial superiority to create dissension between the white and Negro peoples. It seems odd, indeed, that there should be racial friction when the principles of our country are facing a crucial test.

But Thomas Jefferson, a champion of the oppressed and common people, would have found the answer. He suffered much hatred and fury, ridicule and opposition, fighting in their behalf. He exercised great influence in the battle for the freedom of the enslaved Africans. In his "Notes on Virginia" he asked:

"And with what excorations can the statesmen be loaded, who, permitting one half of the citizens to trample on the rights of the others; transforming these into despots and the others into enemies, destroying the morals of the one part and the amor patrice of the other"

Liberty cannot be secure on these bases. How long do you think we minorities will allow the others to trample on our rights? If the minds of the nation cannot be opened to the situation, something serious will result. Our forefathers helped to build this country; they worked and fought with their lives for freedom. When we obtained this freedom we were made citizens—equal by God and by law. Thus, a denial of our rights is a violation against the principles for which the United Colonies fought, namely, freedom; and for which the United Nations fought recently, the preservation of freedom.

Jefferson in his first inaugural address, said: 'I know this, the only government where all men would fly to the standard and meet invasion as his own personal concern. I believe, indeed, I know that this government is the world's best hope."

That was the conclusion of a great address given 147 years ago. And today, in spite of many barriers, Negro citizens are still loyal to their country. We who are the stepchildren of America, learly prize our democratic heritage.

Why do we remember Jefferson? Many have asked why? Because Jefferson was a man who had the natural ability to see the whole of a situation. Because he was a man who was so deeply a believer in democracy that he could interpret any problem into democratic terms. Because he might have been called "the Father of Democracy." Who of us could excel him today?

Let's remember that the keystone of true democracy is equal rights for all citizens, and the welding together of many groups so that they may act as one. So if we find our minds becoming confused by poisonous propaganda, if we find our courage shaken and our faith in democracy lost and if we want to know why we fought the Axis, let us repeat, "I believe, indeed, I know that the principles upon which this country was founded are the world's best hope."

Causes of Catastrophe, by L. Don Leet, Seismologist at Harvard, is the story of earthquakes, volcanoes, tidal waves and hurricanes. It delves into the forces behind the sudden calamities which strike without warning. It is a fascinating account of nature's manifestations clearly and simply told with photographs, maps and drawings showing how the forces work and how man measures them. It describes some of the major catastrophies and gives many facts which help us to understand the natural forces behind the newspaper head-lines anouncing an earthquake or hurricane. It is written for the layman in an attempt to answer the question "Why" of nature's frightening furies.

Introduction to Personal Hygiene, by Laurence B. Chenoweth of the University of Cincinnati presupposes some knowledge of the subject. The author starts with an historical introduction telling of the early ideas and misconceptions of thet early scientists. He discusses the mammalian egg and its fertilization before the treatment of the cell since the researches of the scientists weer first made along those lines. The subject of nutrition plays an important part in the book and the various vitamins are given a good deal of attention. Disease, heredity, mental abnormalities and the prevention of diseases and promotion of health are also thoroughly discussed. The Hippocratic Oath is given in full and there is a section on chemical symbols, and a Glossary with the derivation of the words and their pronunciation. Other outstanding features of the book are charts, tables, pictures and a good index besides many references.

NEW YORK—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey continues to stall on the question of elimination of segregation and discrimination in the New York national guard. Three weeks after a telegram had been sent him asking him to confer with the NAACP within ten adys on the issue, the governor has failed to reply.

Dewey, who has consistently avoided taking a stand on the national guard issue, referred the telegram to Col. Hampton Anderson of the New York national guard headquarters, who replied that New York state is governed by the existing policy of the Department of the Army which states that mixed units are not authorized.

The continued evasion of Gov. Dewey on this issue is in sharp contrast to the denunciations of the army's discriminatory policy by the governors of New Hampshire, Connecticut and New Jersey. Governor Alfred Driscoll of New Jersey recently issued a forthright directive ending segregation in the national guard of that state.

It behooves you to be keenly vigilant; and better had you watch in the market place than slumber in the temple.

GOP Weighing Action on FEP; Pressure Urged

An urgent plea to the community to back a concerted national drive by the National Council for a permanent FEPC for passage in this session of congress of the Ives-Chavez bill (S. 984) to outlaw racial and religious discrimination in employment was issued yesterday by the local chapter of the Council, Fay Jackson, executive director.

It is expected that the bill will reach the floor of the senate soon if enough pressure is exerted. The senate labor committee already has given the bill a favorable report, voting 7 to 5 for it, with Senators Taft (Ohio), Ball (Minn.) and Donnel (Mo.) joining Southern Democrats Ellender and Hill in opposition. Voting in favor were Senators Ives (N.Y.), Aiken (Vt.), Morse (Ore.), Jenner (Ind.), Smith (N.J.), Murray (Mont.) and Thomas (Utah).

The favorable vote came after maneuvers by Ball and Donnell to send the measure back to subcommittee, there to be either stripped of its enforcement provisions or left to die, had been defeated.

A conference of 51 GOP senators was slated for this week to decide whether FEPC, anti-lynch or anti-polltax legislation should be the first to reach the floor. Unless pressure is exerted on the Republican leadership, it is feared they might shunt FEPC aside on the pretext of pushing anti-lynch or anti-poll tax legislation first, with resultant delay on all three fronts.

Together with the northern Democrats who are almost solidly for FEPC, the Republicans control more than enough votes to invoke cloture and shut off a filibuster against the FEPC bill, once it reaches the floor.

The local chapter of the Council for a Permanent FEPC is located at 1895 W. Jefferson.

Gov. Hastie's fine record. "I wonder," he said, "how many governors have drafted on organized act, then served as federal judge interpreting the act, and finally served as governor administering the act." He deviated from his prepared text to say: "I know that is an unequaled record."

From Emancipation Garden the presidential party went on a tour that took het group around the entire island of St. Thomas. The first stop was the U. S. submarine base, closed since the war.

Circling the island, President Truman went to Bluebeards Castle Hotel, U S. government owned, where he was guest at a luncheon tendered by Gov. Hastie.

Following the luncheon, the President took the afternoon off. Gov. Hastie's reception at Government House was staged at 6 p.m. with more than 500 guests in attendance. Before going on to St. Thomas, the President visited Puerto Rico, another U. S. possession in the Caribean.

required by law for the entire state of California is 275,946. The total secured is over 475,000. Other counties have filed or are in the process of filing. The county registrars will have 20 days in which to check the signatures for authenticity against the official list of registered voters. Then they will transmit the county totals to the secretary of state. He will make his official announcement whether or not the new party has qualified about March 18.

"This is the answer to those who said we couldn't rally for world peace and for national security," said Reuben Borough. "It is obvious from this, that the new movement of the people born in California and throughout the nation, in which hundreds and thousands of people have taken part, should block the revolutinoary movement towards reaction, and should be as successful as was the Republican party the third party of Lincoln in 1860."

While waiting for the truck with the petitions to arrive, Earl Robinson and his troubadours kept things lively by singing ballads of political significance, in which most of the audience joined.

It was a happy-hearted throng, glad the long gruelling work was over, elated it had ended so successfully.

Judge Rules B'lyn. Fraternal Lodge Illegal

Brooklyn lodge No. 32, I. B. P. O. E. of W., but the Charles Diggs-Hubert Brown faction controlling the "fraternal lodge" continued to occupy lodge premises at 1068 Fulton st., and to advertise themselves as "Elks" in defiance of grand lodge law.

Lodges in various cities throughout the nation followed suit and developed "fraternal corporations" by which, according to the grand lodge, real estate was held in the name of a few, instead of in the name of the entire lodge membership by trustees.

Principal contention of the Brooklyn faction before the court was that, in good faith, they had operated as the Brooklyn Fraternal Lodge No. 32, Inc., for many years before the grand lodge law governing properties was promulgated. Judge Livingston ruled, however, that such procedure "was and is in direct conflict with the pertinent provisions of the constitution and by-laws of the national order."

He held that defense contention that the order's regulations prior to 1944 permitted such practice was not borne out by evidence. "On the contrary," he said, "the proof discloses that the constitution and by-laws at least as early as the year 1923 provided that real property was to be held in the name of the subordinate lodge."

Probe Shows Bias Rife In Memphis P.O.

CHICAGO—Rampant discrimination in all its forms has been "conclusively proven to the satisfaction of Chief Investigator Risher" by the testimony of both white and colored eligibles, employes and ex-employes, during the 10-day hearings which opened in Memphis, Feb. 9, according to Ashby B. Carter, president of the National Alliance of Postal Employes.

"It was shown that flagrant disregard for laws intended to safeguard civil service, including those applying to ex-GIs, was the 'custom' and practice despite the glib denials voiced by administrative officials," Carter added.

At Risher's request, the Alliance sent its welfare director, W. V. Jason Jr., from Washington to Memphis to present the new and old cases of members systematically denied promotions, upgradings, assignments and appointments.

Throughout the Memphis post office, all clerks are white. In its motor vehicle department all preferred assignments such as general mechanics and dispatchers are reserved for whites while qualified Negroes, eligible and available, are limited to drivers.

Refusal, despite postal rules, to post preferred assignments, is part of the discriminatory blue-print. Demerits are used as device to penalize militant wo ers rather than to punish deli quents and frequently result separations from the service.

Negro civil service examin ees, the investigation brough out, are persuaded to desi nate "carrier" rather the "clerk" when taking the Clerk Carrier examinations, a when they pass they are to to accept appointments as c riers or laborers (mail hand lers) or they will get nothin

Jason reported that no sin case of discrimination present by the Alliance was disprov that many white employes v untarily presented themselve Risher in order to express th disapproval of current practi in the Memphis post office.

The Memphis Press-Scimi (white daily) quoted Risher saying, "The evidence compil warrants a full hearing by senate committee. There is a ple evidence from the hearin that discrimination has b practiced in the broadest sen not only racial, but against wh employes and against patrons the Memphis post office. seems to be the policy of o cials at the Memphis office operate it on the basis of lo custom rather than on the c service laws and the postal la and regulations."

VIEWS PROTESTED

After publication of the interview in the Willamette Collegian, protests at the bigoted statements flooded the governor's office. Hall countered by charging he had been misquoted by the two co-eds.

As a climax, the Portland Oregonian, influential Oregon daily paper, interviewed both Hall and the two girls on the affair.

Miss Turtledove and Miss Tedford stuck to their guns, declaring they had not misquoted the governor. They showed th long-hand notes taken at the terview to prove their point.

Roach Assails U.S. Neglect of Compton Creek

Roused to fighting pitch by word that the President's Budget had eliminated Compton Creek, along with most of the other local Flood Control projects, Supervisor Leonard J. Roach laid plans today to persuade congress to reinstate the "108th street Ditch" improvements in the 1949 program.

"This thing is getting kicked around again," exploded Roach, "and I propose ot use the full weight of the county in eliminating the dangers of this infamous ditch."

Roach won support of colleagues on the board of supervisors in instructing the chief engineer of the Flood Control District to appear before congressional committees to impress upon them the necessity of completing the improvements.

Rankin Boasts of Aid to Jimcrow VA Hospital Bill

WASHINGTON—Congressman John E. Rankin of Mississippi takes credit for passage in the house of the bill to establish a segregated veterans' hospital at the birthplace of Booker T. Washington in Franklin county, Virginia. This was revealed when the Mississippi hate-peddlar testified in bitter opposition to the anti-lynching bill before the house judiciary subcommittee.

Describing his support of the jimcrow veterans' hospital bill, Rankin said: "The Booker T. Washington Negroes . . . were in my office just the other day asking for an all-Negro veterans' hospital in Virginia. They are entitled to it. . . . I helped get the bill amended to provide the required amount, got it passed through the committee and passed through the house."

Perry Howard, Negro Republican committeeman from Mississippi and a notorious advocate of segregation, is also supporting the jimcrow hospital bill, which is now before the Labor and Public Welfare Committee of the senate. Lined up in opposition to the bill along with the NAACP are the Negro Newspaper Publishers Association, the National Medical Association, Fraternal Council of Negro Churches in America, Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, National Council of Negro Women and the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses.

Survey Shows Denver Shot With Prejudice

DENVER, Colorado—Althuogh Denver prides itself on its tolerance, Mayor Quigg Newton's Committee on Human Relations has concluded after several months' investigation that the city is thoroughly infected with race prejudice. A committee report, issued by chairman Dean Paul Roberts of St. John's Episcopal church, finds virulent discrimination in every phase of Denver life.

The committee provides countless instances of racial intolerance in employment, housing, public health, city services, hotels, restaurants, the police force and education. Restrictive covenants are common in residential districts; the city's large Spanish American population is consequently jammed into dingy slums.

Another example the committee cites as evidence: clubhouses on public golf courses are leased by private organizations which bar Jews, Japanese Americans, Spanish Americans, etc., and only clubhouses members can enter municipal golf tournaments.

The committee turned up some noteworthy employment statistics. In 189 Denver factories employing 11,310 persons, Negroes held only one percent of the highest-class jobs—professional, supervisory, etc.; 33 percent of them were skilled laborers; and 66 percent had unskilled jobs. Japanese-American employment figures broke down into the same general ratio.

Denver is not expected to do much about the report, however, unless minority groups get together and generate a mighty protest. A clue to Denver majority group public opinion was its recent defeat of a proposed city charter which declared for equal treatment of minorities, in an election featured by full-blooded racist oratory.

Four Murals on Negro's Part In Nation's Culture to Be Hung in Interior Dept. Bldg.

WASHINGTON—Four Murals which will complete the wall decoration of the Department of the Interior Building, depicting Negro participation in the cultural development of the nation, will be hung late in May, Major General Phlip B. Fleming, federal works administrator, was informed yesterday by W. E. Reynolds, commissioner of the Public Buildings Administration, FWA.

Preliminary drawings by Millard Sheets, prominent Claremont, California muralist, have been approved by PBA Division of Design and Construction, the Commission of Fine Arts and a special committee of prominent Negro educators, artists, clergy and the medical profession. Sheets is now completing the murals. They will portray the influence of Negroes on art, science, religion and education.

The contract for the murals was made in 1939 but was delayed when Sheets was commissioned for art work overseas during the war. The murals will occupy wall space on the first floor corridor of the building at the foot of the main staircase.

The murals are the last of 12 groups for the building.

N.C. Farmers Build Credit Union With Nickels and Dimes

CHICAGO — How a small band of debt-laden sharecroppers in Tyrell County, North Carolina, built a credit union by pooling their scarce nickels and dimes is told in a photo-feature in February Ebony which reveals the coop has loaned $120,000 without ever losing a dime.

Simpson Dean, founder of the Tyrell Co-operative Union, got his first donation of five cents from an 80 year old churchwoman in 1938, the article declares. Six months later with $360 deposited the union began to finance indebted Negro farmers. Since this time a coop sawmill, grocery store, and hospital have been built by the group.

Today, nine out of every ten Negroes in Tyrell county are in the credit union. Dues for the co-operative hospital plan are only ten cents monthly. Through the co-op grocery, modern supplies and equipment are placed within the means of these rural homes. The local sawmill helps in the erection of homes for the farmers.

Prior to the Tyrell Union white banks would not lend to local Negroes. But so successful has the co-op idea become that Simpson Dean barnstormed through the entire state and helped to found Negro co-op unions. To date, North Carolina claims 84 of the 167 credit unions in the nation operated by Negroes.

JESSIE MAE BROWN, SOCIETY EDITOR

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

When 400 local women will devote an entire Saturday to the study and discussion of citizen responsibility in political decisions and of the functioning of democratic government, it is an indication that politicians can expect action from them—and not too long from now.

Three Negro women attended the all-day institute, titled, "POLITICS—The People's Business," sponsored by the University Extension Department of Institutes, the UCLA Political Science Department, and the League of Women Voters of Los Angeles. One of the women was Dr. Vada Somerville, member of the Board of Directors of the Los Angeles League. "More of our women should have been here," Dr. Somerville told the EAGLE representative. Not just as Negroes but as people interested in bringing about political decisions that may vitally affect them that they might learn how to sharpen the tools to more efficiently attack the task of solving community problems of 1948 and the future."

Jessie Mae Brown

The meeting was called to promote understanding of fundamental facts for political decisions, understanding of the functioning of democratic government and to arouse an active awareness of citizen responsibility. Designed to provide a non-partisan, factual analysis of the citizen's part in elections, political parties and governmental processes, the Institute's planners labelled it "Politics—the People's Business." General chairman was Mrs. Harold Fendler of Westwood. Among the official hostesses were: Mrs. Edward Boehm of Pacific Palisades, Mrs. Clarence Dykstra, Mrs. Thomas Jenkin and Mrs. Van Griffith. Theme of talks and discussion groups led by faculty members, community leaders and elected officials, was the challenge of democracy to its citizens, and how citizens may meet that challenge intelligently. Before leaving this very interesting work being done by some of our women in politics, want to ask the question, "Have you registered yet"?

FUN FEST

The past week end was one big social whirl, with the Negro Congress Unity award party at Frances Williams Home; the Unity Award program at Second Baptist Church and the 1st Annual Club Festival. The actors and actresses along with the musicians were as busy as could be entertaining while all other noted circles were much in evidence at the different affairs. Frances Williams is a perfect hostess in anybody's language, reason enough for the crowd on hand at her very cozy 5th Avenue home last Friday night. On entering the bungalow that is smartly decorated with outstanding bits of ceramics, low wide coffee tables, etc. Anyway the first bit of glamour ye scribe noticed on entering was none other than Angell Stratton, Mrs. Crispus Wright, Camille Cannady, Ione Carter, Catherine Garcia, Marion Jackson of the Douze Mignonettes and many others. Yvonne Sheppard and Leola Beavers were listed among the hostesses. The "Deep Are the Roots" cast was so honored; with Rose Hobart receiving the award that was presented by local congress president, Mrs. C. A. Bass. Dorothy and Jerry Nicholas arrived fashionable late, and we do mean fashionably, with their famous husbands. As a side liner, the tasty ham and turkey sandwiches that were served throughout were a definite compliment to the culinary artistry of the young matrons. . . . Believe me, the party was loads of fun.

Missed the Unity Award program Sunday, due to the fact that the 1st Club Festival was taking place, and "Thanks to the many entertainers," successfully so. Among the clubs with reserved places, took note of Alpha Delta Chapter, of the Alphas (Peter Deautrieve), The Favorettes, Cavalrettes, LaJovials and the Douze Mignonettes, to name a few. Faustina Johnson, looking like she owned a million dollars was A-1, as a commentator. Among those enjoying the fun fest were Corinne and Ballinger Kemp, Paul Weaver, Enoch Spann, and Stanley Robertson were at the Gamma Xi Chapter table. Doris Wearye and fiance Nelson Galloway were enjoying the affair along with other Iota Phi Lambda members, Edith Price, Margret Goode and Marion B. Jackson. Benester Fisher was definitely very chic when she stood with other members of the Cavalrettes. All of the 13 Charms were keeping their name straight for they were charming in the latest garb. Mabel Thomas, Emma Pollard, Velma Johnson passed hellos at the door. I could go on and on, for the 1st Annual Festival was really great.

Following the festival, along with Gertrude Gipson, found my way to the very beautiful reception honoring Mable Scott's marriage. Her gown, made of traditional white satin and angel lace was one of Janet LaStrapes own creations, and very beautiful.

The Willa Mae frock is one of the most charming group of hilarious girls' dresses. Especially, is the tiny tot expressed at her best in these garments.

Ruffles in different lines and an unusual burst of gathers in unexpected areas makes these little dresses most exotic.

Mrs. Willa Mae Pickens, founder of the Pickens Tot Shops, soon to announce a new location, has experienced the multiple activities of the "tot" through her kindergarten teaching. Motives, rhythms, laughter and rest are displayed through clever designing. Choices of color, line, and proportion describe the happy life of a little girl. Bouncing flares and whirling pinafores show the many interests of the primary child. Organized fabrics on busy little frames puts life and vigor in the Willa Mae frocks.

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

Naturally our lives seem more nearly complete now that we've seen the Freedom Train. Instead of the dreams and hearsay of our American Heritage, upon viewing the documents of the Freedom Train they become a blazing reality.

I should like to review small parts of the report by the President's committee on Civil Rights: "The central theme of our American Heritage is the importance of the individual person. From the earliest moment of our history we have believed that every human being has an essential dignity and integrity which must be respected and safeguarded. Moreover, we believe that to be secure in the rights he wishes for himself, each man must be willing to respect the rights of other men. This is the conscious recognition of our basic moral principle: all men are created equal as well as free."

"Freedom, however," it goes on, "as we now use the term, means more than the traditional 'freedoms' listed in our Bill of Rights—important as they are. Freedom comes to mean the right of a man to manage his own affairs as he sees fit up to the point where what he does interferes with the equal rights of others in the community to manage their affairs — or up to the point where he begins to injure the welfare of the whole group."

A particularly interesting paragraph begins thus: "Twice before in American history the nation has found it necessary to review the state of its civil rights . . ." And that particular paragraph comes under the heading The Time Is Now.

Today our rights are being challenged. It is up to every American, young or old, to take a stand and fight the oncoming menaces of our democracy. We must fight individually, and then in groups. We must not sleep or rest until our land has been cleared of those among us who would take away our rights to believe freely, and to speak freely. To endanger one of these privileges is to endanger all of our rights. The freedoms that we enjoy are closely interwoven, and the loss of one is certainly the loss of another. Taking away our right to believe freely is destroying freedom of the press, speech, religion, and setting freedom from want upon a stage of oblivion.

We can protect our rights by making use of them. In 1890, 78 per cent of the American people voted. In 1934, 38 per cent cast ballots. Certainly this is not protecting our right to vote. Other governments, just as strong as America, have perished and withered away because its citizens 'passed the buck.' They depended upon 'George' and George was drunk. We must get down to work to preserve the freedom of each individual. For when one person becomes a slave anyone's turn is next.

TOPIC OF THE WEEK

Universal Military Training is going to become a political football. The only thing is, I hope it gets into the right hand, and someone deflates that air bag. Everyone who isn't rushing to support the bill is either blocking and stalling or a 'Communish.' I'm not in favor of the bill, and I'm neither of the above. I just don't believe it's the 'etiquette' plan for peace. Wars never were etiquette.

However, I do not stand alone in opposing the bill. I have on my team some pretty important people. One of the people who oppose the bill is Henry Wallace. There are others too, but they don't get as much newspaper publicity as the people who favor the plan for that reason.

But what do the common, working class of people think? What would be the results of a Gallup Poll on the subject? Doubtlessly, the results would surprise quite a few people, and leave quite a few flat-footed. But what do the youth think of the plan? The boys who'll do the fighting?

From my inquiries, I have been able to gather quite a bit of information and feelings of youth regarding the matter. This week, I would like to pass along the feelings of a typical 17 year old young man, who graduated from high school this summer. His scholastic record is outstanding, and he recetived a Varsity football letter at Jefferson High. The name of the young man is Abe Moore.

"Armies are for war, and no other purpose," young Moore reasons, "and preparations for peace cannot be made by calculating the amount of atomic power needed to destroy any one city. There are revolutions going on in the world today, and in certain countries, but we must try to settle national disputes peacefully, and must not allow them to drift into international problems. We are either going to exist in a world of international unity or die in the complete destruction and chaos of a third World War."

Abe continues: "I don't oppose the training because I'm afraid to go away from home, or anything like that. Although I have my future in the medical plan mapped, if the urgent need for an army would arise, I would almost be willing to volunteer. But not in a situation like this . . . not to make a few people richer — not to add to the glory of individuals whostand to gain immensely by another war, or even Universal Training."

Many youth feel the same today. That's why they're asking representatives in Washington to think twice before approving the plan for peacetime conscription, and therein perhaps even shortening their lives. The stand against Universal Military Training must remain firm. Our defense is to be found in the UN . . . and if we fail in the UN, we won't have anything more to worry about. We'll be too — well, we won't be in a position to care.

The Avalon Athletic Club blasted the leading National Guardsmen at the 28th street "Y" last Monday night 54 to 37 in an important league match. It was Leon Anderson with 15 points, James Dugan with 13 points and William Johnson with 11 points that led Avalon attack. Vernon Green's 14 points was the big noise for the National Guardsmen.

The Royals, who had failed to hit the stride expected of them this season, found their bearings at the "Y" and clicked to a well-expected 33 to 29 victory over the rangy, but erratic Basbeteers.

All but one of the seven players used by Coach Charles King scored with Em Chapman, Samuel Miller and Joe Oliver, pacing the attack with 9, 8, and 8 points, respectively. Leading the Basketteers effort were Fred Bluett with 13 and Balfour Gland with 8 points.

The third game of the week pitted the East Side Hornets with the Boilermakers and they went at it hammer and tongs from the opening whistle, keeping at it until the shot from the gun ended the fray. Ralph Kaufman's 14 points was tops for the winners, while Allie Wade's 15 points and William Ashford's 10 points were the best for the losers.

Showing their same form that won the winter league last year, the Bombardiers threw everything they knew at the Vikings. Leading the Bombardiers as the outstanding man on the floor for the entire game was Dave Flynn, whose 21 points was the best of the game, as well as for the week. David Ross, the big noise for the Vikings was well guarded for most of the game, yet he managed to loop in seven field goals and two charity tosses for 16 points, while his teammate E. McGill had one of his best nights dropping in seven field goals and four free throws for a total of 18 digits.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: The World Mission of the Church. Lesson Text and Outline, Romans 10:8-15; Ephesians 3:8-12. Motto Text Isaiah 52:7.

Introduction

"A church is a body of baptized believers in Jesus Christ united in the faith, fellowship, and furtherance of the gospel; sometimes the general body of Christ's people." The world mission is declared by Paul in his letters to Rome, the seat and center of universal empire, and to Ephesus, the shrine of Diana worship and the emporium of western Asia.

Comments

1. When we speak of looking upon Christ, and receiving Christ, and feeding upon Christ, it is not Christ in heaven, nor Christ in the deep, that we mean; but Christ in the promise, Christ exhibited to us, and offered, in the word. Christ is nigh thee, for the word is night thee; nigh thee indeed: it is in thy mouth, and in thy heart; there is no difficulty in understanding, believing, and owning it. The gospel discovers the greatest part of the work done already, and what remains cut short in righteousness, salvation offered upon very plain and easy terms, brought to our door, as it were, in the word which is nigh us.

Preachers and hearers are correlates; it is a blessed thing when they mutually rejoice in each other—the hearers in the skill and faithfulness of the preacher, and the preacher in the willingness and obedience of the hearers. Preachers cannot preach except they be both commissioned and sent, and in some measure qualified for their preaching work. How shall a man act as an ambassador, unless he has both his credentials and his instructions from the prince that sends him? It is God's prerogative to send ministers; he is the Lord of the harvest, and therefore to him we must pray that he would send forth labourers.

2. Those whom God advances to honorable employments he humbles and makes low in their own eyes; and, where God gives grace to be humble, there he gives all other grace. A faithful minister of Christ may be very humble, and think very meanly of himself, even when he thinks and speaks very highly and honorably of his sacred function.

Comment on the Motto Text

The preaching of the Gospel, which is a proclamation of peace and salvation; it is gospel indeed, good news, glad tidings, tidings of victory over our spiritual enemies and liberty from our spiritual bondage. The good news is that the Lord Jesus reigns and all power is given to him. Christ himself brought these tidings first, and of him the text speaks; How beautiful are his feet! his feet that were nailed to the cross, how beautiful upon Mount Calvary! His ministers proclaim these good tidings; they ought to keep their feet clean from the pollutions of the world, and then they ought tot be beautiful in the eyes of those to whom they are sent, who sit at their feet, or rather at Christ's in them, to hear his word. They must be esteemed in love for their work's sake, for their message sake, which is well worthy of all acceptation. Those to whom the tidings are brought shall be put thereby into a transport of joy.

Calif. Preachers Lick Jim Crow; Attend AME Meet in Texas

Four California ministers attending the international winter meeting of the African Methodist Episcopal Church in Dallas, Texas, met with Jimcrow practices—and defeated them in a novel way.

The ministers are: Rev. J. B. St. Felix Isaacs and Rev. Dr. J. L. Glover, both of Los Angeles; Rev. Jesse L. Boyd, Pasadena; and Rev. Alfred K. Quinn, San Diego.

These four companions in the preaching of the gospel had secured reservations to Dallas, and so could not be forced to go to a jimcrow car when they entered deep into the heart of Texas. When they went into the observation car, however, every white passenger in the car left. And the four Negro ministers were left in complete possession, monarchs of all they surveyed!

Their story got around to William C. Barnard, staff writer for the Associated Press, and he asked for a special interview with them. They talked for more than an hour about the racial question, and every other subject the young reporter could think of. His story was published on the front page of Section II, with a by-line, the next day in the Dallas Morning News!

Among the questions asked was the aims and hopes of the Negro people. Revs. Isaacs, Boyd, Quinn, and Glover agreed on the following: 1. Complete equality of opportunity. 2. First class American citizenship—"not the second class we now have." 3. No special favors—"they could be erased"—just the privileges we are entitled to under the Constitution.

"Social equality is not an issue," said Dr. Glover. "That is purely an individual matter. I might say that the white man introduced social equality to the Negro, as witness the 5,000,000 Negroes passing for white in the United States."

The reason Negroes are passing for white in the United States, the four ministers agreed, is not because they are ashamed of their race.

"There is no need for that. Every Negro should be and most of them are proud of being a Negro. Our race has accomplished so much with so little that it sends a glow of pride through all of us every time we think of what we've done. Negroes pass for white when they can because of the discrimination practiced against them. You yourself," they told Barnard, "are a witness to that."

The meeting in Dallas endorsed the ten-point civil rights program of President Truman, and laughed to scorn the threat of the southern governors to leave the Democratic Party.

"We feel that the Southern governors did not speak the true feeling of the people of the South when they criticized the President's civil rights program," was the consensus of opinion.

In speaking of America's aid to help the people of Europe, it was also suggested that "at least $2,000,000 should be allotted to Haiti and Africa to relieve human suffering because of the lack of food and clothing."

More than 1500 delegates, ministers, and laymen from every part of the United States attended the three-day sessions.

(Editor's note. Those ministers who endorsed the Truman program for civil rights no doubt believe they are on the right track. We, however cannot help but remember what happened to so many of the other promises made by President Truman, and we are wondering if his civil rights program will not be buried in the same inevitable grave which now houses the anti-lynch bill, the anti-poll tax bill, the FEPC, and all the other measures intended to grant those liberties he has promised so loudly in the civil rights program.)

Baptists Hold Winter Meet in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The National Baptist Convention of America will hold its mid-winter session here on February 25 and 26, according to Rev. Dr. C. Charles Taylor, ex-officio chairman of the local arrangements committee. Dr. Taylor, youthful and aggressive pastor of St. John's Fourth Baptist church, is also president of the Union Baptist Theological seminary.

All meetings during the mid-winter session will be conducted at St. John Divine Baptist church, Rev. A. J. Bebelle, host pastor and chairman.

Christian Science Theme 'Christ Jesus'

"Christ Jesus" will be the Sunday Lesson-Sermon subject in all branches of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The Golden Text is from the Psalms: "Thou art fairer than the children of men: grace is poured into thy lips: therefore God hath blessed thee for ever."

A Scriptural passage from Isaiah reads, "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound; . . . To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified."

On this subject Mary Baker Eddy says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "Christ is the true idea voicing good, the divine message from God to men speaking to the human consciousness. The Christ is incorporeal, spiritual,—yea, the divine image and likeness, dispelling the illusions of the senses; the Way, the Truth, and the Life, healing the sick and casting out evils, destroying sin, disease, and death."

Friendship Day, Success

Pastors F. K. Leath and S. B. Franklin were all smiles about the way their members and friends responded to their Friendship Day service. An attentive congregation of friends was present and enjoyed the helpful messages in songs and sermons. The morning message was brought by Rev. Wm. Linly from St. John 9:4. A delicious free ham dinner was served.

The West Coast Evangelistic Union, Rev. W. H. Grigsby, president, with many members present and participating, conducted an inspiring afternoon service.

At the 7:30 hour Pastor Franklin brought the closing sermon to the delight of all hearers. Four persons were added to the church, two being candidates for baptism.

Canaan and Second Calvary extends a cordial invitation to you to come regularly to their place of worship, 1182 E. 35th street, where you will receive a hearty welcome.

Sunday, February 29, the services will be: 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 7:30 p.m.

Letter of Thanks

We the members of the Baptist Minister's Association of Los Angeles, California take this method of expressing our appreciation to Rev. W .M. Hicks A.B. & B.D. formerly of Shreveport, Louisiana.

For the last 12 months he has been our Bible teacher and words are inadequate to express the benefits we derived from the exposition given by him on the doctrine of the teachings of Jesus Christ, and in our judgement, he is one of the most ideal examples of a real Christian minister, whom we'll ever meet and we the members of the Baptist Minister's Association regret very much his departure. We are praying that his trip will be a success, and he will return soon and that the God of Peace will keep him where ever he goes.

Done by the Order of the Baptist Ministers Association:
REV. J. W. LOGAN, Pres.
REV. KELLEY KEY,
Vice President.
REV. J. D. VAUGHN, Secy.

Religious Record

The voice of the late Mohandes K. Gandhi, leader of India's Hindu millions whose recent death is mourned by the world, can still be heard on a recording made in 1932 and reissued by Columbia this week. Gandhi was living in England when the record was made, and accepted the offer to record his spiritual philosophies only with the stipulation that the royalties be donated to the Indian National Congress Party for use in the independence campaign.

It is reported that Gandhi was paid a recording fee of $200,000, which is believed to be the highest in the history of the recording industry. The record is entitled "The Justification of God."

Individuals, as nations, unite harmoniously on the basis of justice, and this is accomplished when self is lost in Love — or God's own plan of salvation.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Missionary Baptist Association Holds Successful Meeting

The Independent Missionary Baptist Association of Southern California held its second quarterly board-meeting at the Galilee Baptist church, Rev. E. E. Wilhite, pastor. It began Tuesday night, February 17 and lasted through 20 on 23rd & Stanford avenues. Under the auspices of the YWCA. A fine program was rendered by the young women on Tuesday night.

But the association met a very contentious spirit on Wednesday morning when they returned to open the S.S. & B.T.U. Congress Session. The Reverends E. J. Jarcel, J. D. Vaughn, N. King, J. P. King, W. R. Thomas, and two or three others who were in accord with above mentioned brethren's actions taken in this session created such confusion in the meeting until the Association For Peace and Christ's sake went to the Union Baptist church and finished our work as the program called for. The above mentioned brethren who caused this confusion, said after the pastor of the church stated that the doors of the church would be closed the next day, that they were meeting at the Maryland Baptist church to carry out their plans.

The Independent Missionary Baptist Association of Southern California Rev. L. Johnson, moderator, met at the Union Baptist church Thursday morning W. H. & F. M. in session with E. Woods, secretary and V. V. Taylor, president. The Lord blessed our coming together, the meeting was of a great success.

On Friday morning Moderator L. Johnson presided. The program was received and adopted, three churches were added to the association, namely, the New Prosperity Missionary Baptist church, Rev. S. L. Taylor pastor; the New-Morning Star Missionary Baptist church, Rev. G. Washington, pastor; the People Missionary Baptist church, Rev. M. C. Graves, pastor; the Independent Missionary Baptist Association of Southern California wants the public to know that these bretherns who caused this confusion are not members of the Independent Association.

Life and Religion Become One

By JOHN HOSHOR

(Contributed by the writer and the Applied Christianity League and published by this newspaper as a public service.)

Until recently the principles of Christianity have always been in basic conflict with the facts of economic existence.

In a Scarcity Economy, which the human race has lived under until the present, the law of the jungle was accepted as the law of life. Human beings fought each other for survival, for crusts of bread, for wealth. How then could they possibly love one another? Perhaps a few did. They were the saints. No doubt many others tried and on the Sabbath actually went through the motions. But the great majority were too busy with the economic struggle to be able to live the Christian tenets.

Today, however, Christianity is eminently practicable. Our productive capacities have expanded until we can produce an overflowing abundance of all the good things of life for every living person. The private accumulation of wealth has become senseless, idiotic and criminal.

We have reached the point where all businesses may be operated for the public good without harm to anyone. Since everyone can have an overflowing abundance beyond their capacity to use and enjoy and no one will have less than now, who can reasonably object?

No longer forced by economic circumstances to fight their fellow beings for existence or wealth, life and religion now become one. Christ's dictum of almost 20 centuries ago, "Love ye one another" will no longer conflict with economic necessities.

And no longer shall we honor those who grasp and greed all they can from their fellow beings. They become economic cannibals and shall be outlawed or rendered harmless. Instead those who do most for their fellow beings and for the public good shall be most honored.

The creative energies of the human race thus loosed will outshine anything the world has ever seen, as the sun outshine the light bulb.

The times are great. It is within our power to birth the millenium. God grant that we shall not fail.

Rickey Talk at 'Force' Stirred Up Old Wounds

Most of Criticism About Dodger Boss Sour Grapes

By Stanley Robertson, Eagle Sports Editor

BRANCH RICKEY really threw the benzadrine in Mrs. Murphy's Ovaltine last week when he addressed the annual Football Banquet at Wilberforce university on the subject of the major club owners plan to bar Negroes from organized baseball . . . The reactions to RICKEY'S little talk have been nationwide in impact . . . most of the club owners have denied that there ever was such a plan to keep Negro athletes out of baseball, one in particular, former YANKEE head man, LARRY McPHAIL has been especially loud and long on his defense of the club owners . . . McPHAIL, who openly has no love for the DODGER boss, claims that RICKEY is trying to set himself up as a martyr to the cause of better race relations by making up this "lie" on the moguls of "the national pastime" . . . Then there's that man the X, Vincent X. FLAHERTY to be exact the same X who basks in the journalistic brilliance of the left hand corner of the LOS ANGELES EXAMINER first sport page who is also climbing on the "Let's Get Rickey" bandwagon . . . The man called X seems to think that, besides numerous other things, the big league boys could have had they wished, kept Robinson out of the Majors, and that there never was an "unwritten law" against Negroes in the Major Leagues, that RICKEY was only interested in the business end of the proposition when he signed JACKIE ROBINSON to a contract, and that BRANCH RICKEY is just a proveracator . . . Well, MR. X. is usually a fine, sensible, fair opinionist, but when he expressed these above mentioned views in his last Sunday's column, I think that the X stepped off the pier long after the boat had left. . . . First of all, I'd like to ask the X, how would the major league bosses kept ROBINSON out of the game without causing a big fracas that would have given baseball a black mark that would have made the BLACK SOX SCANDAL appear like a Girl Scouts picnic? . . . Second, Mr. X, when you talked about there being no unwritten law, or there not being over a handful of NEGRO baseballers who could have ever made the major loops, I think you were VERY, VERY wrong! . . . Any child of six could reason thta since the day way back in 1839 at Cooperstown, N. Y., that old Abner Doubleday first yelled "batter up" there has been more than a handful of Negroes who could have made the majors . . . and on this unwritten law deal, how come it wasn't until RICKEY signed ROBBIE that no Negro player graced a big league dugout? . . . And VXF, don't you think you sort of missed the side pocket when you said that the reason no Negroes were in organized baseball before ROBINSON was the fact that they weren't especially needed, a little untrue, and sort of biased in opinion? . . . look what ROBINSON'S presence did for the DODGERS not only on the diamond but in the cash register as well? . . . Yes VINCENT, you can be sophomorish about it and say that RICKEY'S bringing JACKIE up to the DODGERS was a pure business venture, but what signing of a pro ballplayer isn't a business venture? . . . Business venture, or not, I'M still one who's going to give the DODGER executive a lot of credit and praise for signing the first Negro into organized baseball . . . Oh, and by the way Mr. X, how many other clubs can boast such a record? If they were as liberal and fair as McPHAIL and the others would like you to believe, there might be more promising young colored ballplayers getting a chance to show their wares in the bigtime . . . I hear that RICKEY'S giving ROY CAMPENELLA Negro rookie from Montreal, a chance at DIXIE WALKER'S old spot in the right field garden at Ebbett's Field . . . Besides the Cleveland Clubs LARRY DOBY, they'll be the only two Negroes in the Majors this year . . . Don't get me wrong Mr. X, I'd rather see not one Negro player in the big leagues than to see 5 or 10 colored lads only playing because their skins are dark . . . No Mr. X, if a guy can cut the mustard then let him make the team, no matter what color his skin may be . . . RICKEY, whatever his intentions were, did give ROBINSON that chance, and for that I'll always be in his corner. . . .

FINNEY TO TROJANS

This will probably surprise a great number of people, including Hugh Finney of the Herald, but I learned definitely that John Finney, the former Jordan High School star gridder and trackman, and for the past two season's star on Compton J. C.'s national championship team, will enter the University of Southern California . . . Finney, who has been rumored all set to enter Oregon University on one hand, and to play pro ball with the San Francisco 49er's, will take classes in S. C.'s Extension School this spring and summer, and will be on hand when Jeff Cravath calls for grid practice around the 1st of September . . . with Finney, Don Rogers, Vromney Peters, Gene Nordyke, and Dewey Vroom from last year's champion Compton eleven all at S. C., and with 2 score of the finest prep and J. C. athletes in the vicinity on hand, the Trojans look to be loaded . . . but our choice goes to California at Berkely for the PCC championship in '48 . . . Woodly Lewis who thought Finney might go up to Oregon with him, will be in for a tough time of it for the Oregonians have just released their '48 grid schedule which contains those Wolverines from Michigan . . . good luck Woodly, you'll need it, they say this team at M. U. this year will put the Rose Bowl one to shame.

Fatality Stirs Nation As State and Manager Accused

CHICAGO—As his sister pleaded tearfully over the long-distance telephone for doctors to "do something, do anything to save Sam's life," 20-year-old Akron and New York fighter Sam Baroudi died just six hours after he had been knocked out in the tenth and final round of a fight with light-heavyweight contender Ezzart Charles.

Death came to the 20-year-old fighter as a result of a cerebral hemorrhage, a little more than six hours after he had been carried unconscious from the ring of the Chicago Stadium in the most important fight of his life.

Strange as truth is, it was just last August 16 that Baroudi was involved in a similar accident that caused the death of another fighter; this time, though, he wasn't so fortunate for it was he who went down for the longest count of them all. Last August 16, young Glenn Newton Smith, of Philadelphia, died in a North Adams, Mass., hospital after being knocked senseless the night before by murderous rights and lefts from Baroudi.

NOTICED SOMETHING

Charles, the hard-hitting Cincinnati light-heavyweight contender for Gus Lesnevitich's crown, said that he "noticed something wrong" with Baroudi "He was bleeding from the nostrils, I never saw a fighter do that before," spoke Charles, who was detained on a technical charge of manslaughter.

Jack Mintz, Charles' manager, also said he saw Baroudi "acting queer" in the ninth round, but didn't pay much attention to the fighter's actions.

MANAGER UNDER FIRE

While young Baroudi lay dying and was being administered the last rites of the Catholic church, the injured fighter's manager, Mike Spinelli, was speeding to catch a plane to New York, but when he reached the airport and was informed by reporters that the young Akron fighter had died, he cancelled his scheduled "business trip" to New York. When he was questioned by police officers later, Spinelli turned over the purse of $4000 that Baroudi would have received for the fight, claiming that "he was owed the money" by the dead fighter.

Members of the Illinois State Boxing Board, who in connection with the NBA are investigating the fight, said that Spinelli must appear before them on March 4, "to show why he should not be prohibited from managing fighters in the state of Illinois."

Similar action is coming from other states to bar the dapper manager, it is rumored. However, Spinelli has told intimates that he is "through with any phase of the fight game."

Spinelli must also face charges of falsifying records when he appears before the Illinois boxing body, for it was learned that he swore before a board of examiners that Baroudi was 22 years old when the fighter was really only 20, and thus subject to the state law which prohibits boxers under 21 from fighting more than six rounds. Baroudi was killed in the 10th round of a scheduled 10-round bout!

FURTHER INVESTIGATION

Further investigation into the tragedy will be carried on tomorrow (Feb. 27) by a special board in connection with the Illinois Boxing Commission. Meanwhile, the dead boxer's purse was being held up pending a final decision.

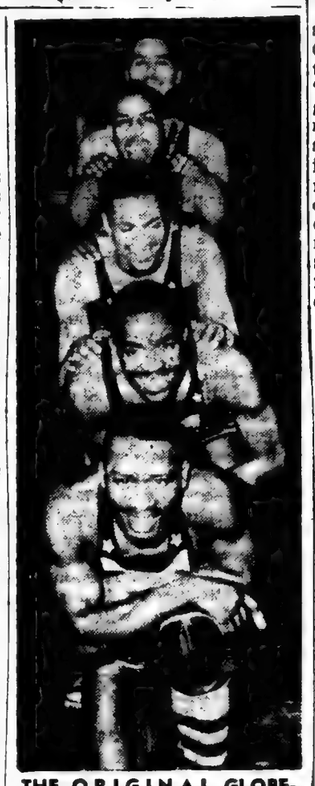
Do you remember when Jackie Robinson was leading the Pacific Coast Conference Southern Division scoring race with a total of 135 points scored for the UCLA Basketball team? When UCLA Trach Coach Harry Trotter boasted Bill Lacefield, Jackie Robinson, and Pat Turner, all who could broadjump over 25 feet? When Hal Sinclair, in the sprints, and Tom Berkeley in the 880 were being counted upon heavily to win points for the same Bruin track squad? When former heavyweight champion Jack Johnson just recovering from an attack of pneumonia, planned to spend a couple of months in Australia where he won the heavyweight crown from Tommy Burns on Dec. 23, 1908 at Rushcutter's Bay? When the then ill John Borican won the 1000 yard run at the National AAU games before 18,000 fans at New York's Madison Square Garden, by defeating John Woodruff in the good time of 2:15? When Francis Garland won the Metropolitan Conference scoring race by amassing a season's total of 155 points for Los Angeles city college?

1 Year Ago . . . February, 1947



Do you remember when "Bob Cat" Bob Montgomery tko'd Joey Barnum at the Hollywood Legion after 1 minute of the seventh round had gone by? When Don Barksdale scored 29 points in one game as UCLA's basketball Bruins upset the heavily favored Golden Bears of California, 72-59? When Connie Smith and Andrew Costello left with the Los Angeles Golden Glove team for the National Championships in Chicago? How many of the above mentioned incidents can you remember?

Gene Williams Ruled Ineligible

Gene Williams, 6 foot 5 inch basketball star at UCLA who has alternated as regular starting center with George Stanich throughout much of the season, was today declared ineligible for further competition due to scholastic deficiency.

The loss of Williams is a heavy blow to Bruin hopes for rising out of southern division cellar, which they share with the Stanford Indians.

Washington Leads NFL

PHILADELPHIA—Kenny Washington, the long-legged Los Angeles Ram back who was said to "be through" with football at the beginning of the 1947 season, led the National Football League in yards gained per try, it was announced this week when the official league statistics of the past season were released here.

The 1939 UCLA All-American gained 444 yards in 60 attempts for an average of 7.6 yards per try. Washington also was credited with the league's longest run from scrimmage, when he galloped 92 yards for a touchdown against the Chicago Cardinals.

Although Washington, who Rams boss Dan Reeves says will be back in the L. A. fold in '48, led the conference in yards per try, he was far short of the season's total of 1008 yards amassed by Philadelphia Eagle back Steve Van Buren, who set a new league record of 1008 yards, breaking the old NFL record of 1004 yards set by Beattie Feathers of the Chicago Bears in 1934.

TYPE CASTING

When George Allen, producer-director of Columbia's "The Whistler," was casting a script in which the lead was a first mate in the Merchant Marine, he immediately contacted John McIntire. John, producer Allen knew, is able to bring an unusual degree of realism to a characterization of a seafaring man because he spent nearly three years sailing the seven seas as an able seaman between sessions at USC.

Jack Beaten in 'Fight of the Year'

NEW YORK — In one of the most brutal and bloody fights since the days of bare knuckles, veteran Terry Young, a steel-jawed lightweight from New York's lower east side, won a hard-fought decision from former lightweight champion Beau Jack here Friday night before 14,441 fans at Madison Square Garden.

Described by veteran ring observers as the Madison Square Garden "fight of the year," the two lightweights put on a real "peir 6" brawl from the opening gong to the last bell of the final round. Jack, the former Atlanta shoeshine boy whose real name is Sidney Walker, went into the ring a 2 to 1 favorite, but the counter-punching demon Young, cut the Beau's face into a bloody mass. The hard-hitting eastsider, who must now be definitely classed in the running for champion Ray Robinson's crown, sent the ex-shoeshine boy down for a count of two in the very opening round, and for more than 30 seconds of the sixth frame he blasted Beau Jack with both hands as the ex-champ rolled helplessly on the ropes.

However, all wasn't cream and sugar for the young eastsider. Jack, who was definitely hampered by his left knee, which he fractured a year ago, fought Young at every turn of the road, mostly on guts and pure determination.

The two fighters fought toe to toe like two men of prehistoric times fighting for their very lives. It was only by the slim margin of one vote that the fight went to Young. The defeat, by a man he had beaten when they both were much younger back in 1942, brought to end the five-bout comeback streak of Beau Jack. Jack weighed 141¼, Young 137½.

ON THE TURF

— Geo. A. Ramsey

CALIENTE, Old Mexico — The horse that beats Blue Agent from six furlongs up to a mile will be crowned champion of the border course. Coming off of a mile and 70 yards two weeks ago the good son of Special Agent-Bluelark overtook the favored Powrie making his first start at the border course, failed badly when collared by Blue Agent. The break was perfect for the field of eight in the feature attraction called the George Washington Handicap at six furlongs. Powrie, shipped in from Bay Meadows, where he beat some of the fastest sprinters at the northern track, set the pace nearly to the head of the stretch, going the first half of mile in 45 2-5, gave way to the fast-charging Blue Agent to wind up sixth. Blue Agent won by two lengths, paying in the mutuels $6.40 as second choice. The time was 1:11 flat.

R. C. Ellsworth, who has some of the best horses at Santa Anita, also a small stable racing at the border course, sprung a good maiden in the second race when Kintal, making his first start at Caliente, scored a handily victory to best the favorite, Boncho, by one length. A small betting coup was put over by friends of Ellsworth. Jockey J. Robinson was the star of the day, riding four winners. Five favorites were able to visit the charmed circle of presiding steward Judge George Shilling. The daily double combination of Kintal, winner of the second race, and Want, victor of the third, paid $65.20, while the quiniela backers reecived $9.00 when the two favored horses finished one-two. Bemus, the winner, was the favorite, while Secor, who finished second, was a close second choice.

This Sunday, General Manager Walter C. Marty again offers 12 races with the feature attraction called the Walla Walla Handicap, at one mile and 70 yards. The secondary event, the Bellingham, at six furlongs, and for good measure Manager Marty has added the Olympia at one mile. At Santa Anita this Saturday the big event of the season will be run. It's the Santa Anita Handicap, with an added value of $100,000. This is one of the richest races in the world for older horses. And on closing day, March 6, the $100,000 Derby will be run for three-year-olds. The distance for both of these races is 1¼ miles. My pick for the Sant aAnita Handicap, to be run Saturday, is: Talon, first, Autocrat, second, and On Trust, third. Although if the track is muddy, Autocrat will be my first choice. So long, George.

Belita, co-starred with Preston Foster in the Scott R. Dunlap production, "The Hunted," for Allied Artists, currently is studying art in London.

WESTWOOD—Hilton Stanford, 160, making his debut in Blue and Gold boxing trunks, decisioned Arvin Smith, 160, of the University of California, Santa Barbara campus, as the UCLA Bruin leather pushers defeated their Gaucho cousins, 5½ to 2½ in a match here Saturday afternoon in the Bruin home ring.

Johnson Says Bid Rejected

NEW YORK — More fuel was thrown on the fire of the subject, "the Negro in organized baseball" this week when Rev. John J. Johnson, president of the Negro National League, said that the Negro National and American League had been "turned down cold" in their application for admission to organized baseball.

Johnson said that the two Negro leagues had applied for membership into the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minor leagues) but had been refused membership.

FROM HARLEM TO HOLLYWOOD:

Oodles and oodles of orchids to all of the entertainers who helped in such a great big way making the first Annual Club Festival such a huge success. Large orchids especially to Suzzette Harbin who secured most of the talent for the show and Faustina Johnson who handled the club part, and Bilmor, florist who donated the gorgeous corsages and Helen-Jane, florist for the beautiful leis. . . . I know that the Woodlawn branch of the Y.W.C.A. feel very good over the whole affair. . . . Dorothy Donegan, Chicago's answer to Hazel Scott, is in town on a 48-hr. furlough. . . . She was TWA'd here to visit songstress Maggie Hathaway (recouping from a recent flu-germ attack). Dot's next big date is a concert tour to star in Gay Pa-ree in the spring. . . . She'll net 2 grand per, which ain't bad even if it's only half that much! . . .

James Edwards, who portrays the role of Lt. Brett Charles in "Deep Are The Roots," has an answer to the racial question which should be recorded in the History books. . . . People ask: What is the solution: "It is so simple," he states, "Just do unto others as you would have them do unto you"! . . . On a recent trip there, Art Wilson fell for a N.Y. chorine and she broke his heart. . . . He's now on Manischewitz to ease the ache!! . . . Statistics (mine) reveal that San Francisco now has more native Californians than Los Angeles, and the town is "wide open" if you like wide open towns. . . . Unity Award Winner Adrian Scott Promises Honest Film As Tribute To Negro People Within a Year

The recognition of the film industry's contribution to interracial harmony and religious understanding was cited by the Unity Awards Committee at the Second Baptist church on Sunday when they awarded scrolls and trophies to winners in various capacities of radio and the screen.

Among the outstanding artists receiving awards were Groucho Marx, Ann Revere, Anthony Quinn, Lena Horne, station KLAC, Adrian Scott, Edward Dmytryk, John Paxton, Robert Ryan, Lloyd Gough, Joel Fluellen, and starlets Cathy Downs, Roddy McDowall received awards for their studios.

In accepting her award, Lena Horne said that there must be more and better film roles played by and for minority peoples. Producer Adrian Scott of the sensational "Crossfire" promised that "within a year, Mr. Dmytryk and I will make a picture, a decent picture, an honorable picture as a tribute to the Negro people." He received tremendous applause and the crowd cheered his associate and friend, Edward Dmytryk.

Caleb Peterson, founder and organizer of Unity Awards Committee, sang "Old Man River" and delivered a short talk on the plan for the Hollywood Race Relations Bureau to lobby for the production of fine films, placing specific emphasis on "The Peanut Man," a documentary on George Washington Carver.

HAILED as one of the key speakers at the Unity Awards program, Anthony Quinn said, "I hope to live to see the day when a man who believes, practices, and works for religious, and racial understanding shall not be cited for heroism but he who believes against it shall be cited an enemy of the country."

Platter-Chatter

If you haven't caught Jan Garber's version of that oldie, "My Extraordinary Gal" you have quite a surprise in store for you.

On a record of Red Ingle's, set for release about March 8, there is rather a cute reference to "I'll meet you at the Casbah." When this tune (Pearly Maude) was recorded last December, Red had no idea he'd be going into the Casbah night club.

Coming up shortly will be two of Nat's most outstanding arrangements—"I've Only Myself to Blame" and "The Geek." Frankly we're wondering which will get the nod. The King Cole trio will be going into Cezar's in mid-summer.

West Coast fans are looking forward to hearing Nellie Lutcher here in the spring. She opens at Cezar's in mid-May.

Andy Russell returns to the clear up details for his 5-night-a-week air show which starts March 11.

Les Paul is in the Wesley Hospital (Oklahoma City) and any of you who are intrigued by his first record for Capitol ("Lover" and "Brazil") will help him West Coast late this month to pass the time by dropping him a note.

Watch for Kay Starr's new release this month of "Mercy, Mercy, Mercy."

Martha Tilton is now featured on the Auto-Lite radio show with Dick Haymes. Her first release after returning to Capitol's fold is "That's Gratitude."

Ellabelle Davis on 3½ Mo. Concert Tour Of 11 European Cities

Ellabelle Davis, the distinguished American Negro soprano, will fill her first concert tour of Europe's capitals—a tour of 3½ months' duration, in the course of which she will make more than 30 appearances in recital and as soloist with symphony orchestras in 11 different countries.

Miss Davis, whose appearances throughout the United States and Latin America during the past four years have earned her recognition as one of the foremost artists of the United States, was the first American Negro to be starred by a major opera company of the world, when she sang the title role of "Aida" with the Opera Nacional of Mexico City on July 23, 1946.

Weidman Dance Group Presents Social Works

Biting social satire, uproarious and lampooning humar, and great dance artistry mark the four programs to be presented by the noted American dancer, Charles Weidman, and his company in the Wilshire Ebell Theatre this weekend under the auspices of Mary Bran.

In addition to his newest choreographic creation, based on James Thurber's "Fables For Our Time," Weidman will present several socially significant works, including "Lynch Town," with its bitter depiction of mob fury; "A House Divided," a moving ballet of the post-Civil War reconstruction period; and "Ringside," a jab at the boxing game. In addition to these and several abstract ballets, Weidman will also offer several works based upon humorous episodes in the life of his family, including the brisk, colorful ballet, "And Daddy Was a Fireman," based on his father's career as a fire chief.

But here is one for all those who say don't broadcast it or publish it because the Dixielanders will not listen to it, or read it. One of the most surprising features of the popularity of Sinclair Lewis' "King Blood Royal" was the huge sales of the book in the deep South.

COLUMBIA RELEASES TWO OLDIES

Columbia releases two fine records which are sure hits "I Love You" by Dan Grissom with Jimmy Lunceford's orchestra and "Ain't She Sweet" by Sy Oliver. Trummy Young, and the Lunceford Trio were made in the spring of 1939. These fine examples of Jimmy Lunceford's band style contain many of the attributes of the best in modern music; instrumentation is full, the respective section work is meticulous, the solo work imaginative, the Sy Oliver arrangements, although somewhat dated, still well constructed.

"Shout The Boogie" by Memphis Minnie with blind John Davis on the piano and "Three Times Seven Blues," is another Columbia release. One of the oldest and ablest of the folk blues singers, who has been recording almost since the phonograph was invented and has consistently enjoyed an enthusiastic audience, returns with two excellent blues numbers.

C'm't'w Sing Success

The full dress Kiddie Revue put on last Monday night at Lafayette Center by the Willie Covan Dance Studios, broke all previous records and won the tumultous acclaim of hundreds of community sing fans.

Evelyn Burwell, of radio, stage, and screen, the new community sing director; and Jules Smith, accompanist, clicked immediately with the fans with their wit and enthusiasm. Miss Burwell introduced a new tune she wrote especially for the sing called, "The family that sings together, is the family that clings together."

A quartet of Mexican children Jarabe dancers, headed by Agrapina Villa, won tremendous applause.

Miss Burwell replaces J. Earl Hinds who had sacrificed time he could ill afford to get the sing project started.

Next Monday night at 7:30 o'clock the Community Sing will be sponsored by the 28th Street Y's Men's Club, and will present a top flight show including Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, Arturo and Elena Ruiz, MGM feaured artists, and Pat Michaels, sophisticated swing recording stylist.

'Deep Are the Roots' At Belasco Theater

As the Belasco theatre play, "Deep Are the Roots," enters its seventh successful week, actors in the play continue to combine film work with their stage appearances. This week Curt Conway and Don Beddoe were signed for "The Saxon Charm" and "The Judge's Wife" at Universal International. Other players in the cast, including Rose Hobart, Robert Warwick, Jimmy Edwards and Jessie Grayson are all currently up for top film roles.

NEW YORK—Count Basie, the "Jump King of Swing," will make his first tour of the south in more than a year, following two weeks of theatre dates in New York and New Jersey.

Viviane Greene Hits Jack Pot On 1st Record

Viviane Greene, "The Honey, Honey, Honey Girl" and possessor of "the greatest left hand in boogie," has hit the musical jack-pot on her very first Trilon recording.

It is being described by the highly-cherished title of "A Collector's item" by many of the most prominent dish jockeys on radio stations thruout the country because of her unique vocal of "Honey, Honey, Honey," and her superb piano-rendition of "The Unfinished Boogie," based on Schubert's Unfinished Symphony.

Sharps And Flats

By ALBERT J. McNEIL

The California EAGLE welcomes to its Theatrical and Entertainment staff, Albert J. McNeil, who will be music critic of the paper with his column Sharps and Flats.

McNeil is a graduate of UCLA, and holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from USC. He is supervisor of music in the Los Angeles city schools, president of the Los Angeles Musicians Association, national organizer from the N.A.N.M., a member of the American Guild of Organists, the Southern California Conductors Guild, the Omega Psi Phi fraternity, and is director of music at the People's Independent Church of Christ.

He is highly qualified to accept the position of music critic for the California EAGLE.

(May I express my sincere appreciation to the Editorial Staff of this paper for the selection of this writer as Music Critic. Your constructive criticism will be earnestly solicited).

Last Sunday afternoon before an appreciative audience of Los Angeles concert goers, Roena Muckelroy Savage, soprano, was presented in solo recital. The program was well planned and in contrast to many similar presentations did not include hackneyed works which have long become a bore to the average concert goer. As a consequence, the presentation was refreshing and evn exciting. The Cavatina Und Ob Dis Wolke from Von Webers Opera Der Freischutz opened the concert. The artist had obviously studied the score so thoroughly that despite the fact that a foreign language was used, the interpretation had vitality and strength and most necessary, coherence. The flexibility of the upper register was beautifully and artistically displayed in Rossini's Bel Raggio Lusinghier from the Semframide. The dramatic flare was well pronounced. The apparent weakness rests only in a slightly undeveloped lower range. Adolphe Heller was genuine and sympathetic in his accompaniment. The concert was sponsored by the Department of Music of the People's Independent Church of Christ.

Bolen, Mathis Win; McKenely, Pearman Fall

NEW YORK — Dave Bolen, a long-striding trackster fast developing into America's No. 1 hope in the 400 meters in the Olympic Games, turned in the surprise of the National Indoor AAU championships held here Saturday night, when he won the 600-meter title in the good time of 1:18, while pre-race favorite Herb McKenley finished a poor fourth.

Other outstanding performances were turned in by Harrison Dillard, the great hurdler from Baldwin-Wallace college, who set a new meet record when he equalled the world's record for the 60-yard high hurdles at 7.2; Lorenzo Wright's 25 feet ¾ inch winning leap in the broad jump; and Bill Mathis' world-equalling time of 6.1 for the 60-yard dash.

PEARMAN UPSET

Reggie Pearman, smooth-running middle distance runner from New York university, considered by many authorities as America's No. 1 hope in the 800 meters next summer at London, was beaten by two yards by former schoolboy champion from Seton Hall, Phil Thigpen, by two yards in the 1000-yard run. Thigman's time was 2m. 16.4.

2nd Baptists Cagers Tangle With Pasadena

The Second Baptist varsity basketball team travels to the John Muir J. C. gym this Friday night to meet the powerful Friendship basketball team of Pasadena in the eleventh game of their long rivalry down through the years. These two teams always put on thrilling games whenever they meet. In the 10 games played between these two teams since 1939, Second Baptist has won seven of the contests, losing three. No game played has been won by more than five points.

The Second Baptist girls' team will take on the Friendship girls in the preliminary game, which also is always a thriller.

Second Baptist is looking forward to renewing its rivalry with the three fraternity teams of the city during the coming season. Of five games played against the frat teams, Second Baptist has won four, losing once to the Alphas in a return game in 1942 after having defeated them in the first.

Fonville Again Sets Shot Mark

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Ohio State's power-laden Buckeye track squad defeated the University of Michigan thinclads, 60½ to 53½, in an indoor meet here last week, but big Charley Fonville, Michigan 194-pound Negro weight star, walked off with individual honors when he heaved the 16-pound shot 56 feet 10⅝ inches, to shatter the American indoor record of 56 feet 6½ inches, which he himself set two weeks ago at the Michigan State Relays.

From a distant relative living in England, to whom she regularly has been sending foodstuffs, film star Audrey Long has just received a six-foot grandfather's clock made 102 years ago.

SIGNE HASSO, one of Hollywood's most popular actresses, has her first glamorous role in "A Double Life," Universal-International release, in which she appears opposite Ronald Colman. The picture is presented by Kanin Productions.

SUZETTE HARBIN, general chairlady of the star-studded show that took place Sunday afternoon at the 1st Annual Club Festival is shown congratulating the Festival King and Queen of the Fansurcarfine and Douze Mognonettes clubs respectively. Looking on is Avanell Harris, who crowned the queen; Monte Holly, M.C. of the afternoon; Faustina Johnson, club announcer. Orc. leader Joe Lutcher may be seen in background. Proceeds from the affair went to the Woodlawn Branch YWCA camping fund. (See story).

Joe Louis Can't Retire

Although Joe Louis has said on several occasions that he plans to retire after his return bout with Walcott in June, he just can't afford such a luxury, avers the current issue of Sport magazine.

In a copyrighted article the magazine contends that Louis has to crawl from a financial hole before he hangs up his gloves. Reasons advanced for Louis' financial problems is his great generosity and heavy income taxes.

Sport also points out that aside from sheer finances, there's the matter of pride involved in being champion. Joe feels that he owes a debt to the Negro people and as champion he can speak out in behalf of them.

When Louis announced his intention to retire, his managers, Marshall Miles and Joe Roxborough, weren't consulted. Neither Miles nor Roxborough put much stock in Joe's announcement.

Sport feels that Louis will have to engage in several fights, lay aside a good portion of his purses, and then call it quits. Not until then will he be able to leave the ring.

Club Festival Goes Over With Bang at Club Congo

By Gertrude Gipson

This year the various young social, business and professional clubs of the city took an important new step by establishing something different in Los Angeles. Working in cooperation with some of the youth organizations of the city, the First Annual Club Festival, held Sunday afternoon, February 22 at Club Congo, went over with the proverbial bang! with proceeds from the affair going towards sending youngsters off to camp.

One of the greatest show-dance sesions ever assembled in the angel city has passed into history, with that terrific musical show, featuring artists of stage, screen, and radio unfolding the greatest array of talent seen around these parts in ages. It was an afternoon of the tops in entertainment!

Following the usual preliminaries, Elvira Redd and the band started things off at a merry musical clip, and for the few numbers played during their portion of the program, took the guys and gals in the audience on a non-stop flight to swingdom! Claude and Cliff Trenier took complete charge of the situation with their song renditions. Ralph Weaver demonstrated his skill as a dance stylist, and eight-year-old Tonie Harper wrapped the show up in a neat little package and politely stole it away. She sang "Lady Be Good" in a voice as professional as any we've heard, and the way she wraps her heart around a vocal you'd think she was born with "a silver tune in her mouth"! She was accompanied by the very capable and famed Eddie Beale. Joe Lutcher who certainly doesn't need to refer to the fact that he's Nellie's Bro. (for he most assuredly will go places on his own) brought the house down with his mad arrangement of "Rockin' Boogie," and as a featured Gene Phillips "guest guitarist" on an intricate little ditty and Gene, as they say in 'swing circles, "played like mad!" Emily Foster, a Mable Scott-style-songstress (musically that's a compliment) stepped up to the microphone and sang "If I Was An Itty Bitty Girl," and the "Sandman" (known around these parts as the city's "top" sand dancer) left no room for argument as he "sanded" his way into the hearts of all those present. Singer Bill Day and actor Monte Hawley, recently returned from a theatrical tour with Jackie Robinson, emceed the show in big time style. Monte, always a favorite, made with jive-talk introductions and was received with a thunderous round of applause. Throughout the entire proceedings he walked about the floor chatting with freinds; heckling the musicians and making himself more popular with many eastside fans and friends.

The Club Festival tolerated no color line in its affair, as was witnessed when the amazing 8-year-old Nick Castle protege Johnnie Gardener took the floor for a feature spot and solidly sent the record-breaking crowd with some of the most terrific dancing ever emulated from the tops of a dance shoe!

The piece-de-resistance involved the 3-Rockets, currently appearing at Slapsie Maxies; Clarence Samuels, young blues singer and the world famous Nicholas Brothers. There are some who contend the Nicholas Bros. dancing was the most exciting part of the afternoon festivities. Others went wild over the 3-Rockets, and singer Clarence Samuels had the girls in the audience reaching into their bags for "swooning salts." There was no star of the show. Every act was a star and much credit goes to Suzette Harbin, lovely young actress for rounding up the talent and also to Mrs. Faustina Johnson for her services rendered during the whole afternoon.

The show itself was "hotter than the San Francisco fire!!

Regular Meeting of the L. A. Musicians Assn.

The regular meeting of the Los Angeles Musicians Association was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Pickett. It was a very enthusiastic one as plans got under way and tickets were distributed for the presentation of the famous baritone, Kenneth Spencer, by the L. A. Musicians Association assisted by the Music Department of the People's Independent Church on Easter Sunday afternoon in the Philharmonic Auditorium.

This concert will be the outstanding musical and social event of the season. You will not want to miss it so keep the date in mind. Mrs. Pulliam, advisor for the young peoples group gave a report on their activities. Mrs. Emma Spencer, mother of the famous Kenneth, was a guest and made a very inspirational speech. The Association headed by the very capable president, Albert McNeil has great plans for the future which include a much needed clubhouse and scholarships for worthy young musicians wether vocalists or instrumentalists. It is also the chief aim of the Association to present bigger and better musical programs at all times so tell your friends and plan to hear this very fine artist, Kenneth Spencer.

GREENSBORO, N. C. — A. and T. College yesterday reported a 2800-student enrollment with veterans again comprising the major portion of A. and T. enrollment.

WASHINGTON — Illinois Jacquet, the mighty mite of the tenor saxophone, came within a few hundred dollars of setting a new attendance record as he set this city on its proverbial ear in a week's engagement on stage of the Howard theatre.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1- Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion,* thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2- Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Phone Co. Installs New Million Dollar Unit

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company this week unwrapped its latest piece of switching equipment in the downtown Los Angeles office—equipment that has been nicknamed "The Brain" by telephone men because of its great versatility in handling inter-office calls in the metropolitan Los Angeles area.

Technically known as crossbar tandem switching equipment, this million dollar unit will increase by 50 percent the facilities serving as a clearing house for calls between Los Angeles and nearby points.

Housing Discussed At Ind. Church

A most informative and worthwhile meeting was held last Friday evening in the People's Independent Church by the Wendell L. Wilkie Chapter of the American Veterans Committee. "Housing" was the subject of the meeting.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. O'Dwyer, president, Los Angeles Citizens Housing Council, Inc., spoke on the proposed State Housing Initiative and Referendum. He urged all to sign the petition to get it on the ballot, and then vote and work for its passage.

Hon. James Roosevelt, chairman State Democratic Committee, spoke on the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill now before Congress as an effort of the Federal government to solve the Housing problem.

Panel discussions were held on rent control, restrictive covenants, and other topics relating to housing. Rev. Clayton D. Russel is the pastor of the People's Independent church.

MITCHUM TO STAR

Robert Mitchum, whose popularity at the beginning of 1948 tops that of any new star developed during the past year, has been cast by RKO Radio in the top role of "Blood on the Moon," screen version of Luke Short's widely discusses Saturday Evening Post serial.

Educators Warn of Trend in U. S. to Militarist State

WASHINGTON—Professor Albert Einstein and 20 other leading educators, clergymen and prominent public figures this week issued a warning that "America cannot remain democratic if the present trend toward military control of our institutions continues."

Pointing to the "militarized states" which arose in Japan and Germany when civilian control of national policy was undermined, the group said:

"The same pattern already exists in large measure in our own land."

Stressing the presence of military leaders in key civilian posts under the Truman administration, the group warned:

"The army is planning for even greater military control over the American people . . ."

"Militarism leads both to war and loss of freedom."

The two most influential men in the government are Admiral William D. Leahy, President Truman's personal aide, and Gen. George C. Marshall, secretary of state, the group pointed out.

"Gen. Marshall's assistant is Brig. Gen. Marshall S. Carter. The assistant secretary of state, John E. Puerifoy, is a West Point graduate. Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay is military governor of the American zone in Germany, and Gen. MacArthur is in control in Japan," the statement added.

"The ambassador to Russia is Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith . . . a number of other key positions in the State Dept. are occupied by military men."

Start Drive for Canadian FEPC

By ISAAC JONES
(Special to the Eagle)

WINDSOR, Ontario, Canada—Colored Canadians and other minority groups who have never enjoyed much of the economic opportunities offered by Canada were girding this week to battle for a Canadian FEPC.

Plans for the country's first FEPC were outlined last Wednesday night at a meeting in the Central YMCA in downtown Windsor, called by the cently organized Windsor Interracial Committee. Fifty organizations were invited to send 2 delegates each; more than half of the organizations responded with 60-odd delegates, of whom nine were colored.

Principal speaker of the meeting was Albert Watson, of Toronto, and active in interracial work in that city. Watson declared there were 35,000 colored persons in Canada, most of them living in the province of Onttario. He gave several examples of discrimination against these people and other minority groups.

The movement for a Canadian FEPC was heartily endorsed by Mayor Arthur A. Resume of Windsor.

"We don't have any right to draw lines here in Windsor in employment, or elsewhere, because of race or color," the mayor said. "If we hope to build a country on Christanity, we must put it into practice."

Mayor Resume attributed discriminatory practices and race hatred to the native-born Canadians, gave the foreign born a clean bill of health.

He told of his own expediences with local racists, who protested his appointment of a Negro to the police force. "Recently, we hired a colored solicitor (lawyer) at the City Hall, and there were complaints again," he added.

George Schermer, director of the Detroit Interracial Committee, outlined the work of his committee among various racial groups in Detroit.

Dr. Morris, L. A. Pastor Speaks In Daytona Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—Dr. Charles Satchell Morris II, of Los Angeles, formerly pastor of the historic Bethel Baptist Institutional church, Jacksonville, shared the spotlight here last Sunday and Monday in special services at Bethune-Cookman college, honoring Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, founder and president emeritus of the college.

Dr. Morris was the principal speaker at the great community meeting in the afternoon when 900 students and hundreds of white winter tourists attended. Dr. Bethune gave an impassioned plea to the young people to press on with the work, and told some of her experiences in the founding of the college. She advised them to have faith in God and the eventual triumph of American democracy.

Dr. Morris is a brother-in-law of Paul R. Williams, internationally renowned architect.

Nation's Schools Blamed for Bias

Main stress in wiping out bigotry and intolerance was placed on the slow process of education by Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war and featured Brotherhood Week speaker in this area.

Addressing the National Conference of Christians and Jews at Ambassador Hotel Tuesday night, Patterson predicted that the days of American bigotry will be numbered when the nation's youth comprehends the injustice that comes from prejudice based on differences in religion, race or national origin." He added, "If a person is truly educated, he cannot be prejudiced."

He skirted the question of civil rights legislation, but decried the nation's education system's shortcoming of turning out graduates who still harbor prejudices in religion, race or nationality.

Demos File Suits Against Club Raiders

Members of the Crescenta-Canada Democratic Club, whose meeting in the home of Hugh Hardyman was raided by an ex-newspaper publisher and 12 members of American Legion Post 127 last fall, are not satisfied with the penalities imposed upon the raiders. They consider their convicvtions as a victory of major importance, but the penalties inadequate.

Accordingly civil suits are being filed against the leaders of the conspiracy, and a suit for damages will be filed in Federal Court. In recognition of the importance of this case, several lawyers of outstanding ability have volunteered their services, and the members and guets of the Club at the time of the raid, have formed the Committee for Civil Rights in Glendale for the purpose of carry on the fight.

Wallace Names Campaign Mgr.

NEW YORK—Henry A. Wallace yesterday denounced as a "horrible mockery" of democracy the proposal in senate bill S1414 to establish a segregated hospital for Negro veterans in Virginia. In a telegram to Sen. Wayne Morse, chairman of a subcommittee of the Senate Labor Committee, Wallace demanded rejection of the bill.

He urged passage of the Wagner - Morse - Case anti-lynching bill in another wire to Sen. Homer Ferguson, chairman of a subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The National Wallace for President Committee announced that Paul Robeson began serving last Monday as one of its three-co-chairmen.

The committee is headed by Elmer A. Benson, farmer and businessman and former governor and U. S. senator from Minnesota.

Serving with Robeson as co-chairmen are Rexford Guy Tugwell, for many years one of President Roosevelt's chief advisors, and Jo Davidson, famous sculptor. Treasurer of the committee is Angus Cameron.

Wallace announced that C. B. Baldwin, executive vice-chairman of the Progressive Citizens of America, will be his campaign manager.

Lawyers Brand Taft Law, Witch Hunts Unconstitutional

CHICAGO—The National Lawyers' Guild adopted resolutions this week charging that the Thomas-Rankin Un-American Committee, the President's loyalty order for government employes, and the Taft-Hartley law are unconstitutional.

Approximately 200 delegates at the annual convention asked congress to investigate the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) to determine whether civil rights were being violated.

Alumni Blast Move For JimcroRegional School at Meharry

SAN FRANCISCO—Denouncing what they termed "sell-out to anti-democratic southern state government," a group of Bay Area Meharry school graduates this week dispatched a strongly worded telegram to President Clawson and to Dr. Mathew Walker, president of the alumni association, protesting an attempt on the part of the school's board of trustees to make Meharry a regional school to train Negro students.

Following the decision by the supreme court in the case of the University of Oklahoma, in which the state was ordered to set up equal facilities for all students, governors of the southern states, come forward with a proposal to establish regional professional school for Negroes.

For the past years, Meharry has been faced with financial difficulties, and at one time was in danger of closing its doors due to lack of funds. It seems that the school officials see no relief in the near future and are willing to make Meharry available to the proponents of the regional professional school plan.

At an emergency meeting held by the doctors and dentists of the Bay Area it was unanimously agreed that since the supreme court decision specifically stated that all state institutions are to provide equal facilities for all, they would rather have Meharry close its doors than to be operated as a regional school for Negroes. The feeling is that the regional school plan will perpetuate the Jim Crow system in education.

Offers U. S. Program For World Peace

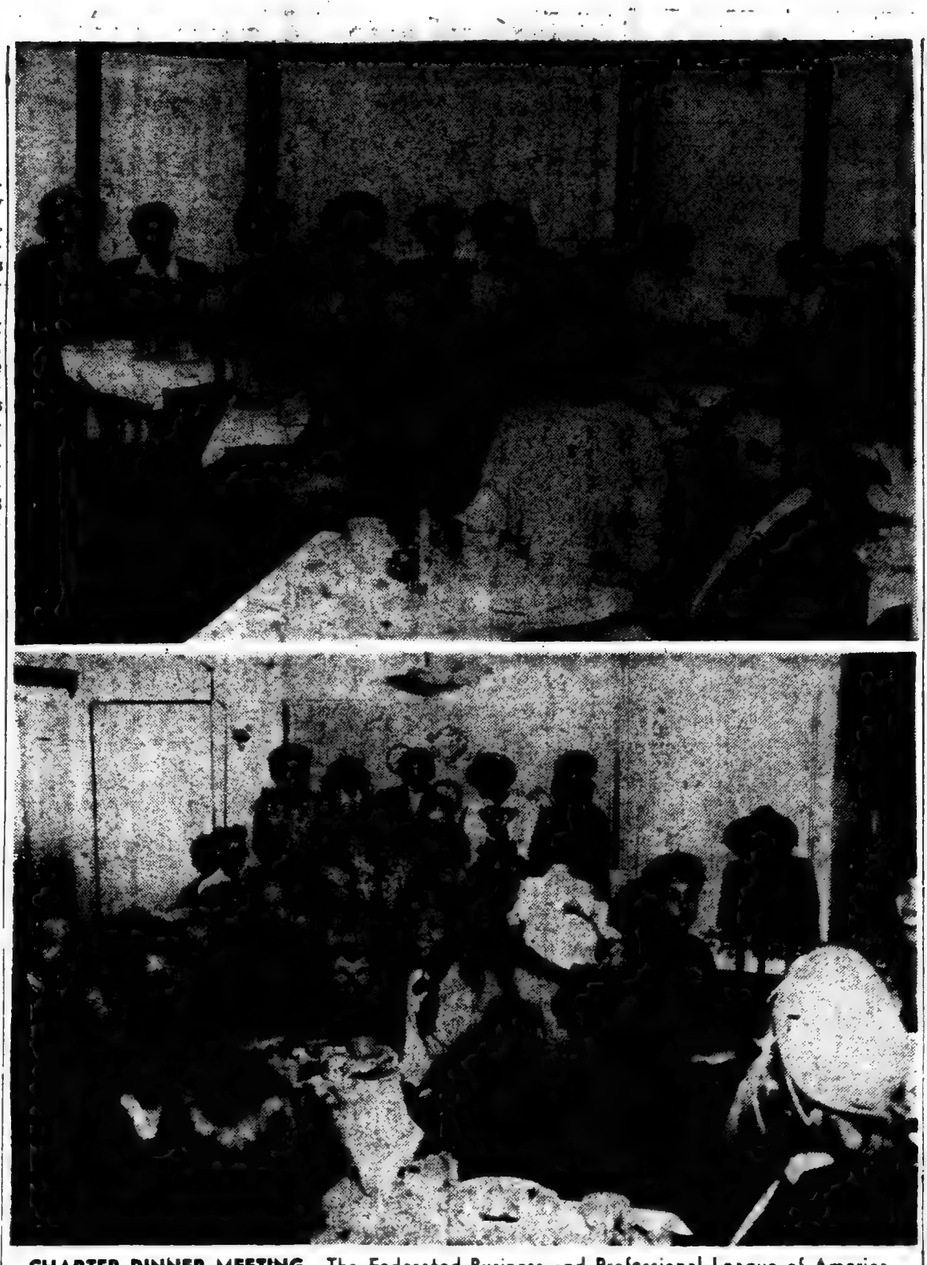
NEW YORK—Implied criticism of the U. S. both in the UN and in bypassing the UN when convenient is contained in a program laid down by the American Association for the United Nations which it said this country should adhere to for the sake of world peace.

It urged the U. S. to make the UN "the foundation of its foreign policy," warned against using UN machinery "when convenient" and by-passing it "when short-sighted short cuts present themselves."

It expressed regret that the administration had completely by-passed the UN in proposing and organizing the Marshall Plan, warned against using "America's mammoth economic advantage" for the advancement of "economic imperialism."

The Association further urged an understanding with Russia through the UN "without sacrificing principle and without appeasement," and the setting up of an international volunteer constabulary "to enforce the impending partition of Palestine."

Defeats Move to Condemn Strikes by Teachers



NEW YORK — A proposal to condemn teachers' strikes at a meeting of the President's Commission on Higher Education was defeated by Mark Starr, educational director of the International Ladies Garments Workers Union (AFL), and Mrs. Eugene Meyer, journalist and social worker.

Starr and Mrs. Meyer insisted that teachers who left a school en bloc "in order to call attention to the scandalous underpayment of teachers were really to be commended as compared to the individuals who went out and secured better jobs at a higher salary without making such a protest."

Oakland CIO Leader Snubs Freedom Train

OAKLAND—Citing widespread violation of civil rights in the United States, a CIO officer today had refused to serve on the mayor's committee to welcome the Freedom Train.

Paul Heide, first vice president of Warehousemen's Local No. 6, told Mayor Joseph E. Smith:

"My time would be better spent in taking up the grievance of some Negro member of our union who was discriminated against by his employer (and there are many), or in working among the people I know to convince them of the necessity of defeating those misrepresentatives of the people who now sit in legislative halls and take such actions which violate all constitutional freedoms and civil liberties.

"It is noticeable and significant that the Freedom Train does not include among its passengers labor's Magna Carta, National Labor Relations Act of 1935 (the Wagner Act)."

Heide listed many violations of civil rights, including:

- "Legislation which flouts freedom of speech, freedom of press and freedom of assembly.
- "The attempted institution of thought control.
- "Use of congressional chambers for dissemination of race and class hatred.
- "A record increase in lynchings against the Negro people.
- "A rise of anti-Semitism thoughout the nation."

Challenges U.S. Move to Import Farm Laborers

WASHINGTON, D. C.—An explanation of why the State Department is making plans to permit the importation of foreign workers in agriculture was requested of the Labor Department by the NAACP this week.

The association's labor secretary, Clarence Mitchell, indicated that information from labor organizations revealed that the State Department is currently negotiating with the Mexican government to permit the use of workers from Mexico in several areas of the West and Southwest.

In a letter to William G. McLean of the Division of Mexican Affairs, Mitchel pointed out that labor organizations representing workers in agriculture have informed the NAACP that there is no labor shortage which could not be relieved by "the provision of proper housing and decent wages for individuals who are natives of this country."

His letter also stated that agricultural workers are making a desperate struggle to better their conditions of employment and increase their wages. "Our organization supports their efforts," Mitchell said, "and believes that every appropriate instrument of government should be used to assure farm workers of a living wage and employment conditions equal to those enjoyed by industrial wage earners."

Talmadge Gang Wins Control of Georgia Demos

ATLANTA, Ga.—Control of the Georgia state Democratic party machinery was handed over to the Herman Talmadge racist outfit this week by a unanimous decision of the state supreme court.

The court held that the faction headed by the son of the late Gene Talmadge was the rightful claimant to party power. The group headed by Gov. M. E. Thompson—tactily recognized by National Democratic officials — was ruled without official or legal standing.

High Prices Reduce Public's Cash in Hand

WASHINGTON — Prevailing high prices already has reduced by more than one billion dollars since Christmas the money in the hands of the public government officials reported this week. They called it the biggest drop ever to occur in so short a period.

Government economists said there was a $125,000,000 fall during the week ended Wednesday, Jan. 28, in the amount of "money in circulation." This term includes all money outside the central bansk, whether it actually is "circulating" or is "hidden" or even "lost."

Here On Vacation, Navy Steward Eager To Return to Pacific

On a 35-day leave from Saipan, Jackie Vacquero, USN steward, reports that he is anxious to return to his island post in the Pacific. There are now about a half dozen Negro women on the island, and more are expected as soon as arrangements can be completed to establish residence over there. The six woman are wives of army lieutenants and sergeants.

Vacquero says that there are no dances for Negro enlisted men there because the Negro women are so few and the present commander doesn't approve of mixed dancing. In Saipan he enjoys the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Meyers.

Vets Seeking Homes, But Can't Pay High Prices Being Asked

WASHINGTON—The tremendous demand for sale and rental housing by war veterans at prices they can afford is most striking among the Negro veterans, a report from the Housing and Home Finance agency shows. The report was based on studies made in 32 areas by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and ehe Census Bureau.

In the South, the report shows, 55 percent of married Negro veterans and 33 percent of whites are living doubled up or in renter rooms, erailers or tourist cabins. And 18 percent of southern veterans of both groups live in housing units needing major repairs or standard plumbing facilities.

In the northern states, although conditions are better for both Negro and white veterans, the government survey shows, 42 percent of all married veterans live in doubled up quarters, and 8 percent live in places needing importane repairs or plumbing.

Close to a quarter of the Negro veterans are reported as wanting to buy or build homes, the survey found: Of these, southern veterans, having a median income of $32 weekly, think they could swing a $3700 house, but want five rooms for their money. Northerners, averaging $44 weekly earnings, would want $5300 for their homes but want an average of six rooms.

In the rental field the survey found Negro ex-servicemen needing accommodations can pay $31 monthly in the south and $39 in the north, which amounts are just about their average weekly wage.

'Smart Woman' Magazine Discontinues

Smart Women, a magazine devoted to the more worthwhile things that would act as an inspiration and a credit to Negro women, has been forced to discontinue publication due to the high cost of publishing newspapers and magazines.

A large white advertising agency sent them this communication:

"Negro publications will not receive substantial support from white national advertisers until the cultural level of the masses of Negroes shows marked improvement." And then goes on to complain of the amount of liquor Negroes drink, the character of their religious programs, etc., etc.

How, we ask, are Negroes of any other individuals to acquire this higher cultural level, if every means of access is shut off from them? The Negro people were forced to fight and fight hard every inch of the long, weary road they have advanced from the days of chattel slavery to the present, when again it means more and more fighting to keep the slender foothold to success they know they have won, but which few white people will grant them.

No generous government granted large sums of money to help the Negro gain an education. To help him unlock the secrets of science. The beauties of art and music. Lifting himself by his own bootstraps, the Negro himself can proudly boast of having won these treasures through his own efforts.

And if the "cultural level" of the Negro people does not quite conform with the standards set by this white advertising agency, let it study its own records to see by what right it has to criticize. When a magazine such as Smart Women is forced to fold up because of lack of funds, the delinquency in granting just ordinary business aid speaks for itself.

IBPOEW Presents Iron Lung To Hospital

NEW ORLEANS—The Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World, in keeping with its program of assisting hospitals throughout the United States, presented Flint-Goodrich hospital of this city with an iron lung last Sunday.

Dr. J. Finley Wilson, New York, grand exalted ruler of the IBPOEW, was the principle speaker at the impressive ceremonies. Dr. Carter Marshall, a member of the faculty of Yale University and grand medical director of the Elks, made the presentation. Dr. A. W. Dent, president of Dillard University, and S. Tanner Stafford, superintendent of Flint-Goodridge hospital, gave the speeches of acceptance.

Presentation of the iron lung, highlight of the Louisiana Tlks mid-winter session, was attended by Elk and Daughter Elk members from all sections of the country.

One of the most colorful parades preceded the program. It was led by Grand Exalted Ruler Finley, and including marching units commanded by Brigadier General A. J. Ben; several local high school and college bands, Boy Scouts, Red Cross, UNIA uniform ranks, and hundreds of decorated automobiles. Colonel Ace Watson was grand marshall with Hall Smith as his aide.

Dinners, receptions, sight-seeing tours, etc. were part of the arrangements for the visitors in charge of a state committee, with Joseph C. Pierre, exalted ruler of Winter Capitol Lodge No. 595, as chairman.

Others who spoke on the program included Revs. H. Clarence Brown and Samuel Richardson, and Dr. Rivers Frederick, chief of staff of Flint-Goodridge hospital.

New Orleans was the fourth city in which a hospital was presented with an iron lung by the Elks. Others are: Meharry Medical College, Nashville; the Provident Hospital, Chicago; and Howard University, Washington, D. C.

Rents to Join Upward Spiral, Experts Predict

WASHINGTON — High prices plaguing you? The worst is yet to come, according to government economists who this week predicted that rents are going to rise "sooner or later" and will probably go 40 to 50 per cent above prewar rates.

One well-informed congressional adviser "guessed" that the present session of congress will come out openly for a 15 percent boost in rents, in contrast to its hidden boost last session when it passed its phony rent control law. That law expires this month.

Under the partial controls now in effect, rents are steadily mounting. From last June to mid-November rents advanced more than 5 percent, according to the consumers' index of the Bureau of Labor Standards.

The ultimate level of rents when all are uncontrolled will depend, say the economists, on the adjustment between the supply and demand for housing. And if you think the supply is anywhere near the demand, just try to rent a house or apartment.

Packers Profits For 1945-47

In a press release issued recently by the United Packinghouse Workers of America, it was stated that one-third of the packinghouse workers receive a wage higher than $1.10 an hour.

The profits figures for the packing companies for 1945, '46, and '47 are as follows (000 omitted):

	1945	1946	1947
Armour	$ 9,200	$32,800	$31,000
Swift	12,300	18,400	34,335
Cudahy	2,500	6,700	7,121
Wilson	6,000	8,300	15,500

Navy Officer Assails Armed Forces Jimcrow

WASHINGTON—In an unparalleled action, the navy this week published a thesis written by one of its four (count them on one hand) Negro officers condemning army-navy treatment of Negro personnel as creating resentment and making "possible fertile grounds" for Communism. Observers here believe that the reference to the so-called "Communist menace" plus the more gentle treatment of the navy to be the reason for navy publishing the thesis.

The thesis, by Lt. Dennis D. Nelson, said that the navy policy of assigning Negroes and whites to work together is better than the army policy of total segregation.

He called this a great step toward "total integration" but said, in general:

"The attitudes of our country toward minority groups, and those manifested and practiced by its armed forces, provide ready-made propaganda for the Communist state and makes possible fertile and sympathetic ground for the infiltration of Communism."

Racial exclusiveness, jimcrowism and discrimination are outlawed under Communism in Soviet Russia and in the Eastern Europe states friendly to Russia.

Lt. Nelson urged especially better education of Negro navy personnel and more use of Negroes in responsible duties, plus "further integration at all levels."

ESTHER IS SONGSTRESS

Esther Williams has now added another accomplishment to her already long list. The M-G-M swimming star and husband Ben Gage have written a song, which is appropriately titled, "Mr. and Mrs." Esther's next M-G-M release will be "On An Island With You."

Urge Protest Over Truman's Failure to Grant Full Amnesty

NEW YORK — Harry Emerson Fosdick, minister emeritus of Riverside church, Reinhold Niebuhr of Union Theological seminary, and Oswald Garrison Villard, journalist, yesterday appealed to the American people to protest President Truman's action in pardnoing only 1523 out of 15,805 Selective Service Act violators last Christmas.

At the same time they urged increased support for the Committee for Amnesty, national organization which has been campaigning for aa general amnesty.

Asserting "We are disappointed and frankly concerned" over President Truman's having granted only a handful of pardons," their appeal calls upon the people to make a "resounding protest" to the President.

Wife of Ex-G.I. Wins $1000 on Dreft Air Show

Mrs. James E. Lawson, Yellow Springs, Ohio, attractive young wife of a Negro ex-G.I., last Thursday won the thousand dollar "Beulah" prize offered to listeners of the Beulah radio show, sponsored by Dreft.

The pretty winner told program executives she will "put the prize in the bank toward a new home," and continue on with the full-time factory job which augments the Lawson family income while her husband continues apprentice studies in the building trades.

Mrs. Lawson has submitted Dreft slogans every day since the contest opened January 19 but didn't come up with a winner until this fifth award in the series.

Gov. Dewey Asked to Open National Guard

NEW YORK — Following the dramatic action of Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey in ordering no segregation of Negroes in the national guard, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was asked by the NAACP to issue a similar order in New York. The NAACP has been after Dewey for months, but New York State has always hidden behind the army policy.

Citing President Truman's message on civil rights, and the fact that New York is the acknowledged leader in the field of civil rights, Walter White called on Dewey to order all unit commanders of the state guard to admit Negroes without segregation.

N. Y. Restaurant Chain Drops Bias

NEW YORK.—The famed famed Longchamps restaurant chain, which leaped into the news this year when owner Henry Lustig was jailed for owing Uncle Sam $3,000,000 in income taxes, this week had changed in more ways than ownership. Now owned by a syndicate headed by Theodore T. Mits, the chain of nine restaurants has abolished its discriminatory employment policy, a carry-over from the Lustig regime.

Following a series of conferences with the State Commission Against Discrimination, the new owners agreed to ditch its employment blanks which asked for race of prospective employes, and in general to eliminate racial bias in hiring Longchamps help. Formerly, the restaurant chain had not a single Negro among its 300 waiters.

U.S. Indian Group Cite Producer of Film 'Black Gold'

The National Congress of American Indians this week cited Steve Broidy, president of Allied Artists, for "a splendid contribution to the cause of the American Indian."

The Congress is a national organization representing 192 tribes, and an Indian population of approximately 340,000.

The award referred to "Black gold," which Broidy's studio produced, as the first motion picture "truthfully to portray" the American Indian, and as one which made a "splendid contribution" to their cause and a better understanding of them.

The scroll was presented to Broidy by Nipo Strongheart, field representative of the Congress. In addition to Strongheart's, the document bore the signatures of Richard W. Johnson and Ataloa, president and recording secretary, respectively, of the Congress.

City Opens Vaccination Campaign

City health department doctors and nurses this week opened their annual vaccination against smallpox campaign in Los Angeles schools.

"Our objective is to protect Los Angeles children against the possibility of smallpox being brought into the city at any time by travelers," Dr. George M. Uhl, city health officer, told the press.

Children who cannot arrange to have their vaccinatiaons performed by private physicians may get the service at school or in city health department clinics, Dr. Uhl said. Adults can get the service at city health clinics.

Blues Taunt Mrs. Braddock; Wins Divorce

WILSON, N. C.—Because her husband taunted her with the constant playing of a recording of "Changeable Woman Blues" by Johnny Moore's Three Blazers, Mrs. Rachel Braddock was granted a divorce and, alimony settlement from her would-be disc-jockey spouse, Henry.

In filing her suit for divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty, Mrs. Braddock told the court that each time the couple had an argument, her husband would latch on to the record of "Changeable Woman Blues" and play it repeatedly on the family phonograph.

Panorama of Art At Masonic Hall

A panorama of art, featuring artists at work, was held at Masonic Hall, 1050 East 50th St., Sunday, February 15, from 4 to 7 p.m., as part of Negro History week. It was sponsored by Beta Pi Sigma Sorority, and Dr. Glen Lukens, head of the Fine Arts Department, University of Southern California, assisted.

Mrs. Bernice P. Nance was general chairman for the affair; Mrs. Dorothy Landry, chairman of exhibition; and Miss Thelma Wallace, president.

Sen. Taylor Joins Wallace's Forces; Hits War Mongers, Racists

WASHINGTON — Henry Wallace's campaign for President swung into high gear this week with Sen. Glen G. Taylor of Idaho announcing in a radio address that he will gladly be Wallace's running mate, and California Wallace supporters filing 500,000 signatures to place the third party on the state ballot in November.

Taylor, who has been supporting Wallace's position on most issues from racial equality to opposition to war, declared Monday night in a radio broadcast, "I am going to cast my lot with Henry Wallace in his brave and gallant fight for peace."

To Wallace, who sat beside him as he spoke, Taylor said, "I am happy and proud, Henry Wallace, to be associated with you in this great new undertaking."

Taylor said he finally decided to throw in his lot with Wallace and the third party because Wall street and the military have taken over the Democratic party. He hailed Wallace as "the only leader capable of ending the cold war and reestablishing even the beginning of international good will."

Taylor loosed a withering blast at both major parties and their leading figures, with special emphasis on the Southern poll-taxers.

"I know I am going to feel good in the realization that I am not teamed up with the big city bosses, Kelly, Hague, Flynn, Curley and Pendergast," he said. "And I will not have to try to reconcile my views to the medieval jimcrow concepts of Crump and Rankin and all the other poll-taxers and professional enemies of human freedom."

He also expressed pity for the "small group of Republican liberals who have to swallow and rationalize a program laid down for them by Mr. Pew (Joseph N. Pew, Pennsylvania oil millionarie), Col. McCormick (Chicago Tribune publisher) and the National Association of Manufacturers."

Taylor recalled that the late Franklin D. Roosevelt said in 1939 that he would find it "impossible" to stay in the Democratic party if it chose to commit "suicide" by nominating "conservative candidates or lip-service candidates, on a straddle-bug platform."

Although he did not refer to President Truman by name, Taylor said the Democratic party "will not survive . . . if the voters have to choose between a Republican Tweedledum and a Democratic Tweedledummer."

The third party's convention is scheduled for June 11, 12, and 13 in Chicago.

ASK AND YE SHALL RECEIVE

If today there are obstacles in your life which seem to doom you to utter failure, and you have planned, worried, toiled and failed, why not try prayer?

The way to get a thing which is purchasable is to pay for it. The way to get a thing which is to be earned is to work for it. The way to get a thing which is to be given is to ask for it.

R.M.D.—Dear Prof. Herman: I am writing to you to tell you just how wonderful I think you are. Yes, Sir! you brought luck right into my house. Your blessings are certainly wonderful . . . my financial condition was very bad until I receive this blessing. Thanks again for your help.

B.J.B.—Do you think it wise to wait on the boy I am going with to finish college?

ANS.—Perhaps you could work out some plan whereby you might get married and he could continue with his college work as well. A large group of young people, especially veterans, are living in Trailer Camps on the campus of many of the colleges. I suggest you look into this at once, before resigning yourself to waiting, for in this manner you could further your education as well.

E.C.—What is the earliest law recognizing the observance of Sunday?

ANS.—It is said that a constitution of Constantine in 321 A.D., enacting that all courts of justice, inhabitants of towns, and workshops, were to be at rest on Sunday, with an exception of those engaged in agricultural labor.

L.E.K.—Would you please state your question again, as it was not clearly written. It was in regards to a sale the first of March.

* * *

M. D.—Where did the Moors who created a wonderful Spanish civilization in the Tenth century originate?

ANS.—These people came from North Africa.

WORRIED—Are there any changes revealed regarding my future?

ANS.—A careful analysis of your question reveals many things. It seems that you will move to another location and meet new friends.

H.V.—Does he love me? Will we get married soon? Will I find another job?

ANS.—Only one question is answered in the column due to the limited amount of space. I shall be glad to help you if you will write in for a private reply.

Vets Condemn UMT Project

Veterans of the two world wars, members of the Los Angeles CIO Council's veterans committee, this week bitterly condemned the UMT (universal military training) project and the "atmosphere of fear being stimulated to support the idea of a conscripted army."

The CIO veterans forwarded a unanimously adopted resolution against UMT to the Los Angeles CIO Council, urging that body to reaffirm its opposition to the military program.

Action Urged To Save State Child Centers

Top officials of the state of California today had received a request from the Los Angeles CIO Council for a special session of the state legislature to provide new funds for child care centers.

To avert the closing of 296 state child centers by March 31, the council appealed for immediate action by Gov. Warren, Lieut. Gov. Knight, who presides over the state senate, and all senators and assemblymen from Southern California.

Similar requests were made last week by the county board of supervisors and the city council.

Charles A. Biggers Jr., son of Prof. C. A. Biggers of B. B. college passed away Feb. 16, 1948. He was found dead in his room on 55th street around noon Monday.

Biggers' early training was in the public schools of Los Angeles. Two years ago he joined the CME church in Santa Monica, Rev. Banks pastor. A special altar call was made for sinners by his cousin Rev. Phillip N. Moore who was the speaker for the Men's Day service. Charles united with the church with a desire to grow deeper with the Lord.

Charles leaves to mourn his loss a father—Prof. C. A. Biggers; a sister, Weletta Mae, four aunts, many cousins, and a host of friends. Service was conducted from Conner & Johnson with the Rev. S. R. H. Banks officiating. Assisting was Rev. Johnson of South Los Angeles.

Gerald L. K. Smith Prefers MacArthur, But Warren Okeh

ST. LOUIS—Gen. Douglas MacArthur was listed yesterday as the "top favorite" presidential candidate of the Christian Nationalist Crusade by its national director, Gerald L. K. Smith, America's No. 1 fascist.

Smith's alternate choices for President were: Sen. John Bricker of Ohio, Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, and Gov. Earl Warren of California, in the order named.

He said his organization would prefer Truman to Henry Wallace.

GOP SOLON OFFERS TO KILL CIVIL RIGHTS BILLS FOR DIXIE VOTES

Rep. Hoffman Offers 'Deal' on House Floor

WASHINGTON — The nation today is witnessing the unusual spectacle of Republicans plugging for civil rights legislation as the GOP high command seeks to widen the rift between southern and northern Democrats by advancing President Truman's civil rights program in congress.

To the accompaniment of the growing revolt in the southern wing of the Democratic party against Truman's civil rights program, congressional Republicans have steadily pushed anti-lynching and anti-polltax bills toward floor consideration. The senate rules committee has reported favorably on both bills.

That there is a catch in the Republican strategy was revealed this week, however, when Rep. Said Hoffman:

"Mr. Speaker, we have been seeing a great deal in the press about the indignation of some folks from the South over the President's civil rights program. I suggest to some of my Republican friends from the North that in view of the fact that some of these gentlemen from the South

State to Probe Ring Death of Young Boxer

The tragic death of 20 year old Leroy Decatur in the Hollywood Legion Stadium last Friday night was under investigation today by the state assembly committee on public morals.

Decatur, a former Jefferson high school athlete and the father of an 8 month old baby, collapsed in the fourth and final round of his first professional fight. He died 15 minutes later in his dressing room. His death was caused by a chronic heart condition, according to Chief Autopsy Surgeon Frederick D. Newbarr.

Dr. Newbarr, who conducted the preliminary autopsy with his assistant, Dr. Victor Cafalu, and Coroner Ben H. Brown, said that young Decatur had been suffering from a rare type of heart

Klan Voices Defiance of Federal Govt'

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga. — Some 300 hooded and robed Klan storm troopers paraded here last night, burned the traditional fiery cross, and heard their leader declare, "Blood will flow in the streets of the South if the Negro takes a place at the side of the white men through force of federal bayonets."

The threat was uttered by Klan Grand Dragon Dr. Samuel Green, the only unhooded member of the demonstrators, who denounced President Truman's civil rights program.

Anti-Lynching Bill Given Green Light

WASHINGTON — A federal anti-lynching bill was approved yesterday by a vote of 18 to 8 in the house judiciary committee.

Two Republican members, Reps. Fellows of Maine and Gwynne of Iowa joined six Southern Democrats in voting against the measure.

House civil rights rebels met to plan further action soon after the bill was approved by the committee.

HPA Meets

The Home Protective Association will meet Friday, March 5, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Helen Anderza, 691 East 52nd place. This will take the place of the regular meeting which should have been held the last Friday in the month but was postponed in order to let every one attend the Paul Robeson meeting.

The HPA was organized several years ago to fight the restrictive covenant case of the Henry Laws family, ordered out of their home on East 92nd street because they are Negroes. The family went to jail, and the HPA took their case through court. It is now pending in the State Supreme Court. All interested are invitnd to come and join.

On The Sidewalk

By C.A.B.

WHENEVER a case of police brutality hits anywhere in the city, or county — in fact in any part of the state — we invariably read in the metropolitan press: Negro citizen attacked or beaten by police.

Such a statement is equivalent to saying police generally beat Negroes.

In our Los Angeles police department there are many officers who apply the rules of their office alike to all citizens. But there are others, like those Southern governors who rebelled and even threatened secession if President Truman's civil rights for minorities' program is adopted by the Congress of the United States, hold fast to their belief that Negroes are inferior, and as such should be treated as brutes rather than as human beings.

And in the main what happens in the police department is paradoxical with the practices in the educational system where Negroes are in question.

Called to my attention this week were these two cases involving the police department. One appears to be a case of police neglect. The other, police brutality.

Mrs. Mildred Fulbright reported that her husband Marshall was robbed in broad daylight, February 20, by two bandits.

According to Mrs. Fulbright her husband is a postal employee. Friday, February 20, he left his home, 2161 West 31st street, went to the bank at Jefferson and Arlington, and cashed his pay check. But a short distance from the bank Mr. Fulbright was accosted by two armed bandits. They ordered him into their car. One of the duet removed from his pocket the cash Mr. Fulbright had placed there after cashing his check. The robbers then drove the postal employee around before dumping him in the vicinity of the bank.

Dazed, Mr. Fulbright returned to his home, related his experience to his wife, and was advised by her not to report it to the police, fearful that the men might, after learning where he lived, inflict further punishment on his family. But another member of the Fulbright family appeared on the scene and advised immediate contact with the police.

One of the robbers was discovered and examined at the Newton Street police station, where he denied that he had robbed Fulbright, claiming that he won the money in a gambling bout.

Mr. Fulbright is married and is the father of four small children. His reputation and character at the post-office where he has been employed for five years, and the Goodman Delivery where he was employd for 13 yars before entering the postal service, is above reproach.

Despite these facts the police upheld the contention of the robber, stating that because Mr. Fulbright did not call the police immediately and had no witnesses, there was no ground for arrest or further investigation.

The other case is that of Ledonia Hamlin, a GI who even though employed, has been hounded by the police and finally put in prison for no cause whatever except being black as far as investigation goes.

Now these cases are not told to convey news, but to prove a point: that some people holding positions of responsibility in our police and educational departments deal where human happiness and even life is concerned, with their prejudices and hates, rather than with the obligation to their office to administer the law without malice or partiality towards any person because of his race, nationality, or position.

Individuals on our police force and in our educational department who hail from the states of the eight governors who refuse to respect law, order, or even the Constitution of the United States, must be served notice that neither a Freedom Train, nor a Tenney Committee can bring peace to this troubled world.

Our peace must be planned on the basis of respecting one rule in the enforcement of the law and that rule must include all citizens alike.

Prisoner Killed By Policeman, Vets Beaten Up

JACKSON, Miss. — Four reported acts of terrorism today gave indication of a widespread reign of terror against Mississippi's Negro population, highlighted the need for congressional action to enact civil rights legislation proposed by the Truman administration.

In this city a Negro veteran was shot by a white policeman, another beaten by several officers until he lay unconscious in a pool of blood at the corner of Amite and North Farish sts. In nearby Kosciusko, a youth was shot to death by a policeman, while on the same day in the same town a young veteran was brutally beaten by a mob.

The two loca. victims were J. V. Williams and Lerow McGowan, both veterans. McGowan lost an arm fighting to destroy Fascism. Jackson was arrested on a charge of drunkenness, pushed into the street by the arresting officer.

'White' Lawyer Recrosses Line To Claim Fortune

NEW YORK—T. John McKee, a successful "white" lawyer, discovered this week that it does not always pay to cross the color line. McKee, who 45 years ago crossed the line to facilitate his hunt for fame and fortune, recrossed this week to claim his grandfather's $800,000 estate.

The story of McKee's successful law career on the other side of the American caste line broke with the appearance of a routine legal notice that the estate of the late Col. John McKee, Negro veteran of the Civil War who made a fortune in Philadelphia real estate was up for final disposition in the Orphans Court at Philadelphia. The notice asked any surviving heirs to come forward.

White lawyer McKee went to Philadelphia, talked to court officials and to Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia and trustee of the estate. He then engaged a local lawyer, H. Eugene Heine, and filed a claim to the fortune as the last

2500 Acclaim Paul Robeson at Concert-Meeting

A tremondous ovation heralded the appearance of Paul Robeson at the Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith, last Friday evening. The auditorium was packed to overflowing, as hundreds were turned away in disappointment.

The concert-meeting was sponsored by the C.I.O. Public Workers and Civil Rights Congress and Mr. Robeson was at his usual best, as can be attested by the overwhelming acclaim of his enthusiastic audience.

As followers of Robeson have come to expect both oratory and music from this great artist and humanitarian, they were not disappointed. He rendered many of the best loved American spirituals and Russian folk songs, and literally "brought the house down" with his rendition of the ever-popular "John Henry." The high point of his performance was the reading of Langston Hughes' dynamic "Freedom Train" which, without a doubt, is one of the most dramatic poems ever penned.

During the first part of the program, Chairman Sidney Moore introduced the following persons who made brief addresses: Rene De Maestri, publicity director of Local 558, Public Welfare Workers, AFL; Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass,

Special Officer Tells Own Story of Church Fracas

John Smart, a special officer employed by St. Paul's church, 21st and Naomi sts. to direct the heavy traffic at church services, yesterday took exception to a story in last week's Sentinel in which Smart was reported to have beaten Carl Gipson, a visitor to the church, with his night stick. The Sentinel interviewed Gipson, but stated that Smart could not be reached before press time. The incident occurred last Sunday morning.

Smart told the EAGLE he is very anxious that the general public know exactly what occurred. The church was crowded as is usually the case on Sundays. Gipson entered the church about 12 o'clock, and not being able to find a seat, sat down on a radiator. According to Smart, the church has a rule that no one should sit on the radiators because in the past people have turned on the gas accidentally with their feet, have also broken the wire frames encasing the radiators.

An usherette, Smart says, asked Gipson not to sit on the radiator, but he refused to get up. She then called the president of the usher board, who repeated the request. The male usher, according to Smart, stated that Gipson challenged him to throw him off the radiator.

The usher then went outside and asked Smart to speak to Gipson. The special officer then entered the church, whispered to Gipson that he would like to speak to him outside. Gipson, according to Smart, replied that whatever he had to say to him could be said right there. Smart says he then told the visitor that he was violating a church rule, might accidentally turn on the gas or break the radiator wire frames, that he would have to vacate his radiator seat.

Gipson then, according to Smart, moved his right hand toward his hip pocket, shouted "You threw me off." Smart says he believed the man was reaching for a weapon and he struck him with his nightstick. Smart reports that it was later discovered that Gipson was carrying a knife. A tusle ensued, in which Gipson, according to Smart, vigorously resisted the special officer's attempt to eject him from the church, end the disturbance.

Smart finally succeeded in getting the man out of the church. Discovering that Gipson was bleeding, Smart and one of the officers of the church took the visitor into the men's rest room, where they gave him first aid, and the bleeding was stopped. In the meantime, Smart had asked someone to call the ambulance and notify the police. Smart accompanied Gipson to the receiving hospital where he was treated.

Replying to an assertion by the Sentinel that Rev. Branham, pastor of the church, had stated that Smart's duties as a special officer did not extend to the interior of the church building, Smart declared that in a letter to the Police Commission the officers of the church requested that Smart's duties would extend to any part of the church building or grounds, inside or out.

Smart also took issue with another statement in the Sentinel story, quoting Gipson as having said he did not understand why he should have been struck by the special officer without any provocation. "The very fact that the special officer was called by the president of the usher board, would indicate that there had been provocation on the part of Mr. Gipson," Smart said. He denied that he had then or now any ill-feeling for Gipson, stated he was only doing what he thought was his duty. He also pointed out that a special officer is not permitted to remove his cap at any time, but must remain in full uniform so that the public may recognize his official status.

MISS MARJORIE STALLINGS, the charming daughter of Mr. & Mrs. S. J. Stallings, left Wednesday, February 25 for Chicago, where she entered Provident Hospital School of Nursing.

Miss Stallings was given many nice "so long" parties—one being given by the Kingdom Baptist Church of which she is a member, and another one given by Miss Martha Sidney.

Miss Marjorie Stallings is a graduate of Belmont High school and finished her two years pre-nursing training at Los Angeles City college.

Wallace Blasts Both Old Parties On Housing

NEW YORK—Henry A. Wallace charged this week that Republicans and Democrats had banded together to scuttle federal housing programs.

Writing in the New Republic magazine, the third party Presidential candidate said "it is not unjust to charge that there has been bi-partisan collusion to scuttle housing programs."

He cited as an illustration the blocking of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill during the past two years.

Wallace accused Sen. Robert A. Taft (R. Ohio) of intention to block all social-welfare legislation until there is a Republican in the White House. He condemned Truman for not exposing "Taft's tactics."

"The full pressure of the administration would force Taft to abandon his use of the housing bill to blackmail the people into electing a Republican President," he said.

"The administration's record on housing indicates it is equally guilty."

Wallace attacked the budget allowance for housing and community facilities in the 1948-49 fiscal year—$38,000,000—as totally inadequate.

"It represents less than one percent of the total budget, 98 percent of which is going for war preparations, and the costs of World War II," Wallace said.

"It might be compared with the $38 million that the State Department commodity reports include as the amount to go to Iceland's 130,000 inhabitants under the full European recovery program."

'Fisher the Oil Man' Meets Oily Customer

R. Fisher, popularly known as "Fisher the Oil Man," had an oily visitor the other afternoon and is out a valuable fountain pen, pencil and some gadgets from his desk.

Fisher entered his office at Central and 17th street to find a youth, about 14, comfortably ensconded at his desk. Asked his business, the youth mildly inquired about the possibility of a job with Fisher. Fisher replied he was not considering taking on any one at the present. The youth thereupon thanked Fisher, bade him a courteous goodbye.

A little later Fisher discovered that his pen, pencil and some desk gadgets had departed with the youth.

Lawson Trial Set for April 12

WASHINGTON—Trial of John Howard Lawson, film writer and expert on Negro history and the first of 10 Hollywood figures due to face contempt of congress charges, has been postponed from March 8 to April 12, the United States attorney's office announced yesterday.

Meantime, the 10 defendants, suspended and fired for refusing to answer questions by the Thomas-Rankin committee as to their political beliefs, have filed suit for $61,108,975 damages against virtually the entire motion picture industry.

WASHINGTON—World War II cost the American taxpayer $2460 per second, the army estimated this week. And the cost is still piling up in the form of benefits for veterans, pensions and other costs.

West View Hosp. to Announce Ground-Breaking Date Soon; Plans Final Drive for Funds

The date for breaking ground for the West View Hospital will be announced within the next three weeks, Allen C. Woodard III, president of the hospitals board of directors, told the press this week. Woodard explained that the slow rate of public other factors, had caused delay in breaking ground for construction of the first 50-bed unit of this interracial, non-sectarian, non-profit hospital.

"The cost of erecting and equipping a 50-bed unit is approximately $500,000," Woodard pointed out. "Based upon the appraised valuation of the 46,170 square feet of land we own plus the $57,000 cash on hand, the loan commitment which we have received from leading institutions is inadequate to meet the cost of building the first 50-bed unit."

Efforts to secure a construction loan from foundations which already have pledged their support have been unsuccessful to date, he said. If the public "went all-out in making contributions a loan would not be necessary," he added.

He revealed that the board is considering hiring a nationally famous fund raising firm to undertake the raising of the balance of the money needed "to build not only the initial 50-bed unit, but with a goal set for the erection of the complete 300-bed hospital."

Plans for the initial unit, prepared by the office of Architect Paul Williams, have been approved by the proper authorities and are being released to contractors for bids this week, he added.

In answer to those persons who have questioned the amount of money in the West View building fund, said Woodard, "we have exactly $57,127.21 in cash and approximately $11,000 in pledges. There is on display in our office at all times the accountants' current statement as to the financial solvency o fthe organiaztion. All persons who are interested may feel free to call at the office to inspect it. During the past six months, the board of directors has cut the cost of operation to the barest minimum, and volunteer workers are always welcome to help us further cut costs."

SAN FRANCISCO — A total of 285 employers in California agreed to pay back wages in the amount of $168,532 to 2725 employes as a result of inspections made under the federal wage and hour laws during the last six months of 1947, according to John R. Dille, regional director of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor, in the eight Western states.

BLOOD PRESSURE

PARALYSIS — APOPLEXY

Don't be discouraged. Read what this famous doctor says:

"HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE should only be determined with an examination by a competent physician. If the pressure registers above 140 at any age, it should be considered positive evidence of high blood pressure which is brought about either by hypertension of the arteries, as in gout or rheumatism, excessive mental strain or worry, or is due to hardening of the arteries."

"Hardening of the arteries may be only a thickening of the arterial walls or may be due to deposits of lime on the inside of the arteries. I have never had a case under my observation and control where the pressure was not reduced to the normal by my method. The thickening of the walls or deposits on the walls is caused in every case by a toxic state of the blood."

"LOW BLOOD PRESSURE is the condition which precedes tuberculosis, diabetes, cancer and all disorders where there is great enervation. In every case low blood pressure and enervation precede the above mentioned diseases, and are not caused by them. With low blood pressure, the arteries become flabby and relaxed, and the muscle tissues of the body are found to be in a similar state. Every cause which is weakening to the body may be responsible for the production of low blood pressure."

"The cure consists of building up the blood stream and developing all the functional powers of the body. The extreme weakness will be gradually overcome."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell, M.D., eminent physician, says:

"The most rational and practical manner of dealing with this . . . breeding place of disease is to wash it out. With me, it has passed beyond the theoretical stage, for I have in my office fully 15,000 letters from grateful patients who have used this process under my direction, with the most astounding results; scarcely a disease known to humanity, but has been relieved, and in ninety-five per cent of the cases, cures effected, while tens of thousands of gratifying messages have reached me from time to time; nor is the testimony in its favor confined to the laity, for hundreds of physicians (including some of the most prominent authorities) testify to the wonderful beneficial results achieved by its use."

Daniel C. Munro, M.D., says: "If I were to write the story of all the cases in which colonic irrigations seem to lift the patient from the very jaws of death, it would fill volumes."

Union Leader Assails Marshall Plan, U.S. Program for Nazi Control of German Industry

WASHINGTON—Describing the controversial Marshall Plan as an attempt to return Europe to the "status-quo-ante," Hugh Bryson, president of the CIO Marine Cooks and Stewards Union, released a statement this week to the house foreign affairs committee in opposition to the proposed legislation on the European Recovery Program.

Bryson said his union was "on record in favor of a program of aid and rehabilitation for the countries devastated by World War II," but cannot agree that "a German industry directed and controlled by the same Nazi and pro-Nazi criminals who were in power before VE-day is an industry to be trusted."

"When the former heads of the German steel and coal cartels reappear in the Ruhr—as they are doing—we can be certain this holds no promise of peace or of economic recovery for the other countries of Europe."

Also leveling sharp criticism at the ERP ocean shipping provisions, Bryson said:

"We vigorously resist having our jobs taken from us—either through the foreign sale or chartering of ships—to save dollar expenditures under the Marshall Plan . . .

"What we see developing through the Marshall Plan proposals is a double edged sword which will chop off the jobs of American seamen and retard the recovery of the European shipping industry at the same time."

Bratton Heads Carver Life in Big Shake-up

A major shake-up of the official staff of the Carver National Life Insurance Company occured here this week as the company's board of directors elected Bertrand B. Bratton, local certified public accountant, to succeed William H. Sharpe as president. William C. Faulkner was also elected secretary to succeed John M. Ware. Both Ware and Sharpe remain as members of the board of directors.

The shake-up is part of an all-out attempt to secure the unified cohesive efforts of the entire membership in a drive to complete the capital stock of the company. The company is capitalized for $400,000, of which $250,000 is now held in escrow and pledges.

Bratton was sponsored by the majority of the board in the belief that he will be able to solidify the efforts of the so-called northern and southern California factions between whom there has been some cleavage. He paid high tribute to Sharpe and Ware, declaring that the company must ever remain grateful to these two men who conceived and organized the Carver National Life Insurance Co.

Real Estate Board In First 48 Meeting

The Golden West Real Estate Board, Inc., held its first business meeting for 1948 last Wednesday evening, with Atty. George Canaday, newly elected president, presiding.

The meeting was sparked by the induction of several new members and an interesting lecture by Louis Yellman, president of the Real Estate Institute of California.

Climaxing the evening was the presentation of gifts to the board by the Los Angeles Ecrow Co. The presentation was made by Mis Ruth L. Bothwell and Kice Miller, public relations director of the escrow company.

The board of directors presented the gifts to individual members, based on their contribution to the real estate profesion and the services rendered to the Golden West Real Estate Board. The following members were recipients: Atty. George Canaday, Lobelia Dingee, Pauline Stokley, Emma Morris, Louis Yelman, Mel Watson, Bernard Herndon, C. R. Ransom, Dorothy Price and Mynyard H. Ammons.

L.A. Newsboys Answer Tenney Committee

The militant newsboys of Los Angeles are not taking the attack upon them by the Jack B. Tenney un-American Committee, lying down. Tenney attacked the Newsboys' Union, News Vendors Local 75, CIO, for its support of the Daily People's World. The Union answered by adopting a ringing resolution, stating they would continue to support the People's World and "any other publication that presents the people's side of the news."

The resolution follows:

WHEREAS, State Senator Jack Tenney's un-American Committee, which since its formation has echoed the anti-labor propaganda of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association and other anti-labor forces, has attacked the Los Angeles News Vendors Local 75, UOPWA-CIO, on the eve of its campaign to win Los Angeles' first Union contract with the open-shop Los Angeles Times, and

WHEREAS, the pretext for this attack on labor and free press is the News Vendors' stand for a free press and its support of a newspaper, the Daily People's World, which has consistently supported all labor and, in particular us in our long struggle for union recognition and decent wages and working conditions through union contract, now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, that we serve notice to Tenney and his un-American committee that the News Vendors will continue to fight for a decent life and will support the People's Daily World or any other publication that presents the people's side of the news in these times of crisis, and be it further

RESOLVED, that we call upon other unions, CIO, AFL, Railroad Brotherhoods and independents whom we have been proud to back in their struggles, to support us in our current fight to maintain democratic traditions which apparently Tenney despises—to wit, the rights of free speech and free press, and be it further

RESOLVED, that we ask all unions to re-affirm their stand against Tenney and call for an end to the un-American committee which he heads.

QUICK TRIP

Orson Welles is expected to return from Italy with a completely edited version of his Republic picture, "Macbeth," but he probably won't remain in Southern California for long. Present plans seem to be that he'll stay in Hollywood for two weeks or so for conferences with Republic executives, then head back to Italy for further movie-making there.

Woman Evicted From Bldg. She Says Is Hers

A woman who claims she is one of the legitimate owners of the property was evicted last Friday morning from 4009 S. Central avenue, where she had been living in a store on the premises.

Mrs. Minnie B. Lockett told the EAGLE the property was included in the estate of a dead uncle who had left it to herself and "other heirs." She claimed that Sam Depuma, white, generally considered for years as the owner of the property, was "appointed guardian of the heirs."

Reputed present owner of the building is R. W. Williams, colored, whom Mrs. Lockett charges, is "fronting" for Depuma. It was Williams who obtained the order to evict Mrs. Lockett. The eviction was carried out by Marshall Frank L. Holt with a minimum of unpeasantness.

Mrs. Lockett said she had occupied the premises from which she was evicted for the past eight years and until a few months ago had paid her rent regularly to Depuma. Williams said she had not paid her rent in several months and was in arrears for the sum of $256. Mrs. Lockett, on the other hand, charged that Williams had refused to accept her rent, said she had had to give up her job several weeks ago to stay at home to protect her interests.

Ingram Family Retrial Hearing Set for Mar. 20

AMERICUS, Ga.—Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will present on March 20, an argument for a motion for a retrial of Mrs. Rosa Lee Ingram and her two teen-age sons, who were sentenced to death by electrocution for the alleged murder of a white farmer. The argument will be heard in Americus, before Judge W. R. Harper of the superior court of Schley county and will be opposed by Solicitor General N. L. Forrester of Leesburg. The Ingrams had been condemned to die on February 27, but NAACP lawyers in Georgia were able to obtain a stay of execution.

The record of the trial shows that John E. Stratford, the white man whom the Ingrams were accused of murdering, assaulted the mother with a rifle on November 5, 1947, and died from a blow on the head when the Ingram boys, Wallace, 17, and Samuel, 14, came to her defense. For three months, the three Ingrams were held in jail and had no legal advisers. On February 2, 1948, they were indicted. On February 3, in a one-day trial, with only court-appointed counsel to defend them, Mrs. Ingram and her two sons were convicted and sentenced to death.

The office of Governor M. E. Thompson of Georgia has been swamped with telegrams from throughout the country, asking him to intervene in this case, which has made mockery out of justice. Mrs. Ingram is the mother of 12 children, the youngest of fhom is 17 months old, and the grandmother of two. Her husband died last year, so the family of 15 is presently without any means of support. The Ingrams are now being cared for and fed by their neighbors and by the local NAACP.

Contributions to aid the NAACP in the Ingram case should be sent to the national office, 20 West 40th street, New York 18, N. Y.

NATHAN HICKS, 1625 East 52nd st., was awarded $200 damages for discrimination by Municipal Judge Robert Clifton last Friday. It was the largest award made in a discrimination case in many years. Hicks was represented by Atty. Curtis C. Taylor.

Australian Natives Seek Human Rights

SYDNEY, Australia—The Native Rights League, formed "to gain human rights for Aborigines and other colored Australians," has disclosed that some aboriginal workers on Northwest cattle ranches are still being paid only 80 cents a week.

One aboriginal woman, employed as a ranch cook, is "paid" with one new dress a year, the league says.

The aborigines have to buy at company stores, where prices are always higher than elsewhere, and as a result are perpetually in heavy debt to their employers.

Court Awards Bias Victim $200 Damages

The largest individual judgement for discrimination on account of race awarded here within recent years was won by Nathan Hicks, 1625 East 52nd st. last Friday afternoon in division 35 of the municipal court, presided over by Judge Robert Clifton. Hicks represented by Atty. Curtis C. Taylor's associate, Atty. Calvin W. Murdock.

Hicks was refused service last Sept. 26 by the bartender at the Pioneer Club, 8741 So. Vermont avenue, told "If I must serve you I will charge you $1 for the drink and then break the glass."

At the trial, Hicks' testimony on what happened was corrobrated by James Fitzgerald, a white friend, who was present at the time.

The award won by Hicks was unusual for the reason that for years practically all local judges have been awarding the minimum amount of damages, $100, as fixed by the law, although they have the power to assess damage dependent upon the case in as high an amount as the municipal court has jurisdiction.

After hearing the evidence, Judge Clifton doubled the minimum figure, awarded Hicks $200.

Mrs. Lohrman reported plans for the convention of California Congress of Parents and Teachers in Sacramento May 12-14.

Mrs. Nora Foss gave some information on honorary life memberships, and Mrs. W. H. Randolph asked for Form 2 from the P.T.A.'s finishing classes in Parent-Teacher study.

Mrs. J. Lielstead, parliamentarian, gave instructions to the nominating committee and for the elections to be held at the March meeting.

Mrs. Walter Shutz announced luncheon will be served at next Council meeting at Miramonte school, March 19, reservations to be made by March 15.

Negroes Refuse to Leave Covenant Meet; Invited by Mistake

Through a slip-up on the part of the post office at Pacoima, members of the Negro community and of the Pacoima Chapter, National Negro Congress, attended by invitation a meeting of the property owners of Pacoima intending to plan placing the district under restrictive covenants.

J. A. Greene, secretary of the West Pacoima Property Owners Association, had given the post office a number of cards carrying an invitation to attend a meeting of the Association in the Chamber of Commerce building, 13415 Van Nuys blvd. Friday, Feb. 26.

"If you are interested in the welfare of your property, be sure to attend," urged the invitation. "It's getting 'cloudy' in our community. Presented at the meeting will be the Old Maclay Rancho Restrictions. There will be a report by the Recreation Committee, plus entertainment."

Greene, it seems, had particularly asked the clerks in the post office to place these invitatioins only in boxes owned by white persons. The address on the card was merely: Boxholder, Pacoima, Calif. But the clerks couldn't tell by the names whether the color of a man's skin was black or white, so several Negroes got invitations to attend this meeting intended to fence them in.

Greene asked these "unwelcome guests" to leave. But they showed their invitations and stayed. The intention of the meeting, it was explained, was to place restrictive covenants against the Negroes now living on unrestricted property in Pacoima. And the Negroes who were unintentionally "invited" heard this news, as well as the lily-white persons for whom it was originally intended.

The Pacioma Chapter, NNC, Miss Ida Binion, executive secretary, is now planning to fight that plan.

Networks Seek Lift Ban on Editorializing

WASHINGTON—Shall radio listeners, already victimized by long and tiresome commercials, be subjected to propaganda editorializing by the lords of the air?

That question is currently being debated before the Federal Communications Commission, with three major radio networks—NBC, ABC and CBS—requesting the Commission to lift its seven-year rule forbidding them to editorialize on the air.

They also seek abolition of the rule requiring networks to give equal time for opposing views. That, they claimed, would be done anyway, but they want the requirement abolished. An NBC spokesman also testified that his network "has no present plans for editorializing, even if FCC lets down the bars," but he wants the ban removed.

Hotel Rent Ceilings Extended to March 31

An emergency ordinance extending local rent controls on hotels and motels to March 31 has been adopted by the city council.

A move to extend the hotel rent ceilings another year, advocated by Councilman Don Allen flatly refused to go along. The new ordinance, being of an emergency character, required a unanimous vote by the council for passage.

Wallace, Taylor Blasts U.S. Sell-Out of Jews

NEW YORK—Henry A. Wallace yesterday denounced the Truman Administration's policy on partition as "a complete sell-out of the people of Palestine . . . dictated by oil imperialism and oil politics."

Sen. Glan Taylor of Idaho, Wallace's probable third party running mate, joined in condemning U.S. proposals for "studies" to determine whether the warfare in Palestine was a threat to peace.

The Administration is "selling out UN," Taylor charged.

Speaking at a press conference here, Taylor termed UN Delegate Warren Austin's statement on Palestine "abundant proof of the charges of Henry Wallace and myself" that the UN was being abandoned. He added that the policy was "indefensible."

Wallace characterized the bipartisan Truman-GOP Palestine policy as "a second Munich" that would have the same consequences "as the historic session of Chamberlain, Daladier and Hitler" unless "outraged public opinion" forces a change. He continued:

"The U.S. delegation, with unparalleled effrontery, says that the Security Council's job is not to enforce the UN vote for partition but to keep the peace. As if this were not bad enough, Mr. Warren Austin proposed 'consultation' to determine whether there is a threat to the peace, while wholesale murder continues."

Plan to Import Islanders Hit As Move to Cut Domestics' Pay

(Special to the Eagle)

NEW YORK — A charge that the present plans to import Puerto Rican workers to the United States as domestics was a move to force down the wage scale of household workers, came this week from Fred E. DeMondez, director of the Hopkins' Employment Agency, one of the largest in Harlem.

"There is no need to bring these workers in from Puerto Rico," DeMondez said, "except to force wages down. It would appear that employers intend to reduce domestics' wages at any cost."

The employment agency had pointed out that already there is a lag in the number of jobs available for household workers, and questioned the reasoning behind plans on the part of the New York State Employment Service and the State Industrial Commission to bring workers from Puerto Rico to New York.

"Within this area," DeMondez stated, "we have been able to gain wages of from $45 to $50 weekly for 'sleep-in' workers, but the present plan of New York State officials is to start Puerto Rican workers at only $25 weekly."

The Puerto Ricans, who are undergoing special courses in how to handle American household machinery, are being trained at the expense of the government, which will also pay transportation costs to this country.

"The Negro worker will be more greatly affected by this move," DeMondez warned "than the white domestic, although the first imported workers are scheduled to be placed in homes in the Scarsdale-White Plains area just outside New York City, they may well be brought to other parts of the state and nation in the near future."

The Puerto Rican workers are to sign contracts with employers for a year, with pay scales starting at $25 weekly and being increased $2.50 every three months until "wages reach current standards." However, out of these wages, the workers are expected to repay $130 which is to be spent on clothes for them.

Local Leaders Protest Arrest Of Ferd. Smith

Nine prominent Southern Californians this week protested the arrest for deportation of Ferdinand Smith, Negro leader and secretary of the CIO National Maritime Union.

Smith's arrest was termed "to date the most outrageous act of political reprisal of the national administration." It was preceded by the arrest of Claudia Jones, Harlem woman leader who, like Smith, is an ardent supporter of Henry Wallace.

The protest came from Philip M. Connelly, secretary-treasurer Los Angeles CIO Council; writers Clifford Odets, Peter M. Kahn Jr. and Albert Maltz; Judge Stanley Moffatt, Democratic party leader; Charles Gladstone, joint cloak board, AFL International Ladies Garment Workers; Mrs. Charlotta Bass, editor-publisher the California EAGLE; William Lawrence, regional director CIO International Longshoremen's Union, and William Bidner, executive director Civil Rights Congress.

They urged "reasonable bail" pending hearings and dismissal of the charges against Smith and others held for deportation on political charges in telegrams sent to President Truman, Atty. Gen. Clark, and Watson R. Miller, commissioner of immigration.

Willie Lawyer Recrosses Line to Claim Fortune

suviving grandson.

McKee claims he is the last surviving son of Col. McKee's daughter Abby and her husband, John Vincent Syphax. He was christened Theophilus M. Syphax but presented court records from Hartford, Connecticut, purporting to show he had legally changed his name to Theophilus John McKee in 1904. That was the year he was graduated from Yale Law school.

However, according to neighbors of the McKee and Syhpax families who remembered McKee, he had crossed the line on the day of the old colonel's funeral in April, 1902. Theo—as he was called then—divorced himself so completely from his background that he didn't even accept a nominal bequest of $50 a year under the old colonel's will.

McKee married twice after crossing the line, both times to white women. His present wife, Mrs. Aimee Bennett McKee, whom he married five years ago after his first marriage ended in divorce, reportedly did not know of his Negro ancestry. Nor did his law partner, Irving Berger.

It has been estimated that some 1,500,000 million Negroes have crossed the line since the end of the Civil War, married into the so-called caucasian race and raised families. In addition, there are many Negroes who "pass" during the day for business purposes, but rejoin their families after business hours.

McKee is in a swanky Lennox Hill hospital recovering from a serious kidney operation and was unavailable for comment. Mrs. McKee was not talking.

There are 25 other claimants for the fortune, but McKee stands to win the lion's share if his claim is upheld, and that depends on whether he can successfully make the return trip across the color line, prove his kinship to the late Col. John McKee.

The Board of Education quietly resolved this change in keeping with the state's new constitution which forbids segregation. The president of the board, David T. ● Tenney's Attack gate a boycott against the paper is "most decidedly un-American," said Dr. Townsend. "Any attempt at suppression of the press is certainly not to be tolerated."

Bert Witt, Southern California director, Progressive Citizens of America, said: "If Mr. Tenney and his associates desire to cease reading the Daily People's World I have no objection.

"But to use their office as a committee of the legislature to urge citizens what to read and what not to read is most inappropriate.

It smacks very much of the approved lists of literature familiar in Nazi Germany."

Biberman advised Tenney and his group to visit the Freedom Train, and added:

"The first amendment was written into law in case some day a Sen. Tenney would attempt one-man suppression of the people's press. There really isn't any choice between the Bill of Rights and Sen. Tenney."

Norman Smith, businessmen's division PCA warned: "The attempt at suppression of the last vestiges of the free press is consistent with the policy of the Tenney committee.

It very clearly illustrates the objectives and desires of Sen. Tenney. All progressive and free-thinking people in California must join in a coordinated effort to expose the contemptible manouver."

NAACP Regional Confab Opens Here Tomorrow

The conference opens Friday (tomorrow) with a session on labor and employment at the Henderson Community Center of Second Baptist church. Speakers will include William M. Jones, industrial relations secretary of the Los Angeles Urban League and Welford Wilson, supervisor of apprenticeship standards, State Dept. of Industrial Relations.

This session will give particular attention to a program for the elimination of discriminatory practices in industry and government; greater participation of Negroes in the trade union movement, abolition of segregated locals, auxiliaries, etc; passage of state and federal FEPC legislation. Rev. D. D. Mattocks, president of the Sacramento NAACP Branch, will chair the session.

Norman Huston, president and comptroller of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Co., will act as chairman at a night meeting Friday at the Second Baptist church. Attorneys Griffith and Loren Miller will speak on civil rights and legal redress.

Youth problems and programs will be discussed Saturday morning at the Henderson Community Center. Organization of youth councils and colleges chapters and their relationship to the branches and to nation-wide youth projects will be discussed.

A discussion of the plight of Negro veterans in the West Coast area will be heard Saturday afternoon at the Henderson Community Center, with Mrs. Billie Ashby, president of the Tulare branch, acting as chairman. American Legion Post 685 in Tulare was named for the husband of Mrs. Ashby.

The mass meeting Sunday 3:30 p.m. at which a capacity turnout is expected will wind up the historic conference.

who shot him in the hip on the pretext that the young veteran was trying to escape.

While Williams was lying in the street, the arresting officer and several others beat him mercilessly. Finally a police car arrived on the scene and Williams was tossed into it and driven off.

McGowan allegedly started to run when an officer attempted to arrest him on a charge of drunkenness. Overtaken, he was beaten unconscious by several officers.

The two Kosciusko victims were George Thomas, and Lucey Futch, a young veteran driving a truck for a Jackson- wholesale firm. Thomas was shot to death by a policeman who arrested him for attempting to break into a white home. The officer claimed that en route to the jail, Thomas tried to overpower him, and he shot him. The autopsy showed that Thomas was shot three times—once through the arm, once through the lower body and once through the heart.

On the same day, Futch's mother and wife heard that he had been beaten by a mob, and went from Jackson to Kosciusko to find him. They were given the run-around by Kosciusko police. Four days later Futch returned home, bearing evidence of a brutal beating.

Rep. Hoffman

threaten to bolt the ticket by casting their votes in the electoral college for someone other than the Democratic nominee or the Democratic candidate, if that candidate be President Truman, that we make a deal with them.

"Ordinarily," he continued, "I do not believe in deals but if one must be made, I would not be averse to doing it if, out of it, we could get something for the good of the country. So I suggest to my Republican friends who are politicians that we tell these Democrats that if they will vote for the selection of a Republican, let us suggest Robert Taft, that they and we get together in some kind of a conference, agree on someone agreeable to both and elect him, that then, if they do that, we will kill this program of civil rights and satisfy the folks from the South. We will make a deal, but you have got to deliver this time. Adopt that program and America can go forward once more—our fancied problems will disappear and our real ones be solved."

That Senator Taft might not be adverse to such a deal was indicated recently in his vote on FEPC when he and Senator Ball, Minnesota Republican, joined southern Democrats Ellender and Hill in voting against it. The bill passed the committee 7 to 5.

Hoffman's proposal was denounced by Negro Democratic Congressman William L. Dawson of Illinois as showing a "cynical disregard" for the civil rights of minority groups.

"This brazen proposal to abandon the civil rights program to which the Republican party has long pledged its support shows clearly that the Republican party seeks not to help Negroes and other minority groups but seeks only votes, theirs or any others it can get," said Dawson.

"Congressman Hoffman and the Republican party have fought all of the reforms started by Franklin D. Roosevelt which helped Negroes and other minority groups.

"The Republicans fought the minimum wage. They are now blocking an increase in this minimum wage. They believe that $16 a week is enough to pay the workers from the lower economic level of our society.

"The Republicans fought and still fight a housing program that will give decent housing to those in the lower income groups. Unfortunately a disproportionate number of the members of minority groups are in the lower income levels.

"It is no wonder, then, that a Republican makes the cynical, cheap offer to abandon the civil rights program in a trade for votes."

In 1929 he was graduated from the A. J. Moore High school at Waco, Texas, with a leadership in most worthwhile activities. In 1933 he was graduated from Samuel Huston college and subsequently from Gammon Theological seminary and Boston university, graduating from the latter institution with the degree of S.T. M. He had done advanced study at the University of Southern California.

He was called to the presidency of Samuel Huston college from the pastorate of the Scott Methodist church, Pasadena, California. A building program inaugurated at the beginning of his administration has increased the number of buildings on the campus from five to ten, and the enrollment has increased from 250 to 700. Other improvements during that period include the remodeling of the science hall and its equipment with modern apparatus ,the remodeling of Burrowes Hall, and the conversion of its fourth floor into offices for members of the faculty.

Even greater plans for the expansion of the college were in the making at the time of his death. Under construction now are a dispensary and a student union building. The library is being enlarged to accomodate approximately 400 students at one time.

In 1938 Mr. Downs married Miss Marion Jackson of Baltimore, Maryland and to this union was born a daughter, Karleen. Other survivors are his mother, Mrs. Lucretia Downs, six sisters, and two brothers.

Dr. Downs' whole life was devoted to Samuel Huston college and the few other activities in which he engaged were closely allied with the institution. He was a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha faternity. He is the author of "Meet the Negro," a picture of the Negro's participation in the American civilization.

TO ASSIST YOU IN MAKING WISE DECISIONS

LOVE THY NEIGHBOR

Our love must not only dwell upon the lovely and precious things we possess, but must extend beyond that point to our infortunate friends and neighbors.

Fellowship in our hearts for all humanity will bring us great joy and happiness. Nothing can be finer than the expression one sees upon the face of a down-trodden individual who hasn't had a kind word spoken to him or a smile passed his way. Than along comes an individual who loves everyone and spends time trying to make this lonesome, dejected person feel wanted and loved. That is an example of true love in our hearts for our fellowmen.

M.—Dear Prof. Herman: Sorry I have not been able to write to you sooner, but I just want to tell you how much I love my book. I am going to try and get all of my friends to get one. Thanks again for all you have done.

Mrs. R. S.—Should we return to New York or remain here?

ANS.—After giving your question careful thought and consideration, I am of the opinion that you should remain there a little longer, at least another month. Give yourself time to see if this plan will work out before making another change.

A. J. R.—Will I get married soon?

ANS.—Your Lucky Stars and Guiding Planet indicate many changes. One of which will be marriage. It seems that your plans regarding this matter will come to pass and you will be happy.

T. F.—What is a vignette in architecture?

ANS.—In architecture a vignette is a running ornament, representing, as its name imports, a little vine with branches, leaves and grapes.

Y. K.—What is meant by the word "thobbing" and what is its origin?

ANS.—The word has its origin in this sentence from Henshaw Ward, "When a person thinks without curiosity, has an opinion because he likes it, believes what is handy—then he thobs."

WORRIED—I haven't been studying as I should and now I am wondering if I shall pass?

ANS.—It doesn't seem to be too late for you to buckle down and really put forth some effort in your school work. When your teachers see what you are doing, I am sure they will help you all that they can, in this manner you may be able to pass in your work.

D. S. Does he love me?

ANS.—Concentrating upon your question I find that your friend hasn't been as attentive and interesting as he used to be and you are wondering if he still cares for you. He seems to be quite upset over some family matters, which he will explain to you in due time, hence his abstract attitude.

2500 Acclaim Paul Robeson At Concert-Meeting Here

editor-publisher of the California EAGLE; James Burford, political action director of the Los Angeles CIO Council; and Don Wheeldon, chairman of the Pasadena Race Relations Committee and publicity director for the "Deep Are The Roots" company.

Other platform guests included Miss Lena Horne, glamorous screen personality, Dr. Townsend, author of The Townsend Plan, and Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, genial pastor of the Second Baptist church. A large number of press representatives were also in attendance.

The speech of Mrs. Bass was highlighted with a satirical parable concerning the marriage of the donkey and the elephant. That this union was unprofitable was proved by its unhealthy offspring, namely—The Taft-Hartley Bill, the Marshall Plan, the Hollywood investigations and widespread Jim Crow all over the land.

Rene De Maestri spoke in behalf of the public welfare workers of the AFL and in behalf of 20,000 county employes whose "loyalty" has been questioned and maligned by the county administration.

The all-out program of action to combat increasing job and employment discrimination leveled against the Negro and Mexican people, recently adopted by the Los Angeles CIO Council, was ably outlined by James Burford.

During the pause when the audience was given the opportunity to participate in the fight for the rights of minorities, through public offering, the sum of $1000 was raised in the course of a few minutes, under the direction of Don Wheeldon.

Immediately following the offering, three important resolutions were read and adopted. In brief, they are as follows:

To President Harry S. Truman and Governor Melvin E. Thompson, Atlanta, Ga.: "We, 2500 Los Angeles citizens assembled at the Paul Robeson Concert-Meeting, demand that the death penalty against Mrs. Ingram and her two sons be immediately revoked, and the unconditional release and safety of Mrs. Ingram and her sons assured; that the State of Georgia must prosecute the brutal landlord Dillinger, and guarantee the return of the Ingrams' property and full restitution for the damages they have suffered."

To President Harry S. Truman, All California Congressmen, and Governor Warren: "We, 2500 citizens assembled at the Paul Robeson Concert-Meeting, declare our vigorous opposition to the aims and methods of the un-American committees and call for their immediate and complete abolition. We support the Civil Rights Congress in its national campaign for the passage of House Resolution No. 46, introduced by Congressman Adolph J. Sabath, calling for the abolition of the Thomas-Rankin Un-American Committee.

"We call upon Governor Warren and the speaker of the Senate to deny any appropriation for the activities of the Jack B. Tenney State Senate Un-American Committee. We pledge our support to those men and women who have defied America's "thought police" and have placed themselves in the front lines in the battle to preserve American democracy."

The third and last resolution adopted, addressed to President Harry S. Truman, Attorney-General Tom Clark and Watson R. Miller, commissioner of immigration, labeled as "outrageous" the arrest of Ferdinand Smith, outstanding CIO Negro leader and secretary of the National Maritime Union, for deportation to Jamaica, and the detention of John Williamson, national labor secretary of the Communist party for deportation to Scotland, who vigorously contends that he was born in the United States.

"In face of the fact that the supreme court, highest tribunal in our land, has rejected in the Schneiderman case, the charge that the Communist party 'seeks to overthrow the government by force and violence,' the denial of bail to Mr. Smith and Mr. Williamson, pending deportation hearings, in effect deprives them of the right to speak and act in their own defense," the resolution contended.

In conclusion, it was strongly urged that the Department of Justice agree to a reasonable bail pending the hearings and that the Department of Immigration dismiss the charges against these men.

THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE

There Will Be Blooshed In Georgia

Look at the cartoon on the first page and you will realize what is happening to the people, and what must be defeated before peace is established in our government, our nation, and among our people in the world.

There is an ancient adage that a lie is swift, the truth is slow, but in the end the latter will win.

We are stampeding our people with the frightful news that the Communists have taken over Czechslovakia, and are threatening to move into China, Finland, and Greece, and unless we do something about it, will eventually take over the U.S.A.

The terrible Communists must be stopped, they say. Minorities, especially those who have been bitten by the Communist bug, must be deported. Negro leaders, teachers, and preahcers, must instruct their followers to have nothing to do with the Communists.

Investigating committees are running hither and yon, ferreting out Communists who are working to overthrow our government.

With the exception of discovering ten Hollywood writers, who had produced plays that spoke against anti-Semitism and anti-Negroism, nothing in the nature of un-American activity has been traced to Communists bloodshed in Georgia.

Today's top news states that the President has sent a special messenger to Jerusalem to make peace with the Arabs.

Paradoxically some of the daily papers right here in our own country carry pictures of the Ku Klux Klan in long white robes, and state in bold type that the Klan marched at Wrightsville, Ga., and that some 2000 all white spectators watched the hooded knights burn a 15-foot cross. They heard the Grand Dragon, Dr. Samuel Green, who is said, in defiance of the law and order, to have appeared unhooded, and openly denounced President Truman's program.

The local sheriff, Dewey Hall, said, when questioned about what action he would take against this Klan demonstration, "I am in politics and I expect to be elected tomorrow."

This Klan outburst is due to the fact that Negroes are declared eligible to vote in Tuesdays' election. However, in order to put the fear of God in the hearts of the Negro people, Grand Dragon Green has stated that if they as much as attempt to vote by the side of white people, there will be bloodshed in Georgia.

One of the gentlemen intensely interested in stopping Russia from further aggression has said that military strength is the only language Russia knows. Maybe, if applied in the same fashion, it might work in Georgia.

If President Truman is sincere in enforcing his civil rights program, as well as Attorney General Tom Clark and all concerned with the peace and security of our country, they would see to it that the authorities in Georgia called out the State militia. And if that didn't work, then the National Guard. And if that made no impression, the army of the United States of America could function just as swiftly there as it had done in many a strike of wroking people for better conditions.

Here is a chance for the Republican Party, which has so brazenly destroyed everything which our friend Franklin Delano Roosevelt accomplished for the Negro people, to come out boldly and declare they are for the President's program and against such demostrations as that of the Klan in Georgia.

Are the Republicans doing it? Listen to the cynical disregard for human rights which a devotee of Robert Taft, leading candidate for president on the Republican ticket, has to say about it.

"I suggest to some of my Republican friends from the North that in view of the fact that some of those gentlemen from the South threaten to bolt the Democratic ticket by casting their votes in the electorial college for someone other than the Democratic nominee or the Democratic candidate, if that candidate be President Truman, that we make a deal with them.—So I suggest to my Republican friends who are politicians that we tell these Democrats that if they will vote for the selection of a Republican, let us suggest Robert Taft, that they and we get together in some kind of conference, agree on someone agreeable to both and elect him, that then, if they do that, we will kill this program of civil rights and satisfy the folks from the South. We will make a deal, but you have got to deliver this time."

Truly the marriage of the donkey and the elephant!

Unity for Evil Still Continues

We've been preaching unity for years in order that we might bring about that which is good for the people of America. But it seems that the evil forces pay more attention to such exhortations than the forces for good.

Just recently in Washington, D.C., the northern Republicans united again with the southern Democrats to defeat an amendment which would have prohibited discrimination or segregation in the recruitment of Waves, Wacs, and women Marines into the regular army and navy.

The bill was labeled S 1641, intended to establish women's units as a permanent part of the armed services. Leslie Perry of the NAACP Washington Bureau appeared before the sub-committee on hearings, and told it that "unless Congress steps in and corrects the situation, racial discrimination will continue in the armed services."

The Marines which had 17,000 women during the war, refused to admit a single Negro woman, Mr. Perry pointed out. The Navy permitted only a token number of Negro Waves. At the height of the war, the Navy had only 58 Negro Waves out of a total of 78,000. Only two Negro women held Navy commissions.

These figures surely speak for themselves, and fully justified the amendment proposed by the NAACP. It was only a simple amendment. Here it is: "There shall be no discrimination or segregation on account of race, color, religion, or national origin in the appointment of officers, commissioned or warrant, or in original enlistments or reenlistments, or in the training and utilization of personnel selected under this Act."

It was defeated by a coalition of 3 northern Republicans and one southern Democrat. One Republican, Leroy Johnson, is from California. The other two are: Paul W. Shafter, Mich.; and James van Zandt, Pennsylvania. The southern Democrat is Carl T. Durham, North Carolina.

When will we learn to unite for good?

A Long Stride Forward

It is with great satisfaction that The California Eagle, views the advancement of William A. Dickinson to the head of the William A. Dickinson Realty Co. As the acme of this advancement was the opening recently of the splendid modern, new Professional Building at 1729 Wes Jefferson blvd.

For The California Eagle claims William Dickinson as one of its boys. Little Billy Dickinson carried the EAGLE when he was a little tad, nine years old. And he was a good salesman and a good newsboy. Later he became one of the star reporters for the EAGLE. Another long step froward.

Today that same boy, grown to manhood, heads the William A. Dickinson Realty Co. The type of business he is conducting is evidenced by the beautiful building he has just opened at 1729 West Jefferson blvd.

Congratulations, Mr. Dickinson.

What's Cooking in UN

There is still much stewing and brewing in the United Nations Assembly at Lake Success, N. Y.

One of the most satisfactory brews that is being concocted is that of a united Russia and United States urging the Security Council to accept the partition of the Holy Land as the proper solution to that difficult problem.

Although there is much opposition to this partition, with all of the opposition coming from the Arabs, the end will evidently prove that after all this was the only thing that could be done about Palestine.

Soviet Delegate Andri Gromyko said the Big Five—United States, England, France, China, and the Soviet Union—should begin without delay a conference of "direct consultations."

Great Britian has balked at this, however, and says she will not be a party in such a conference. But if the USA and the USSR unite, and stand firm on their proposal, the British may be persuaded that it might be better if they came along, after all.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

While for the most part churches, as a whole, are opposed to labor unions, there is a growing movement in the South which is uniting the church and organized labor. It is God speaking through the workingman.

"By strength of organization," a Georgia minister told his congregation, "labor must convince capital that it is full grown. I certainly do not intend to imply that labor is all right and capital is all wrong. There are imperfections and imperfect people on both sides. If labor becomes unscrupuleus and selfish, it will be just as evil as capital, guilty of the same things. There is not as much danger at present, however, of labor becoming poinoned with the same disease as capital, as there is danger of labor not growing sufficiently strong through organization to demand its rights."

Religion is a part of the daily lives of the people of the South. That is, the working people, the common people—those who have been styled "poor whites" and the Negroes. These are the people organized labor, especially the CIO, is struggling to organize. And they are joining the CIO by droves. And they take their religion right with them into their labor unions.

The story is told how one woman in Tennessee was a key figure in winning an election for the Textile Workers Union in her factory, one of a big yarn chain. She had been threatened with the loss of her job if she didn't quit talking "union." That worried her not at all. But when her boss told her that unions were of the devil, and that she'd better pray about it before she joined, she followed his advice. She prayed.

"Lord," she pleaded, "please show me that this union movement is a Christian movement. The way the Lord showed Moses how to help the Children of Israel, the children of the Coosa-Thatcher Co. must be helped by the Lord."

This woman's minister believed in the CIO. He told her so. That settled it. The Lord had answered her prayer. He had shown her the union movement was a Christian movement. She told all her friends how God had answered. They all voted "yes" for the Textile Workers Union. And it was a glorious victory.

The church and the union are the two beacon lights of the South. And those lights are growing stronger as they merge more and more. Of course there are still many churches and still many individual members of different churches, that do not believe in labor unions. They warn their members to have nothing to do with such Communistic and devil-inspired things. But this attitude is disappearing. And the simpler, the deeper, the more fervent the faith of the church or the individual, the easier it is for the CIO organizer, a praying Christian himself, to convince him or her that the union movement is a Christian movement.

This putting one's religion into organized labor, into politics, is a movement that is really spreading all over the country. All over the world. Slowly, of course, and against much opposition. But surely, nevertheless.

How fast it will spread depends so much upon us. If we have the simple faith of the Southern mill workers, we can do miracles as they are doing.

For everything that has come to us, everything good that has come to America has come through struggle. Through prayer, whether formal prayer or only a heartfelt wish, perhaps not even expressed. Those precious documents on the Freedom Train—they are all the product of struggle and sweat and tears. Sometimes of blood. The Declaration of Independence. The Emancipation Proclamation. Our beloved Constitution.

No, there is no FEPC there yet. No anti-lynch law. No law banning restrictive covenants. These and others are things we today must struggle for. American history did not stop with the Declaration of Independence. The war against bigotry did not end with the Emancipation Proclamation. We today must carry on the fight our forefathers began. Through toil and sweat and tears. Please God, it will not be through blood. But it is only through toil and struggle, however, that our new world with liberty and justice for all can be created.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mrs. Bass:

The following is the story of Elizabeth Ebling. I met Elizabeth on one of the streets of Stuttgarf, Germany, and at first I thought she was an American Negro girl until I learned that she could speak practically no English, only German. I took her to our hotel and introduced her to the men and women of our troupe. She was simply amazed at seeing the colored girls. She had seen the Negro soldiers there in Germany since the end of the war, but until then she had never seen a Negro woman.

Elizabeth's mother was a German woman, and her father was an American Negro soldier in the first World War. She was born in Mainz, Germany, in 1920. During the latter part of Hitler's government she told me that orders were given to sterilize all Negro boys and girls over 12 years of age.

Her mother and her aunts and other German friends hid Elizabeth successfully from the Gestapo all during the war. And that, my friend, is some feat to accomplish in a small town where being a Negro she was so conspicuous. Elizabeth's mother naturally had a hard time rearing this black child in a country as hostile toward Negroes as Germany under Hitler, but she stuck by her all the way.

When Elizabeth was 10 years old, her mother married a German. At first she was not welcomed in his house and had to stay with her mother's sisters. But as time went by and her mother began having children by Schuster, Elizabeth proved such great help that his attitude toward her began to soften. When I visited the family in Stuttgart in 1946, she was calling him father just as all the rest were doing.

Because her mother has stuck by her all these years, and because Elizabeth is doing everything she can to become a fine woman, I am doing all I can to send her and her family food and clothing as often as I can. These people are indeed grateful for every little thing anyone can send them. My heart goes out to the thousands of suffering people in Europe and elsewhere, when we here in America have so much.

I have seen people standing in line with pails waiting for the American Negro boys to give them the swill from their tables at mess and coffee grounds. They were glad to get it. I appreciate your effort to bring my stories to the good people of Los Angeles, and only hope I can be of some service to the community for the wonderful way they have come to the assistance of these unfortunate people.

Yours truly,

JESTER HAIRSTON.

Comes a letter from far-off Anchorage, Alaska, wondering why the California EAGLE has not been delivered.

"There might be a possibility that I will receive several copies at once," says Ralph A. Henderson, "due to the slowness and the bunching of mail en route by boat. It does require seven days alone for mail to travel from Seattle to Anchorage.

"You might let St. Paul Baptist church know that their program, 'Echoes of Eden' choir is heard every Sunday afternoon by transcription over the radio, and is the best heard in this far north country.

"There are many colored soldiers stationed here, also the 475th air squadron, headed by a Capt. Burton, who also has his family here with him. We also enjoyed a concert in January by Kenneth Spencer. It was well patronized by the music lovers of Anchorage.

"The colored civilian population here is very small for a town with a population of 12,500.

"The weather here has been very mild this winter. The lowest was 12 below zero, with the average temperature at about 30 degrees above, with a high of 47 degrees above in January. There has been no skiing because of the lack of snow, but plenty of ice skating.

"My regards to all. Yours truly,

"Ralph A. Henderson."

(Note by editor: The matter of delay is being looked into, and we promise the EAGLE will fly to Alaska as quickly as possible.)

(Here's a letter all the way from Boston!)

Dear Mrs. Bass and Staff:

Thank you for sending me your paper regularly since I've been here. I've enjoyed reading your editorials each week. In fact I've never really known before what good reading our papers have in L.A.—so far above the average Negro paper. Or should I speak only for the Boston papers—pamphlets?

The people here would steal my paper out of the mail box. That would make me so mad. Then I would advertise in their paper, please to return it to me, as I was a stranger here and that was the only means of communication I had with my world. And believe it or not, I would then get it back, well read.

I am coming home Saturday morning at 10:30 over the Santa Fe. Do you remember me, Mrs. Bass? I did own a barber shop at 4419½ Avalon Blvd., Powell's Tonsorial Parlor. Mrs. Bass, keep up your wonderful work.

I remain your reader,

(Miss) Ruth Powell.

Yes, of course, we remember you. Thank you very much for your encouraging letter. It is such people like you who keep all of us fighting, no matter how great the odds against us. You keep on fighting, too, and we'll win eventually.—Editor, Eagle.

Sydenham Hospital Seeks Specialists

NEW YORK (CNS) — Sydenham Hospital, the nation's first interracial hospital, is having a difficult time getting enough Negro doctors who are specialists in orthopedic surgery, pathology, anesthesia, pediatrics and X-ray.

According to Dr. Sigmund L. Friedman, Sydenham's director, there are fewer than 500 Negro doctors trained as such specialists though there are 20,000 whites.

W. J. Wheaton Says

When the table had been cleared, Mary Ann and "yours truly" settled down for our usual confab. "Don't you know that I'm getting pretty interested in this voting, and who to vote for," she said.

Yes, we said, as the time arrives for the selection of candidates to fill the various offices and the candidates, or their sponsors, seek to sell their wares to the electorate they often try to becloud the main issues and befog the public. Very often we are carried away through emotion and lose sight of the logical thing to do. Our better judgment, as the saying goes, is dulled and we are apt to misjudge. For instance, this hullabaloo being raised by that bunch of recalcitrant southern representatives and governors who claim to speak for their constituents in their protests against the enactment of laws outlawing lynching of helpless victims; abolishing the poll tax, assuring the right to vote; a bill to give every man and woman the chance to work, without regard to color, race, or religious belief, and other rights of citizenship.

But the signs of the times are that that class of pseudo, or should we say, inept leadership, is being dethroned, and a better and more intelligent class selected.

"Yes," said Mary Ann, "I know. For when that mob took Zeke Brown out and beat him and burned his cabin down, the better class of white folk said it was a disgrace to the county and made the county build Zeke a new cabin. I think some of the same ones who burned it down were forced to help build it. But they dasn't say nothing."

When that delegation of governors called on the chairman of the Democratic National Committee to induce President Truman to retract his stand on the civil rights program, they were told politely but definitely: Nothing doing. My Mary Ann was reading to me about a Negro governor entertaining the President on some island. "Who is he and on what island?" she asked. We informed her that the governor was Judge Hastie, and that the island was St. Thomas, that it was a very important spot in the Caribbean, and that Judge Hastie was eligible to qualify for Negro leadership. That he had shown that he was a safe and sound man to follow, that he had shown courage in resigning from a previous position for reasons detrimental; he said, to the group which he was representing. No kowtower he.

In looking over the record we find that the Democratic administration has appointed more Negroes to key positions than any of its predecessors. The Negro group has made more progress politically and economically in this past decade than ever before. The mouthings of the Dixie politicos who have no conception of right, and who are un-American in speech and act; who are shunned by their better thinking colleagues, are losing weight. It is but a matter of time when even the Rankins, Eastlands, Talmadges will be caught betwixt millstones of the growing intelligent South and men will wonder why such minds ever existed. It was real funny, and yet tragic, when Rankin in his denunciation of the civil rights program, which Truman has asked congress to enact, claimed that the Negroes on his plantation were happy and perfectly satisfied with their condition. He even mentioned Perry Howard, Republican national committeeman from Rankins' state of Mississippi, as opposed to the program. But then it is alleged that Perry holds a position by the grace of Rankin. Who ever heard of a Republican in Mississippi? When the Mississippi Negro gets the right of franchise, Perry will have to change his political status.

The election to congress of a candidate backed by the Wallace third party in the 24th congressional district, New York City, has given impetus to the "Wallace for President" movement. That district has for years been a Democratic stronghold. It has quite a diversified population: 60 percent are Jews, about 30 percent Negroes, and the remainder Irish and Puerto Ricans. The Jews held Truman responsible for the present situation in Palestine, so they took the advice of Congressman Marcantonia, who represents the American Labor party, and gave the raspberry to "Boss Flynn," who had an unknown lawyer as his candidate. Flynn thought that his candidate had a walk-over and when he awoke it was too late.

Mary Ann, we said, politics is a great game and makes strange bedfellows. That election may be a potent factor in deciding which political party will carry New York and then again it might not prove anything. It is alleged that Wallace made a proposal to the President that if he would fire from his cabinet Harriman, Forestal, as well as army secretary Kenneth Royal, he, Wallace, might withdraw from the race. As the President showed no inclination to consider it, and the New York election has given impetus to Wallace's candidacy, we don't think there's any chance of candidate Wallace withdrawing. The whole thing is a bid for the Negro vote in the key states, and the Negro is in a better position to demand recognition than ever before. Will he take advantage of the opportunity? We will wait and see.

The Road to Health

By THOMAS ROY PAYTON, M. D.

It seems that there exists in our community, the dire need for informative, informal, factual plain talk as regards the hush-hush subject of rectal diseases, cancer, certain venereal diseases and the like.

Long and varied experience with members of my profession as well as with "the people" has driven home to me how important such discussions might prove to be. People may then present themselves to their doctors more intelligently. They will know when they are receiving the proper treatment thereby eliminating the quack doctor who advertises profusely making all sorts of ridiculous promises. They will be better able to evaluate their symptoms and will not be too readily guided by what happened to the neighbor who had "the same thing" or the "know it all" who has dreamt up a "cure."

You would be surprised if you knew the percentage of people who are kept from getting well simply because they are swayed by a good talker who may mean well but has merely been misinformed. I sometimes become exasperated when with the experience which has been mine, I must argue with my patient for many minutes to convince him that what Mrs. Jones said was NOT true, that I am the doctor and that I am capable of advising properly. Especially does this apply to rectal diseases and also cancer where quack doctors have had a picnic for years preying upon the ignorance of the general public.

In every instance of a diagnosed case of cancer that I have proven, the patient denied having any knowledge at all that he was suffering from the disease or that his early symptoms were significant. Also, certain venereal diseases that have not been enlarged upon and many other phases of medical information—all of this will be discussed in this column in the hope that it may do some good. The discussion will be as humorous as possible, because actually they are very humorous at times. Questions may be asked and sent to this paper and will be answered in the order in which they are received. The information given is done with the sole object of creating a happier relationship between doctor and patient as far as intelligent treatment and results of treatment are concerned. I feel sure this column may fill a long-awaited need for the opinions and ideas as expressed by the many people it has been my privilege to contact in the East as well as the West as regards the matter of rectal disease, are fantastic and so much in error that I marvel that the public can believe such tall tales. There at least should be instituted, some means of trying to correct these false ideas and conceptions although many people even when they hear the truth do not believe it. It really seems that often they prefer to believe what is NOT true. The sad aftermath is that they suffer pain and misery and discomfort needlessly.

The Eagle, in indorsement of this program can be congratulated for another effort toward service to the community. The column will be my ideas and experiences over the years in respect to the problems that have prevented a fuller service, usually due to lack of cooperation and knowledge on the part of the person treated. This has mainly been due to pride, humility, fear, timidity, shame, etc., which in the past has almost always accompanied the treatment of diseases of the rectum. In this day and time we expose frankly, honestly and modestly too, the necessary means for care of our bodies. Syphilis and gonorrhea are now mentioned without a blush where as a few years back people would not dare utter the "vile names" which were considered a disgrace.

It certainly is no disgrace to get well and the history of the case must be told to each doctor before he can even begin to attempt to treat the case. The first step, therefore, is the willingness of the patient to tell his story frankly, honestly and intelligently and he must not blame the doctor if he leaves out a very important part of that story and therefore does not get results.

Your comments and criticisms will be welcomed and it is my fervent wish that these CHATS may help a few of the people by a few of the instances where they suffer.

My title for next week will be "Why is cancer feared so much?"

Unite to Be Strong

The drive for the unionization of the Garment Workers in Los Angeles is a happy omen of what we hope for the entire country. For it is only by working together for some definite goal that working people can make their power felt.

We've heard that old saying, "In union there is strength," so many times, that we forget its significance. Nevertheless by precept upon precept, line upon line, by hard blows and knocks, that truth must be made vividly real to us.

No one can do anything hard or very much worthwhile alone. We must work together. We must work together to combat the united efforts of those who employ us to browbeat us out of our hard-earned wages. We must work together to force those same employers to give us decent places to work in, to force them to give us privileges we need and earn, and which will help us work all the harder, such as vacations with pay, medical attention, and scores of other things similar to those a man will usually give to his mules or horses because he knows by caring for their welfare, they will serve him all the better.

For such things workers everywhere must and should unite. The California Eagle is glad to hear the Garment Workers are uniting, and urges all its readers, if they have not already done so, to join a union, NOW.

To Secure These Rights

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

(Installment No. 14)

(Installment Weekly)

The Committee does not believe that the action of the supreme court in declaring parts of the 19th century civil rights legislation unconstitutional proves that a well-conceived present-day attempt to strengthen the federal civil rights program would meet a similar fate. Certain of these early decisions of the court have long been criticized by eminent authorities on American constitutional law. In every one of the cases there was a dissenting opinion. That by Justice Harlan in the Civil Rights Cases of 1883 is a particular powerful statement. The majority's concept of the extent of federal power to protect civil rights struck him as being entirely too narrow and artificial. He states that he "cannot resist the conclusion that the substance and spirit of the recent amendments of the constitution have been sacrificed by a subtle and ingenious verbal criticism." So powerful a dissent remains a living force in constitutional law and is bound to be thoughtfully considered by any later supreme court when the validity of new civil rights laws comes before it for decision. The odverse decisions of the court in all of these cases depend upon the use of the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments as a basis for civil rights legislation. The cnstitutioal bases upon which congress may enact civil rights laws of varying types are far broader, however, than the cluases of these three amendments. Furthermore, offsetting these six adverse decisions of the supreme court are others in which various federal civil rights laws have been upheld. Sections 51 and 52 of the United States Code have been upheld by the court. Both are derived from the Reconstruction period legislation, and remain on the statute books today.

The Committee believes that a positive program of action by the national government falls well within the limits of governmental power established by our constitution. Two strong considerations have led to this conclusion. One depends upon the broad character and principles of the constitution, the other upon its more specific provisions.

Our constitution has long been recognized by the supreme court as a flexible document, subject to varying interpretations and capable of being adapted to the different needs of changing times. Chief Justice Marshall in his great opinion in McCulloch v. Maryland called it " . . . a constitution intended to endure for ages to come, and consequently to be adapted to the various crises of human affairs."

The American people, by and large, have accepted John Marshall's view for more than a century and a quarter. Again and again, the constitution and it sclauses have been construed to authorize positive governmental programs designed to solve the nation's changing problems. Again and again, the supreme court of the United tSates has approved these programs as falling within the limits of the constitution. Our nation has had to cope with problems growing out of wars, economic depressions, floods, soil erosion, strife between labor and management, and threats to a system of free enterprise.

A basis for governmental action at the national level has been found within the constitution for such policies as the control of prices; regulation of agricultural production; requirement of collective bargaining; social security benefits for millions of people; prohibition of industrial monopolies; drafting of millions of men into the armed services in peacetime as well as in time of war; regulation of the sale of stocks, bonds, and other securities; establishment of vast governmental flood-control and electric power projects; and an attack upon such crimes as white slavery, kidnaping, trade in narcotics, and the theft of automobiles.

The supreme court has held these legislative policies valid, not as exercises of new powers, but as the application of old-established powers to new problems and situations. The adequate proctection of civil rights is not a new problem, but it is a pressing one, and we believe that the supreme court will be as statesmanlike in interpreting the powers of congress to deal with this problem as it has been in its interpretation of the commerce power. No one wishes congress to exceed its constitutional powers or wishes the supreme court to uphold invalid statutes. But when the clauses of the constitution contain language from which substantial powers to protect civil rights may reasonably be implied we believe the supreme court will be as ready to apply John Marshall's doctrine of liberal construction as it ha sbeen in dealing with laws in other fields.

There are several specific constitutional base supon which a federal civil rights program can be built. Some have been recognized and approved by the courts. Others have the support of leading students of the American constitutional system. Some are beyond dispute; others are frankly controversial. Collectively, however, they provide an encouraging basis for action. The President and congressmen must determine the wisdom of a broader civil rights program at the policy level. They should be advised that such a program, carefully framed, will meet the test of constitutionality.

The several specific constitutional bases for federal action in the civil rights field brought to ou rattention follow. Those numbered from one through eight have either been specifically approved by the supreme court or see mto be clearly valid. Those numbered from nine through 11 are more controversial and will be discussed at greater length.

RIGHT TO VOTE

1. Power to Protect the Right to oVte.—The extent of federal power to protect the suffrage varies, depending on the type of election (state or national), the type of interference (whether it affects the voting procedure, or is based on race or sex) and the source of interference(state and local officers or private persons). Among the specific sources of federal power are: Art. 1, Sec. 4, which permits federal protection o fthe procedure for voting in federal elections against interference from any source; the 14th amendment which supports protection against state interference with equality of opportunity to vote in any election; the 15th amendment which supports action against state interference because of race or color with the the right to vote in any election; and the 19th amendment, which supports action against state interference based on sex with the right to vote in any election.

2. Power to Protect the Right to Freedom from Slavery and Involuntary Servitude.—This power derives from the 13th amendment: "Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, o rany place subject to their jurisdiction." This permits legislation designed to protect against actions of private persons or state or local officials.

3. Power to Protect Rights to Fair Legal Process, to Free Speec hand Assembly, and to Equal Protection of the Laws.—This power, derived from the "due process," "equal protection" and "privileges or immunities" clauses of the 14th amendment, cannot be readily summarized, except for the fact that, under supreme court rulings, it protects only against interference by agencies of state or local government. In a wide variety of specific situations—such as cases involving the validity of ordinances licensing the distribution of handbills, the adequacy of representation by counsel, or the validity of state laws or administrative action claimed to discriminate against minorities — the supreme court has delineated areas of activity protected by these constitutional provisions. Congress is expressly authorized to enact legislation to implement this power, and has passed some statutes for this purpose.

Wallace to Run Negroes for House, Senate

WASHINGTON—Henry Wallace's third-party force intend to conduct an intensive campaign to increase the number of Negroes in the lower house of congress and to put a Negro in the senate, it was learned this week.

Tentative plans have been adopted at conferences in which Wallace and C. B. Baldwin, his campaign manager, participated directly. However, selection of the actual districts will be left to individual satte organizations in the movement.

It is understood, however, that Wallace favors running two Negro candidates in New York City—one in Harlem, the other in the Bedford-Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn—two in Chicago, one in Cleveland, another in St. Louis, and other single candidates in Philadelphia, Los Angeles, and Atlanta.

Wallace also is reported as favoring the nomination of a Negro to stand for the U. S. senate in Illinois. There have been Negro members of the house in recent years but no Negro has held a senate seat since the Reconstruction period alliance of southern Negroes and poor whites.

CIO Tabs Bethlehem Plant for First Bout In Fight on Job Bias

Los Angeles CIO's campaign to root out discrimination against minorities in the community and in the shops was given detailed marching orders last Sunday at an all-day leadership class sponsored by the Los Angeles CIO Council. Nearly 100 delegates from 30 local unions, pounding out the program in general sessions and in round table conferences, mapped the specific steps to be taken in the fight.

For a concentration point in the first skirmish to knock out discrimination in hiring and upgrading they tabbed the Bethlehem Steel plant under contract to Steelworkers Local 1845.

To get rid of lily-white plants in a community where minority members make up a large part of the working population, the delegates called for immediate establishment of fair practices committees in all CIO locals.

And for batting down discrimination in the community, particularly as it applies to housing, the delegates urged that CIO form broad coalition movements with other groups in the same fight.

Chief speakers of the day were Philip M. Connelly, Los Angeles CIO Council secretary, and David Jenkins and David Hedley of the California Labor School, who worked with the panels.

The specific steps to be taken to abolish discrimination were detailed to the class delegates in three panel reports, all of which were adopted unanimously.

Recommendations of the panel on all-white industries, read by Andy Barrigan of the Newspaper Guild, dere:

- Work for the employment of minority workers and their attainment of seniority status.
- Establishment of fair practices committee in each local.
- Expose language offensive to minorities as tools of the employer.
- Adoption of contract clauses providing for no discrimination in hiring or upgrading.
- That locals be on guard against mass layoff of minority workers, whose accumulation of seniority generally is less than that of white workers, was urged by the panel on mixed industries.

'John Manfing, UAW Ford Local 406, reporting for the panel, advised locals to be conscious of the layoff problems ahead, then recounted how minority workers have little senority because they have ben employed in most plants only since the needs of the war broke down the door to their employment.

He recommended that locals consider special seniority adjustments for minority workers such as that granted veterans, said the issue has to be taken to workers and cannot be worked out simply on a contract basis, advised all locals to re-examine their contractual protection of minority workers in reclassifications and promotions.

To carry out the fight against discrimination in the many fronts of the community, the panel on community work recommmended that CIO work through the Council's Minorities Committee, the Council's Political Action Committee and its Community Services Committee, and that "we join forces with NAACP, the Urban League and similar groups fighting for minority rights in behalf of Jewish, Mexican, Philippine and Japanese workers."

Panel reporter Nora Lubelsky, of the Public Workers union, listed the recommendations of her group as:

Restrictive Covenants

- Establishment of a subcommittee of the Council's Minorities Committee to carry on work specifically aimed against restrictive covenants, a reshearch job and subsequent wide publicity on the forces and individuals behind restrictive covenants, a special delegation to call on the Federal Public Housing Authority to argue against the agency's present restrictive covenant requirements with respect to loans.
- A fight against each case of discrimination in public places, campaigns against discrimination in charitable organizations such as certain Community Chest agencies, hospitals and clinics,
- To publicize every instance of police brutality and legal discrimination and to develop support for victims of these, and to fight discrimination and Jim Crow practices in the schools.

Co-chairman of the class symbolized in person the Negro-white unity marked bythe delegates as a major aim of the program. Ed Barnes, Firestone Rubber Local 100 division steward, presided over the morning session; Lawrence Turner, Furniture Workers Local 576 vice-president, chaired the afternoon session. Barnes is white; Turner is a Negro.

Trail Blazers: Frank F. LaVigne

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

When the fire department is mentioned in the community thoughts automatically turn to Frank LaVigne, captain of the 14th street fire station. Direct and proficient, the handsome LaVigne in effortless suavity commands the respect and admiratio of his men without being unreasonable and unapproachable. He wins this by his sheer consistency and competency.

"Firemen," says one, "are the unsung heroes of the city." Few people realize the grave responsibility they have to shoulder . . . rushing to abate an emergency, being alert on the job whether it be in the middle of the night or broad daylight, and making the right decisions without hesitency. And the qualifications are no push-over either.

LaVigne is a native and received his education in the public schools of Los Angeles, Santa Monica Junior college, and UCLA, where he majored in political science. After graduation in 1935 he joined the city fire department and in 1940 was promoted to the rank of captain.

Such short-timed experience ordinarily doesn't merit this position for most men qualify after 10-14 years with the department. But the ambitious LaVigne rated among the top scorers on the examination.

When the war broke out the fire department felt the need for a coordinator to organize and train a group of civilians for fire service. LaVigne was selected for the position. It marked the first time a Negro had been taken out of a station and transferred to such work. He was assigned to a training division of a mixed group in the Eastside area. During the emergency . . . in conjunction with the auxiliary fire force . . . when competitive groups were set up between forces, one of the units trained by him received an achievement award.

His war work was so outstanding that the fire department sent him to Civilian Protection school at Occidental college to further his service to the community.

Frank F. LaVigne

Few fraternities, no doubt, can boast of the success the Kappas enjoyed at their annual Conclave held in Los Angeles last year. The man who was largely instrumental in bringing the National Conclave here was Frank LaVigne, provincial polemarch at that time. During his three year tenure in office the Los Angeles Alumni chapter grew from 15 to 100 men and three new chapters were organized in the Western province largely through him. At present he is on the national board of directors and is a member of the YMCA, NAACP, Masons, Pacific Towne club, and People's Independent church.

Married to the former Simmie Etta Johnson of Little Rock, he is the father of one daughter, Yvette, 8. Our trail blazer is an omnivorous reader who keeps abreast of the trends and is an avid deep-sea fisher.

Strike to Unionize Garment Workers

The strike against the non-union shops of the dressmaking and sportswear operators has already advanced to the third week. The strike is being conducted principally against those shops located in the downtown area, especially at Eighth and Broadway.

The strike was called to demand recognition of the union in the non-union shops, and is being sparked by Locals 84, 96, 97, and 266 of the International Garment oWrkers, AFL.

Among the benefits requested by the employes are: Time and one-half for overtime work. Vacation with pay. A health fund which will pay sick benefits of $15.00 for 10 weeks. A medical center where every union worker and his family may receive medical assistance. A 5% raise in pay, etc.

Union security is perhaps the principal item, and during the drive for unionization there will be no initiation fee for joining.

Another demand the workers will insist upon is: No discrimination against Negroes or Mexicans or any other member of any minority group. It was pointed out that members of the minority groups are the principal sufferers in the non-union shops, an dthe workers are being urged to join the union to end this injustice.

WINSOME DOLORIS BELL, is being supported by her club sisters of the popular Phi-Delphians, when they give a benefit dance in her honor on March 13. A contestant in the Wilfandel Popularity contest, the USC coed is sponsored by Mrs. Irene Morris. Miss Bell is past Basileus of the Sigma chapter AKA sorority, and is a member of the Phrateries on the USC campus. She is also vice-president of the Phi-Delphians. All Wilfandel proceeds will go toward the building fund of a community club house.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

EMPHASIS WILL BE ON BUSINESS when chapters of Iota Phi Lambda sorority all over the country observe National Negro Business Week, April 11 through 17. For the past 19 years this Greek letter organization of women has turned the spotlight on the progress of the Negro people in this field, and in doing so, have refuted the statement that the Negro race is a negative factor in the business world. Los Angeles will have its first Iota Business week this year, when the considerably new, Alpha Phi chapter, presents its program, based on the belief that the fields of business are fertile with opportunities for our youth, and that by working together we can stimulate the growth of our business concerns to proportions large enough and strong enough to reduce to a minimum joblessness among our boys and girls.

Jessie Mae Brown

It was my pleasure to sit in on the "Rush" buncheon of the Sorority on last Sunday morning, and hear the wonderful qualifications of girls seeking membership. Of special interest was the background of Dorothy Redd, recent graduate of USC, who completed studies in the field of Business Administration with honors and is now engaged in the business field.

Mrs. C. A. Bass, editor Publisher of the EAGLE and National honorary member of the sorority was listed as speaker of the morning. Charlotte Preston, Medical Social Worker; Edith Price, Dean of Iota Pledgees, and Marion Jackson, Alpha Phi president, gave highlights on the work of the sorority. The buncheon lasted until 1 p.m. and this writer chalks it up as being highly successful. By the way, red letter April 11 through 17 as a must.

LEONTYNE KING—HOSTESS

When Leontyne King bids your fare to one of her dinner parties, you may rest assured, it will be a meeting place of many interesting people. Dame fashion will be at her peak, and the food will be fit for a king. So it was on last Sunday night, when the charming matron of the city honored one ofChicago's leading Clergymen, Rev. Cobbs, who has been wintering here in the dear ole Southland for several weeks. The smart Dunbar Apartment house, of the James Nelsons, Leontyne's uncle, was the scene of the affair, and guests listed were the city's elite. Enjoying the very tasty repast were the Revs. and Mmes. John Branhan, Clayton Russell and Walter J. Bryant. Bill Smallwood, fellow forth Estater, was giving many first hellos to Angelenos he hadn't seen since his last visit here. Louise Beavers and cousin Rosa Hill were much in evidence reminiscing with some of the visitors to the city. Ethel Sissle chatted with friends she hadn't seen in ages, while Burris Jackson, recently here from D.C., renewed acquaintances along with his better half. Dr. C. W. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Williams, Vaino Hassen, Dorothea and Nate Fearonce, Bess Gant, Atty. Walter Gordon, and we could go on naming, for the affair was well attended with visiting easterners and many an Angeleno. Leontyne, of course, was the perfect hostess, and Rev. Cobbs, a vry interesting honored guest. All in all, it was a wonderful affair. So sorry I missed it, but my girl Friday did a good job of covering the high points.

With June not being too far away, Dan Cupid has decided to try his marksmanship on the hearts of some of the city's lovely debs. Wini Allen's engagement to Dr. Ellis Toney has been announced and the couple will quietly say "I Do," on April 24. Marion Allen will be the sole attendant. An elaborate wedding reception will follow with the many friends of the couple attending. Highlighting the pre-nuptial affairs for the bride-elect will be the March 21 shower hosted by Marcella Monroe. Understand the setting will be the very lovely home of the Leon Rns.

Jacki Bunch took over the hostess role on Sunday afternoon Inviting many of the Crown and Angel City debs over to shower bride-elect, Thelma Jackson, with very useful linen gifts. Thelma and Bill Duncan will speak vows on June 20. Among those attending the affair were: Barbara James, Barbara Durham, Lois Prince, Betty Benson, Lora Jacques, Sal Gordon, Peggy Couton, Lucille Harrison, Mena and Gloria Bunch of course and many another.

While mentioning the pre-nuptial, can't let the very gay post-nuptial shower, Wini Smith and Jackie Clay gave for Barbara Herndon (Lambert) on Sunday afternoon pass. Arrived just in time to note the unwrapping of many a gift. Also had a chance to chat a spell with Adelaid Barker, who wondered why yours truly didn't give a speech of some kind at the Robeson meeting last Friday night. Must admit, there wasn't a seat left in the house, except the one on the speaker's platform, so when the invite was extended there was nothing left for me to do except grace the platform, along with Lena Horne, C. A. Bass, Paul Robeson and . . . Back to the shower, Marilyn Hudson and Puffy Hill were at the shower, along with Paulette Coleman, Odessa Jones, Gloria O'Neal, Jean Brown, Nita Hippard, Fannie Keys, Corinne Kemp, and a host of other friends to the young Herndons.

Before departing the nuptial realm, to my desk this week came the betrothal announcement of Donna Jean Strickland to Gaylord York. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Strickland made the announcement at an informal party on Saturday night.

SOC. EDITOR'S WEEK-END

On Sunday afternoon, the popular Club Congo was the scene of a host of the city's leading clubs meeting together having a wonderful time, and also doing something for dame charity by helping to swell the Camping Fund of the Woodlawn Branch of the YWCA.

The entire matinee had both a social and theatrical highlight. The introduction of the clubs by noted club leader Faustina Johnson was of definite interest to all present. Space will not permit the complete listing of clubs present however, special mention must be made of the popular Douze Mignonette Social club from whose ranks the Festival Queen was crowned and the newly organized Fansurcarfine Art Club, who presented the King of the Festival.

A complete report of the show is carried in the theatrical section of the EAGLE this week. Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

Of course we're all worried to death now that Russia is giving the world her version of the Truman Doctrine. Czechoslovakia and Finland are two countries about the same size as Greece and Turkey. They are in positions just about as strategic as Greece and Turkey as far as Russia is concerned. In addition, there's doubt in the minds of a comfortable number of people as to whether Russia is forcing anyone to do anything.

In a major portion of the smaller countries in Europe, the people have been hungry so often in preceding years that they're now wondering if things could be much worse. So am I, and a lot of others today.

The main thing is, we in America must not allow others to do our thinking. At the beginning of the war, President Roosevelt urged the people not to believe all they heard and read. I think that's agood plan to follow today.

Let's hope President Truman hasn't gotten us in too deeply already by sending money to Greece and Turkey which was used for arms. Let's hope that Sec. Marshall isn't committing us by his plan to aid European countries to the extent of $17,000,000,000. I hear President Truman is thinking of sending a great deal of money to China to fight the spread of Communism. Let us hope too, that there will be some people alive when the crisis and civil war is over in China to use Truman's money to fight Communism.

Incidentally, during Roosevelt's terms in office, he gave the people a New Deal. Truman is just giving nations Great Deals.

TOPIC OF THE WEEK

And so Britain plans to move into Africa. She plans to develop the resources, coal mines, diamonds, precious stones—rid the land of its natural resources to make England's treasury a little bit fatter. She plans to extract the uranium — uranium. That's the vital element in the making of atomic energy.

For many years now, Britain has been in India. Recently she pulled out, and declared the people independent. What's the matter, England, weren't there any more diamonds? All these years the troops and English personnel have exploited the great riches of India. And as soon as Britain pulls out of India, she casts a greedy eye upon the great African continent.

Now just why should England start a purge in Africa, similar to the one in India?

What would the American press say and do if Russia planned to move into Africa in a similar manner, with similar purposes? Suppose England and Russia moved in at the same time. No doubt, there would be war. Which side would America be on? Why?

I can't believe England would move into Africa, develop the natural resources and then give the money back to the teeming millions of illiterate peoples. I can't believe she would be willing to give the African people even 50 percent of what's theirs in the forms of books, schools and colleges. There was no great movement by the English government to educate the Indian people, and to better their working condition.

Had Britain moved into India, and instead of using the people as slaves to work the diamond mines, paid them good wages, helped them in any way to lift themselves through education and culture, a close harmony would have existed between England and India. Not so much Indian blood would be on the hands of the English people today.

So Great Britain plans to move into Africa. When will England plan to move out of Africa? What will be the state of affairs when they do leave? Will the mines, the wealth of the country be in Africa's treasury or will it be in Great Britain's treasury? Who will get the uranium? the diamonds — the minerals — the wealth?

Certainly it won't be in the hands of the dark people of that continent. We have ringside seats, we Americans, to one of the greatest exploitations of all time. We are going to do something about it perhaps, Secretary Marshall? President Truman? Why not lend Africa the machinery and equipment to make the country not only independent but rich and sovereign? It would be one of the safest, best investments yet. It would be a much more solid than either the Truman Doctrine or the Marshall Plan.

Africa is in the prime of its history. It could become the greatest nation upon the face of the earth within the next couple of centuries. But not if burdened by the yoke of greed and suffering that English rule will bring. It can never be more than a land of suffering if the English move in to drain the natural resources.

Where are you, Mr. President? Where are you, Sec. Marshall?

When the playground director at Corregidor Park suggested the need of an entertainment progrom there, Frank Bull recommended Roy Milton and his orchestra as the best available. Milton will not only play for the smaller fry, but has arranged to have on hand 500 lbs. of hot dogs and enough sodas to supply an expected crowd of 3000 youngsters.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: The Personal Witness of the Christain. Lesson Text and Outline. Acts 8:26-39. Motto Text, John 20-21.

INTRODUCTION

After a very successful public ministry among the Semi-foreign Samaritans, Phillip under divine direction left for the lowlands, skirting the Mediterranean Sea where by personal work he won to Christ a visiting African from far up the Nile Valley.

COMMENTS

1. We should study to do good to those we meet upon the road: thus the lips of the righteous may feed many. We should not be so shy of all strangers as some affect to be. It is the duty of every one of us to converse much with the Holy Scripture. Persons of established position should abound more than others in the exercise of piety, because their example will influence many, and they have their time more at command. It is wisdom for men of business to redeem time for holy duties. When we are returning from public worship we should use means in private for the keeping up of the good affections there kindled, and the preserving of the good impressions there made.

2. Those that would learn must see their need to be taught. In order to our understanding of the scripture, it is requisite we should have some one to guide us; some good books, and some good men, but, above all, the Spirit of grace, to lead us into all truth. The business of gospel ministers is to preach Jesus, and this is the preaching that is likely to do good. It is probable that Philip had now occasion for his gift of tongues, that he might preach Christ to this Ethiopian in the language of his country.

3. It is probable that the Ethiopian eunuch had heard at Jerusalem of the doctrine of Christ, so that it was not altogether new to him. But, if he had, what could that do towards this speedy conquest that was made of his heart for Christ. It was a powerful working of the Spirit with and by Philip's preaching that gained the point. In the solemn dedicating and devoting of ourselves to God, it is good to make haste, and not to delay; for the present time is the best time. Those who have received the thing signified by baptism should not put off receiving the sign. The eunuch feared lest the good affections now working in him should cool and abate, and therefore was willing immediately to bind his soul with the baptismal bonds unto the Lord, that he might bring the matter to an issue.

COMMENT ON THE MOTTO TEXT

The Prince of Peace brings and bestows the only peace that can satisfy a single soulor pacify the whole world. He can do it and will do it when he is accepted as Savious and enthroned as Lord.

Jesus was sent by the Father into the world, the greatest missionary earth ever knew. He came and fulfilled his mission with stainless life and sacrificial death. He earned the authority given Him.

Not only as great Exemplar but also as Christ the King, he calls upon every one of his disciples to follow in his steps. If we follow the saving and serving Christ, we must follow Him in every good work from our own doorstep to the confines of the globe.

Rev. J. W. Bailey Has Devoted Many Years In Baptist Evangelism

Rev. J. W. Bailey, D.D., L.L.D. is a man of God and superintendent of evangelism in the California State Baptist convention. It is good to wait on the Lord. Rev. Bailey was promised this high position in the convention five years before it materialized. After five years of earnest prayer and fasting, the Baptist convention voted him unanimously.

REV. J. W. BAILEY

Many obstacle swere thrown in his path during his five years wait. But God was in the plan. When God is in the plan all the devils in Hell can't keep you from winning out. A crown of great blessings followed his election. Within six months 300 souls were won to Christ. The state board gave him the state position by God gave him the blessings.

There is no way to defeat God nor those who put their trust in him all the way. The way to great success is the old time knee way. That was the way of Jesus and the way of our old mothers and fathers.

The state convention convened in Vallejo last July. When Dr. Bailey submitted his six month report of 300 souls won to Christ he was elected for the present year without a dissenting vote. Many more souls have been saved since the convention. We are praying that many more souls will be won to Christ this year.

Dr. L. B. Moss of Riverside was elected president and the outlook is very bright for the greatest year in the history of California State Baptist convention.

Dr. J. W. Bailey is also founder of the Evangelistic board of this great convention of over 4,000,000 Christians and its superintendent for a number of years. He was a member of the Board of the Southern Baptist convention. During his long ministry 50,000 have been won to Christ.

Without a doubt he is one of the greatest evangelists living today of our race and denomination. He is open to any engagements on the coast or anywhere else in the country. Give him a hearing; you and your church will be blessed. Rev. J. W. Bailey, D.D., L.L.D.

Baptist Convention Meets in L.A.

The Western Baptist State Convention of California, under the leadership of Rev. W. P. Carter, president of the convention, and Mrs. Blanche N. Carter, president of the Women's Convention, held its mid-winter session in Los Angeles, February 25 and 26, and in the opinion of those who attended this session was the greatest in the history of the convention.

Rev. A. S. Peters, pastor of Victory Baptist church, gave an inspirational address the first evening of the session, while the introductory sermon was delivered by Rev. G. G. Bailey, of the Second Baptist church, Monrovia, on Wednesday morning. The Sunday school and B.T.U. conventions were held Wednesday afternoon with an address by Mrs. Lynch on "How we may best develop an educationally minded church." S. P. Johnson also gave a splendid address. Mrs. Arlian Walker conducted the worship service for the B.T.U. convention. The choir of the Metropolitan Baptist church, Pasadena, sang Wednesday evening, and Rev. S. M. Malone spoke on "The safety of following Jesus."

Miss M. Utecht, of the department of Christian Friendliness from the Southern Baptist Convention, spoke on Thursday morning when the Women's Convention was held under the leadership of Mrs. Blanche N. Carter, her staff of officers, and her 14 committees.

The Women's Convention, it was reported, raised a total of $345.93. Of this amount Los Angeles raised $84.00; Riverside $26.43; San Diego, $21.50; Pasadena, $100.00; and Santa Monica, $114.00.

At the business session held Thursday afternoon, it was reported that $3,175 had already been paid towards fixing up the property, and it was suggested that the remainder of the cost be prorated among the churches. The president of the convention said that the representation fees had been raised from $100 to $150.

Rev. Dr. J. Raymond Henderson, pastor of the Second Baptist church, gave a masterly address for the final session on Thursday evening. The Senior Choir of Second Baptist sang several selections.

Committeees were appointed to secure accommodations for the next session of the convention which it is hoped will also be held in Los Angeles.

Pastor Franklin is a great young preacher. Everyone is invited to come and hear him at his best. "Come and go with us for we will do thee good."

REV. S. A. WILLIAMS
Dedicated to the Memory of late Pastor of St. Paul Baptist Church
IN MEMORY: I REMEMBER

I remember the day we met,
Though years have passed, I hear you yet,
I remember so much you said,
And how you taught to never dread.
I remember how hard you worked,
And how you hated to see one shirk.
I remember how hard you preached,
And the thousands of souls that you reached.
I remember how plainly you taught,
That righteousness, salvation, could not be bought.
I remember how well you served,
All nations, whether they deserved.
I remember what you bought,
And many, many things that you wrought.
I remember how much you yearned,
That all God's children should be learned.
I remember how hard you tried,
To build an edifice before you died;
But you did build, 'twas in our hearts,
TRUTH, through the ages, will not depart.
Composed by Lu Voilie Williams.

Until world citizenship is guaranteed as a social status, the human rights and privileges developed in the past are undermined by the disruption of modern society."

Trinity WMU Program In Church

The regular missionary program of the Women's Missionary Union of the Trinity Baptist church was given in the church, Sunday, Feb. 29. It was very inspiring and uplifting.

"The Christian Woman's Pledge" was the subject of an address by Mrs. Eugenia Laray, and proved the climax of the morning's service. Many expressed themselves, upon hearing her, as having been filled with the spirit of love and good will from above.

The Sunshine Band gave a lovely selection, which was followed by a short talk by its president, Miss Hattie J. Johnson. The group of ladies who visit the hospital once a month — Mmes. Miller, Lewis, Laray, and Hyeston—rendered a beautiful selection. Due to illness, Mmes. White and Braggs could not appear. The choral ensemble also rendered musical selections.

Much credit for the success of the program is due Mrs. Wade, responsible for the affair, and the president of the W.M.U., Mrs. Smith who, in the opinion of its members, has made the Trinity W.M.U. the grandest in the city.

Christian Science Lesson Topic 'Man'

"Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace." This declaration from the Psalms will be the Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Man" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

According to Matthew's Gospel a man came to Jesus, "kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: . . . And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour." And he said unto his disciples, "If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting."

Mary Baker Eddy says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "The prayer that reforms the sinner and heals the sick is an absolute faith that all things are possible to God,—a spiritual understanding of Him, an unselfed love. . . . Prayer, watching, and working, combined with self-immolation, are God's gracious means for accomplishing whatever has been successfully done for the Christianization and health of mankind."

In Loving Memory

In memory of my beloved mother, Mrs. Annie Ladd, who departed this life, March 4, 1945. Three years have not cast a shadow on the precious memory of you. No one knows how much I miss you. Life has never been the same. There is not a day, dear Mother, that I do not think of you.

Callie Wilson, daughter, and Mary, granddaughter.

In Memory of My Mother

Mrs. Mary Dean Hammock, who departed this life March 2, 1943.

Since you left me, Mother dear,
Your spirit daily guides me,
Some glad day your beconing hand
Will hold me right beside thee.
Your lonely daughter.

Sunday Services at Antioch Baptist

PHOENIX, Ariz.—"I Will Meet You at the Bar" was the subject of a demonstration sermon by the Rev. R. N. Holt, pastor of the Antioch Baptist church on Sunday morning. He took his text from Matthew 25:32, and compared the sheep and goats of the Scripture lesson to Christian life. The Sunday school was in charge of Supt. Walters.

The B.Y.P.U. at 6:30 p.m. was in charge of the president, Mr. Watson, with the Morning Glory Singers giving several numbers. A visiting minister preached the sermon at the evening services.

The choir and members of the church paid a surprise visit to Brother J. H. Wormley, who has been sick for some time. Everyone who went carried a pound of something, and Brother Wormley and Mrs. Wormley were overjoyed. Brother Wormley is one of the most efficient church secretaries Antioch Baptist has ever had, and the members are praying hard that he will return to them soon.

BALTIMORE—Funeral services for William C. Marshall, father of NAACP Special Counsel Thurgood Marshall, were held here last Friday.

The elder Marshall, who has lived in Baltimore most of his life, was a caterer and steward at the world-famous Gibson Island Club, outside of Baltimore. He suffered a heart attack last December and had not been well since.

Our doctrine of equality and liberty and humanity comes from our belief in the brotherhood of man, through the fatherhood of God.—Calvin Coolidge.

Whoever in prayer can say, "Our Father," acknowledges and should feel the brotherhood of the whole race of mankind.—Tryon Edwards.

Smiling Home at Eve

By CHRIS A. TUCKER

"This morn, beloved, when you left, sad!
Your handsome face was hard and
But now in smiles it's brightly clad."

"True! my darling, when I left I thought
The world felt no feeble tries
Made by me to shape, and as I ought,
Freedom; but I saw from the sky's
Canopy of crying clouds where fought
Raindrops through the rainbow's dyes . . ."

"Dearest, the rain through rainbow days
Has driven darkness from your soul
And given back your bridegroom stroll?"

"Cherie, not the rainbow's happiness
But the raindorps' business!
On a rocky cliff I saw the rain,
Thumping seemingly in vain.
After watching rain drop 'for a spell
I felt whole of soul; and well . . ."

"But rain, beloved, makes, I've felt,
The soul a melancholy blue . . .
Why did it bring this cheer to you?"

"Darlingest, I thought this morn the world
Counted futile all my striving
For a freedom, thriving and uncurled,
For all mankind! but each driving
Drop of rain that 'pon that cliff was hurled Helped the smooth shape in arriving!"

The missionaries used as their theme "God's Grace is Sufficient For Thee." The participants discussed interesting topics relating to the theme. Each presentation showed evidence of untiring study and wholesome guidance. One of the outstanding features of the day was a trio by Mrs. Velma Rivers, Mrs. Cleona Wartell, and Mrs. Ellouise Moore.

Each fifth Sunday through the year the Missionaries will continue to bring up-lifting, Spiritual, and Educational programs

Loud Cries About Boxing Politically Inspired "Smears" — Hard Work, Factual Data Only Way Game Changed

By STANLEY ROBERTSON, Eagle Sports Editor

The tragic unfortunate, accidental death in the Hollywood Legion Stadium boxing ring last Friday night of 20-year old Leroy Decatur, and the useless and scandalous death a week previous in a Chicago ring of another 20 year old lad Sam Baroudi, has brought forth from the nations press, radio, and common man, a rising wave of anti-pugilism.

NOT AS BAD AS CLAIMED

This so-called "clean up the fight game" campaign bellowed by the flames of sensationalism which a great many of our more prominent newspapers, and radio commentators adhere to, is just about as false and politically inspired as is the very thing they are slamming. Sure, any fool knows there must be something wrong when two young men in two different and widely separated parts of the country die within a week of one another in the boxing ring. A person who knows boxing like I know Einstein's theory of relativity could easily smell a rat in the leather pushing business after 22 deaths resulting from injuries do to boxing since January 1, 1947.

GET AT THE ROOT OF THE MATTER

I'm one who's getting just about fed up with these screaming attacks on the fighting profession. Yes, I'm just plain disgusted with seeing these screaming headlines and emotion stirring editorials that say the same thing over and over again, but don't accomplish anything. If these so-called "revolutioners" of the fight game were sincere with their grief over the 22 deaths of young men in the fighting profession, instead of all this false writing and name calling, they'd stop dealing in "glittering generalities" and get down to the root of the matter. They'd go behind the scenes and ask their state boxing commissions why Jimmy Doyle was permitted to climb into that ill fated ring against Ray Robinson last year after he had been warned by a physician to "lay off" the fight game or he was through following a head injury some months previous? They'd ask why Sam Baroudi's past physical injuries and his "real" age weren't looked into more thoroughly before he went against the veteran Ezzerrat Charles in the fight that really turned out to be "the most important of his life?" These screaming writers and broadcasters would ask their state commissioners why young Decatur's previous injuries weren't known, and why instruments aren't used by state medical examiners that will detect such heart ailments as the one that cost the ex-Jefferson athlete his life (contrary to public belief, there are instruments that coud have detected Decatur's odd heart ailment). And these so-called journalists would ask the grand jury WHY they aren't going to investigate local boxing? Yes, if these sensational writers and broadcasters were sincere about their wanting to save lives and clean up the boxing business, they'd start doing a little inquiring and investigating, and stop this "card stacking."

There's no doubt about it, there's something wrong in fistiannia, and there has to be something done about it, but loud talk and no work won't help.

SPORT ODDS AND ENDS

MEMO TO DICK FISHELL: You were right DICK when you said on your Tuesday night's broadcast that LOYOLA'S freshman sensation, long-legged NORM GLICK once attended UCLA . . . GLICK was enrolled in the BRUIN Extension Division last year about this time, and would have probably been playing for the BRUBAES this year if cage coach WILBUR JOHNS and the University's athletic board had been a little more cooperative . . . As you know RICHARD it's the policy of all large university's to give promising athletes a part-time job, or some helping hand through school . . . JOHNS ignored GLICK'S request for a part time or campus job and a tutor to help him crack the books so much that he decided that WESTWOOD wasn't as pertty as the postcards indicated, and enrolled at LOYOLA . . . Did you also know DICK, that GEORGE and BOB CROWE, two of the classiest forwards ever to come out of INDIANA were turned away by the Westwood institution on the grounds that they were too late to enroll in classes, but I can name at least three members of the '47 BRUIN casaba squad that checked into school two weeks after the CROWE lads were turned down? . . . You know DICK, BOB CROWE is currently sparking COMPTON J. C.'s WESTERN STATES championship team, and GEORGE played last year for the professional L. A. RED DEVILS . . . No wonder JOHNS BOYS could do no better than the lower rung of the Coast Conference this year, they passed up enough talent last year to send them to the NCAA playoffs this spring. . . .

Inter-Fraternity Series Opens March 20; Sigmas in; Kappas Pre-Season Choice

HIGH SCORING GENE WILLIAMS will be cavorting at his favorite spot at center when the Kappas go out in defense of the Inter-Fraternity Basketball crown they won last year when the annual local cage event officially opens March 20 at Loyola High school gym on Venice avenue. The "series" this year will not only feature some of the finest college and professional stars wearing the colors of the perennial competitors the Alphas, Kappas, and the Omegas, but will this year mark the first time that the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity will take part in the thrilling six game, round robin affair. (For further details, see story on this page.)

By Stanley Robertson
Eagle Sports Editor

The lid will be blown off one of the wildest, hotly contested, thrilling rivalarys in all the realm of sports Saturday night, March 20 at Loyola High school gym, when the 1948 Inter Fraternity basketball series officially opens.

SIGMAS ADMITTED

This year's "series" promises to be more thrilling than last season's which saw every record for thrills, attendance, and surprises broken into a thousand pieces. Not only will the defending champions of Kappa Alpha Psi be back to try and regain the trophy emblamatic of cage superiority in Greekdom they won in '47, and the runner up Alpha Phi Alpha quintet be out seeking "revenge" for the upsetting they took at the hands of the "Diamond Wearers" and the "never say die" Purple and Gold clad warriors of Omega Psi Phi, but for the first time locally the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity will trod out a casaba team to seek a share of Inter-Fraternity cage glory.

DOUBLE HEADERS

Not only will history be made when the Sigmas take the floor at Loyola High school gym, but for the first time in the long history of the "Series" that grew from a small affair to it's present position as a "must" on local sport and social calendars, there will be a six game round robin schedule which will feature each team playing each Saturday nite, and a championship playoff 7th game.

KAPPAS EARLY CHOICE

Boasting the return of such veterans as center Gene Williams, the unorthodox UCLA great, fast breaking forward Lowell Stewart, rugged Nate Shaw, and the rest of the hustling crew that sparked them on to pull the upset of the year by knocking over the favored Alphas, the Kappa Alpha Psi's Criminson and White clad cagers are already being installed a 2 to 1 choice to be in the van when the "run for the Roses," Inter Fraternity basketball variety, is over, by the boys along "Bitting Boardword."

OMEGAS COULD TAKE IT

A team that hasn't been in it for the last four or five seasons but has always been in there pitching just the same, the Omegas could easily walk off with the '48 crown. The Purple and Gold boast this year Ralph Kaufman, the former Jefferson ace, deadeye forwards Lloyd Courtney and Charley Thompson, J. D. Williams, a great performer in the "slot," and rugged guards Lloyd and Winston Wright, and Ernest Kilgore. Either Kaufman, Courtney, or Winston Wright, if in top form, could easily run off with the "most valuable" player aawrd when the tumult and shouting is over. With talent like this, I'm predicting right now that if the Omegas don't win the dash for the bacon, they'll certainly spoil the championship hopes of somebody.

ALPHAS BIG QUESTION

The team that everybody was saying before the first "tip-off" was "in" as far as the '47 frat crown was concerned, but pulled up lame in the stretch to run a few lenths behind the stretch running Kappas, the Gold shirted Alphas, look like the big question mark so far. The men of Alphadom have secured a new coach in Bill Jones (see story) who likes team play better than individualism. The experts said at the end of last seasons fray that it was the lack of team play that sunk the Alpha's.

Curiosity Is Gone—Experts; Jackie to Break Soph Jinx

ON THE TURF

— Geo. A. Ramsey

NEW YORK—Brooklyn Dodger coaches and scouts are confident that Jackie Robinson will break the "sophomore year jinx."

This jink is a perverse strain of bad luck which dogs the trail of outstanding big league rookies during their second year in the majors. But a New York sports writer says in an April Negro Digest article entitled "Easier Innings for Jackie" that all officials of "dem Brooklyn Bums" are agreed that Jackie will have an even better season this year than he did last.

"First sign that the Indian sign was being lifted off Jackie came in the invitations the Dodgers have had for spring training games in Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Fort Worth. This will make the first time that white and colored players mixed on diamonds in these cities," the Negro Digest explains.

"Moreover," the writer adds, "fewer curiosity seekers will be among the throngs Jackie attracts to the ball parks this season. This will result in less embarrassment to the first-sacker by over-zealous fans who last year applauded to the rafters his most ordinary actions." The feature continues:

"From what he showed last year, several members of the Dodgers' board of strategy think that Jackie will lead the league in hitting within two years."

Don't forget to peer around your automobile corner posts at intersections. The Department of Motor Vehicles says that many an accident has been caused by the corner post concealing an oncoming vehicle.

DEVASTATING [illegible]BARKSDALE, 6-foot, 5-inch center who has been selected as a member of almost every "all" team imaginable, will be a big cog in the '48 basketball machine that the Alphas hope to roll down victory lane with in the Inter-Fraternity Basketball series, IF he will be finished with his duties with the Oakland Bittners of the AAU League in time. However, players just as highly touted as the big ex-Bruin are set to have at each other to provide the thrill and chill of the series.

Bears Cuff Teachers, 62-49

RALEIGH—The Shaw Bears rolled over the Fayetteville State Teachers College Broncos 62-49 here last week in Spaulding gymnasium. The Broncos took an early lead on a layup by Randolph Worseley, a set shot by Gather Perkins and another layup by Woreseley and never were headed. The Bears fought back and at the end of the first half led the Broncos 29-24. The Bears have made a clean sweep in non-conference games to date also defeating the Livingston College Bears earlier in the season.

2nd Baptist Nosed Out by Pasadena

Coach Leroy Solder and his strong "Cross-bearing" Five, plus a creditable amount of supporting fans, had it plenty warm in the springy John Muir Jaycee gymnasium (Pasadena) last Friday evening, when they yielded by one point to their annual "most likely to nose-out" rivals, the Friendship Baptist All-Stars to a tune of 35-36.

The two teams meet in a return engagement at Jefferson High gym, Saturday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m.

Incidently, the Second Baptist Girl team suffered a 18-4 loss to the strong Friendship Girl All-Star team.

Out for revenge after losing a hair-raiser to Pasadena, the strong Second Baptist five found the "sweet" variety as they trounced a highly-touted Redlands American Legion five, 75-38.

It was Henderson Pratt, who ran off with the high-scoring honors of the night, as he sunk nine field goals and one free throw, and 21 points. Every man on the Second Baptist team tasted the victory (scored).

Last season the same teams fought a 51-51 tie at the spacious Y.M.C.A. gym at Redlands.

Second Baptist treks out to Immanuel Presbyterian church next Tuesday evening for a game with their varsity team.

Hanmum and the Bruins fireball forward John Stanich completed the press association's team first.

Bears Nab Crown: Minor Sparks U.P. 5

SAN FRANCISCO—California's undefeated in Pacific Coast Conference, Southern Division, competition Bears, clinched the division title over the week end in the Bay Area when they sent the UCLA Bruins and the USC Trojans back to Los Angeles winless. The Bears laid it on the Bruins Friday night and turned around to cuff the Bruins cross town "friends" from USC Saturday night. Both games were played at the Berkeley campus gym.

The United Press All-Conference team was released this week, and as expected UCLA's incomparable guard Dave Minor, and California's Andy Wolfe and Chuck Hanger were unanimous selections for the starting five. USC's towering center Alex Hanmum and the Bruins fireball forward John Stanich completed the press association's team first.

disease that could not have been detected by the medical examiners who okeyed the young fighter less than eight hours before he stepped into the ring.

Decatur, who was engaging in his first professional fight after hanging up a record of 40 amateur fights, collapsed after two minutes and 50 seconds of the fourth and final round of a bout with Fred Herrera, 20, of Jerome, Ariz. He was immediately rushed to his dressing room where he was worked on for over 15 minutes by attending doctors, but never regained consciousness. According to ringside observers, no blow was thrown by Herrera that could have hurt Decatur badly or knock him down. Eye-witnesses said Decatur just collapsed in a heap, falling on his back.

In Sacramento, Assemblyman Thomas A. Maloney (R., San Francisco) said he thought state boxing laws should be strengthened to a point where fighters could not enter a ring unless they are in top physical condition.

HAD BEEN ILL

According to friends and family of the dead boxer, he had been a patient at the Los Angeles County General Hospital in 1946 complaining of double vision and terrible headaches, a condition he is said to have suffered with after falling from a horse and being hurt in a high school football game. Any previous heart trouble by Decatur was not known.

Only a few days before he climbed into the ring in which death was the third person, Decatur had been begged by his 18-year old wife Juanite to give up the fight, game, according to relatives, but he had smiled it off as only a woman's unnecessary worrying.

JEFFERSON GRADUATE

Young Decatur graduated from Thomas Jefferson high school in 1945 where he was outstanding in athletics winning letters both in track and in football. He is survived by his 18-year old widow Juanita, an 8 month old child, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Decatur Sr., and countless other relatives and friends.

22 IN ONE YEAR

Decatur's death Friday night at the Legion brought to 22 the number of boxers killed since January 1, 1947. It was also the second time in less than a year that a boxer had died in the Legion Stadium ring. Benny Cleveland died after a bout there last summer.

Tigers Win

MARSHALL, Tex.—The Bishop Tigers tamed the Wiley Wildcats 55-45 before more than two thousand fans at the spacious Wiley Gym here last week in a battle that gave the Baptists an edge on the second place in the Southwest Conference title chase.

The Wildcats made a battle of it all the way until the waning moments when Ritchey, Waters and Birdsong staged an onslaught that left the Wildcats dizzy. This trio gathered forty points between them.

Expert Tabs 12 Negroes for Olympics

CHICAGO—At least 12 colored track aces are picked for places on the American Olympics team which will compete in London against speedsters from all over the world by New York Daily News sports dopester Hy Turkin in the April issue of Ebony.

As usual, Negroes will surpass in the sprints, Turkin says, and the only sure-fire winner in all Olympics forecasts is Harrison Dillard, the 110 high hurdle wizard from Baldwin-Wallace. And Dave Albritton, who copped second piace in the high jump in 1936, is picked as the only Olympic repeater for this year's classic.

Eulace Peacock, who oddly enough once defeated the fabulous Jesse Owens twice in the same day, but missed the 1932 games because of a leg muscle strain, is picked for the 400 meter relay despite his age, 36.

Other speedsters picked as sure-fire Olympic bets are: Bill Mathis, Ed Conwell, Homer Gillis, Barney Ewell, Dave Bolen, Reggie Pearman, Herb McKenley, Chuck Fonville, and Willie Steele.

But none of this year's crop of Olympics hopefuls will be able to match Jesse Owens' feat of four firsts, the all-time Olympic high he set in 1936, Turkin predicts.

Met Opera Star Sets Precedent In Interracial Radio Concert

SENSATIONAL DANSEUSE TONDALEYO, one of the thrilling highlights of Club Ebony on Broadway, New York's latest and newest all colored night spot. Broadway critics rate her as one of the greatest strip tease artists in technicolor on the main stem. Her tantalizing and exotic fast tempo is filled with lusty thrills in emotions.

NEW YORK—Listeners to the RCA Victor coast-to-coast commercial broadcast last Sunday were the recipients of a unique—and precedent making—treat when the superb voices of Metropolitan Opera star Robert Merrill and Dorothy Maynor were blended in a brilliant rendition of Offenbach's "Barcarolle." It was heard over the entire NBC network at the usual time.

The "Robert Merrill Show" as the broadcast is identified has been a shining example in the matter of dignified treatment of Negro artists. A rigidly followed policy on the program ignores racial or religious identifications of artists. They are presented or spoken about purely on the merit of their artistry.

Merrill, not only one of the youngest but also most liberal of the stars of the world famed company, was widely acclaimed last year for another democratic action. That was when he elected to use non-objectionable lyrics in his recording of "Old Man River." He is a steady and conscientious contributor—financially and artistically— to humane causes.

The interracial duet on Sunday's show marked a great step forward in the democratizing of radio. Heretofore network broadcasting of commercial shows has exercised a silent but effective ban on interracial duets. It is because of this that the Merrill action i sso noteworthy and commendable in the eyes of all liberals.

'Declaration' Recalls Jefferson Principes

As provocative and challenging as any social significant work of this time, the Actors' Lab production of Janet and Philip Stevenson's "Declaration" is powerfully absorbing. It deals with the conflicts and public lives of the men who formed our early government.

The old adage that history repeats itself is profoundly evident in "Declaration." In such characters as Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, Alexander Hamilton, George Washington, and Will Emmet we find striking similarity to the problems and leading figures of our own time . . . Henry Wallace, Harry Truman, Senator Taft, the late Franklin Roosevelt, Charlotta A. Bass, Paul Robeson, Senator Jack Tenney, civil rights, and Un-American Activities committee.

Jefferson's rise in high government was effectively presented. Not wanting to be involved in the bitter struggle, he was nevertheless drawn into the hat of it by the people who needed protection against the tyranny of key people in government.

High point of the play is reached in a dramatic courtroom trial of Will Emmet, militant fighter for the people, when he made an attempt to defend himself against the charge of sedition. This was a law to curb the free expression of Democratic spokesmen, in Jefferson's new party, who defended the rights of the people.

Some fine characterizations are brought to the fore inscenes between Jefferson and Washington, Hamilton and Jefferson, the people and Jefferson. Lloyd Gough gives a tender but strong portrayal of Jefferson, Stanley Waxwell was impressive as Senator Pierce, Phil VanZandt was outstanding as Albert Gallatin, and Bert Conway was a forceful Will Emmet.

In the role of the dignified butler, Robert Davis shows that there were some Negroes who had political consciousness at that time. Camille Connody was wonderful. She played her part with maturity and real feeling. The play continues for two more weekends at the Lab theatre.

Opera companies come, and they may go, but the San Carlo goes on forever. And once again it was our pleasure to attend the opening performance of the current San Carlo run on Friday evening. "La Traviata" with chorus and orchestra, and may we add an abbreviated chorus and orchestra, about the size of a vaudeville theatre group, were presented with Lucia Evangelista, Armand Tokatyan, Stefan Ballarini. The rather worn scenery managed to survive the evening. And the production was hurried along, perhaps a little more rapidly than was desirable by Carlo Moresco. The young soprano has both desirable vocal qualities and pleasing dramatic ability. Tokatyan although a little on the decline, was certainly exemplary of an operatic savant of the old school. Patrons of opera attend these performances almost religiously in a community where there is no resident opera group.

Speaking of Opera, it is with genuine anticipation that we look forward to the presentations to be offered by the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York when it makes its two week run about the middle of April in Shrine auditorium.

"Cavaleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" will be presented by the Nash Singers soon. If these presentations approximate last year's work, we can assure the opera goers that the event will be well worth the money. I hope to sit in on their rehearsals soon.

Those of us who are active in church music circles are proud to see a Renaissance in church music activities here in Los Angeles. During the last week, two of our local choirs were responsible for presentations of oratorio or cantata.

On last Tuesday evening, First A.M.E. church's senior choir gave a creditable performance of Cowen's "The Rose Maiden." The soloists with the exception of William Valentine, bass, were all members of the choir. The cantata was one of those light, melismatic works which lends itself well to our spring atmosphere, was well received by a capacity audience. Of special note was the fine coordination and feeling for attack and release demonstrated by the choir, which incidentally, is under the direction of Robert V. Edwards, who is also the organist. We hope sincerely that the major choral organizations of this area will unite in similar presentations of community-wide import. It is only through these media that a great love for the finest in musical offerings will be encouraged.

The Lincoln Memorial congregational choir presented Mendelssohn's oratorio the "Elijah" on last Sunday afternoon. The music staff is to be congratulated for so valiant an effort in presenting music of such a high calibre. We cannot be too grateful for attempts of this kind; however, may we add that a presentation of this import should meet certain definite musical standards at any cost. Marguerite Chapman, soprano; Wathea Jones, contralto; Willie Starks, tenor; and William Valentine, bass, were all outstanding in their respective renditions. One had the feeling, however, that the difficult choral scoring was actually held together by these talented soloists. In a sense the overwork is justified, and yet one may argue that the soloists participation in choral renditions is most irregular. We hope for the day when our choirs will actually know the score so well that as individual members of the unit, they are wholly independent of any solo leaders.

Wolfgang Mozart's well known "12th Mass" will be presented by Independent's Cathedral Choir on Palm Sunday afternoon, March 21, at 4:40 p.m. in the main sanctuary of the church. There will be neither an admission nor an offering; admission will be by invitation which may be secured by calling the church office. Dr. Clayton Russell will explain the parts of the mass. Gwendolyn Harriel, Veneta Hayden, Dorothya Hanley, Orpheus Anderson, Gerald Garrett, and Cecil Doty will be among the soloists.

The Los Angeles Musicians Association at its regular bimonthly meeting last Sunday, launched plans for a closed reception honoring Kenneth Spencer, on Easter Sunday afternoon immediately after his Philharmonic concert which is scheduled for three in the afternoon. Admission to the reception will be restricted to patron ticket holders only.

Artur Rubenstein, pianist, and the New York Philharmonic Symphony under the direction of Eugene Ormandy form the musical background for the motion picture "Night Song" currently showing in a downtown movie house. Musically the picture is quite satisfying. Our greatest thrill was seeing Rubenstein at close range executing difficult pianistic techniques. Incidentally he will be heard over the Telephone Hour, Monday night at 9:00 p.m. NBC (KFI).

Final Concert Sunday

A 30-piece orchestra, Franz Waxman conducting, will on Sunday, March 7, present the closing program in the series of ten weekly chamber music concerts at the Los Angeles County Museum in Exposition Park, according to an announcement by James H. Breasted Jr., director of the Museum. The program will start promptly at 2:30 p.m. There is no admission charge.

PLATTER CHATTER

The first recordings of Hazel Scott, famous concert and jazz pianist as well as vocalist, since the signing of her new Columbia contract, have been grouped in an album. Hazel does four piano solos, SOON, EMALINE, MARY LOU, and BROWN BEE BOOGIE. Each of these is backed by a combination piano and vocal by Hazel, assisted by an adroit four-piece rhythm section. These are LOVE ME OR LEAVE ME, LOVE WILL FIND A WAY, DANCING ON THE CEILING, CEILING, and NIGHTMARE BLUES. Both sides of the first three records are familiar standards and showcase Hazel's abilities brilliantly. The last record in the album introduces two Scott originals which demonstrate her creative abilities and complement the performance of the other records. This will be a welcome album to Scott fans, piano enthusiasts, and popular music lovers in general.

Decca Records attempt an unusual experiment next month when they release two new disc delights by Lucky Millinder, one of which has a definite war theme. This latter is "Tonight He Sailed Again," which features the voice of Paul Breckenridge. This ballad, with a definite war theme, is coupled with another goody by Annisteen Allen. "Don't Hestitate Too Long."

"What's Good About Goodbye" is one of the fine tunes from the picture "Casbah" with composing credit going to Harold Arlen and Leo Robin. The tune is a ballad, impressively and dramatically sung by Columbia's first lady and is presented with the objective of obtaining great dramatic effect. The tempo is slow, the arrangement restrained the whole record planned to give Dinah the spotlight.

"Hooray for Love" also from "Casbah," another Arlen and Robin tune, is a bouncy medium-tempo number with a sophisticated lyric about what people will do for love. Dinah Shore sings all but a half chorus on which Sonny Burke's boys deliver some lively band work. This is a good dance record and the tune is fine for singing.

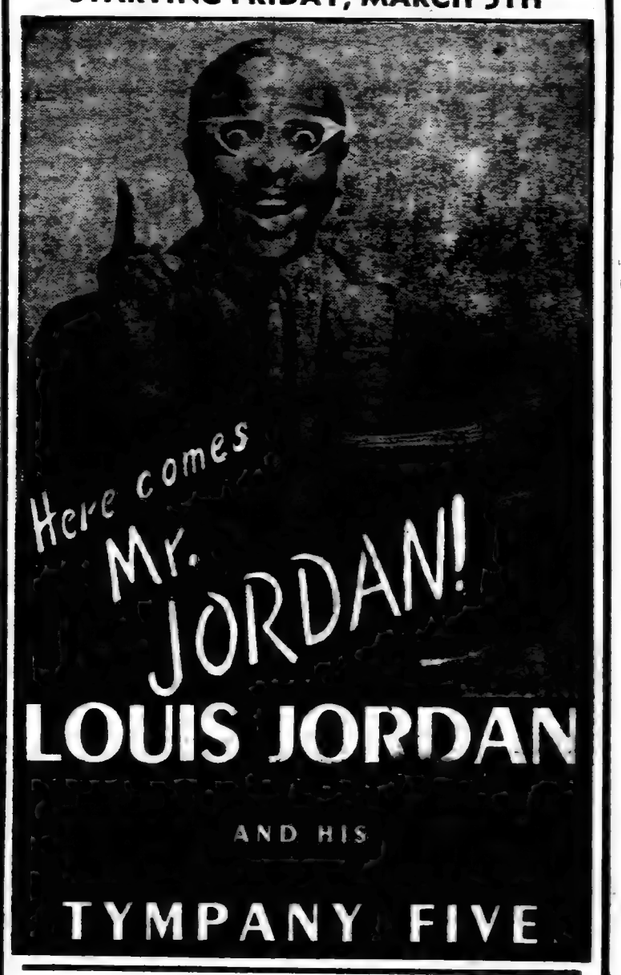
Here's a sparkling Cugat rhumba from the show "The Big City." Differing from the usual rhumba concept Ok'l Baby Dokil" is more playful. Aladdin Pillante sings the lyrics in a whimsical style over the customarily adroit rhythm section.

Here Comes Mr. Jordan



Arkansas' gift to the world of swing, Louis Jordan, brings his "gone" aggregation of musician-entertainers to the stage of the Lincoln theatre for one week starting Friday, March 5th.

The dynamic Louis is too well known to go into details about his status and career; however, to refresh the minds of those who do not keep up on details, he is noted for his proficiency as an instrumentalist and his great flair for showmanship. His ability to combine clowning with swing-singing is the ultimate in brilliant swing entertainment.

In the biography of swing one notes that Jordan established himself as a scintillating star while a member of the late Chick Webb band. Starting on his own in 1938 his rise has been slow but sure and in the past three or four seasons he has caught on with the elusive fancy of the entertainment and juke box fans to the extent that he is rated as a top-notch star of the swing world.

IPP Issues Statement of Purpose: World Peace and Prosperous America

The Executive Committee of the State Organizing Committee of The Independent Progressive Party met in the Alexandria Hotel, last week, and after an all-day discussion presented a statement of the purpose of the party that can leave no doubt in anyone's mind it stands for the welfare of the people; for world peace and a more prosperous America.

The State Platform Committee will meet in San Francisco on Friday, March 19, and will draw up the platform upon which the candidates of the party will make their appeal to the people. The State Executive Committee will meet Saturday, March 20, and the State organizing Committee, Sunday, March 21.

The following is the statement issued by the Executive Committee:

"Within the past yeek a new political party has become a reality in California. By last Tuesday, petitions bearing 483,340 signatures had been filed with the county clerks in 53 of California's 58 counties. This is more than enough to qualify our new party for the ballot.

"The Independent Progressive Party of California was brought into being by more than 15,000 volunteer campaign workers willing to fight for a new party and determined to have a choice between progressive and reactionary candidates in 1948. The new party comes before the epople of California as a powerful independent and democratic force in state politics. And it is an important part of the great nation-wide movement to force a return to the foreign and domestic policies of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The Independent Progressive Party will be officially certified to the California ballot on March 23. It will immediately thereafter make clear its stand on all primary election races. Pursuant to its often-stated promise to give the voters a choice between progress and reaction at the polls. The Independent Progressive Party will nominate its own candidates where necessary, or will elsewhere endorse progressive candidates of other parties.

"All candidates will be tested on their stand on vital issues of the day. aPst performance or promises will not alone be sufficient for endorsement by our new party. Only clear assurance by each candidate of continued and diligent support of a real people's program will assure those candidates the endorsement and hard campaign work Party. On March 21 we will hold an enlarged meeting of our full State Organizing Committee in San Francisco to be attended by several hundred. At the conference the Platform Committee will present to the delegates a specific platform on local, state and national issues. The planks in this platform will be the yardsticks for our consideration of candidates. They will be our guide to future action. A more peaceful world and a more prosperous America is our aim and candidates we campaign for must work with us in an organized way toward the achievement of those goals.

"Our campaign for a new people's party in California has already received the support of nearly half a million people in our state. The same kind of support is growing daily behind the national campaign of Henry Wallace and Glen Taylor. In California and throughout the nation, by God's grace and by continued hard work for the unity of all progressive voters, we will win in '48."

Dancer Scores With School For Broadway Stars

CHICAGO—The dance studio most popular with Broadway stars is that of Henry LeTang, 32-year-old Negro who used to dance with Duke Ellington and photo-profiled in April Ebony as the man who teaches new routines and improved style to many white headliners along the Great White Way.

"LeTang's proteges include names like Bill Callahan and Jane Kean, both in the hit show "Call Me Mister," and Johnny Coy who has been signed by Hollywood," Ebony says. "He also taught Chinese ballet boogie to Vera Zorina and was choreographer for "Crazy With the Heat" and "My Dear Public."

Dancing since he was 10, LeTang got his first break at 15 with the Abe Lyman. He since danced with both Duke Ellington and Benny Carter. Henry studied with Bubbles of Buck and Bubbles and also the late Billy Pierce. In his own school, located on West 44th street just off Times Square, two of his five instructors and about 60 per cent of his students are white.

Explaining why he himself gave up the footlights to become an instructor, Henry says that straight dancing takes too much out of the average performer, and adds: "Only ever century or so is a Bill Robinson born."

Some people drive in compliance with the admonition "Never let your left hand know what your right's doing," says a Department of Motor Vehciles license examiner. But they seldom get drivers' licenses, he adds.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain
Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:
1- Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.
2- Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.
Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

The formal opening of the Dickinson Professional Building, 1720 W. Jefferson blvd., was held Sunday afternoon from 3 to 7 o'clock, February 29.

W. A. Dickinson

As the crowds of friends and well-wishers thronged into the beautiful, new, modern building, few realized that not so many years ago William A. Dickinson, head of the Dickinson Realty Co., was a little 9 year old newsboy, selling The California EAGLE. Dickinson later became one of the star reporters of the EAGLE, and graciously says that he got his early business training from the EAGLE.

M. S. Johnson

The new building, with offices completely equipped with all the modern accoutrements needed, houses the following professions: Marion S. Johnson, M.D., physician and surgeon, phone RE. 2-6655; F. S. Patterson, general insurance broker, phone RE. 2-7125; Scientific Dental Laboratory, Anne H. Cole, Emmitt E. Cole, phone RE. 2-7126. The Doctors Cole graduated from the New York School of Mechanical Dentistry, New York City, in 1946. They came here from Detroit, and have been living in Los Angeles since May, 1947.

William A. Dickinson Realty Company, phone RE. 5431, also occupies one of the fine offices in this very modern professional building.

Claims Slight to Mme. Sul-te-wan At Interracial Unity Awards

Mr. Leon Hardwick
Editor of the Inter-racial Unity Award Committee
1303 West Jefferson Blvd.
Los Angeles 7, Calif.

Dear Sir:

I wish, first, to congratulate you on the splendid work you and your staff are doing toward encouragement of the minority groups; and second, to offer constructive criticism toward improvements which could be made in your own race relationships. I was a spectator at your Unity Award program, Sunday, February 22nd at Second Baptist church and thought it an inspiring event.. However, there were several noticeable flaws that I wish to call to your attention too.

The time element was the first let-down to the public, and believe you me I voice the sentiments of many in your audience. Your program, scheduled for 3 p. m., actually began after 4 p. m. so you will have to admit that as a race, we have never risen above C.P.T.

Another disturbing factor was the failure to consider the comfort of your participants. Prior to the program they were herded into a literal "sweat box" and there left to stand for over an hour while the "brain trust" ironed out their agenda (with the exception of a few who secured very comfortable seats.) This should have been prepared well in advance.

Last, but not least considered, was the snub you gave to one of your own celebrated actresses, not great among minority groups but celebrated among all groups. She is noted because she has paved the way for the modern Negro in the motion picture world. You should not have to wonder who I am speaking of. There is only one such pioneer, Madame Sul-te-wan, your oldest, most charming and most respected actress of today.

When I say "snub" I do not mean that she expected to be glorified, because the nature of your program did not allow the time and place for that. However, she did expect to cooperate with you to the best of her ability, and in turn, to have your cooperation. I, as a person friend, know that Madame is too proud to ask favors, but with all her greatness she is still humble enough to consider that small people like you and me merit cooperation too.

If have my facts straight, I understand that you contacted Madame prior to the program and asked if she would present a trophy, which she agreed to do. What you did not know was that she was ill at the time, but in her anxiety to be a cog in the wheel of progress she disregarded doctor's orders to be with the "gang." She went to a great deal of trouble to prepare herself for this occasion, only to be subjected to much discomfort and to add insult to injury—to a social "cold shoulder." It is true that the producer to whom she was to present the scroll was not present, but would it not have been tactful (since you called on some of the participants three or four times to make presentations in an emergency) to let her present some other scroll?

Maybe you only wished to recognize the current favorites. Do you happen to know that Madame, a veteran of 35 years on the screen, has made a wonderful come-back at RKO in the soon-to-be released "Mr. Joseph Young of Africa"? In this picture she speaks the difficult Swahili language which is unfamiliar to other Negro actors and actresses and which would tax the brain of a much younger person. Could any person be more of an asset to our ability as a race? Frankly I don't know of an actress more current at present. Madame did not voice her sentiments, but I, who know her intimately, can assure you that she was not too pleased. We as race should feel honored to have her grace any program whether of a minority or majority group.

I am sure if Lena Horne or Hattie McDaniel had been subjected to the same embarrassing situation, some adjustments would have been made to assuage their feelings, yet this veteran of all Negro motion pictures was totally ignored. I admit we have fine Negro actors and actresses, but I defy you to produce one current actor or actress who could touch the Madame's great dramatic ability. She does not have an Oscar because they were not given in the days when she acquired fame, but I am sure that the public acclaim she has received in her life-time is more than substitution for a metal trophy or a paper scroll.

They say age makes us more sensitive, yet I could not detect it in Madame's face Sunday. I glanced at her during the presentation of awards and noticed that she was "smiling through," but I wondered if she were acting a part,—if, in spite of her happy countenance she was deeply hurt by this "unkindest cut of all." There were many prominent Hollywood citizens there who were Madame's guests, including Mrs. Betty Woowek, her manager. They were both surprised and disappointed that her name was not once mentioned. Since others, too, were displeased, don't be shocked to find other complaints in the ether.

Madame may not be with you next year to present a trophy—after all she is 75, even if her looks do not belie her age, but in the future, should she condescend to honor another of your affairs with her presence, the least you can do is to let the public know she is present so that they may give her the respect she is due. Of course, you or I can scarcely hope for the glory of living to the ripe old age of 75 and looking 40—very few humans attain such a goal—but let me assure you if you are fortunate enough to reach 75, you will find that it is no song and dance to cooperate with the public under adverse conditions. Most stars are faded and forgotten long before they reach 75, yet this brilliant star is shining brighter than ever.

If Madame had not had the attributes of humility, kindness and consideration of others she could never have achieved her place in the sun.

It is said that, as a race, we envy instead of glorify each other. I have never known Madame to say, think evil of, or ignore anyone. Since her record stands for itself, why can't some of the lesser lights pattern after her? It was she who paved the way for our artists. Is it too much to ask that she be recognized by those who follow in her footsteps? Is it not plausible that this illustrious lady who was honored on her 74th birthday by Judge Scheinman of the superior court and who often receives orchids and other tokens of appreciation from the "Greats" of Hollywood, should be also recognized and appreciated by her own race? If you are not familiar with Madame Sul-te-Wan's background, how she gained preminence in silent pictures, received a 7-year contract and much praise for her work in "The Witch of Salem", "Black Moon", "In Old Chicago", "Revenge of the Zombies" and others, than I advise you to review her career in the next motion picture annual.

As a race and as a minority group, let us first remember to consider the beam in our own eye before plucking out the mote in our brothers'. I, too, have aspirations, but if I must climb by trampling others, I prefer to remain my humble everyday self.

With all due respect to your organization, I hope you will accept this criticism as constructive and weigh and digest it accordingly. As a member of a minority group, I wish you all the success humanly possible to attain and believe that, with a few adjustments in your "inner circle", you will reach your goal.

Respectfully yours,
Callie Stewart

Jefferson High to Offer New Guidance Program

On March 29, Thomas Jefferson High school will inaugurate a program of individual interviews with the parents of all A-10 students. This program will provide an opportunity for the student, parent, and counsellor to discuss the interests and abilities of the student and to plan a better educational and vocational program for him.

The program will be presented at the Thomas Jefferson Evening school in a series of orientation meetings on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The plan brings together the combined efforts of the Thomas Jefferson High school and the Thomas Jefferson Evening school., It represents the leadership of two principals, Dr. Paul Fisher of the day school and Robert Presley of the evening school.

The program will include an overthrow of Jefferson's guidance program; an explanation of the testing program in which the parents will be shown something about the various tests used; an explanation of the six-semester vocational guidance plan which is carried on through visual education, especially motion pictures; and the discussion of ways and means for which the community can contribute to the growth and progress of the student through integration between school and community.

The Ministerial Alliance under the leadership of Rev. M. Frederick Mitchell has already endorsed the plan and is planning to aid the school in making it successful. The principal, Dr. Paul Fisher, and Boys' vice-principal, Arthur Farnham, as well as members of the school's faculty, will speak in churches and on the air to explain the purpose and method by which the plan will work.

Each parent will be asked to attend three or four meetings in which the orientation will be carried on and during this time, private individual interests will be conducted with them for approximately thirty minutes.

The school, in the meantime, will notify each parent of an A-10 student of the plan, and will urge them to participate whole-heartedly in this program.

Church, Civic Leaders in Bay Area Hail 3rd Party Victories

SAN FRANCISCO—Negro church and civic leaders in the Bay Area this week hailed the filing of the 482,000-signature third party petition as a "major victory for the forces of democracy" and "a solid gain for the people."

Linking the filing with the recent victory of Leo Isacson, Wallace-backed New York congresman-elect, Rev. E. L. Evans, Jr., Friendship Baptist church, declared:

"The victory of Isacson in New York and the splendid total of signatures piled up in the petition drive in California are both solid gains for the people. Democracy is once more winning a real voice at the polls."

Rev. Guy Jackson, Union Springs Baptist church, called the two victories "great gains for the Negro people and the working people of all sorts. We must press on for more such gains."

H. I. Fontello-Nanton, editor, the San Francisco Reporter, said: "The need for a people's party, one that will express the hopes and opinions of the little man, one that will bring back the great traditions of the Roosevelt years, is now being realized. This is a fine first step. We're on our way at last."

Almeda county's pace-setting 63,000 signatures was hailed at its filing by Rev. Charles Warren of the Taylor Memorial church, as part of a "coast to coast" protest on the part of the people "against bad government."

Claude O. Allen, East Bay political leader and editor of the Beacon, said:

"Wallace's straightforward insistence on basing his fight on the really important issues of peace, prices and democracy has won its deserved response. He's going to make it an uncomfortable year for all the demagogs in either old party who still hope to fool the people with a loud wind of words and no real action for change."

Dr. LeGrand Coleman, a member of the executive board of the Oakland NAACP branch, called the filing an answer to the men "who have betrayed the constitution."

"The 482,000 signatures," he said, "prove that we can seriously challenge the old line parties."

Harlem Liquor Salesman Upped To Special Rep.

NEW YORK—Harold Richel, Metropolitan sales manager for Carstairs, announces that G. W. Cotterell, salesman for the company, has been upped to special representative.

Since 1940 Cotterell has covered the Harlem territory for the Carstairs Company, and his straightforward, convincing salesmanship has greatly contributed to the outstanding popularity of his company's major products—Carstairs White Seal and Carstairs Est. 1788 blended whiskies.

As special representative, his territory will be extended beyond Harlem to include special retail accounts in all the boroughs of Metropolitan New York.

Active in civic and charity affairs, and cited by Washington for outstanding work in numerous War Bond drives and service on his local O.P.A. board, Cotterell can rightfully be called a "Man Who Cares."

NEW ORLEANS — The third major sport since Pearl Harbor will be activated at Dillard university this spring when track is resumed, it was revealed this week by William N. Wasson, who will serve as head coach. Dillard has scheduled a track meet with Xavier, and will participate in the Prairie View and Tuskegee Relays.

WASHINGTON—Sen. Glen H. Taylor (D., Idaho) says that President Truman's quarterly report on aid to Greece and Turkey showed that the U. S. had allotted or spent $8600 to fight each of the Greek guerrilas.

Probably the most expensive chorus line in movie history back up Betty Grable and Dan Dailey in the elaborate "You Do" number for "Mother Wore Tights", Lamar Trotti's Technicolor production for 20th Century-Fox.

Fur. Wkers Local 576 Sued for $35,000

The D. & G. (Doskey & Goldstein) Manufacturing Co. which manufactures glass for household uses, has sued the Furniture Workers Union, CIO, Local 576, for damages amounting to $35,000.

The Furniture Workers Local 576 has been on strike against the D & G factory for some time, and has been picketing every day. Some scabs, however, have been working in the factory, and according to the management, one of the scabs was kicked by someone on the picket line as he was attempting to cross it.

Local 576 claims this is not true. The hearing wil be held Friday (tomorrow) morning, March 5, at 9:30 o'clock in Department 34, Judge Hansen, on the 28th floor of the City Hall.

Local 576 urges all its members, friends, and friends of organized labor to attend, and "pack the hall."

War Brides

CHICAGO—The foreign war brides of colored GI's are ostracized and must live mostly in ghettoes, but war correspondend Roi Ottley declares in April Negro Digest that they are faring better than war brides of whites, 1200 of whom have been jilted or divorced.

Many of the overseas girls of all races and nationalities who married Negro servicemen are living normal married lives in the U. S., Ottley asserts. And few of these couples claim that they have happily-ever-after existences. But all are well aware that all marriages call for readjustments on the part of both husband and wife, and they insist that they are having no more or less trouble than any other young couple.

There are no figures on the number of war brides married to Negro GI's the Negro Digest feature explains. But the percentage of divorces and separations among Negro veterans is far and away lower than among whites, who have abandoned more than 1200 foreign wives acording to immigration officials.

"Because army brass hats blocked the marriages of Negro servicemen," Ottley concludes, "there were fewer interracial marriages. But those which did come out of the war stand an excellent chance of lasting."

WIN RECOGNITION FOR SERVICE—Pfc. W. Dukes, Sgt. W. Scott and T-5 Lewis Hardy, (left to right) of the famous 508th Military Police Battalion, Munich, Germany, who have won recognition as three of Munich's finest Negro Military Police. Highly trained, these men are reported to have carried out their duties in a "superior manner."

On The Sidewalk

By C. A. B.

The advent of Jesus upon earth was the announcement of the abolition of the old and hailing the new dispensation.

The new order was necessary. The social system had become corrupt. The church had become a house of merchandise. The poor people infested the highways and by-ways that led to the holy city of Jerusalem.

Jesus looked upon the people and their condition with compassion, but he realized that his task was to correct these evils.

Hailed as the Man who walked alone, Jesus realized that driving the thieves and robbers out of the church would be but a small part of his mission in the world.

Yes, a new order had to be established.

Nicodemus, a wealthy man in the community and among the greatest of the great religious leaders of that day, heard about the work Jesus was doing—giving sight to the blind, healing the sick, feeding the hungry.

But Nicodemus' position in the community was so high and mighty, that he could not compromise it by openly visiting the new Prophet. So, under cover of darkness, the rich man and powerful religious leader went to this new Messiah and addressing him as "Rabbi" asked for an explanation of his, Jesus', new doctrine.

And Jesus told this man—teacher of religious principles, wealthy, powerful, whose very word need but to be spoken to be obeyed by others—"You must be born again."

"You must change your whole way of life, your thinking even to the smallest detail, everything. And the change will be so great, the wrench in doing it so painful, that it will be like being born again."

Our present day history is very similar to that period when Jesus was on earth.

Today we have the owners of the land, the factories, railroads, oil wells, coal mines, and even rich men, as Nicodemus, high in church and state, exploiting the "Lazaruses" who beg for the crumbs that fall from their tables.

They are the politicians who corrupt the government, promote gambling and prostitution. They are the ones too important to be attacked. But even these people, if they were as honest as Nicodemus, would search for the truth—even if stealthily and by night. If they lack the moral courage, we must not be guilty of the same. We must show them the truth. We must expose their lies. Attack them. And I reiterate a statement made by me in a church meeting not long since: "They should be attacked in 'darn' strong language, in the church and out of the church."

Ministers are leaders. As such they are responsible for guidance and direction of the people, politically, and socially, as well as spiritually.

So let's be real and face the issues squarely. Here in Los Angeles only about a third of the more than 200,000 Negro people are living in comfortable standard homes. And according to the latest statistics, "Among U.S. Negroes, 55 women died in 1942 in childbirth for every 10,000 live births, compared with 22 deaths among white women."

What do you suppose Jesus would say and do about the conditions we have today?

Well, if he could tell Nicodemus that he would have to be born again, he wouldn't handle some of our preachers and political leaders today with kid gloves, let me tell you.

Fight for Civil Rights, NAACP Speakers Urge

Over 200 delegates, representing 65 branches in the far western region of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, assembled here for a 3-day conference over the week-end to tackle problems facing the Negro people and map a program of action.

The conference, which was addressed by Thurgood Marshall, eminent constitutional lawyer and special counsel for the NAACP and Gloster B. Current, director of the branches, dealt with many vital questions including fair employment, civil rights, integrated education, restrictive covenants, and the special problems of youth and veterans.

Marshall cited the need for continued legal assault on Jim Crow in education, transportation, voting and on the issue of restrictive covenants. Current called

Judge Mosk Kayoes Another Res. Covenant

Another restrictive covenant was thrown out of court by Superior Judge Stanley Mosk, now sitting in the Santa Monica branch of the superior court, when he granted judgment to Harry and Lilly Sam, Chinese husband and wife, last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam purchased property at 7th and Broadway in Santa Monica, and desired to construct a building. To clear their title before starting building, they brought an action for declaratory relief, cancellation of the restrictive covenant, and quiet title.

Previously restrictive covenants against non-Caucasians had been signed by owners of 20 of the 26 parcels of property in this tract. The other six and failed to sign the restrictive agreement.

Leaders in CIO Ask Removal Of 2 Officials

Charging that the two men are leaders in "a formal attempt to split the CIO in Los Angeles and thus wreck its effectivness economically and politically," officers of the Los Angeles CIO Council this week called for removal from office of Southern California Regional CIO Director Irwin DeShetler and California PAC Coordinator George B. Roberts.

The demand for removal of DeShetler and Roberts was telegraphed to National CIO President Philip Murray and, in the case of Roberts, to National PAC Director Jack Kroll. The telegram was signed by William S. Lawrence, president; Ernest R. Mesinger, vice president; and Philip M. Connelly, secretary-treasurer of the Los Angeles Council.

Famed Jurist Announces Candidacy For Congress

Wallace supporters chalked up a victory today when they received word of the endorsement of their presidential candidate by Joseph H. Rainey, noted magistrate of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Rainey, who is now serving his second six-year term as a magistrate, also announced his candidacy for congress from the 4th Congressional district.

Rainey's endorsement is being hailed as one of the most important inroads by the third party into the rock-bound Republican state of Pennsylvania.

Excerpts from Magistrate Rainey's letter to the 4th Congressional district leaders accepting the nomination follow:

"My decision to accept your nomination was made after long and careful consideration on my part and in consultation with the national leaders of the Wallace for President Movement.

"For too long the two major political parties have chosen to completely disregard the existence of 350,000 Negro people in Philadelphia, and their need and right to a spokesman in Washington. We can longer rely on vague hopes and promises nor be satisfied with the bone of one

HOW ABOUT IT?

At a stormy session of the Democratic County Central Committee last Tuesday evening, Isaac Kushner introduced a resolution urging President Truman to declare himself out of the race for the presidency. "In the interests of peace in the party and in the country."

Rollin McNitt, chairman of the committee, choked off any discussion or any vote on the resolution by declaring it was "out of order." That suggestion, is well taken, however, Isaac. How about all of us writing to Harry and requesting him to remove himself out of the White House, "in the interes tef peace in the country"?

Los Angeles Negro Congress Schedules March 19 to 29 As 'Save the Ingram Family Week'

The Executive Board of the Los Angeles Negro Congress went on record at its last meeting to set aside March 19 through 29 as "Save the Ingram Family Week." During that period, the Congress plans an intensified campaign to rally the entire community to the support of Mrs. Rosa Lee Ingram, widowed mother of 12 children, and her two young sons, now under sentence of death in Americus, Ga.

In urging all-out participation in this struggle, John Forrester, Executive Secretary of the Negro Congress stated:

"This injustice inflicted upon Mrs. Ingram and her two sons symbolizes the oppression of the whole Negro people and stands as a burning indictment of white

Acquitted of Murder Charge On Grounds of Self-Defense

Elijah Walker, 32, of 1232 E. 102 st., was acquitted of the murder of Abraham Badger by Judge Walter S. Gates last Friday morning in Department 46 of the Superior Court. Defended by Attorney Curtis Taylor, and sitting without a jury, Walker was acquitted on the grounds of self defense.

According to evidence offered, Walker was arrested on December 6, 1947, at 34th and Central ave. after he and Badger had engaged in a fight. During the fight, Walker was severly cut about the neck by Badger. Following the fight, he ran across the street to a filling station where he secured a revolver and fired several shots at Badger, who was pursuing him. The last shot caught Badger in the neck.

It was brought out during the trial that Badger was pursuing the accused man with a knife which he had already wielded with telling effect and that Badger was heard to say to the fleeing Walker: "I am going to finish killing you." It was also pointed out that when police officers arrived on the scene, they found a pocket knife with open blade underneath the dead man.

Walker strongly maintained that he did not know whether or not any shot had taken effect until the next day, because he was running in fear of his life, and that he leaped a nearby fence and returned home.

Judge Gates ruled that under the evidence, Walker was acting in self-defense and ordered him released from custody.

Twenty-one colored Jamaicans are making an 8,000-mile journey to Monrovia, Liberia, to establish new homes in the land of their forefathers.

Arriving in Miami, Fla., Monday aboard a special Pan-American World Airways Clipper flight from Kingston, Jamaica, the group proceeded to New York City, where two more members were added to the party. From New York they will clipper to the capital of the African west coast Negro republic by way of Lisbon and Dakar.

Favorable consideration of child care centers is anticipated by Supervisor Leonard J. Roach following receipt of a letter from the Governor's office.

The letter, which was addressed to the Board of Supervisors as a result of a resolution presented by Roach, stated that the Legislature will meet in a Budget Session in March and that "consideration can be given to the subject of child care centers."

Roach's resoultion petitioned Governor Warren to include the matter in his agenda for the next session of the Legislature. He pointed out that closing of the centers on May 31 as planned would oust more than 7,000 children from the 170 child care centers.

Averill Berman, radio commentator known for his support of the Labor movement, addressed the Young People's Forum of the Soto Michigan Jewish Community Center, 2317 Michigan avenue, yesterday.

UNAVA Protests Killing of Two Veterans in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss.—The United Negro and Allied War Veterans submitted details of two murders to Atty. Gen. Tom Clark this week.

The document was described by George Murphy, national commander of UNAWV as a reported eyewitness of the events. The men murdered by the police were identified as George Thomas and war veteran Walter Palmer. The report describes a series of events leading up to the killings.

One story relates how on Feb. 21, in Jackson, J. V. Williams, a young Negro veteran, was arrested in a Negro cafe on a charge of drunkenness. After placing him under arrest, the officer pushed him into the street and immediately shot him in the hip, saying he had attempted to escape.

On Nov. 15, at Edwards, a village 25 miles from Jackson, Walter Palmer, a veteran, was also arrested at a party and later shot dead by a local officer. His clothing showed he was shot in the back, but the officer claimed he had tried to escape.

According to Murphy, spokesman for the United Negro and Allied War Veterans, no preliminary hearings, or official investigations have been made in either of these cases.

Ferdinand Smith Returns Salary Voted by Union Body

NEW YORK—Ferdinand C. Smith, National Secretary of the National Maritime Union, whose arrest and detention without bail on deportation charges has aroused nationwide protest among the trade unions of the country, returned this week the salary check voted him by the National Council of the NMU. Despite the decision of the National Council, which was based on their conviction that the noted labor leader was being victimized for his forthright stand on labor and other progressive issues, Smith is insisting upon a rigid adherence to the Union's constitution.

An excerpt of Smith's letter to the National Office of the Union follows:

"With deepest appreciation for the broad position taken by the Council in arriving at its decision, but in the interest of complying with the constitution, I am hereby returning the check delivered to me. I will not accept any moneys that the union may offer to me as payment to me in my capacity as secretary during my absence from office, and prior to my assumption of my previous duties.

Student Confab Advocates Firm Stand On Civil Rights

The opening of Negro schools to white applicants, education for agitation and legislation, moving the Mason-Dixon line farther South by breaking down discrimination first in border states, approval of the FEPC development of social programs to augment Supreme Court decisions, advocacy of immediate rather than the gradual type of action acceptable to Southern liberals, and the testing of more cases of doubtful legality in the local courts were among the recommendations recently offered at the Atlanta University Center Conference on Civil Rights.

Under the sponsorship of the sociology departments of Atlanta university, Clark college, Morehouse college, and Spelman college, as a project of the College Study in Intergroup Relations (headed by Dr. Mozell C. Hill of Atlanta university), the two-day meet attracted more than 1,500 students including a representation from local white colleges and several out-of-town colleges. In the closing session the Conference voted for a Continuing Committee for the purpose of implementing the suggested program.

Woman Runs Biggest Negro Trucking Firm

CHICAGO — Biggest Negro trucking operator in the nation is Mrs. George W. Brown of Scranton, Pa., according to an April Ebony photo-story which says that the widow last year hauled more than 30,000 tons of food and equipment for the A&P stores in three states.

"The mushrooming two-billion-dollar trucking industry has been the fastest growing U. S. business of the last 25 years," Ebony declares. "Rolling up more than a million miles on their speedometers in 1946, some dozen colored trucking men run more than 60 rigs all told, employ more than 100 persons."

In her booming business which annually grosses more than $150,000, Mrs. Brown has eight trucks, eight tractors and ten trailers regularly rolling over the concrete highways of New York, New Jersey.

FEMALE DISORDER
PREMATURE OLD AGE — REPRODUCTION — NERVOUSNESS

"Many women suffer from genital derangements. There is undoubtedly no class of disorder which has so far-reaching an effect upon the nervous system as derangement of the genital organs. Chief among the irritating sources are:

1st. A sluggish state of the blood stream which is productive of congestion in the womb and ovaries, and creates an engorged state which interferes with the normal functioning of these organs.

2nd. The pressure of prolapsed abdominal viscera upon the reproductive organs and the distention and irritation of intestinal gas.

3rd. Repression of the normal instincts and function through psychological resistance, physical malformation, or misplaced position of organs.

4th. Rectal disorders, Piles, Hemorrhoids.

In each individual case you may look for one or more of the above causes, which must be removed if the patient is to enjoy perfect health. The digestive disorders may be corrected through proper attention and the prolapsus caused by weakened muscles of the abdomen may be overcome through development of muscular tone."

"Women who suffer are unhappy. They refelct their entire attitude and in many instances destroy the happiness of their home and family. Those who suffer from painful, scanty, irregular, or profuse periods—uterine fibroids; prolapsed, sagging or misplaced organs; childless, complexes—you would do well to take steps to correct the cause immediately.

It is impossible to estimate the amount of evil caused by an engorged colon (pot-belly), monopolizing several times its allotted space, crowding and hampering other organs in their work."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell, M.D., eminent physician, says:

"The most rational and practical manner of dealing with this . . . breeding place of disease is to wash it out. With me it has passed beyond the theoretical stage, for I have in my office fully 15,000 letters from grateful patients who have used this process, under my direction, with the most astounding results; scarcely a disease known to humanity, but has been relieved, and in ninety-five per cent of the cases, cures effected, while tens of thousands of gratifying messages have reached me from time to time; nor is the testimony in its favor confined to the laity, for hundreds of physicians (including some of the most prominent authorities) testify to the wonderful beneficial results achieved by its use."

Daniel C. Munro, M.D., says: "If I were to write the story of all the cases in which colonic irrigations seem to lift the patient from the very jaws of death, it would fill volumes."

Urban League To Hold Annual Vocational Opportunity Drive

Expanded horizons in job opportunities and training for members of minority groups for high types of employment is the theme of the 10th annual Vocational Opportunity Campaign which will be held Monday, March 15, through Saturday, March 20, with nightly sessions at 7 p.m. in the Vernon Public Library Auditorium, 4504 S. Central ave., according to Mrs. Clinton Barr, chairman of the Committee of the Urban League which sponsors the event.

Men and women of all age groups, and boys and girls have a cordial invitation to attend any and all sessions and receive expert advice on employment possibilities in the various trades and in the white collar field, and regarding the training required for each. There is no charge in connection with these programs. Educational materials, and pamphlets covering the subjects under discussion will be available.

Los Angeles Urban League, which is one of the 158 Community Chest Red Feather services agencies, also invites all interested persons to confer with their trained counselors in planning a good future. Offices are at 2510 S. Central ave., telephone ADams 5128. Floyd C. Covington is executive director and William M. Jones is Industrial Relations secretary.

Highlights of the week will be the presentation on Monday of awards to local men and women who have been outstanding in entering employment fields during the past year, with civic leaders and outstanding citizens in attendance.

Mrs. Barr has been assisted in scheduling programs by Mrs. I. H. McClelland, Jefferson High School; Samuel Goldberg, National Schools; Mrs. Cortez Strange, California Dept. of Employment; Miss Celestine Smith, Woodlawn Branch YWCA; Sanford Rothman, Lafayette Jr. High school; Miss Ethel Morrison, Carver Jr. High, and James L. Hawkins, Veteran Administration.

Demos' Big Guns Coming to L.A.

New evidence that the Wallace-for-President third party movement has the Democratic bigwigs worried is contained in the announcement by James Roosevelt, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, that seven of the chief spokesmen for the Truman administration are slated to appear at the Southern California Jackson Day dinner on April 12.

They are: National Democratic party chairman J. Howard McGrath; Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida; Senator Joseph O'Mahoney, of Wyoming; Senator Warren Magnuson, of Washington; Governor Mon Wallgren of Washington, Governor Herbert Maw of Utah, and Paul Porter, head of President Truman's Economic Commission to Greece and former OPA administrator.

"With the exception of Senator McGrath," Roosevelt said, "all of these men have been prominently mentioned as candidates for Vice President."

The Jackson Day Dinner will be held at the Biltmore hotel at 7:30 p.m. April 12.

"OUR CHILDREN MUST NOT BE NEGLECTED" was the emphasized opinion of civic leaders who visited Aliso Child Care Center last week for more intimate knowledge of need for continued supervised care of 7200 boys and girls now enrolled in 170 Los Angeles County centers while their mothers work. Centers will be discontinued on May 31 next unless State funds are appropriated. Shown here, left to right, are Mrs. Joseph T. Hook, president of Tenth District Parent-Teacher Association, a Community Chest agency; County Supervisor Leonard J. Roach, and Mrs. A. Kenneth Spencer, former president of First District PTA, with two of the Aliso Center's younger set.

Mrs. Betty Hill Will Head FEPC Button Campaign

Led by Mrs. Betty Hill, founder of the Republican Woman's Study Clubs, scores of clubwomen and YWCA girls will pin FEPC buttons on L.A. citizens this week-end.

The effort is one of a city-wide fund raising campaign for the National Council of FEPC.

"We're in the last lap of an intensive drive to get passage of the FEPC bill which is now ready for Senate debate," Mrs. Hill said.

"Thousands of letters and telegrams must be sent to the Republican senators who form the committee that has the fate of this all-important measure in their hands," she continued. "We need funds to put this campaign over and we want the men in Washington to know that we're demanding a national fair employment act that has teeth."

Additional volunteer workers are needed for the Saturday, March 13 button sale campaign, Mrs. Hill stated. Westsiders may meet Thursday, at 7 p.m., in the FEPC headqaurters, 1895 Jefferson blvd.

Eastside workers will meet at the Woodlawn Branch YWCA. Time of this meeting may be obtained from Mrs. Hill, RE. 3959.

White Supremacy Is Challenged in New Negro Poets' Book

Negro poets challenged the white supremacy today with the publication of Ebony Rhythm, an anthology of contemporary verse, edited by Beatrice M. Murphy, who edited Negro Voices, a similar anthology, in 1938.

Sounding an ominous note, John Henrik Clarke, who was included in O'Brien's Best Short Stories of 1940, writes in Ebony Rhythm: Shed no tears for the strong nations now crumbling . . The next great glory will belong to the people who have lived so long without any glory at all." In a second potem, Clarke writes "How you sing, America . . . while men denied justice are another poem, he sounds a prophetic warning: "Sing me a song of a people hungry for freedom who will study war until they are free!"

Designed by Henry Harrison and published by the Exposition Press of New York, the book contains the poetry and biographies of a hundred Negro poets.

U.S. Att'y Strong: Rightful Place Of Minorities

United States Attorney for the Southern District of California, William Strong, will speak at the Saint Paul Baptist church, 21st and Naomi streets, Sunday afternoon, March 14, 3:30, on "Minority Races—Their Rightful Place Within a Nation." The address will be delivered under the auspices of the Student body of the Reed School of Christian Education.

Attorney Strong, before becoming assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of California, was special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States, hearing commissioner for the National Labor Relations Board and regional attorney for that agency in New Orleans. He is highly interested in the affairs of minority races. He appeared recently for the Mexican children in the Westminister school segregation case in United States Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco, in which he obtained a decision in favor of the school children.

He is now one of the attorneys taking part in restrictive covenant cases now pending in the United Supreme Court. He is strictly opposed to all restrictions and discrimination upon racial and religious grounds.

Mr. Strong is reputed to be a speaker of no mean ability. The meeting will be open to all who wish to attend. "Indeed it is hoped that the public will turn out in great numbers to hear this outspoken friend of the race," says Miss Bessie Baron, president of the student body. A literary and musical program will be rendered prior to the address.

ARTHRITIS

RHEUMATISM—NEURITIS

Don't be discouraged. Read what this famous doctor says:

"Mild attacks of muscular rheumatism may occur when subjected to exposure of cold, when the circulation of fluids in the body becomes congested and the elimination of toxins retarded. The congestion may occur in the muscles, and such cases the trouble is called "muscular rheumatism." This condition may exist for years, with varying attacks of shooting pains and soreness of the muscles, until finally the congestion of toxins locates in some joint of the body. The fingers and toes are usually affected first, but it often spreads to the elbows and shoulders, and in this stage is called "articular rheumatism."

"If the disease is not arrested at this stage, the soreness spreads to the hips, and finally to the spine. In this latter stage it is most serious. Every effort must be exerted by the patient to attempt to keep the inflammation from developing to this dangerous point. If the rheumatims in the joints continues, the bones will throw out a liquid bone formation which will solidify around the joint, apparently in an attempt by the body to protect the joints against the irritation of acid toxins in the blood. This produces enlargement of the joints, twising them out of shape, and producing a disease called "arthritis deformans."

"The muscular form of rheumatism is usually to be found in the lower back, over the lumbar section of the spine, where it is called "lumbago," or in the muscles attached to the ribs, in which case it is called "intercostal neuralgia." If the inflammations extends to the nervous system, and deposits of irritating material accumulate around the nerve trunks, it will develop the disease commonly called 'sciatica' or 'neuritis.' Real neuritis is an inflammation of the nerve cells, and is a very rare disease, but rheumatism of the nerves of the arm is so often called neuritis, that I am simply referring to this form of the trouble by the name under which it commonly passes.

"One of the principal causes of rheumatism is toxemia produced from the fermentation of an excess of 'carbohydrate foods, or from poison generated by fermentation when these foods are used in wrong combinations.

"In addition to the toxic condition of the blood being a cause of sciatica, it will be found that a certain amount of pressure is being exerted upon the nerves going to the legs by an impacted feces in the rectum, or by the pressure of gas on one or the other or on both sides of the colon. If a tumor exists in the womb this may be an irritating cause of pains in the legs because of the pressure exerted upon the pelvic nerves. If the gas pockets in the colon exist only on one side, it will be noted that there is a poor circulation in the leg on that particular side, often enough to produce sciatic pains."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell, M. D., eminent physician, says: "The most rational and practical manner of dealing with this . . . breeding place of disease is to wash it out. With me, it has passed beyond the theoretical stage, for I have in my office fully 15,000 letters from grateful patients who have used this process, under my direction, with the most astounding results; scarcely a disease known to humanity, but has been relieved, and in ninety-five per cent of the cases, cures effected, while tens of thousands of gratifying messages have reached me from time to time, nor is the testimony in its favor confined to th elaity, for hundreds of physicians (including some of the most prominent authorities) testify to the wonderful beneficial results achieved by its use."

Actors' Lab Extends Run of Popular Historial Drama

Sell-out houses at every weekend performance of "Declaration," the Janet and Philip Stevenson historical drama which the Actors' Laboratory theatre has been showing at their Laurel avenue studio theatre, has encouraged that organization to announce that the run of the play will be extended for two more weekends, closing on March 20.

Interest in the modern press presentation of American history has run high at every performance with considerable attendance from university and high school students. The unique presentation of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and other famous figures of history in contemporary clothes has succeeded in pointing up the present-day meaning of the play.

A capable cast headed by Lloyd Gough and including such outstanding Lab performers as Roman Bohnen, Will Lee, Stanley Waxman, Frances Cheney and Paul McVey contribute to an evening of memorable entertainment.

The play was staged by Actors' Lab director and teacher Daniel Mann with settings by Les Marzolf.

Emily Foster Is Solid Click at Last Word Nitery

BY GERTRUDE GIPSON

The town's hepcats and hepchicks are flocking to the Last Word. One of the reasons is a snappy floor show. The other, and main one, is a dynamic bundle of personality named Emily Foster, who is just about the entertainingest song-dance stylist to be seen around these parts in ages.

An attractive little honey-colored lass, Emily hails from Springfield, Mass., and started her professional career as a hometown favorite and solid click at the exclusive Paddock restaurant in Springfield. She later toured the southland during World War II with Buster Campbell USO unit, and following a short stint at the staid Tic Toc restaurant, Boston, she appeared and stopped the shows with amazing regularity at the Opollo theatre in 1945 with the Cootie Williams band.

She's a terrific entertainer, and handles the Mistress of Ceremonies spot at the Last Word with class personifying the peak of perfection. She sings. She dances. She does just about everything in the way of downright solid entertainment. She is maybe the only femme entertainer around today of whom you can say, "she's terrific," without having to add ". . . for a woman."

She came to town last April for a one week stay at the Word. She is now in her sixth month! If that does'nt prove anything, of all the local M.C.'s and other "names" on the Angel City theatrical horizon, hers was the one chosen from many to handle the M.C. spot for a radio program now being planned, which will emulate from one of the Eastside clubs.

Emily Foster is "going places" and at the rate of progress, she'll make it in nothing flat!

Progressive Group Experiments With Unique Educational Plan

By MESA DOBSON
(Special to The California EAGLE)

Out at La Habra, Orange County, is being conducted one of the most unusual experiments in interracial, progressive education to attract attention in a long time. The project is a new, four-year, veteran-approved university, which has the support of scores of liberals in the Southern California area and of individuals who are interested in education for its own sake.

Its name is Los Angeles University of Applied Education. The La Habra campus consists of 110 converted barracks on a 20-acre site that only recently was a barley field. Classes are now being conducted in buildings which will be converted into classrooms and administration buildings have not been started. Students live in other barracks, many of them with their families.

Claude L. Welch, Los Angeles attorney is president, and his ideas on education as a means of increasing tolerance and good citizenship have attracted national attention among educators. The faculty members announced they were available for the new school long before the first campus buildings were erected.

To date, the school has one Negro instructor, Joseph H. Forrest, M.A., in the Mathematics dept. There are two Negro students in the small student body, James Monroe, 25, formerly of 9418 Hooper ave., and James Coleman, 27, whose mother, Mrs. Estelle Coleman, resides at 1261 E. 41 st.

The university wants to maintain a substantial proportion of Negro students, as well as students of other minority groups.

President Welch's appeal on the educational level is aimed toward preparing the individual to live successfully in all departments of life. This integrated plan, which must promote tolerance and understanding on an individual basis, extends even to that of physical education, in which the instructor, Dr. Jack Gregory, holds a Ph.D.

Dr. Gregory received national recognition for his program for wounded veterans at Birmingham Hospital, in which he insisted that mental, emotional and physical stability were vitally dependent upon each other.

An international note already has been added to the small student body. George Anang, 26-year-old Sumatra-born journalist, a frequent contributor to the EAGLE, served in the American navy and has been a U.S. citizen for 10 months. Anang, a government major, has organized a co-operative among the students. With a city license the student body buys at wholesale prices candies, cigarettes and soft drinks. Food staples and other household necessities for sale to all persons living on the campus will be included later.

New classes will start April 1, and students with low high school grades can be coached in preparation for entrance. Since classes are small, progress is unusually rapid, says president Welch.

Rheumatic Fever Hits Needy Most

NEW YORK—Most of the Negro and white youthful victims of rheumatic fever, childhood's greatest enemy, are found in the lower economic groups, it is reported by the American Heart Association, which is now conducting its Annual Drive for funds. This disease is responsible for 95 percent of the defective hearts in childhood and for more than one-third of the crippled hearts in adult life.

Women's Club Slates Noted Guest Speaker

Peter De Lima, noted radio commentator, will speak on "Current Events" Friday night, 8 p.m., at the Echo Park Women's Club, 1004 Echo Park ave.

De Lima's talk will be under the auspices of the Silver Lake Lodge No. 498 of the Jewish People's Fraternal Order.

The public is invited. No admission charged.

GOP Polltax Coalition Kills Ban on Jimcro In Armed Services

WASHINGTON—By a vote of 4 to 3 the armed services subcommittee on Organization and Mobilization rejected an amendment to prohibit segregation and discrimination in the recruitment of WAVES, WACS and women marines into the regular army and navy.

The amendment, proposed by the NAACP, provided that: "There shall be no discrimination or segregation on account of race, color, religion, or national origin in the appointment of officers, commissioned or warrant, or in original enlistments or re-enlistments, or in the training and utilization of personnel selected under this Act."

The amendment was defeated by a coalition of three northern Republicans and one southern Democrat: Paul W. Shafter (R. Mich.), Leroy Johnson (R. Calif.) James Van Zandt (R. Pa.) and Carl T. Dunham (D., N. C.). Those in favor of the amendment were Frank Havenner (D., Calif.) and C. W. Bishop (R., Ill.).

Leslie Perry of the NAACP Washington Bureau had appeared in public hearings held by the subcommittee on Feb. 23 and proposed the amendment to S. 1641, the bill to establish women's units as a permanent part of the armed services. He told the subcommittee that "unless congress steps in and corrects the situation, racial discrimination will continue in the armed services."

H. charged that the marines, which had 17,000 women during the war, refused to admit a single Negro woman. The navy permitted only a token number of Negro WAVES. At the height of the war, the navy had only 58 Negro WAVES out of a total of 78,000; only two Negro held navy commissions.

The NAACP intends to carry the fight to the floor of the house in an attempt to assure non-discriminatory treatment of colored women in the peacetime army and navy.

Lincoln Univ. News

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—Two new temporary buildings erected by the Federal Works Agency have been officially accepted by President Sherman D. Scruggs in behalf of the Board of Curators of Lincoln University.

One of the buildings, located on the east campus, will be used immediately, as the University infirmary. The structure includes a treatment room, examination and treatment room, consultation room, large waiting room, storage and general office and dispensary, two 6-bed wards, duty station, five private rooms, bath room, diet kitchen and utility room.

The other structure, located on the lower campus, includes a social hall, kitchen with small storage room, women's and men's lavatory, lobby and entrance hall. The opposite end of this building houses two study halls, and office and library and the heating units.

Seventeen volumes have recently been added to the Marcha Bingham Clyce Memorial collection in the library of the Lincoln University (Mo.) School of Journalism, gifts of the founder of the collection, Chester A. Smith, Boston, Mass.

The appointment of a ten-member faculty stadium committee has been announced by President Sherman D. Scruggs, Lincoln University (Mo.). The committee grows out of the recognition by the board of curators and president of the interest in better seating arrangements on the athletic field.

Radio commentator Averill Berman will interview the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. O'Dwyer, chairman of the California Housing Initiative Committee, and Ben Rinaldo, state chairman of AVC, on Monday evening, March 15, at 8:30 over Station KGFJ, 1230 on the dial.

Subject of the discussion will be the current housing crisis in California and how the proposed initiative measure will help to meet the need. O'Dwyer's committee is now engaged in securing signatures on petitions which will place the initiative on the November ballot.

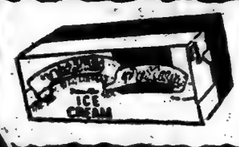
Throng Works in Comedy



More than 360 people were called in for carnival sequences in U-I's comedy, "Are You With It?" co-starring Donald O'Connor, Olga San Juan, Martha Stewart and Lew Parker. They comprised hula dancers, tumblers, strong men, fire eaters, jugglers, a dog-faced boy, human skeleton, fat girl, bearded lady and elephant man.

In 1944, 69 percent of the people voted in the 40 non-polltax states whereas only 12 percent voted in the eight polltax states.

Write 4 Tunes For Movie

At least four songs, which were not included in the Broadway show "Are You With It?" have been specially written by Sidney Miller and Inez James for Universal-International's film of the New York hit, now in production.

Cry, The Beloved Country, by Alan Paton is "A story of comfort in desolation." An old and humble Zulu parson from the hills of South Africa sets out with much apprehension for Johannesburg, "the city of evil" in search of his only son from whom he has had no word for months. Aided by a few faithful friends he picks up the tracks of his erring son; a hint here and there reveals bad associates and licentiousness. He finally reaches the reformatory from which his son has just been released and then finds him in prison for the murder of a white man who has devoted his life to justice for the black raceand who was the son of the Englishman whose plantation is in the old pastor's home valley. The scenes between the two fathers bring the story to the height of tragedy. It gives a vivid picture of the beautiful landscape, and its people as well its bitter racial ferment and unrest.

Great Men of Medicine, by Ruth Fox is a collection of biographies of nine outstanding medical men from various parts of the world whose work during 2500 years has helped to make modern progress possible. Each of these men was forced by his own peculiar motive away from the comfortable mediocrity which surrounded him to experiment and research which has helped change the world. Among those included are Vesalius of of the 16th Century who sole a skeleton from the gallows and made antomy a science; Pare, who replaced the hot iron with the needle and made surgery an art; Morton who taught surgeons how to control pain; and Lister who with a bottle of carbolic acid revolutionized surgery. There is also a chapter on the 20th century outlook for the profession. The book is written in and informal chatty style which makes it exceedingly interesting as well as informative.

The Challenge of Hate, by A. R. Lerner and Herbert Poster is a photo-record of democracy's struggle against disruption and disunity. It is a novel approach to matters of grave concern for all who wish to live in a world of goodwill, freedom and international cooperation. The authors trace the thread of hatred and dissension intermingled in national and international problems. They denounce the foes of democracy and unity. Besides exposing the forces which work for destruction the book pictures the available means for overcoming the enemies within our gates. It is a veritable "manual of arms" for the counter-offensive against hate and a positive guide for action for democracy.

Something Wonderful to Happen by Darwin L. Teilhet, formerly an intelligence officer in the army and now a California writer, is a fantastically humorous tale of Barney, father of four and not yet married. He is persuaded into a shady deal with Slinker, a persuasive guy who offers him $25,000 on the deal. Against his better judgment and his principles he yields and becomes enmeshed in all kinds of family and political complications. Sally longs to go to Guatemala and "Make It Legal"; their 15 year old daughter Marion and her boy friend, young Saraphine and the horse-loving twins all add to his troubles and so does Mrs. Slinker, a former actress. The decline and rise of Barney and his family is very human in spite of its hilarity.

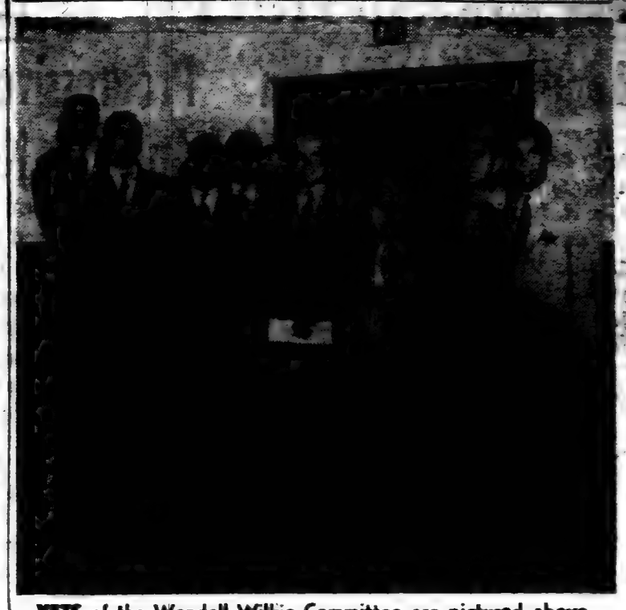
Mrs. Lillier Walker

Mrs. Lillier Walker who owns and operates a gas station at 11542 South Central avenue, is the latest victim of Los Angeles police brutality.

Last January 26 two men entered her place of business and accused her of running a "bookie." She did not recognize them as members of the police department, since they were plain clothesmen and wore no uniforms. Not being able to prove their suspicions, they left.

But again last February 3, two officers entered her gas station, just as she was about to cross the street to a beauty parlor to use the telephone. They again left without any proof. She answered all their questions to their satisfaction.



As she was about to enter the beauty parlor to telephone, however, two other men in plain vlothes came up and demanded that she hand over the paper on which she had copied the phone number. Mrs. Walker refused. They tried to take it from her. She resisted, and as a consequence was brutally beaten, badly bruised, and shaken up.

The case is now in court. Mrs. Walker is basing her complaint upon the fact that at no time did the officers identify themselves, and she had no way of knowing when they demanded she give them the paper, that they were officers of the law.

Another War To Win

It seems like just a few months ago that we were involved in a bitter struggle which history records as World War II. Hardly had we finished stretching, as it were, to adjust our lives to the changes wrought in our homes and our nations by that war, when we discover that we are in a new war—a war of nerves.

We charged Hitler with the responsibility of World War II. Without a doubt our so-called leaders and pseudo-leaders are responisble for this new war of nerves. And it is time, and ample time, that we the people do something about it.

We know that the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt planned as a climax to Herr Hitler's war, world peace. But the peace program planned by Mr. Roosevelt was a thrust at world monopoly. It called for the distribution of the natural resources that would guarantee to the people in all countries a decent life.

Though mild as a summer breeze, Franklin Roosevelt was the most dynamic personality that ever filled the position of president of the United States. And at this time, as we battle madly to overcome a more deadly threat to our liberties and our lives than the poison gas and atom bombs used in that other war, we cry out in our desperation, "God give us an other Roosevelt to lead us out of bondage into everlasting freedom."

Up from the ranks, a son of the soil has come forward answering the people's call for leadership. His name is Henry Wallace.

But all those who for many years have waxed fat on the people's labor, have joined the forces of reaction to stop Wallace.

The South objects to Wallace, because he denounced white supremacy.

Northern capitalists don't want him because his political ideology of equality in industry and all walks of life, would bridge the gap of misunderstanding between the white and black industrial workers, and unite the people of labor to the end that the capitalist system would be renovated and revised.

Of leadership from the Negro political realm, little in the way of support for Henry Wallace can be expected.

Already those pseudo-leaders have grown hysterical, red-baiting. Like Pegler and the other Hearst writers. The 200 hooded Ku Klux Klansmen who burned a fiery cross on a courthouse green in a new campaign of bigotry in Georgia, are not a threat in their opinion, to overthrow our government.

Communism is the threat, they say. And yet, like their political bosses, they cannot put their finger on a single instance where any element or group connected with the so-called Communists ring have burned any fiery crosses or otherwise threatened us or our government.

If raising our voices against such evils as the Klan and fighting for our rights guaranteed to us by the Federal government, brings down the sort of criticism that we are getting, we say, "Pour it brother. We can take it because we know why we are fighting and what we expect to win."

Youth Marches On

America is pausing this month of March to help observe the birthday anniversaries of two of its finest youth organizations—the Girl Scouts and the Camp Fire Girls.

The Girl Scouts began with 12 members in Savannah, Ga., March 12, 1912. Today there are more than 1,250,000 scattered from Maine to California, with 17,101 right here in the city of Los Angeles.

Camp Fire Girls boasts of 360,000 members in the United States. Both organizations are open to girls regardless of race, creed, or color. The slogan for the Girl Scouts is: "Girl Scouts United by Ideals." That of the Camp Fire Girls is: "Hello, World. Let's Get Together."

These young girls, the future leaders of America, learning the ideals of real Americanism and practicing them in their life outdoors, in camping, in doing their good turn daily for others form the backbone for the true American way of life.

May they prosper and grow stronger day by day!

Progressive Thinking And the Negro

B. F. McLaurin, international organizer, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, was one of a small number of Negroes who attended the convention of the Americans for Democratic Action held last February. Mr. McLaurin was a delegate and was subsequently elected a member of the National Board of Directors.

Mr. McLaurin feels a deep responsibility toward the Negro people and the A.D.A. Our aim, he says, is to promote action for the general welfare, locally and nationally, and to unite the liberal and progressive forces in America. The convention adopted the President's civil rights legislative program, a permanent F.E.P.C., abolition of the poll tax, outlawing lynching, barring of universal military training, etc. "in which we Negroes surely must have faith, if only for its human values and individual rights, for who has been victimized more, as a whole and individually because of the lack of such legislation, than our people?"

We agree perfectly with Mr. McLaurin. But his observations seem to penetrate only the surface of the problem. They do not reach deep into the heart.

A similar organization, the Progressive Citizens of America, also held a convention in Chicago. The editor of The California EAGLE attention that convention. There were many Negroes there as delegates. They were a part of all that took place. That convention, too, adopted a very liberal program, going a few degrees farther than that adopted by the A.D.A. And that program, we feel, went to the heart and core of the trouble with Negro people and of all the oppressed people of America.

Now, why are there two such liberal and progressive thinking movements? Why should there be a distinctive A.D.A. and a distinctive P.C.A.? It seems to be the tragedy of minority groups to split in their organizing, in their thinking.

We, Mr. McLaurin, urge all progressive and liberal thinking members of every race, and creed, Negro and white, Jew and Gentile, Prottestant and Catholic, to unite and fight the common enemy.

Our warfare is conducted by ballots. And every ballot counts one. Divided they will be lost. And we will be lost with them. We must unite or die, as our old Revolutionary flag said. And if we want to unite, we can find a way, no matter how difficult it may be.

The rule of force is today dominant. President Truman speaks it. General Marshall speaks it. Secretary Patterson speaks it. Our whole government is beginning to abopt the philosophy that the United States must have a big army, navy and air force. What for? . . . It must be that the philosophy of force, instead of reason, and that military demonstration, instead of language of reason and pustice or self-denial, is foremost. This is the only solution that Hitler found for Germanys' troubles . . . Militarism is beginning to inmiltrate rapidly into our democratic system . . . —David Lawrence, editor United States News.

Americans for Democratic Action has put out a policy statement which names a number of fallacies: (1) the fallacy of believing military containment is enough (2) the fallacy of soliciting al? lies in a crusade against Communism (3) the fallacy of trying to impose capitalism on others, etc. Then it goes on to support the Truman Doctrine which is based on the first two fallacies and the Marshall Plan which is based on the third. It imputes to the Marshall thesis that we are willing to include Russia in the Europe we are rebuilding. This last is, we believe, rank hypocrisy. —The Protestant.

They (American Big Business) talk about the dignity of man while their hands throttle the innocent. In the depths of their eyes is a cloud where they hide in terror of the Accuser who judges them there. They bless and comfort those who frame and exploit labor, who murder Negroes in cold blood, who break the wrists of those who agitate for a living wage, who organize mass lying about the workers' republics and the movements of peoples toward freedom.— The Protestant.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

"America's Frightened Churchmen" is the title of a very illuminating article in a recent issue of The Churchman, a liberal religious magazine. The writer speaks of these church people's ignorance and fear of change, and says that the so-called Christian world is a lost world.

One of the very great reasons for this fear of change is because of the religious education pounded into the people's minds. I remember well the catechism I had to study when I was a child. That is, I don't remember the catechism. The long involved questions, and the still longer and involved answers. I remember the weary hours I spent in learning that jargon, and I remember thinking—to myself, of course—that if you had to learn that stuff in order to get to Heaven, perhaps it wouldn't be such a bad idea to try the other place, after all.

But whether or not children are forced to learn the catechism, they are taught, and adults are taught as well, certain precepts which are considered the fundamentals of the Christian religion, and anathema be to anyone who departs from them. And these precepts are usually the direct opposite of the love for mankind which Jesus taught. They do not admit of the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God. Quite the contrary.

The precepts of the fundamentalists in the Christian religion are those which produce a Gerald L. K. Smith, a Father Coughlin, and others of their ilk. Stubborn, dogmatic, like the Pharisees of Jesus' day, in their self-righteous hypocrisy the, too, are crucifying the son of man as their religious forbears did. And they, too, are leaders astray a multitude of the gullible who depend wholly upon others to do their thinking for them.

It is in the field of political action and social reform that the greatest harm is done. "If political reaction can make the Christian believe that the social Gospel is of the devil and is responsible for the ruin of life, the reactionary battle is well-night won. If you can label any kind of social reform as an attack upon Christ and as being 'Communistic' then that particular kind of social reform becomes an impossibility.

"If you can make the Christian believe that any kind of government planning is a violation to the individual's right to personal salavation, by assuring him that all he has to do is believe in order to have all his problems solved, then you have wiped out the possibility for the intelligent ordering of commanal and social life."

Yet there are people in America—many of them—who are doing just that thing, says this article. And of course no one who has ever attended some of the church services in America need to be told that. "There is a political reaction which would label anyone who believes in any sort of social reform as a 'Communist.' That is bad enough," says this article. "What is worse is to have a situation where you can say that anyone who desires the well-being of humanity, in terms of social reform or planned design, is a person who is working against Christ.

"This is a sin against the very spirit of God. It is the sin of 'calling light darkness and darkness light.' It is the pathway to moral and social oblivion. It is the road to social greed, physical and spiritual destruction and night. It means doom for our kind of civilization, unless we mend our ways."

What's to be done about it? I don't know. Neither does the author of that article. He bases a faint hope upon the fact that even the most reactionary dogmatist doesn't seem quite sure of himself. When he pounds the pulpits the hardest, and yells the loudest against those "Communists" you can neverthless sense a doubt in his ravings. We must feed these doubts, says the author, and some day perhaps the Gerald L. K. Smiths and Father Couglins will know the truth and the truth shall make them free. We hope.

Eugene O'Neill has a drastic solution. "If the human race is so damned stupid," he remarked cynically on one occasion, "that in 2000 years it hasn't had brains enough to appreciate that the secret of happiness is contained in one simple sentence (which you'd think any school kid could understand and apply) then it's time we dumped it down the nearest drain and let the ants have a chance. That simple sentence is: 'For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?'"

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The question of war, which seems to be approaching us again, is alarming many of us. I quote from a noted sociologist:

"War is an attempt of one social group to impose its will upon another group by force of arms. In such contests, might makes for victory. It is but a short step from this position to the assertion tha mitgh maktes right. Hence the military have right, as well as might, on their side, and success (victory) can always be won if a sufficient volume of might can be mobilized."

The fact that the life of every community depends in the first instance upon production and that the mobilization of material and manpower for war purposes is made at the expense of the productive processes is quite outside the range of military thinking. Victory may be celebrated by the military in the midst of irreparable ruin, as the leaders of the world capitalism have learned to their cost during the past three decades. The more complete the victory, the more thoroughgoing the ruin.

Such a statement sounds paradoxical unless we remember that victory records the breaking of enemy will-to-resist by the use of maximum destructiveness, while production depends for its effectiveness upon the coordination of specialized processes. Thus the aims of the military, in both theory and practice, contravine productivity and human well-being. How else can one interpret the effects of two recent wars upon the European scene of their major operations?

There is one further point. The military is organized nationally. Economy is today planet-wide. Here are two culture levels, one of which negates the other. Man either stands by nationalism and cripples world economy, or advances to worldism and abandons the whole structure of nationalism, armed forces, preparedness and the science and art of war. The present generation is faced with a choice between war-making and world-ism. For many ,the choice will also be between extermination and survival.

Sincerely,
R. C. G.

Dear Miss Scott:

Thank you for the wonderful write-up you gave me in the EAGLE. I surely wondered how you put all the loose ends together in such a unified whole and I assure you I am deeply grateful.

Let's hope it will be not too long before we get quick pick-up "supperette" at LA SIESTA, when there is no "business of the day" other than relaxation.

Dear Editor:

I want to congratulate you for the editorial cartoon that appeared on the front page of last week's issue of The California EAGLE. It was wonderful.

Words do not seem to express the progress I feel the EAGLE has made and is making. To me, the drawing represented much logic, feeling and truth.

Keep up the good work and please pass on my congratulations to your staff cartoonist.

BOOKS and AUTHORS

The Great Ones, by Ralph Ingersoll is called "the love story of two very important people." The main characters are Sturges Strong and Letia Long, owners of a sensationally successful new magazine. Letia is a middle class egoist who marries into the top rank and considers the world her oyster. Sturgis—a later husband of hers — is a bursting brain with no sense of humor and a colossal ambition. It is a "king-meets-queen" story in the world of those fabulous! yrich Americans who make today's headlines in New York and its colonies, Newport, Palm Beach, Reno, and Hollywood. It is unpleasant reading but unforgetable.

The War Department has a new technical manual, Ordnance, Maintenance, Wrist Watches, Pocket Watches, Stop Watches and Clocks," with detailed instruction for inspection, maintenance and repair of time pieces and a brief description of watch construction. It gives detailed descriptions of parts and is profusely illustrated.

W. J. Wheaton Says

When the debris of the supper had been cleared, Mary Ann, who had been humming "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," and contrary to her usual custom, smoothed the tea towel over her lap. This was indeed unusual, as she had always been very particular to straighten it out before hanging it on the line in the little nook she called her pantry. There was a troubled frown on her brow and her lips were tightly pursed. We anxiously waited for her to begin. Then she said: "T'se been kinda worried. The other night, I was listening to the girls saying something about slaves: Ruthie, the little English girl brought here when the Germans were throwing bombs on her home, said queen somebody.

"Victoria," we said.

"Well anyhow," she said that Queen Victoria was the first to set the slaves free. The little Lopez girl said she always felt ashamed when they said that Portugal (her folk came from there) sold the Africans into slavery. "Well," said Hilda the Norwegian girl, "We girls in Minnesota always thought that Abraham Lincoln was the one."

The Russian girl with the funny name, said that "Today Russia doesn't allow slavery, but they tell us that under the Czars, the Jews were treated worse than slaves. Now back home we didn't know 'bout anybody but Lincoln. What do you say?"

We thought for a while before answering. Then we said, "Mary Ann, the girls were right according to their knowledge of history—as it is taught in our schools—and their conception of it. But the question of slavery goes far back, as far as the history of the United States. Many folk have the thought that Virginia was, and still is, a rabid, intolerant, anti-Negro State; yet it was one of the first to openly deplore the institution of slavery.

Thomas Jefferson sought to forbid slavery when he introduced that resolution in the first Continental Congress. The resolution was defeated and bitterly opposed by South Carolina and Georgia. He, Jefferson did succeed in having the ban placed on slavery in the purchase of the North West Territory. When the five northwest states were carved from that territory slavery was prohibited. South Carolina and Georgia have in the past, and are today, the two most race-biased States in this union of states; that is with the one exception—Mississippi.

In the formation of the Constitution, as we have today, Virginia, was foremost in seeking to ban slavery. When the basis of representation in the government was being debated in the convention, the South insisted on slaves being counted as parts of the population in order to give it equal representation with the more populous North. We think that it was Gerry, the delegate from Massachusetts, who stated in reply that slaves in the South were property as much as the hogs and cattle were property in the north. He saw no reason why one should have precedence over the other when it came to population.

"So you see," said we, "Slaves at that time, and as some would have it today, were counted in the class of swine and cattle. That is whaat demagogues of the South wish to retain. They want to retain the sole right to murder, and the unrestricted right to violence without governmental intervention.

The Dixie States oppose any law, however humane, that would give freedom of thought and action to their people . . . the poorer class of illiterate whites, as well as the Negroes. They retain their political power by appeals to the emotions of ignorance, knowing full-well that a well informed mind would never tolerate such ideologies as they . . . the political demagogues . . . present.

"What was that verse from the Bible you said your granddaughter read to you?" "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain who build it."

Mary Ann said: "Your philosophy of life is a tonic. When you make a comment there is a point to it. May we have the privilege of recording them some day?"

Me? I don't say anything worth remembering, and if I do, I don't know it. As time goes on we are going to pay more attention to what Mary Ann says. We are going to let her do the talking. It will be best."

There is a threatened bolt by the southern wing of, the Democratic arty, which in fact is a misnomer as far as the South is concerned. The southern part of that party is the diseased portion of the aPrty's emblem, which if not out off will disease the entire system. So Mr. President, don't be alarmed; it's better to lose the tail than have the entire body polluted. Talk about political brazenry: Shades of Lincoln!! A senator, purporting to represent the ideals for which Lincoln stood, brazenly stands on the floor of the Senate and proposes that the Republicans repudiate the Civic measures presented to the Congress by the President, and make a coalition with the southern recalcitrants for their defeat.

No Comment.

The candidates for election to the various offices to be decided at the November elections, are busy registering their intentions. Many of the incumbents will have opposition. Especially is this noted in aspirants for the legislature. FRANCK R. HAVENNER, incumbent congressman, 4th District, has filed his intention to run.

Save Child Care Centers, Warren, Solons Urged

The California Legislative Conference, through some 600 organizations, has made an urgent appeal to Governor Warren and the state legislature to continue the child care program which is destined to die May 30 if a new bill is not passed, it was announced by Eleanor Raymond, executive secretary for Southern California.

"The necessity for permanent child care centers in California is now a recognized fact. Over 13,000 children would be deprived of a preventative health program and adequate supervision during the parents' working hours if the centers were abolished," Mrs. Raymond said.

Services of public school teachers, registered nurses, agricultural workers and food processors essential to the community are made possible by the services provided for their children in the centers, Mrs. Raymond added.

A call for a special session by Governor Warren was urged. Also that state senators and assemblymen vote the continuance of the child car program.

"Since this is a budgetary session of the state legislature and also an election year, the legislators will probably adjourn in from three to five weeks. It was therefore urged that the matter of child care be considered immediately," Mrs. Raymond said.

Wallace Urges Use Of Freedom Train To Fight Jim Crow

President Truman had before him this week a proposal by Henry Wallace that he requisition the Freedom Train for a trip "to help the people of the South in their fight for freedom."

Wallace issued the challenge to President Truman at York, Pennsylvania, where he addressed the founding convention of a people's third party attended by some 2,300 delegates from all parts of the state.

Condemning the Democratic Administration for relying on words, not deeds, in the fight against Jim Crow, Wallace said that "the President, if he means what he says about civil rights, can take the leadership in organizing a dramatic demonstration which will help the people of the South mobilize in their fight for freedom."

Old Age Pensions Campaign Tops Goal

George H. McLain, chairman of the Citizens' Committee for Old Age Pensions, has announced that over 270,000 signatures already have been secured thruout the state to qualify his initiative constitutional amendment for Aged and Blind Aid for the November ballot.

The amendment for Aged and Blind Aid would increase the old age pension from $60 to $75 per month, and would raise the blind pension from $75 to $85 monthly.

The Road to Health

By Jesse B. Bell, M.D.

RHEUMATIC FEVER

Two young patients of mine in their twenties were both victims of rheumatic fever early in their grade-school years. One of them, Jack Baker, is leading a normal life, working every day, active in social life of the community, but he still guards his health carefully and comes to me regularly for check-ups. Jim Wilson, the second patient, is known as a "heart invalid." His attacks of rheumatic fever damaged his heart so badly that even the slightest physical strain is dangerous.

That is the way rheumatic fever sometimes works. Heart disease may develop in almost anyone who gets rheumatic fever, but sometimes the heart injury is so slight that, with good care and sensible living, the patient is not seriously handicapped in later life.

Jack Baker had always been a healthy, well-nourished child. One day he came home from school with a nosebleed and a slight fever and complained of pains in his knees and elbows. His mother lost no time in getting Jack to bed and calling the doctor.

After his examination revealed that Jack had rheumatic fever, the doctor told Mrs. Baker that the good care Jack had received since birth would help him fight the disease. He praised her for calling him the moment she suspected something was seriously wrong. After Jack had recovered, Mrs. Baker continued to follow the doctor's advice carefully, taught Jack the importance of extra rest, good food, personal cleanliness, protection against colds and sore throats—general rules of health that were of special importance to him.

Mrs. Wilson, on the other hand, had dismissed Jim's aching muscles and joints as "growing pains." When he lost his appetite and became cross and easily tired, she thought he was "just going through a stage." The child was seriously ill with rheumatic fever by the time the doctor was finally called. Jim narrowly escaped death. Despite the doctor's warning, once Jim recovered from the acute stage of the illness, he was allowed to neglect the basic rules of good health. Only repeated attacks of rheumatic fever made Mrs. Wilson aware of the seriousness of the disease.

We do not yet know the exact cause of rheumatic fever, but we have found out a great deal about the way it acts. Attacks of rheumatic fever may follow such illnesses as sore throat and tonsilitis. Repeated attacks are common in the same person. Children who live in cold, damp surroundings, who do not get enough sleep, have a poor diet and insufficient clothing are more likely to get rheumatic fever than those living under more healthful conditions. However, often children of wealthy parents also get rheumatic fever.

Rheumatic fever can attack at any age. But it is mainly a problem of the school-age child and this puts serious responsibility on the parents. They must see that their children get plenty of fresh air and sunshine, a well-balanced diet, adequate clothing and form good personal hygienic habits.

This will build up their resistance against all diseases and help them ward off rheumatic fever in particular. If there is any suspicion of the disease, however, the doctor should be called immediately.

Letter Carriers Ask More Pay

The Postal Workers of America through their affiliated organizations are supplicating Congress for a sorely needed raise in salary. Since the last postal pay schedule was put into effect the cost of living has advanced 26% placing these workers in a most disadvantageous position in rerespect to making a living.

Write your Congressmen urging them to hasten the day when Uncle Sam's purveyors of the mail will receive adequate compensation for their services.

Abraham Zelger is chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Angel City Branch No. 24, National Association of Letter Carriers.

To Secure These Rights

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

(Installment No. 15)

4. The War Power.—Under Sec. 8 of Art. 1 of the constitution congress has extensive power o regulate the armed forces and to legislate concerning the national defense and security. Congress may thus legislate with respect to treatment of minority groups in the services, with respec to interference with members of the services, and with respect to construction or operation of military and naval installations. Related is the congressional power to assure distribution of ve erans' benefits o nan equal basis.

5. Power to Regulate Activities which Relate to Interstate Commerce.—Congress has exercised its power to regulate interstate commerce, derived from Art. 1, Sec. 8 o fthe constitu ion, to institute reforms in many fields. Outstanding examples are the Fair Labor Standards Act, which fixes maximum hours and minimum wages in work relating to interstate commerce, the National Labor Relations Act, which regulates labor-management relations affecting interstate commerce, and the Federal Safety Appliance Act, which specifies safety standards for interstate transportation. The commerce power could be the basis for fair employment legislation relating to activities affecting interstate commerce, and for laws prohibiting discriminatory practices by interstate carriers.

6. The Taxing and Spending Powers.—Also derived from Art. 1, Sec. 8, these are among the most extensive congressional powers, and have been repeatedly used to effectuate federal programs. An outstanding example is the Social Security program. Federal grants-in-aid have almost always been conditioned on compliance with congressional declared standards, as have exemptions from taxation. Congress has power to impose similarly appropriate conditions in spending or taxing programs which affect civil rights problems. Another facet of these powers permits congress to require persons who enter into contracts with the federal government, or supply the government with goods or services to conworm with national policy. For example, in the Walsh-Healey Act, congress has made compliance with minimum wage and maximum hour standards a condition of performance of federal supply contracts.

7. The Postal Power.—Under its plenary power over the postal system (stemming from Art. 1, Sec. 8) congress has acted to protect use of the mails against certain undesirable purposes. This power is, of course, subject to the constitutional limits on congressional power to impair free speech. Within those limits, however, there may be room for certain types of legislation—such as the exclusion of anonymous hate group literature from the mails.

8. Power Over the District of Columbia and the Territories.—Under Art. 1, Sec. 8 and Art. 4, Sec. 3, congress has full power of government over the District of Columbia and the various territories. It may thus pass any legislation proper for complete protection of the civil rights of all persons residing in those areas.

9. Power derived from the constitution as a whole to protect the rights essential to national citizens in a democratic nation.

No such power is expressly granted to congress in the constitution. It has long been asserted that the basic rights falling into this category, such as freedom of speech and press or the right to assembly, exist at the state level and depend upon state action for their protection against interference by private persons. However, the supreme court long ago suggested that such rights have a national significance as exercised in connection with the national process, and that they may be protected by national legislation. In 1876, in the case of United tSates v. Cruikshank, the issue of federal power to protect the right of assembly against interference by private persons was raised. In a dictum the court said:

"The right of the people peaceably to assemble for the purpose of petitioning congress for a redress of grievances, or for anything else connected with th epowers or the duties of the national government, is an attribute of national citizenship, and, as such, under the protection of, and guaranteed by, the United States. The very idea of a government, republican in form, implies a right on the part of its citizens to meet peaceably for consultation in respect to public affairs and to petition for a redress of grievances."

As recently as 1940, the fifth circuit court of appeals in the case of Powe v. United States, likewise in a dictum said:

"Because the federal government is a republican one in which the will of the people ought to prevail, and because that will ought to be expressive of an informed public opinion, the freedom of speaking and printing on subjects relating to that government, its elections, its laws, its opertaions and its officers is vital to it."

And the court said that congress has power under the constitution to protect freedom of discussion, so defined ,against all threats.

Unfortunately, these dicta have not been directly tested in practice. It is impossible to say how far the courts may be willing to go in recognizing the existence of specific rights at the national level, or in approving the power of congress to protect these rights as necessary to a democratic nation. But the basis seems to be a valid one and it might support national civil rights legislation of ocnsiderable significance.

10. Power derived from the treaty clause in Art. 11, Sec. 2 of the constitution, to protect civil rights which acquire a treaty status.

In its decision in Missouri v. Holland in 1920, the supreme court ruled that congress may enact statutes to carry out treaty obligations, even where, in the absence of a treaty, it has no other power to pass such a statute. This doctrine has an obvious importance as a possible basis for civil rights legislation.

The United Nations Charter, approved b ythe United States senate as a treaty, makes several references to human rights. Articles 55 and 56 are of particular importance. They are:

"Article 55.—With a view to the creation of conditions of stability and well-being which are necessary for peaceful and friendly relations among nations based on respect for the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, the United Nations shall promote:

"(a) Higher standards of living, full employment, and conditions of economic and social progress and development;

"(b) Solutions of international economic, social, health and related problems; and international cultural and educational cooperation; and

"(c) Universal respect for, and observance of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion.

"Article 56.—All members pledge themselves to take joint and separate action in cooperation with the Organization for the achievement of the purposes set forth in Article 22.

A strong argument can be made under the precedent of Missouri v. Holland that congress can take "separate action" to achieve the purposes set forth in Article 55 by passing legislation designed to secure "respect for, and observance of, human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion."

Some persons believe that Article 2 (7) of the United Nations Charter limits the argument of the last paragraph. This provision is:

"Nothing ocntained in the present charter shall authorize the United Nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state or shall require the Members to submit such matters to settlement under the present Charter . . . "

The Human Rights Commission of the United Nations is at present working on a detailed international bill of rights designed to give more specific meaning to the general principle announced in Article 55 of the Charter. If this document is accepted by the United States as a member state, an even stronger basis for congressional action under the treaty power may be established.

11. Power derived from the "republican form of government" clause in Art. 4, Sec. 4 of the constitution, to protect rights essential to state and local citizens in a democracy.

This clause reads "The United States shall guarantee to every state in this Union a republican from of government . . . " This phraseology is admittedly vague, and has had relatively little interpretation by the supreme court. But other vague clauses of the constitution, such as the commerce clause or the due process of law clause, have lent themselves to broad interpretation. It is possible that guaranteeing "a republican form of government" includes the power to protect essential civil rights against interference by public officers or private persons.

In view of this analysis of the constitution, both as to its broad character and its more specific clauses, the Committee believes that federal legislation in support of civil liberty is legitimate, and well within the scope of the constitution.

We wish to emphasize that a program of action by the federal government where there is deprivation of civil rights will not be a new departure. In particular, two agencies of the federal government have had important responsibilities for protecting the liberties of the people. These are the supreme court and the Department of Justice.

American Riviera

By ROBERT E. WESTON

(Instalment No. 1)

May I take this opportunity to tell you my impressions of the chain of islands which are divided into two groups known as the Greater Antilles and the Lesser Antilles. I hope everyone will find my story interesting and that someday you will be able to take a trip to these beautiful, tropical islands.

The Lesser Antilles are east of the Caribbean Sea. Jamaica is one of the larger islands in the group. Jamaica is actually the summit of a great mountain range running from east to west under the sea.

The other three islands of this group in the Greater Antilles are Cuba, Haiti or Santa Domingo and Puerto Rico.

Surely, a trip to the West Indies would be enjoyed by anyone. Either by plane or by boat, one still has the opportunity to meet a wonderful race of people. In the West Indies one lives and enjoys the beautiful sunshine all the year round.

In some of these islands the United States was granted air, military and naval bases by Great Britain. Among the places selected for these bases was the beautiful and sunny island, Jamaica, and the particular spot, Portland Bight. A corps of American engineers arrived in the island shortly after the arrangements between the two powers was completed and immediately set to work on plans for the building of the air base. An important improvement took place in all the islands since the United States was granted air, military and naval bases in them.

The cost of living went up, however, and all the British islands were immediately placed under the Defense of the Realm Act, under which the government made regulations controlling prices of all commodities to prevent profiteering. The United State built a few Coco-Cola factories in some of these islands.

They must be visited to be appreciated and in order to really appreciate them and absorb their atmosphere, to secure an insight of their people and their traditions, delve into the romance of their past, one must live for long upon the islands. Personally, I have visited and dwelt upon some of these islands of the West Indies. I have cruised in boats and plane and I have lived among the people for several years, yet I have not become tired of them and even today they are still fascinating. No luxurious floating palaces have carried tourists or sightseers on winter cruises to the West Indies for the past years. In some of these islands there are a lot of hotels worthy of note. One could voyage from New York to Trinidad and return covering nearly two months for one-half the cost of a one-way ticket to St. Thomas today.

Inflation has reached the islands yes, but not before it reached the shipping companies which form a lifeline to the West Indies.

Nevertheless, tourists will come and perhaps a few of them will find their way into the dense forests which clothe the hills, those so hardy, and so fortunate will perhaps be surprised at the welcome awaiting them. Natives literally wait with open arms and hospitality abounds among the planters and government officials.

Unfortunately most visitors to the West Indies will fail to make time or opportunity for a trip into the interior—will miss the mountainous wonders of the "high bush" as the forests are called. There, in the bushland, the air is cool and perfumed while the trees tower to surprising heights ablaze with orchids and draped with lianas. Truly the "high bush" is a wonderland full of the rigging notes of the forest songsters—exulting in the beauties which a bountiful nature has lavished upon these islands of the Caribbean. Enjoyable, too, is the picture presented by an hour's drive in the hot sun along the fringes of some neglected sugar, cacao or lime estate.

Most of these islands are well watered by rivers and springs but generally the midlands and eastern sections are more arid and, in some cases, almost devoid of water. Principal industries are sugar cane, salt, lime, turtle products, hardwood, coconuts and many lesser by-products of these staples. Sailing vessels are built in some of the seaports.

Racial variety adds to the flavor of this land with white, black, tan and yellow of East Indian, Chinese blending to give the impression that all the corners of the world are tied to-

Ties with the United States are many through peace-time shipping which takes island products and people to New York, Philadelphia, Boston, and, of course, New Orleans. Letters and papers from England and America are received regularly. Passenger and Air Mail Service are maintained regularly to Miami, Florida.

Jamaica was once a great sugar-producing country. Sugar is still being manufactured and exported in a large quantity, while recent demand has resulted in extensive expansion of this industry. Rum, coffee, coconuts, dye-woods and cocoa are other exports of value. The widely honored Jamaican rum is considered by most experts the best in the world. Cigars manufactured from local tobacco are finding a ready market. Arrowroot and citrus fruit are about the only food exports but the peasants outdo themselves in growing yams and sweet potatoes for Jamaican consumption. In fact, most of the islands produce the major portion of their own food.

There are practically no wild animals roaming this fertile land, but the mongoose (introduced from India) abounds and the common rat is perhaps prolific along with the harmless black and yellow snakes, frogs and toads. More sinister are the crocodiles inhabiting marshlands. Naturally, the many species of tropical birds are heard on every hand. Surprisingly enough, fine cattle and horses are bred in the West Indies, but the quality of the native sheep is below par. Goats, however, thrive.

The sea gives islanders a variety of edible fish and in the mangrove bushes along the coast is found delightful small oyster.

Communications with the outside world (improved immensely during the war years) are keeping the widely scattered populace abreast of foreign events as never before. Government public works are seeking to improve the water situation for inland communities and the native now dresses much better than in former years. Evidently a sense of public pride is growing for new recreations centers are being put to capacity use and unprecedented interest in the affairs of the colony is being shown. Crime is at a minimum.

Two bank tellers, an industrial chemist, and an accountant have been placed in New York City within the last few weeks through the Urban League in its effort to find professional, managerial and technical jobs for Negroes.

The United Nations Security Council has ordered 10 days of private Big Five talks on the Palestine situation. The Big Five are: The United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union, France and China. Great Britain has served notice she will boycott the talks.

Gov. Lester C. Hunt, of Wyoming, declares the Voice of America has not told the truth about his state. The script for the broadcast described Wyoming as a paradise filled with "naked and feathered" Indian girls and vicious snakes. If that's the best they can do, better not waste the taxpayers' money on it.

Dr. Ulysses Campbell, a Newark, N. J., dentist and a graduate of Howard university, was unanimously endorsed by New Jersey's Wallace-for-President Committee, as a candidate for congress in New Jersey's 11th district. This is the first time in the history of Newark that a Negro candidate has been proposed for congress by any except minor parties.

Constitutionality of the county's so-called "loyalty tests" has been upheld by Superior Judge Clarence M. Hanson. In two suits brought by a group of county employes Judge Hanson ruled that the county, "like any private employer," may demand unquestioned loyalty—even to the taking of an oath that the employe is not a member of certain organizations arbitrarily termed "subversive."

Gov. M. E. Thompson, of Georgia, recently ordered two Negroes accused of murder to be transferred publicly from the state prison to the county jail in a bold attempt to prove to the world that "Georgia can control mob feelings." He says the Klan meetings should be outlawed because "they cut the ground from under the feet of Southern congressmen who are trying to assure the world that federal anti-lynch laws are not needed."

A letter placing Congressman Chet Holifield squarely on the spot regarding issues vital to progressives of the 19th congressional district ,is on its way to Washington.

The letter takes issue with Holifield's recent avowal of support of the Marshall Plan, and requested that he state unequivocally his stand on four other issues: Universal military training, the partition of Palestine, lifting of the arms embargo on Palestine to permit the Jews to get arms for defense. Civil liberties, specifically the Ellis Island internees held until last Saturday without bail, and the "legalized lynching" of a Negro mother and her two sons in Georgia.

Vets Demand Congress Pass Wagner Bill

WASHINGTON — Fifteen hundred war veterans, representatives of their buddies in all sections of the country, yesterday demanded that the 80th congress stop kowtowing to powerful real estate interests and immediately pass the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill and its public housing provision.

Delegates to a housing conference sponsored jointly by all major veterans organizations, except the American Legion, assembled on the steps of the Capitol, organized into small committees, with each committee assigned to interview a number of senators and representatives, with a view of smoking them out.

The day before, Senator Robert F. Wagner, New York Democrat, reported that a poll of governors, mayors and prominent citizens shows a big majority favor quick action on the long-range housing bill.

On the same day, President Truman told the veterans' conference by wire that congress must decide whether to enact the administration's housing program or follow recommendations of the "powerful real estate lobby" and strangle it.

The bill, which has been held up in congress for the past three yeafs while the housing crisis turned from bad to worse, has the endorsement of the CIO and other labor groups.

Interviewed by the veterans, Senator Joe McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican and a proven friend of the real estate lobby, asked the vets to forget about the Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill, consider his own bill submitted in the senate last week. His bill eliminates the public housing provisions of the Wagner bill.

Veterans booed his assertion that public housing is "wasteful and inefficient" and "unnecessary because private industry can accomplish the housing task itself."

McCarthy is vice chairman of a joint investigating committee which has been "investigating" the need for housing. The committee is headed by Ralph Gamber, New York Republican and another friend of the real estate lobby. It includes four more good friends of that lobby, Sen. Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) and Representatives Rolla C. McMillen (R., Ill.), Frank L. Sundstrom (R., N. J.), and Charles K. Fletcher (R., Calif.).

The Wagner bill has been strenuously opposed by the Republican party leadership, acting under orders of the real estate lobby. Sen. Taft, although he is one of its authors, has not dared to bring the bill to the floor in the face of his party's opposition.

A Republican, Rep. Jesse Wolcott of Michigan, is chairman of the powerful house banking and currency committee which has the bill tightly bottled up.

Meantime, more than 2,000,000 married veterans are without homes of their own, living doubled up with relatives or friends, raising their families in furnished rooms, trailers or other makeshift dwellings. Another million families exist in similar circumstances. Many more live in substandard houses in slum areas.

Chinese Labor Leaders Assail U.S. 'Aid' Plan

PARIS—A demand that the World Federation of Trade Unions speak out against the Marshall Plan and its counterpart in China, the Wedemeyer Plan, has been issued by exiled leaders of the Chinese Association of Labor.

The Chiang Kai-shek regime received $4 billion in U. S. financial and military aid to promote its civil war between 1945 and 1947, over six times the amount sent to China during its eight-year war against Japan, the CAL leaders charge, demanding the WFTU adopt "effective measures . . . to end immediately these plans to exploit Chinese workers and bring destruction to workers of other countries.

Congo Song The Bunk, Says Bishop

PEORIA, Ill.—That fairy story that the Western world has a monopoly on civilization, currently expressed in the popular song about the African native who wants none of our nean lights and atomic bomb was challenged this week by a white Methodist missionary.

"There is just as much civilization in the Congo as there is in Peoria," Bishop Newell S. Booth, presiding bishop of the Congo, Central Africa, said.

He said Elizabethville, Belgian Congo, where he is stationed, is a city of 102,000 population with all the refinements of an American city of that size, including drug stores and apartment houses." Peoria has 105,000 population.

Only High Rate of Cotton Mechanization Can Sharply Reduce Need for Hand-Labor

WASHINGTON—Although the agricultural trend is definitely toward further mechanization, only a high rate of adoption of the mechanical cotton picker can sharply reduce the need for hand-labor in the South within the next few years, says a publication issued recently by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The new publication—Progress of Farm Mechanization—points out that despite 100 years of substituting machines for animal and human power, 61 percent, or 13 billion hours of the farm work were still being done by hand-labor four years ago.

However, the study indicates that increased mechanization will further reduce hand-labor in agriculture. There is an outside possibility that it may eliminate two to three billion hand-hours during the 10-year period, 1944-54, providing the mechanical cotton picker comes into general use, and the trend of eliminating hand-labor is speeded up throughout the country, the publication asserts.

Pointing to the labor requirements for maintaing the more complicated farm machines, the publication says that although two or three billion more hours of hand-labor may be eliminated throughout agriculture as a result of the adoption of mechanization, it would probably mean a net reduction of only one-third to one-half as many hours.

Least reduction in hand-hour requirements will take place in the performance of such farm chores as caring for sheep, poultry, and cattle, and in cultivating and harvesting such crops as sugarcane, potatoes, dry beans, fruits, and vegetables.

Greatest reduction in hand-labor will be effected in the farming of cotton, corn, wheat, and peanuts, the publication states.

Caring for livestock required the greatest percentage of hand-labor. Seventy-five percent of the man-hours spent in livestock work on farms in 1944 were hand-labor. While hand methods in crops consumed 47 percent of the total hours devoted to crop production.

To eliminate more hand labor in livestock care, says the publication, would mean more and better feeding and watering conveniences, more use of milking machines, and more mechanization in the performance of other chores around the barns. With greater coverage in rural electrification, these things will be possible, the publication asserts.

However, it points out that there will remain between two and three million small farms with only a few head of livestock. On these farms, electrically operated water pumps will eliminate a lot of hand-labor in watering livestock, but hand milking will continue on most farms that have only nine cows or less.

Pointing to the future, the publication says that the next generation may see the successful development of the mechanical cotton picker and its widespread adoption in some cotton areas. The effects of such development on farm workers and on the pattern of southrn agriculture during the next 30 years may be enormous.

The study concludes that further farm mechanization in the United States will mean that fewer people will be needed for farm work. But of equal importance is the possibility that mechanization will reduce the need for overworking during rush seasons and for the employment of women and children in the fields.

L.A. Birth Rate Falls

Los Angeles' births are declining after a postwar increase that broke records of all time here, Dr. George M. Uhl, city health officer, said last week.

January's birth total of 3406 was 438 below that of the same month last year, while December's mark of 2554 is 640 below that of December 1946, Dr. Uhl said.

But in spite of the drop towards the end of the year, 1947's total of 39,106 live births was the largest in the city's history, Dr. Uhl said.

The birth increase trend became marked in May, 1946—nine months after VJ Day—and reached the highest figure in January, 1947, with 3944, Dr. Uhl said.

Workers of Calif. Water Service Strike

The California CIO Council has pledged its support to the CIO Utility Workers Union in their wage dispute with California Water Service Company and San Jose Water Works. The two water companies serve 30 California communities from Chico to East Los Angeles.

Six CIO locals in the two companies have already taken strike vote in a dispute over wages. The CIO water union is demanding a wage increase of 38 cents per hour which it contends is necessary to bring wages in the two water companies up to wages paid for comparable work in other companies serving the same areas. Best company offer was 8.4 cents per hour.

'The Trees of Galilee' Starring M. Douglas Over KFI Sunday

Southern California communities this week prepared to welcome one of the nation's outstanding religious radio programs, with the announcement that the Eternal Light will originate from NBC in Hollywood for a special series of seven broadcasts.

Heard over KFI at 9 a.m., the first presentation, on Sunday, March 14, will be "The Trees of Galilee," starring Melvyn Douglas. Plans are now underway, according to program supervisor Barbara Gair, to line up other top screen stars for scripts to follow.

During its three and one half year coast-to-coast broadcast from New York, the Eternal Light has won seven awards for excellence as a family dramatic program and for its contribution to interfaith understanding. Among the award donors is the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

An NBC public service program, presented under the auspices of the Jewish Theological seminary of America, the series has received thousands of letters each week from listeners of all faiths.

Cancer Drive To Be Launched April 1

NEW YORK—The American Cancer Society's 1948 national goal has been set at $16,042,000. Announcement of the figure was made this week by Elmer H. Bobst, National Campaign Chairman. Cancer knows no race, color or creed. All racial groups throughout the nation will participate in this nation-wide fund drive to curb cancer. The drive will be launched Aprilu 1st.

"This figure, $16,042,000" said Mr. Bobst, "was not arrived at by accident. It reflects much careful study and calculation on the part of the American Cancer Society and, in truth, is a minimum figure which, we are confident, is a conservative potential of what the American people will give in this fight to stamp out cancer.

Red Cross Campaign Begins; Select Queen

Local workers for the 1948 Red Cross fund campaign this week were given the signal to begin active solicitation in their participation in Los Angeles Chapter's quest for $2,409,000.

Urging all campaign volunteers to complete their assignments "as quickly as possible," Edwin L. Harbach, general chairman, reminded house-to-house canvassers in the Geographic Division of their eligibility to compete for tickets to the "Queen-for-a-Day" broadcast scheduled for March 25. The contest closes March 20.

"The entire audience of the program will be made up of Red Cross campaign volunteers, one of which will be selected as the 'Queen'."

Arrangements have just been completed for the winner of the "Queen-for-a-Day" crown to receive a free trip to Mexico City.

Enters Real Estate Field After Years With Church

Mrs. Vassie D. Wright, the former clerk and financial secretary of the Second Baptist church, left her position recently to enter the real estate business.

She had given 20 years of faithful service to Second Baptist, and many were the expressions of regret at her leaving. A surprise party was given her by her many friends, where she received many useful gifts. The Church Bulletin said: "Best wishes to you, Mrs. Vassie D. Wright, 20 years financial secretary. May you succeed in whatever you attempt as you leave the employ of a grateful church." A love offering was given her as a token of appreciation by the members of Second Baptist.

Mrs. Wright served as secretary under the late Dr. Thomas L. Griffith for a number of years, and under the present minister, Dr. J. Raymond Henderson, for almost seven years. During this time she instituted and improved a good system of bookkeeping and compilation of records.

Mrs. Wright originated and staged annually the "All States Tea" which has netted for the church approximately $13,000. This entertainment also helped the members in a social way to become better acquainted and to meet new friends throughout the city. Dr. Henderson and the officers of the church have made plans to make a chapel out of one of the larger rooms in the church to be known as "All States Chapel," from some of the money raised from the tea.

Mrs. Vassie D. Wright

The Booster Club of the church was organized and named by Mrs. Wright. She served as its president for seven years, during which time many outstanding things were accomplished. The first public address system was installed through her efforts. She also served in many other positions in the church: Sunday school and B.T.U. teacher, former treasurer of the W.W.G., and a member of the Missionary Society.

Mrs. Vassie D. Wright is well known in the community. She is active in a large number of civic and worthwhile organizations. She is now ready to serve her many friends in the real estate business. Call RE. 6442.

Etiquette Says —

No matter how large or formal a dance may be, it is never called a "ball" in the invitation. The latter is used only in case of a large public dance or function. When giving a dance for the debutante at home, the "at home" form of invitation is used, and in the lower left-hand corner the word dancing is printed.

negotiating with the companies," Helstein asserted, "although it is apparent from our previous meetings that they are unwilling to give any realistic consideration to the serious economic needs of the packinghouse workers."

The union is negotiating for a 29 cents an hour increase based on the Bureau of Labor Statistics family budget which allows for a rate of $1.39 an hour for a family of three—one child.

"We found that almost all of the workers have cashed in their wartime savings and, at present, a large proportion are going into debt in order to meet current needs. Nearly every packinghouse worker's family is being deprived of basic necessities. A decent and healthful life is impossible for these families.

"Since 1939 the big companies have increased their profits well over 300 percent while their stockholders enjoyed a 24 percent return on their investment (net worth) before tax deductions. Even after taxes were deducted, the return on investment is nearly 14 percent.

"Last year the big four packers earned for than $144,000,000 in net profits, before tax deductions. This is a sordid contrast to the living conditions forced upon their employes by inadequate wage rates."

or two nominations to the State Legislature. Your resolution to elect a Negro Congressman from the Fourth Congressional district is the challenge long waited for by the Negro people and all democratic forces, and will, I am confident, be received with acclaim and support.

"Today my people are still denied the right to vote, live in virtual slavery in the South, are victims of lynch law, police terror and are denied jobs and education.

"What has the present leadership of both democratic and republican parties done to correct this situation? The fate of the anti-lynch law in the Hoppers of Congress since 1921, of the FEPC promised by both parties in 1944; and of the anti-poll tax law, is the answer. Words—but no action.

"Today, for the first time since the death of the late President Roosevelt, the American people have been offred in the Wallace for President movement and the emerging third party an opportunity to arganie successfully and defeat this disasterous policy."

lawyer, was based on the invalidity of the covenant because of failure of all property owners to sign. Judge Mosk in his decision indicated he would have granted judgment to the Chinese couple even if all had signed.

Judge Mosk has consistently ruled that restrictive covenants violate the 14th amendment of the federal constitution and are unenforcable. A series of five such cases, in which he sustained demurrers without leave to amend, stirred considerable interest last autumn.

Whether Judge Mosk's views will be sustained is a question now pending before the United States supreme court.

upon the Un-American Committee to subpoena the real enemies of the people, demanded the passage of an anti-lynch law, end of the poll tax, elimination of Jim Crow in the Army, and urged support of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill.

Opening session of the parley, which began Friday at the Henderson Community Center of Second Baptist church, started with a session on labor and employment. Rev. D. D. Mattocks, president of the Sacramento NAACP branch chaired the morning session. Principal speakers included William M. Jones, industrial relations secretary of the L. A. Urban League and Welford Wilson, supervisor of apprenticeship standards, State Dept. of Industrial Relations.

At the Friday evening session, Attorneys Thomas Griffith, president of the Los Angeles NAACP and Loren Miller, prominent board member, discussed the urgent need for continued struggle for civil rights and legal redress.

On Saturday the confab concentrated on the specialized problems of youth and veterans.

Thurgood Marshall and Gloster Current, in their addresses Sunday, urged the Negro people to work towards the elimination of discriminatory practices in government and industry; greater participation of Negroes in the trade union movement; abolition of segregated locals and auxiliaries; and passage of state and federal FEPC legislation.

The delegation urged the attorney general to "bring to justice the lynchers of the Negro people, instead of arresting their leaders and the leaders of American labor."

Reporting that the Congress is mapping out plans to stage a mass rally Sunday, March 21, Forrester called on all citizens of Los Angeles to immediately send letters and wires to President Truman and Governor Thompson demanding release of Mrs. Ingram and her sons.

He added that Friday night picket demonstrations protesting refusal of management at the Third and Colorado streets store to hire Negro clerks and salespeople have been growing. Approximately 200 persons participated in the picket line last Friday.

Location of United Medical Foundation

The United Medical Foundation has been a great boon for those families, who because of low incomes have had to forego needed medical, surgical, or hospital attention. For a small sum, an entire family can become members entitling them to various free medical services and very attractive low rates on surgical and hospital services.

The main office of the United Medical Foundation is located in the Golden State Hospital Building at 423 Towne Avenue. The Golden State Hospital and its Clinic have gareed to take care of all of the United Medical Foundation's members at United Medical Foundation rates, which is less than half what the charge is to non-members.

The Golden State Hospital is a two-story building which extends all the way from Crocker Street to Towne Avenue and is half a block wide. It was first established way back before 1900. In 1928 it built a brand new two-story building which now houses eighty (80) hospital beds and a modern up-to-date major surgery. The former hospital area is now used for offices and for the clinic, which includes: Two minor surgery rooms, x-ray, laboratory, physio-therapy, and pharmacy departments.

There is absolutely no discrimination in the hospital or in the clinic. Anyone, regardless of his race, color, or creed, is welcome to avail himself of the many fine services provided. This fine spirit of tolerance is shown also in the employment policies of the Golden State Hospital where representatives of every group may be found working together in complete harmony.

The United Medical Foundation is curently giving away ABSOLUTELY FREE FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS ($500.00) in cash prizes to the holder of the winning tickets. This is being done to introduce this fine plan to a greater number of the public and to acquaint them with the Foundation's organization and facilities. You only need to come down to the main office and ask for your ticket, which you will receive at no cost to yourselves. The United Medical Foundation from time to time makes available to its members surgical services of unusualy low rates. For example, members can now have their tonsils out for only Thirty-five Dollars ($35.00).

Many letters of thanks have been received by the United Medical Foundation from its members fo rmaking available to them medical, surgical, and hospital benefits at prices which they could afford; and thanks to the United Medical Foundation, they enjoy good health at very low cost.

Rev. J. W. Baily Has Devoted Many Years To Baptist Evangelism

REV. J. W. BAILEY

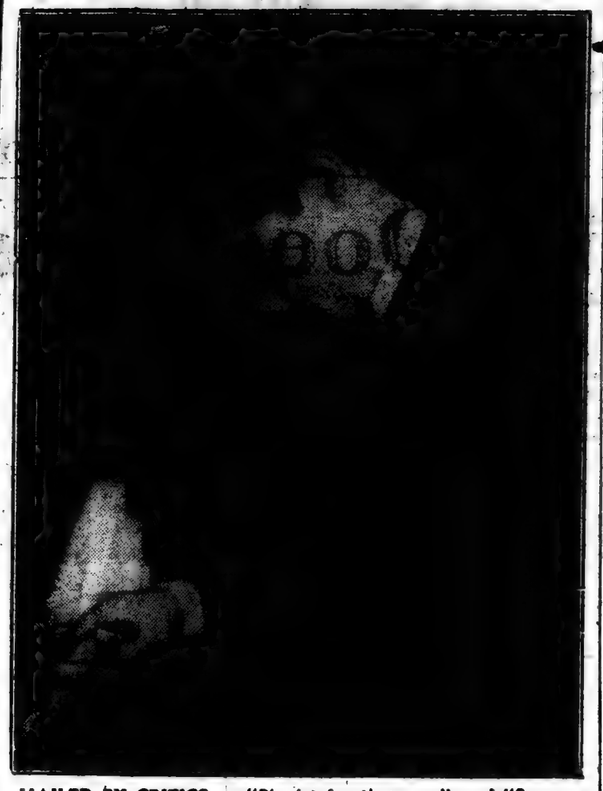
Rev. J. W. Bailey, D.D., L.L.D. is a man of God and superintendent of evangelism in the California State Baptist convention. It is good to wait on the Lord. Rev. Bailey was promised this high position in the convention five years before it materialized. After five years of earnest prayer and fasting, the Baptist convention voted him unanimously.

Many obstacles were thrown in his path during his five years wait. But God was in the plan. When God is in the plan all the devils in Hell can't keep you from winning out. A crown of great blessings followed his election. Within six months 300 souls were won to Christ. The state board gave him the state position but God gave him the blessings.

There is no way to defeat God nor those who put their trust in him all the way. The way to great success is the old time knee way. That was the way of Jesus and the way of our old mothers and fathers.

The state convention convened in Vallejo last July. When Dr. Bailey submitted his six month report of 300 souls won to Christ he was elected for the present year without a dissenting vote. Many more souls have been saved since the convention. We are praying that many more souls will be won to Christ this year.

Dr. L. B. Moss of Riverside was elected president and the outlook is very gright for the greatest year in the history of California State Baptist convention.



Dr. J. W. Bailey is also founder of the Evangelistic board of this great convention of over 4,000,000 Christians and its superintendent for a number of years. He was a member of the board of the Southern Baptist convention. During his long ministry 50,000 have been won to Christ.

Without a doubt he is one of the greatest evangelists living today of our race and denomination. He is open to any engagements on the coast or enywhere else in the country. Give him a hearing; you and your church will be blessed. Rev. J. W. Bailey, D.D., L.L.D.

If you lose your Social Security Card, get a duplicate — not a new one — or your wages will be reported on two different account numbers and it will be difficult to add them together to give you a proper wage record.

HAILED BY CRITICS as "Pianist for the ages" and "Superman of the keyboard," William Kapell, young American pianist, will be the soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra under the baton of Alfred Wallenstein on Thursday evening, March 11, and Friday afternoon, March 12 at the Philharmonic auditorium.

Tin Pans

Chromium and tin are two metals which housewives shold remember never to scour, says home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Chromium is soft metal and wears off easily if rubbed with metal polish of any cleaning powder. It keeps its shine with no more strenuous cleansing than washing in soapy water and rinsing.

Tin pans should be allowed to become dull. They canot be kept shining without damage. Scouring will soon rub through the thin coating of tin and leave the metal underneath open to rust. There is no advantage in shining baking tins because they absorb heat better when they are dull.

Undersea Film Task Told

The income from certificates goes into the city's treasury but the benefits of vital statistics records to Los Angeles far outweigh the few dollars received for their copies, Dr. Uhl declared.

'Northside 777' Truest Story Ever Filmed

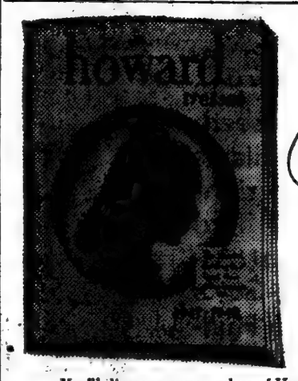
Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox production chief, believes that "Call Northside 777" starring Jimmy Stewart, has followed real life so closely it can rightfully make claim to being the truest story ever filmed.

Every effort has been made by Director Henry Hathaway to shoot the life story of Joe Majczek exactly as it happened.

The picture was filmed in Chicago and in the Illinois State Prison at Stateville, near Joliet, in the same cells which Joe Majczek occupied. Richard Conte wears Joe's old prison uniform with the same number, 8356 E.

The spot where the murder leading to the arrest of Joe Majczek took place was filmed in Chicago and the court rooms and jails figuring in the story also were filmed on the spot. In some of the scenes actual prisoners at the Illinois Prison take part in the picture.

Ella Fitzgerald Headlines Mixed Bill in Chicago



CHICAGO—When the State Lakes theatre here inaugurates its new democratic all star policy this Friday a Negro "name" will headline the bill. The honor goes to Ella Fitzgerald, America's first lady of song. The new policy will accent jazz and famed jazz instrumentalists.

La Fitzgerald was selected to headline the first bill because it was felt that a sure name was needed to meet the resistance and competition that such a democratic policy was bound to encounter.

How we write the "BEST-READ BOOK IN TOWN"

2. High-speed binders and trimmers like this are kept busy turning out finished directories. We issue 99 different telephone books on the Coast—a total printing of more than 6,000,000 copies a year. And in addition to the daily lists, completely new directories are printed frequently for information operators.

1. Check...check and check again—that's how we guard the accuracy of your telephone book. It's a job for specialists, like those above, skilled in working with masses of names and numbers. Others give new numbers to information operators the morning following installation of a telephone.

3. It's always handy—there when you need it. Providing this service is an immense job. For example, the paper we used last year would fill three mile long freight trains. Yet publishing directories is just one of many things we do to furnish the best possible service to the West.

Millions of new working dollars...needed to extend and improve service...must come, not from telephone bills, but from thousands of people who put their savings to work in the telephone business. To attract these working dollars, we must pay a reasonable amount for their use. This depends on the sale of our services at fair and adequate prices.

Dan Ferniel Heads New 332nd Vets Association

As the late winter club season comes to a close, it becomes more evident daily that many of the newly organized groups are intent upon doing civic work, and especially on extending to their membership that information which is pertinent to public affairs. Of the many groups organized, the California EAGLE this week points proudly to 332nd Veterans Association, who made their first public appearance as a club by spreading cheer in the wards of Sawtelle Hospital on the afternoon of Sunday, March 7.

Definitely philanthropic minded, the 332nd Veterans, under the leadership of president and organizer, Dan Ferniel decided to make the Sawtelle visit a monthly project. Working through the Wadsworth Veterans Facility, the Recreation Department of Sawtelle headed by Mr. Cleland, the members of the vets organization have been given all the information on how best to aid the recuperating service men in the various wards of Sawtelle. Hundreds of packages of cigarettes were given away on last Sunday by the Veterans organization. Next month the membership will return to Sawtelle with a different gift.

Officers of the 332nd Veterans Association include, Dan Ferniel, president; Clifford Wilson, vice-president; Joseph Johnson, corresponding secretary; Arthur Mabry, recording secretary; Bert Kenner, treasurer and Ishmel Evans, financial secretary.

While drawing the name from the famed 332nd Fighter Group of the last war, the membership of the association has not been limited to only ex-members of the 332nd, but is made up of a group of ex-vets from the various divisions of the army.. The backgrounds of the various members make the 332nd Veterans Association one of the most cosmopolitan organizations in the community.

With the success of their first visit to Sawtelle behind them, the 332nd vets are certain 1948 promises for them a very interesting future as one of the leading clubs of Los Angeles. Athlete Don Barksdale and Jessie Mae Brown, Society Editor of the California EAGLE, were the honored guests of the 332nd Vets club during their Sawtelle visit on Sunday.

NEW MEMBERS and officers are the feature of the above picture taken at the Sunday meeting of the Phi-Delphian club. B. and P. Girls Make History For Local Branch of Y.W.C.A.

High on the list of important post-Lenten events is the "Fabulous Fashion Fad" which the Business and Professional Women's League of Woodlawn Branch, YWCA is giving Sunday morning, April 4, in the Y's picturesque patio, 4260 Woodlawn Avenue, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

This brilliant affair will mark the 15th annual coffee and style show presented by the Business and Professional Women's League of the Woodlawn Branch Y.W.C.A. The show is noted for revealing the advanced highlights of the current fashion world, and this year the chosen theme, "Fabulous Fashion Fad" will be greatly stressed.

Mrs. Eugene C. Moore, general chairman, is in charge of the affair and Mrs. J. R. Henderson guest chairman according to Mrs. Marie Smith, president of the league. Committee heads working with Mrs. Moore include Mrs. Blanche P. Groggs, Chairman of Program; Mrs. Master McNeil, Chairman of Decorations; Mrs. Charlene Weston-Thomas, Chairman of Hostesses; Miss Katherine Patton, Chairman of Patio Arrangements; Mrs. Sally Hayes, Chairman of Waitresses; Mrs. E. P. Lacy, Chairman of Foods; Mrs. Flossie Williams, Chairman of Finance and Rena Marlowe, Director of Publicity.

Originally the fashion and coffee show was called "A Waffle Breakfast" then the war came and rationing presented itself and naturally the menu was changed. The fashionable "coffee" was adopted and has been with them since.

Recalling of a breakfast which was staged early in the 30's at the old Y.W.C.A. on Twelfth Street, palm trees, gay color table cloths, along with the long hem lines were the fad then, which was the talk for many years later. The B & P keeps in close co-ordination with problems voiced by nationl, central and brancs Y.W.C.A. They participate and supply delegates to summer conferences, city-wide meetings, mid-winter, and also national conferences.

Through the years, the League has handled independently projects in the form of lectures and panels presenting well-informed people in the fields of Social Welfare, Medicine, Religion, History and Education.

At one time they held classes of shorthand for members who were in the secretarial fields. Vesper services are held annually at some leading church with all the members in attendance.

From the year of 1933 to the present, the organization has had ten presidents. Succeeding Mrs. Theodosia Washington who was the first president have been Mrs. Anna Kennard Hunt, Mildred Scott-Johnson, Joan Johnson-Willis, Evelyn Carr-Lewis, Myrtle Patterson-Hughes, Adelia Smith-Andrews, Blanche Groggs, Ruby McNeal and the present president, Mrs. Marie W. Smith.

This year the "Fabulous Fashion Fad" hopes to prove both a financial and entertaining success. Tickets may be secured from any club member. You may call the YWCA for further information.

Frances Williams Heads Spring Follies Camp

All efforts in the area of work with younger girls at the Woodlawn Branch Y.W.C.A. from now until June will be bent toward the task of fund raising for camping for girls of junior and senior high school age. Mrs. Betty Hill is camp chairman. Already civic-minded individuals have made noteworthy contributions to the camp fund, others are invited to do so.

Inter-Club Council of senior high clubs has decided to have the spring follies again this season. The vote has been set for Saturday night, June 5. The follies will be staged in the beautiful auditorium of the Thomas Jefferson senior high school, of which Dr. Paul Fisher is principal.

The theme is "Board the Freedom Train." Musical scores, dances and dialogue will be related to the concept of freedom in a democratic society. The entire production will be under the direction of Frances Williams, eminent in theatrical and screen circles as an actress. Miss Williams is well knwon for her work in social and civil affairs in the east, as well as here on the coast. Her interest in younger people has been sustained throughout her career.

Miss Williams' social philosophy has been consistently with the kind of things in which she participates. Her outlook is progressive and she is always concerned with the social, political and economic factors that help shape our lives. Therefore, it is quite logical that she enters into this project with great enthusiasm and determination to make the follies not only a good theatre but also a creative learning adventure for the girls who will participate.

Assisting Miss Williams is Ernest Anderson, who will serve as her assistant, and Mrs. Sereta Camorgo, who will work out the choriography and dances.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

LUMINARIES OF THE SOCIAL and collegiate set about town have turned their thoughts toward the heralding of spring, and of course the opening of the inter-frat basketball series that has grown over the years into, shall I say, a social institution. In the beginning, the games were played at Patriotic Hall, and a dance followed. The scene of the plays changed a year or two ago to Loyola gym, with the addition of an inter-fraternal council, and a mammoth award dance following the series. This year, not only will there be the gay aftermath, but also a few preliminary flings to give the various teams the proper "go ahead" spirit. With Don Barksdale still in the Angel City from the Bay area, the Alpha Phi Alpha gen s will play party hosts on Saturday night, honoring the members of the team. The hilltop abode, 2215 S. Harvard blvd. ,will be the scene of the affair and those attending will be members of the three local chapters and their company. By the way, Joe Oliver of the Alphas is chairing the inter-frat council this season.

As another prelude to the coming inter-frat series, Delta Sigma Theta sorority is presenting the teams of Kappa Alpha Psi, Omega Psi Phi, Phi Beta Sigma and Alpha Phi Alpha to the Greek letter world at a reception Sunday, March 14, at 2103 S. Harvard blvd., between the hours of 3 to 7. All the members of Greekdom are expected to be on hand to give the four teams th eproper adieu before the season opens. Understand a receiving line, which will include presidents of the frats, the Pan-Hellenic Council and Pi, Upsilon and Nu Sigma chapters of Delta Sigma Theta sorority will greet the guests. Bet when the series finally gets around to opening, the order of the day will be to take your lunch early that afternoon, in order to get a seat in the gym that is just as small this year as it was last.

WILFANDEL FUND

The Wilfandel popularity contest is gaining momentum as the weeks roll by, and from where this writer sits, it's very hard to tell just which charming deb will come out the winner. Dolores Bell will be in the limelight of activities on Saturday night, with her Phi-Delphian club members bringing in the denero from a money-raising dancing party that is expected to be quite an affair. Last we heard of the Phi-Delphians was during the holidays when they gave that annual Xmas cocktail party. Quite a crowd, remember? Well, the girls are expecting the same crowd on Saturday night at the same address, 1919 S. Harvard, for the cause this time, is definitely worthwhile. For those of you who haven't been reading the EAGLE facts on the Wilfandel contest, let this serve as a refresher. All proceeds from the contest will go toward building a much-needed community clubhouse. The hours are from 10 until 2 in the early bright. By the way, Beverly Clark, Bessy Wilson and Pauline Jones were taken in as new Phi-Delphian members at Sunday's meeting. Marilyn Hudson is prexy, succeeding her pal, Puffy Hill, in office.

Kitty Beard put the cups and saucers out for the Turnabouts on Friday night, and while the girls chatted and sipped they made plans for an Easter egg hunt for underprivileged children from the Pilgrim House Area. Melonee Blocker and Lou Boswell are working on the plans for Saturday preceding Easter. Jane Hampton arranged for Sojourner Truth Home to be the locale of the hunt, while Ruth Kenner, Joyce and Jerry Stewart, Barbara Faulkner, Josephine Birch, Lula Green, Hariette Johnson, Evelyn Abney and the rest of the Turnabouts will take to dyeing the little treasures. Faustina Johnson will be guest speaker at the Turnabouts' next regular meeting.

Henderson Community Center always makes good reading along the social welfare line. Attended the Monday night board meeting and learned the pertinent facts on the coming annual Anniversary Dinner, at which Mrs. Sumner Spaulding will be guest speaker. The beautiful pingpong table donated to the center by the Doll League Charity club was also reported. One of the new board members is Clarissa Matthews.

INTERESTING PEOPLE

In town for the conference of the NAACP was Gloster Current, national director of branches. On Monday afternoon he enjoyed the superb hospitality of Frances Williams at luncheon. The whole offair was Californian, from the pottery service to the tasty menu.

Mildred Blount, the Southland's noted milliner, heads East this Sunday for Philly where her pre-Easter style show, "Headed for Spring," will be previewed at the fashionable Fleiser auditorium. Dr. Veda Somerville, Phyllis Scott and several others. Newsreels will feature the style show in first-run theatres some time after Easter. Mildred will be away from L. A. for three weeks. Here's wishing her loads of luck. We know the review of Blount originals will be nothing less than a huge success.

The Iota Phi Lambda soror heads the successful Lark's Employment Agency in N. Y., and is a diligent worker in the NAACP and other civic organizations. So pleased is she with our Angel City after four visits, she contemplates buying here, and permanently dividing her time between L. A. and N. Y. Among her many social activities she was one of the honored guests at the closed Iota Phi Lambda banquet honoring the new initiates on last Saturday evening.

Received another missive from Freda DeKnight this week. She more than likely will remain in New York or thereabouts for the summer. Her new book will be out on May 15. The little lady has been giving the masterpiece on foods her undivided attention. Should be a "must" 'on every homemaker's list.

KINLOCH'S KORNER

Dedicated to the memory of John Kinloch, who died in the struggle to destroy Fascism

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

Several persons have disagreed with my views on preparing for war in our efforts for peace, through universal military training. Because I strenuously oppose the plan, they ask what plans should be carried out in preparation for national defense. Since the Communists have taken over Czechoslovakia, many people think war is just around the corner.

In basing all my hopes on the UN, I feel that an international army and navy, a police force, comprised of the combined military strength of all nations, is necessary to maintain peace and complete security.

Universal military training will only lead the American politicians and those "behind" the UN representatives to pull out of that organization in the same manner as we did the old League of Nations. The only sensible thing to do is to dissolve the veto power and establish an international police force to protect us against some of the "evils" in the world.

We can see, through the agreement between America and Russia on the partition of Palestine, that the two nations can get together. And peace is only going to come when we have worked and built it. Therefore, we must work that much harder, forgetting personal gains and old grudges, and try to secure peace instead of preparing youths to kill and destroy.

TOPIC OF THE WEEK

It looks like 414 electoral votes will elect the president in the coming election, the 127 votes of the south going "haywire."

It isn't quite possible, in my estimation, to predict what's going to happen in November. However, if the Southern Democrats listened to Drew Pearson's Sunday night radio broadcast, they might feel a little better. They might support President Truman. For Mr. Pearso npredicted that the Republicans would kill most of the proposals in the plan for civil rights. he only thing they would be likely to pass is the section on anti-poll tax, and many of the Southern states have eliminated the poll tax already. Looks like more of the results of the wedding between the donkey and the elephant are coming our way.

I am wondering, and so are many other people, whether the South is actually a real part of our democracy—whether the KKK doesn't run things in most of the cities and towns. Do they believe in the basic freedoms—speech, press, assembly, petition—for all peoples? And, realizing the stand that the Southern Democrats are taking against human rights, could it be said that they are not disgracing Thomas Jefferson? His great party? Can they stand up and give the pledge to the flag, saying "... with liberty and justice for all" without choking to death?

The South, and other parts of the nation, has to "swallow the bitter pill" and get this race issue settled once and for all. The minorities are going to accept nothing less than complete rights and equality; a permanent FEPC; anti-poll tax law, anti-lynch law—not that murder hasn't been a federal offense all along. And these are simply the rights for which Americans have been fighting since the beginning of the nation.

Just why President Truman started an uproar about civil rights at this particular time is a little mysterious. He has already served three full years in office, and no one had heard about any plan for the protection of minority groups. It has proven very costly to the President. For voters are curious people. They're beginning to think it was done just to contract more votes, and to get on the good side of the people. Surely the President wouldn't have the people thinking such things.

This is going to be the trying year for voters. They must decide who is to take over and salvage the country from the evils that we are facing—to carry on. I hope the next President, and the next vice-president, too, won't be chosen by promises, but by the ability to accomplish something. In other words, not on effort, but on accomplishment. It's impossible from day to day to tell who's even going to be in the race. At the last count, we had: Wallace, Dewey, Stassen, Vandenburg, Truman, Taft, MacArthur, Eisenhower, Warren. Who'll be next? It certainly looks like a free-for-all.

Wallace served quite successfully during the Roosevelt administration as vice-president, and was appointed head of the agriculture department. Mr. Truman moved in, Wallace disagreed with Secretary of State Byrnes on the foreign policy. Pretty soon they were both out. Politics are like that, you know.

This issue on civil rights is only to be settled for the advantages of the minorities under the plan of Henry A. Wallace. A person who has proved himself, as Wallace, should be given a chance. I don't think President Truman's plan will work. It's hard to think of it being carried out successfully. And the President is gaining the reputation of giving nations great deals, and giving the people great promises.

Footnote—Student: Say Prof, since we've been unsuccessful in our government for the past years, I'm willing to give lessiez-faire a chance.

Professor: Then vote for Taft.

THE REALM OF RELIGION

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: The worth of Christian character, lesson text and outline, Eph. 5: 6-21. Motto text. Phil. 3:14. Introduction.

Of infinite and eternal worth is high Christian character, secured at inconceivable cost and maintained by constant care. From Christ must come the light and life; he is its source and support; and under him its vigilance will ensue in victory.

Comments

1. Let none flatter you, as though such things were tolerable and to be allowed of in a Christian, or as though they were not very provoking and offensive unto God, or as though you might indulge yourselves in them and yet escape with impunity. Those who flatter themselves and others with hopes of impunity in sin do but put a cheat upon themselves and others. We partake with other men in their sins, not only when we live in the same sinful manner that they do, and consent and comply with their temptations and solicitations to sin, but when we encourage them in their sins, prompt them to sin, and do not prevent and hinder them, as far as it may be in our power to do so.

If we would not be entangled by the lusts of the flesh, we must bring forth the fruits of the Spirit. This is expected from the children of light, that, being illuminated, they be also sanctified by the Spirit, and thereupon bring forth his fruit, which is all goodness, an inclination to do good and to show mercy, and righteousnes, which signifies justice in our dealings.

2. We are to walk circumspectly, or, as the word signifies, accurately, exactly in the right way, in order to which we must be frequently consulting our rule, and the directions we have in the sacred oracles. Not as fools, who walk at all adventures, and who have no understanding of their duty, nor of the worth of their souls, and through neglect, supiness, and want of care, fall into sin, and destroy themselves; but as wise, as persons taught of God and endued with wisdom from above.

Comment on the Motto Text

We must press towards the mark. He who runs a race never takes up short of the end, but is still making forwards as fast as he can, so those who have heaven in their eye must still be pressing forward to it in holy desires and hopes, and constant endeavors and preparations. The fitter we grow for heaven the faster we must press towards it. Heaven is called here the mark, because it is that which every good Christian has in his eye; as the archer has his eye fixed upon the mark he designs to hit. A Christian's calling is a high calling: it is from heaven, as its original; and it is to heaven in its tendency. Heaven is the prize of the high calling; the prize we fight for, and run for, and wrestle for, what we aim in all we do, and what will reward all our pains. Eternal life is the gift of God, but it is in Christ Jesus; through his hand it must come to us, as it is procured for us by him. There is no getting to heaven as our home but by Christ as our way.

GUEST SPEAKER—Rev. B. Clarence Cooke, field scout executive for the L.A. Council of Boy Scouts of America, will be the guest speaker for the morning and evening services at St. Paul Baptist church, 21st and Naomi. He will also speak on the "Echoes of Eden" program Sunday night.

Pastor Takes Stand on Church and Politics—Approved by Membership

To the officers and members only of Second Baptist church, assembled for worship on Sunday morning, March 7, 1948, I wish to make the following straightforward statement to you and through you to the general public concerning my stand on the church and politics. This is the year of a presidential election. The issues are many and from now until November the political pot will be boiling.

I have heretofore stated my stand on this matter and the church has approved the same. I now wish to restate my position and request the church vote its approval of the same. If it is approved, we shall release it to the local press that all may know the position we have taken.

I believe that the Christian minister should vote, should urge his congregation to register and vote, but should leave the candidates to the professional politician. I believe that it is injurious to a minister's influence to become actively involved in politics. I have seen in my own lifetime the usefulness of many a minister hampered by reason of politics. I have never received one dollar from a political party nor would I accept any money to support anybody nor anything, although I have been offered it. I am firmly of the conviction that a minister's place is in the pulpit to preach, in the community to live a respectable life and to give encouragement to all worthwhile community enterprises.

Second Baptist church, having a large auditorium, is the gathering point of many mass meetings and movements. I believe we should still so serve the community. There is a growing tendency, however, on the part of certain groups and individuals to take these mass meetings, which innocently parade under other titles, and turn them to political purposes. Apparently some of those who attend these meetings do not know that a church is a holy place and should be reverenced as such. We have had much trouble with smoking in our church and some speakers seem to think it smart to use curse words or almost swear over our pulpit. I am unalterably opposed to this sort of thing and must let any and all who are guilty of such to know my position.

I believe that we should make our position clear. We believe in registering, in voting, and the rights of labor. We hail the work of the AFL and the CIO. We have used our church in the boilermakers fight and given money repeatedly. We are one with the fight to pass the FEPC and other items in the civil rights bill, but I am convinced that we should, as a church, not endorse any candidate for anything, that we should not sponsor nor lend our church to any group to sponsor meetings to promote a Democrat, Republican nor the head of the third party. I believe we should deny further use of our auditorium for such purposes.

I believe that we should give publicity to our stand and frankly say to such groups, "Please do not further request us to use the church of the living God to foster partisan politics." Since politicians seem to have quite a bit of money, they should go ahead and rent a hall.

If this stand on our part is offensive to any, we do not apologize for it. We are tolerant of their point of view. All we ask is the chance to make our own position clear.

Church Sponsor Improvement Committee

The Western Avenue Christian church made its formal debut to the public in an informal tea Sunday afternoon, February 29. The affair was sponsored by the church improvement committee, under the capable leadership of Mrs. Nellie Sharp.

Some 300 guests, including members and friends of the church, enjoyed a highly entertaining afternoon at the beautifully decorated edifice, which stands on the corner of W. 30th st. and Western ave. Delicious refreshments were served to all. The program, showing a wide display of talent, presented such vocalists as Miss Delores Bolden, Mrs. Leslie Eatman, and Mrs. Barbara Steele. Piano soloists were Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, Miss Earlene Stafford and Miss Cecelia Jones. Miss Ruth Jacobs gave a very beautiful rendition on the violin, and Mr. Lawrence Hall played the saxophone.

Greetings were extended by Rev. Baxter C. Duke of the Avalon Christian church, and Rev. M. F. Mitchell, of the Cosmopolitan Christian church.

Mrs. Grace Means, mistress of ceremonies, is to be commended for her superb presentation of the program. Those responsible for the success of the affair were Mrs. Susie Williams, publicity chairman; Mrs. Olia Vena, chairman of refreshments and decorations; Miss Smith, program chairman; and Mrs. Mary Graves, registration committee chairman.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ivory Jackson, Mrs. Anita Clark, Mrs. Marion Williams, Mrs. Rachel Watkins and Mrs. Fletcher Harris. Each did her part in making every guest welcome and comfortable.

Rev. Clifford Spears, and his charming wife, Mrs. Johnnie Mae Spears, who organized the Western Avenue Christian church on January 4, 1948, have gained the love and confidence of all who have had the privilege of meeting them. They take this opportunity to invite one and all to come and worship with them, and to make their church your church home.

McCoy's Radio Hour Called Best

The first radio presentation of the McCoy Memorial Baptist church was acclaimed by its city wide radio audience and popular critics of the city as being one of the best religious worships on the air. Numerous telegrams, telephone messages, and personal congratulations served as an incentive to the pastor, Rev. E. A. Anderson, and the members of the McCoy Memorial Baptist church to keep a program on the air that will continue to offer listening pleasure and touch the hearts of its radio audience.

It is the sincere desire of the pastor and choir to offer to the public, religious education and bring souls to the house of God that might never have been recahed.

Scene of 77th Birthday Celebration for Mrs. Virginia Jacks

Prominent Churchwoman Honored on 77th Birthday

A very attractive and elaborate affair was the birthday dinner given Sunday afternoon, February 29, in the home of Mrs. Virginia Jacks, 1314 W. 36th St. The occasion was the celebration of her 77th birthday. A large number of her relatives and friends came in response to her invitation to rejoice and wish her well.

Mother Jacks, as she is affectionately called by all who know her, is chairman of the Deaconess Board of Trinity Baptist church, and has served in this office for years. She is exceedingly popular with her associates and with the membership of the church as a whole. Most of the members of her board were present to join in the celebration. They found a table beautifully decorated with choice linens and silverware, and having for center pieces, a floral arrangement accompanying the traditional birthday cake with 77 candles. The table was heavily laden with the choicest foods, partaken of freely by all of the guests.

The dinner party served a dual purpose as the occasion also commemorated the birth date of Gus Smith, son-in-la wof Mrs. Jacks, and co-chairman of the Deacon Board of Trinity church. Both the host and hostess were generously remembered with greetings and gifts.

Last Rites for HPA Secretary

Mrs. Ruby McNeal, former joint recording and corresponding secretary of the Home Protective Asociation, died last Saturday night at 11 o'clock at the Outdoor Life and Health Sanitarium, Duarte. Funeral services were held last week at the Ward Chapel AME church 1250 East 25th street, at 1 p.m.

Mrs. McNeal had been a patient at the Oudoor Life and Health Sanitarium for more than two years. But during all that time, and in spite of all her suffering, she maintained an active interest in the life about her. She was especially interested in the Home Protective Association, of which she was its first secretary, and wrote many letters inquiring the progress the HPA was making in fighting restrictive covenants.

The particular case in which Mrs. McNeal and the HPA were interested was that of the Laws family, 1235 East 92nd street. This family had been ordered out of their home because they are Negroes. Refusing to go, they were sent to jail. The HPA took charge, and guided their case through court.

Whenever any member of the HPA visited Mrs. McNeal, one of her first inquiries always was, "What have you heard about the Laws case?"

An uncle, other relatives, every member of the HPA, and a host of friends mourn her passing.

Selles Estate of Mrs. Nellie V. Conner

The administration of the estate of Mrs. Nellie V. Conner, deceased, has now been completed in the Los Angeles Superior Court. Mrs. Conner, who was the widow of Charles D. Conner, deceased, founder of Conner-Johnson Co., Inc., left an estate consisting of stock in that company, household furnishings, objects of art and real property in Oakland.

Mrs. Violet E. Rodgers, sister of Mrs. Conner, served as executrix of the will, and was represented by Attorney Geo. W. Fenimore. By direction of the Superior Court and in accordance with Mrs. Conner's will, Mrs. Rodgers will continue to act as trustee with respect to the stock in Conner-Johnson Co. Inc. Mrs. Rodgers has replaced Mrs. Conner as director and vice-president of the company.

The Griffin heirs still hold their stock in the Conner-Johnson Co. Inc.

Baha'i News

"Road to Certainty" is the subject of the lecture which will be given by Mrs. Lili Maria Olitzki at the Los Angeles headquarters of the Baha'i World Faith, 331 S. New Hampshire ave., on Sunday afternoon, March 14, at 3 o'clock.

It is chiefly because earnest and expectant adherents of existing religion see in the Baha'i faith the natural fulfillment of their own religious purposes that they are attracted to it. Those who believe in prophecy find in the Baha'i religion fulfillment of their own Messianic expectations (which exist unfulfilled not only in Christianity and Judaism but also in Zoroastrianism, Buddhism and Muhummadanism). These who are skeptical of prophecy yet find in the Baha'i religion such enrichment of the spiritual life and such a noble platform dedicated to the unification of humanity and apparently capable of bringing about such a unification, that they welcome it as a reinforcement to their own spiritual or humanitarian ideals.

Christian Science Sunday Text 'Substance'

"Substance" will be the Sunday Lesson-Sermon subject in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The Golden Text is from the Psalms: "For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven. Thy faithfulness is unto all generations."

An account in Luke's Gospel relates that "a man which was taken with a palsy," was brought to Jesus. "And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee. And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, . . . Who can forgive sins, but God alone? But when Jesus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts? Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk?" Then he said to the man, "Arise, and take up thy couch, and go into thine house. And immediately he rose up before them, . . . and departed to his own house, glorifying God."

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy writes, "When we come to have more faith in the truth of being than we have in error, more faith in Spirit than in matter, more faith in living than in dying, more faith in God than in man, then no material suppositions can prevent us from healing the sick and destroying error."

The height of human wisdom is to bring our tempers down to our circumstances and to make a calm within, under the weight of the greatest storm without.

Services for Dr. Downs, Pres. Huston College, Draws Thousands

AUSTIN, Texas—Funeral services for the late Dr. Karl E. Downs, president of Samuel Huston college, drew a crowd of 1000 persons from 12 different states and all races who crowded into Wesley Chapel Methodist church, while hundreds of others unable to get in listened quietly on the outside.

Dr. Downs died suddenly February 26, following an emergency operation at Breckenridge hospital here. He was only 35 years of age, and was the youngest president in the system of colleges operated by the board of education of the Methodist church.

Dr. Downs, a native Texan, was formerly pastor of the Scott Methodist church, Pasadena, and was called from that place in September, 1943, to become president of Huston college, of which he was an alumnus, to save that college whose doors were about to close.

In less than five years he increased the college enrollment from 174 to 650 students, the annual budget from $161,000 to $350,000, and the number of buildings from five to thirteen. Out of appreciation for the work which he has done, the Alumni Association has announced an immediate drive for contributions to a memorial fund which will make possible the erection of a building, in his memory.

In addition to receiving the A.B. from Samuel Huston college in 1933, Dr. Downs received the degree of B.D. from Gammon Theological Seminary in 1936; M.S.T. from Boston University in 1937; and at the time of his death was a candidate for Ph.D. from the University of California. He was given the honorary degree of D.D. from Gammon Seminary in 1945.

He was a member of the American Sociological Society, the National Honorary Philosophical Society, the National Association of College Presidents, the National Board of Directors of the Methodist Federation for Social Action, the NAACP, former National Chairman of the Committee on Education for Citizenship of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity the American Woodmen, and the Austin Negro Chamber of Commerce.

He was the author of many articles in religious and secular magazines.

Rev. Clayton D. Russell flew to Texas to attend the funeral.

Antioch Baptist News

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Rev. R. N. Holt, pastor of the Antioch Baptist church, preached a wonderful sermon last Sunday morning on "God's Visit to Jerusalem." He compared the sheep and the goats to the Christian and the sinner. Sunday school was well attended, although it was raining. At 3 p.m. the women of the church had a program with the Morning Glory Singers and the Antioch Spiritual Five rendering the music. One person was added to the church at both the morning service and at the 3 p.m. program. The collection was $55.11.

At 6:30 p.m. the president of the B.Y.P.U. led an inspiring meeting, and then since it was very rainy and everyone was tired they had "a fiery devotional" and were dismissed.

Brother and Sister Wormley entertained Mr. S. W. McCowan, of Lawton, Okla. He is the brother of Prentiss McCowan, who died Feb. 22. Bro. Wormley, who had been ill, is better.

Others appearing on the program will be Master Kenneth Johnson, student of Gray's oCnservatory of Music; the Ward Chapel Choir under the direction of Mrs. Blanche Woods and Rev. Harry J. White, pastor. Mrs. Cora W. Ross is president of the sponsoring auxiliary.

Given Check for Building Program

Robert Groman, president of the Mount Sinai Men's Club presented a check for $127,525 to Robert Gans, chairman of the drive for funds to complete the expansion building program of the Mont Sinai-Duarte National Medical Center, last week.

The presentation of the check was part of the "Heart of Gold" program held at the Biltmore Bowl. It represents only the cash that had already been collected for the institution by the Men's Club. The total will amount to about $180,000 when all pledges are in, Groman announced.

Vol. 68—No. 49 Los Angeles, California, Thursday, March 11, 1948

ALL-AMERICAN DON BARKSDALE, called by many sports authorities as the greatest collegiate center ever developed on the Pacific Coast, will be romping in the pivot spot for the Alpha Phi Alpha basketball team when the Black and gold shirted warriors of Alphadom go out in hopes of regaining the Inter-Fraternity Basketball championship they won in '46, and lost to the Kappas in '47, when the 1948 "Series" opens March 20th at Loyola High gym.

Mitchell, Simms Spark CC To Twin Wins

Los Angeles City College track and field coach Wendell Smith was this week eyeing the National Junior College track Championship, after his 1948 Cub thinclads, led by long legged hurdle-spring sensation Billy Mitchell and sprint-quarter mile ace Fred Simms, turned back Muir College and Pasadena City College in a triangular meet Friday, and rolled to an impressive victory Tuesday over coach Jess Hill's University of Southern California Freshman Track Squad. Both meets were held on the Cub Oval.

Against the Muir Mustangs and the Pasadena Bulldogs, Billy The Kid turned in the exceptional time of 9.8 for the century and came back to capture the 220 lows in the good March time of 24.8. Mitchell also won both events against the Trobabes, but due to a slight wind, clocked 10 flat for the century and 25.3 for the furlong hurdle event.

Simms took the 220 against the Rose City schools in 23 flat, and turned in the surprise of the Trojan Frosh meet by coming home in front in the 440 in the time of 52.1

Mysterious Death of Ex-Champ Siki Reviewed

CHICAGO — Since the body of Battling Siki was discovered by a policeman in a cold, wet, cobblestone gutter in the tough Hell's Kitchen section of New York some 22 years ago, mystery has shrouded the murder of the Senegalese sensation who whipped George Carpenter in the ring upset of 1922.

"Siki had the strength of Primo Carnera, the crowd-appeal of Maxie Rosenbloom and was as erratic as Max Baer," says Mark Harris in the April Negro Digest. "And after his victor yover light-heavy champ Carpenter, the French treated him like a king. But Siki trained in Parisian night clubs and his diet was mostly gin.

"Siki lost his title in his very next fight," the Negro Digest feature continues, "but this defeat was because of Siki's color and becaus e he was fighting Irish Mike McTigue in Ireland on St. Patrick's Day."

Siki's erraticism and showmanship won a large following for him in America and he was well liked despite his poor showing in this country. He was losing his sadness in prohibition whisky, Harris says, and compiled a shabby record here.

On December 15, 1925, the strapping Senegalese, who one night had $100,000 and the next day wa sbroke, was last seen alive in a westside restaurant in Manhattan where he was refused service because he was drunk. Three o'clock that morning a policeman found his body in a gutter, two bullets lodged in his back.

28 "Y" Enters Annual Tourny

The Youth Division of the 28th Street YMCA has entered five teams in the Annual Southern California "Y" basketball championship tournament to be held at Santa Ana on March 13th and 20th. Over sixty boys from 28th St. will have an opportunity to pit their skill against some of the finest basketball talent in the state during the course of this event.

BAROUDI'S DEATH RULED ACCIDENTAL

CHICAGO—A Coroner's jury investigating the death on February 20 in a Chicago ring of young Sam Baroudi, 20 year old Akron and New York boxer, ruled that his death was accidental and dismissed all charges against his opponent Ezzart Charles.

The Jury however blasted boxing in general in the state of Illinois, and called for "a general clean-up of the ring sport." The jury also urged that Baroudi's manager and trainer be barred from boxing forever. The jury said that Baroudi's manager, Mike Spinelli, and his trainer, Al Warner, had "proved themselves totally unworthy of professional recognition."

Immediate steps to "clean up boxing," and to outlaw the two fight handlers are underway.

SKEEGIE DROPS DOGS, 65-56

LOGAN HALL GYMNASIUM, TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Tuskegee Institute's high-scoring Golden Tigers, 1948 pre-tournament champions of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, rounded out a history-making "grand slam," by sinking the South Carolina State College Bulldogs, 665-56, in the finals of the Fifteenth Annual Basketball Tournament, played here Saturday night, before more than 3,000 screaming fans.

Crescents Ink New Headman

CINCINNATI, Ohio — W. S. Welch, famed manager of Race baseball teams, has signed a contract to pilot the Cincinnati Crescents in the 1948 season. Though several league clubs were hot in pursuit of his services, the dynamic Welch made a choice of the Crescents, whom he led to second place and more than $5,000 in prize money in the Denver national tournament last summer.

"I feel," declared Welch, "that I have a good future with the Crescents. Plans are being made to make this one of the most attractive of Negro nines. We will train in the south and play a series of exhibition games with Paul Hardy's Globetrotter team."

Welch has one of the best records of all Negro pilots, including the winning of two Negro American League championships with the Birmingham Black Barons in 1943 and 1944.

Bivens Dispells Hopes of Turkey

Duration heavyweight champion Jimmy Bivins, 182, of Cleveland, took every round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the Olympic Auditorium Tuesday night before 9500 fans to win a unanimous decision over Turkey Thompson, 222-pound Los Angeles heavyweight hope.

Bivins, displaying the counter-punching, stay-away style of fighting that has led him to victories over the majority of the current heavyweights, all but dispelled any championship title fight hopes that Thompson or his manager, Cal Working, ever had. Jabbin Jim was clearly in front from the starting bell to the closing gong. All three judges scored every round for the Cleveland clouter. Thompson, who looked badly overweight and slow at 222 pounds, didn't even win a single frame.

Bears Begin '48 Diamond Wars

RALEIGH, N. C.—The second year of inter-collegiate baseball at Shaw university after a 16 year layoff will commence March 29th when the Bears meet the North Carolina college Eagles on the Bears' home diamond, it was announced this week by Howard K. "Brutus" Wilson, Director of Athletics and head Baseball Coach at the local institution.

The Bears' 1948 schedule, which calls for six home games and five games away from home, will take the Bears into four states and will be the toughest schedule since the "good old days" of the late 20's and early 30's when the Bears were a major horsehide power.

Caliente Old Mexico: Shipped to Caliente for one of the biggest betting coups in years H. B. Nickel's Dr. Cattail failed his backers in the main event of the day "The Palm Springs" handicap at six furlongs. On his Santa Anita form the Doctor was made odds on favorite and came here to whip the border sprint champion Valdina Streak. At the break it was Valdina Streak that took the lead and set one of the fastest pasees seen here in many days. Although the Doctor came fast in the stretch headed the streak at the sixteenth pole but coud not overcome his losing by a short nec. With Latal third, Valdina Streak paid $6.20, the time was 1:10 4-5.

The Daily-Double combination of Valdina Joy, winner of the second race and Captain Nut, victor of the third, paid $34.00 while the popular Quniela backers received $10.00 when first and second choices ran one-two.

Until this Sunday drive careful and keep smiling. So-long George.

DA CHAMP—Golden Glove Heavyweight champion Clarence Henry, who won the Los Angeles Championship and then went on to win the Chicago title last week, gives a broad smile for the cameraman as he stepped off the train here early this week after returning from his successful invasion of the east. Henry, welterweight Hank Herring, and Rudy Garcia, all local Golden Glove boxers, were selected by the Chicago team as members of a Windy City team which will engage New York later on this month in N.Y.

Ex-Jeff Trackmen Report to ELANS

Out for the East Los Angeles Junior College track team this year are Ocie Williams, returning letterman, Noah Williams, former Jefferson high pole vaulting star, and Willie Hopkins, freshman.

Last year, Ocie, as a freshman, received his letter from ELAJC in track. He was one of the top pole vaulting in the Metropolitan Conference. Noah, while at Jeff, tied for first place in the All-City meet and took fourth in the All-State. Both boys vault 12 feet.

William Hopkins, recently from Jeff, is out for low hurdles. Hopkins was a two-year B Letterman at Jefferson.

Three helpful assets to the ELAJC team, these athletes are sure to make a name for themselves.

1st Negro Gains Lawn Tennis Ind. Tourney

NEW YORK—For the first time in the long 67 year history of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association a Negro has been admitted to the National Indoor Championships which opened here today (Thursday).

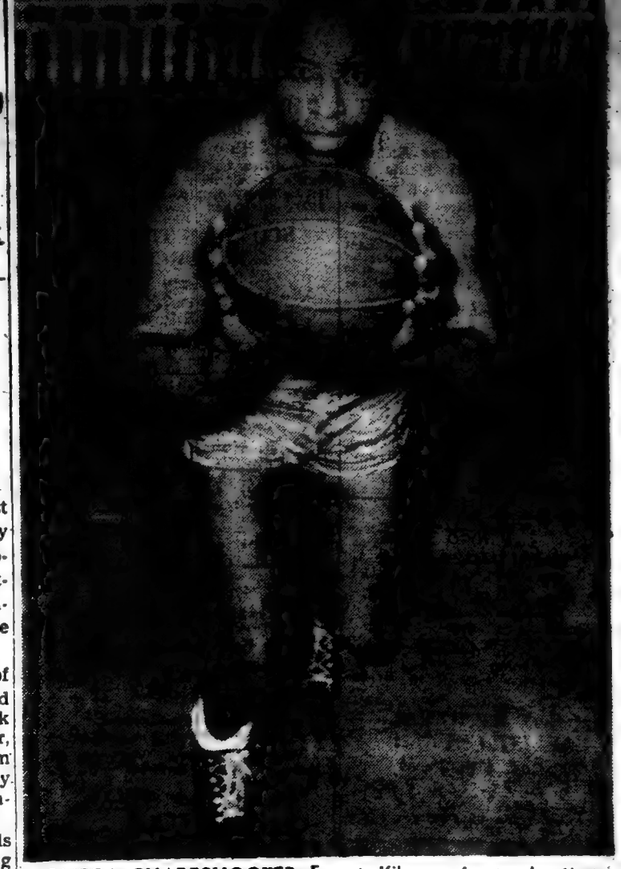
Chairman Alrick M. Mann of the tournament committee said that the entry of a New York Negro doctor, Reginald S. Wier, had been accepted, making him the first of his race ever to play in a national tennis championship.

Wier is a well known tennis player around New York, having played in several prominent tournaments.

In a meet recently concluded here, Dr. Wier advanced to the semi-finals before being eliminated by Ed McGrath of Brooklyn who went on to win the meet.

Eagle Editor Right; Campenella to Dodgers

NEW YORK—Branch Rickey, President of the Brooklyn Dodger Baseball Team of the National League, announced this week that Roy Campenella, rookie catcher from the Dodgers' International League farm club Montreal Royals, will be added to the '48 Brooklyn roster "as soon as the Brooklyn team's squad is cut to the National League limit of 40."



In making the announcement, Rickey said that the big (6 ft. 2) husky (208 lb.) Negro would join the club as an outfielder, probably to fill in the gap left in right field when veteran Dixie Walker was traded.

Campenella will join other Negro ball players, infielder Jackie Robinson, and pitcher Dan Bankhead when he joins the '47 National loop champs.

(NOTE: The announcement this week by Branch Rickey that Roy Campenella would become the third Negro player with the Brooklyn Dodgers, substantiates what EAGLE Sports Editor Stanley Robertson said in his column "Sports Of All Sorts" almost a month ago.)

Trotters Stop APL Aces, 78-68

HARTFORD, Conn.—The Harlem Globetrotters turned in one of the most impressive victories of their sensational season here when they defeated the highly-regarded Hartford Hurricanes of the American Pro League, 78-68, recently. The Hurricanes are thick in the fight for their league title and were regarded as unbeatable on their home court. Goose Tatum of the Globetrotters had another sensational night with 14 baskets and eight free throws for 36 points.

OMEGA SHARPSHOOTER Ernest Kilgore, fancy shooting forward will be one of the mainstays in the Purple and White clad Omega Psi Phi Basketball Team which will be out to win the 1948 Inter-Fraternity Basketball Championship when the Frat Series gets underway March 20th at Loyola High School Gymnasium on Venice Avenue. Kilgore will be only one of more than a dozen nationally known stars who will show their wares in the "Series."

BISHOP IN TWIN WIN OVER WILEY

MARSHALL, Tex.—Led by the two game total of 43 points amassed by long legged forward Willie Ritchie, Bishop College's sharp clawed Tiger cagers rolled to two impressive victories over the hapless Wiley Wildcats here last week, 55-45, and 78-54.

In the first game played on the Wiley hardwood, Ritchie, a sensational sophomore from the Texas Panhandle, hit the hoop for 17 markers as the Bishop boys weren't to be denied.

The second game, played on the Wiley floor, saw the bucket finding Bishop lads again come out on top. Again it was the sensational Ritchie who was top scorer with 26 markers for the Tigers. Willie was pressed for high point honors however for 6 ft. 6 in. L. F. Waters, veteran center, found the bucket for 20 points.

The twin victories for the Bishop lads, cast them into a three way tie for second place in the Conference standing with Prairie View and Texas college.

Concluding with "Madame Butterfly" with Hizi Koyke, Mario Palermo and John Ciavola, and a performance of "Rigoletto", Saturday evening, the San Carlo Opera Company completed another season at the Philharmonic.

The Saturday night performance of "Rigoletto" was probably the finest of the entire series. The maestro waited until this final opera before we were privileged to hear the troupe's most outstanding coloratura soprano, Graciela Rivera. Without question she enjoyed the most pronounced triumph of the series. Miss Rivera is young and attractive. She makes her appeal through the exciting qualities of her voice. This voice has command and an unforced flexibility. "Caro Nome" came off with unusual poise and almost superb control and resulted in a lengthy salvo of applause.

Stefan Ballarini was smooth and quite satisfying in the leading role. Unfortunately, we have only disgust for the emaciated orchestral group which accompanied this the most exciting performance of the series.

One of the Metropolitan Opera's leading soprano's Nadine Conner will be presented in the Philharmonic auditorium on Tuesday night, March 16. Miss Conner will sing two roles with the "Met" when it makes a local run here during the month of April — that of Micaela in "Carmen" with Rise Stevens in the title role, on opening night, April 13, and the role Sophie in Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" at the Saturday matinee of April 17.

The first Metropolitan season in Los Angeles since 1905 will consist of 14 performances in Shrine auditorium. The series will open April 13 and continue through April 24. In addition to such established favorites as "Il Trovatore," "Aida", "La Traviota", "La Boheme," "Cavaleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci," the repertoire will include the first Los Angeles performance of cussed "Peter Grimes," two excerpts from Wagner's "Ring" cycle, "Die Walkure" and "Siegfried," Mozart's "Magic Flute" to be sung in English and Massenet's "Manon".

Stanley Kurtz, director of music, and the Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church choir have been invited to present Mendelssohn's "Elijah" in El Segundo, and also at Manhattan Beach. This type of exchange presentation is most welcome. Incidentally, Amanda Haynes was the contralto soloist who sang in the choir's presentation recently. Miss Haynes, although classified, that is programmatically as an alto, is without question a mezzo-soprano.

This brings to mind a really glaring problem which so many of us in church music are obliged to face. Unfortunately we have few if absolutely no true contraltoes in these environs. The vocal classification is determined wholly on the basis of quality, the tonal depth, the coloring; these we find lacking in many of our "alto" soloists. The need for also soloists is certainly no worse than the need for tenors. That is true tenors; those whose range and quality are thin and lyrical and devoid of

Bullmoose Jackson Wins '48 Cup Award

NEW YORK—"Bullmoose" Jackson, saxophone-playing, singing favorite, featured with the Lucky Millinder orchestra, today was named winner of the National Association of Music Machine Operators' annual Gold Cup award, for his recording of two smash hits, "I Leave You, Yes I Do," as the No. 1 "most played" record in the nation's juke boxes.

Burl Ives In Ballad Concert

American Basso to Make Debut on Easter Sunday

AT CLUB CONGO—Lester Young, the great sax ace, and his sensational orchestra opened at the Congo Tuesday and will continue for a one week engagement only.

Speed can be a mania. Don't be a maniac, warns the Department of Motor Vehicles.

KENNETH SPENCER, one of America's foremost singers, who will be presented in an Easter Sunday afternoon recital at the Philharmonic Auditorium on March 28.

Kenneth Spencer, brilliant American basso, who will present his Los Angeles debut recital in Philharmonic auditorium Easter Sunday afternoon, March 28, under the sponsorship of Irwin Parnes and the Los Angeles Musicians Association, is now generally recognized as one of this country's foremost singers.

A highlight of his career was his appearance with Artur Rodzinski and the New York Philharmonic Symphony in Aaron Copeland's "A Lincoln Portrait" which he recorded for Columbia.

Kenneth Spencer's record of achievement is remarkable, and he himself is a remarkable person and artist. He is a young man who feels music, who understands it as an expression of joy and sorrow. His singing dispells boundaries.

PCA Group To Present Famed Anti-War Play

Irwin Shaw's famed anti-war play, "Bury the Dead," will be presented as part of PCA's 2-4-1 night in the Strauu auditorium, 215 N. Soto street, on Saturday, March 20. The controversial drama will be played through without intermission beginning at 8:45 p.m.

"Bury the Dead," produced by the Drama Workshop of the Soto-Michigan Jewish Community Center, is a powerful and timely protest against war by unforgettable characters who are dead when the play opens, but who staunchly refuse to be buried until their stories are heard.

Following the play a dance will be held all for a single low admission. The PCA's Actors Division will feature entertainment, it was announced by chairman Jack Berman.

JOHN GARFIELD, who is currently starring in the Broadway stage production, "Skipper Next To God," will be featured on a National Negro Newspaper Week radio program over NBC stations at 12:30 on Saturday afternoon, March 13. One other nation wide broadcast will be featured during the annual observance of the founding of the Negro press. This will be a 15-minute program over ABC stations at 10:30 p.m. Thursday, March 11.

PLATTER CHATTER

Addition of Jan Garber to the firm's label and the return of Martha Tilton were announced last weekend by Capitol Records, Inc.

Garber, long known as "idol of the airlanes" for his smooth and sweet music, has been highly successful on transcriptions for Capitol, the company said. A large number of masters recorded by Garber's orchestra was acquired by Capitol, and the band leader has been signed to a standard long term contract.

Martha Tilton, who was granted a release by Capitol in 1947 in order to perform for other firms, actually returned to the Capitol fold in December, 1947. Announcement of her return is made at this time because her first record under the new contract will be released on March 1.

Eddy Howard, whose orchestra was recently voted the "Band of the Year," has been in business for a long time. During his contract with Columbia Records in 1940-41 he recorded many of the current pop tunes and also a liberal number of well-established standards. Columbia has chosen eight of these standards for release. On three of the sides, "Mean to Me," "Jealous," and "Yours"; Lou Adrian appears as orchestra leader, while Eddy Howard, himself, waves baton for "Miss You" and "Sing Me a Song of the Islands." Most exciting waxings of all were three sides, "Stardust," "Exactly Like You," and "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams." On these sides Bill Coleman played the trumpet, Benny Morton, trombone; Ed Hall, clarinet; Bud Freeman, tenor sax; Charlie Christian, guitar; Billy Taylor, bass; Yank Porter, drums. Eddy himself plays the piano. Particularly on "Exactly Like You" some of the free-style music of the '30s is heard and will appeal to jazz fans, particularly with the variety offered in this album from near-jazz to the plushest of commercial accompaniment. A wide variety of people will be interested in the album.

CAPITOL DISC—New releases by Capitol which found favor with "I SPINUM" were "Soothe Me" and "Lover" by Stan Kenton's ork, "Fine Brown Frame" and "Pig-Latin Song" by Nellie Lutcher, "Robins Nest" and "Tacos, Enchiladas and Beans" by Sam Donahue and orchestra, "I Got a Break, Baby" and "Mean Old World," by T-Bone Walker, featuring Freddie Slack at the piano with bass and drums, and "Dream Girl," "I'll Always Be In Love With You," by Freddie Stewart with orchestra conducted by Buddy Cole.

British Students Protest Exclusion of Ada Sipuel

NEW YORK—Mrs. Ada Sipuel Fisher's fight to gain admittance to the University of Oklahoma Law School has enlisted the support of the British National Union of Students which has officially protested to the American embassy in London, according to information received here.

The Union, representing 50,000 students of the universities and colleges of England, Wales and Northern Ireland, has forwarded to Mrs. Fisher a copy of their letter of protest to the American embassy. The letter, signed by W. Bonnet Rust, president of the student union, expressed the organization's "strong feeling" against the exclusion of Mrs. Fisher. "We have always considered that an essential part of education is study alongside other people. To deny this educative factor to a person because of his race appears to us both indefensible in itself and unworthy of the traditions of the great American people," the letter asserts.

Post-Easter Tea Planned

The more China depends on your military aid, the weaker he will become. For he is already regarded as a traitor to his own people. This is why even our poorly-armed guerilla units can defeat the Nationalist divisions equipped with American arms.—Mao Tse-tung.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramplike agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1- Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2- Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Hits Proposed Cut in School Lunch Funds

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The house appropriations subcommittee on agriculture, considering the School Lunch Program appropriation, departed from its rule of allowing only government witnesses to hear Leslie Perry of the NAACP's Washington Bureau and a representative of the American Parents Commitee. The NAACP urged an appropriation of $100 million t oopcrate the program for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1948. The Bureau of the Budget, however, has recommended an appropriation of only $65 million.

Perry pointed out that the $65 million recommendation is $16 million less than that appropriated in 1947. "Last year the program reached only part of the children who needed it," the NAACP representative said. Considering the normal increase in school population plus the tremendous rise in food cost, the contemplated appropriation will provide little more than a token nutrional program."

Perry said that he thought that "every reasonable" economy should be practiced but that the "reduction of the school lunch appropriation below the level of the children's need is a false economy, and is folly."

No Sling Shots, Kids! Illegal Say Police

"Juveniles under eighteen eighteen years of age may not own or have in their care any type of firearm," warns Los Angeles Chief of Police C. B. Horrall. "BB guns, air rifles, and sling shots are included in the group of weapons designated as illegal."

Firearms of all descriptions found in the possession of minors will be confiscated by the police, and numerous complaints of boys shooting guns in residential districts will be investigated to stop this law breaking.

The municipal code section governing the possession of firearms by juveniles also forbide the sale of any weapon to a person under eighteen years of age.

It is also necessary to obtain a permit from the Board of Police Commissioners before a firearm may be lawfully fired within the city limits.

Funeral Services Held For L. Storrs, Blaze Victim

LOS ANGELES.—(NPB)—Mrs. Lillie B. Storrs 57, pioneer Angelenan was laid to rest last Saturday at Rosedale cemetery following funeral services at Roberts Mortuary chapel. The deceased, a victim of flames whicr enveloped one of the twin beds she occupied in her home, 3412 Bellevues avenue last February 27, died at the General hospital March 1.

died at the General hospital March 1.

The bed was set afire by a cigarette the victim was smoking while lying down. According to Willis Storrs, 70, husband of the deceased, Mrs. Storrs had been entertaining some friends late the preceding night and lightd a cigarette while abed.

Storrs said he was awakened to find his wife enveloped in flames. He said she had fallen off the bed and was wedged between the wall. He fought frantically to beat out the flames and with the aid of a neighbor succeeded in putting out the blaze without calling the fire department.

The victim was rushed to receiving hospital and later transferred to the General hospital, where she died three days later. The deceased and her husband had been residents of the same east Hollywood district where the accident occured for 36 years. Mrs. Storrs was a native of Newburn, Tenn.

Besides her husband, the deceased left a brother-in-law, Stevens Storrs. John and Katherine Akins, niece and nephew, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Elmo, cousins, to mourn her passing.

COUTURSTAT

By Grace Fisher Atkins

Speaking of "taste" in dress, no better reference could be sighted than that of Mrs. Elaine Fowler McMichael, teacher at Wadsworth ave. school. This tall dignified young teacher is one of the most attractive examples of an ideally gowned woman.

Paton always said that when the personality and individuality of the individual was seen first the clothing requirements have been well satisfied. This is the real test of good dressing. Any costume no matter how well planned must consider the individual personality even before the contours of the figure.

The children of any school are so affected by the selection of clothing by the faculty. Discipline in the school room is frequently predicted on the clothing ofthe teacher. Simplicity and good color combinations are imperative. In fact ,the entire scheme of the appearance of teachers affects children in a dynamac manner. Simplicity, neatness, and good selections are factors of importance in effective teaching.

WASHINGTON — Howard university's track team won two places in track meets held in Philadelphia and New York last weekend. Running in the 1000-yard event at the Philadelphia Inquirer's meet held in Philadelphia on Friday, Howard's Harry Bright won second place with his teammate, Albert Etheridge, placing third.

The Bison mile relay team romped to first place over teams representing Catholic LaSalle and Johns Hopkins universities in the college class mile relay. Hubert Daub, a high jumper, reached six feet in that event before he was eliminated.

GREENSBORO, N. C.—Fighting to break the jinx of their four-game losing streak, the A. and T. college cagers battled their way to a 53-45 triumph over the Red Rams of Winston-Salem Teachers' college in a contest here last Wednesday night.

Anthony (Tony) Davis, colorful little Aggie forward, was the sparkplug of the A. and T. attack. He found his range early in the game and rang up basket after basket to compile 21 points. He accounted for nine field goals and three gratis shots to register high points for the game.

Aiding and abetting Davis in the Aggie victory were Arthur Gooden and Tommy Priestley. Gooden accored nine points while Priestley came through with three timely floor shots in the middle of the first half to give the A. and T. machine its first sizeable lead.

Johnny Johnson and Terry led the losers. Johnson used his height and one-handed shot to great advantages as he tallied seven field goals while Terry accounted for 13 points during the evening's activities.

GREENSBORO, N. C. — In a closely-contested match, decided by an overtime period, the North Carolina college Eagles battled out a heated 67-60 victory over a fighting A and T. basketball club here last Saturday night.

At the half, Coach Johnny McLendon's Eagles enjoyed a scant seven-point edge with the scoreboard reading 35-28 in their favor. However, during the second period A. and T. evened things up, scoring 27 points while limiting North Carolina college to 20. This knotted the score at 55-all. In the five minutes of overtime play the Eagles scored 12 points against five for the losers.

The high-flying Eagles, defending champions of the CIAA, had to extend themselves to the limit to stem the fighting Aggie tide. Eddie (Flash) McCarroll, who accounted for 17 points in the fray, was the margin of victory for the Durham quint. The rangy six-foot two-inch rookie, who hails from New York City, tallied six fields goals and five free throws during the evening's activities. Arthur Gooden, Anthony Davis and Elton Haywood turned in outstanding performances for the Aggies, scoring 12, 11 and 10 points, respectively. Gooden, wearing A. and T. colors for the first time this season before going into the service, tallied four field goals and a like number of free throws to lead the Greensboro five.

Mrs. Emma Dunn Leads Drive

Mrs. Emma G. Dunn, section leader in the Y.W.C.A. membership drive in Watts, topped all others in her report on members secured at the past weekly report of the special Y.W.C.A. membership campaign committee of this area.

Mrs. Dunn reported many memberships secured from women who had grown lax in their Y memberships since moving to California. She states that her success in securing memberships is largely based on the fact that she herself is sold on the type of program offered by the Y.W.C.A., its policy and its way of working with people. This enthusiasm was carried over to the contacts made which resulted in new members or renewals.

Working with Mrs. Dunn in her section are Mmes. Wynona Kerry, Ethel Hutson, Margaret Gibson, Beulah Roberson, Mary A. Knox, Jerusha Luke, Bessie Mae Wilson, Dorothy Woodson, Gay, Ollie I. King, Julia Harrison, Geraldine Dunbar, Sallie Kimble and Fannie Rembert.

And speaking of the Mayflower (nobody was, I know, but I've got to close the column with a quip), we all didn't come over on the same boat, but if there's a Third World War we'll all be IN the same boat!

Eagle Right Again: J C Stars to Oregon

CORVALLIS — The scent of roses; the variety that grows along Pasadena's Arroyo Seco, was heavy around Oregon University this week when it was announced by officials of the school that those two Junior college grid stars from Southern California, John Finney of Compton City College, and Woodly Lewis of Los Angeles City College, had enrolled in classes for the spring quarter.

The enrolling of the two ace Negro backs in the University of Oregon ends one of the wildest campaigns in the history of American sports for the services of junior college athletes.

Upon learning the news that Lewis and Finney had definitely put their John Henrys on registration blanks, Head grid mentor Jim Aiken said that he would probably use Finney (played fullback at Compton) at right half, and Lewis at left half.

Oregon has one of the toughest schedules in its history this year. Besides playing a regular Pacific Coast Conference schedule, they meet the 1947 Rose Bowl Champions, the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor on October 2.

(NOTE—The enrolling of Finney and Lewis at Oregon was exclusively reported in the Eagle in the January 1, 1948 edition by Eagle Sports Editor Stanley Robertson.)

LOVE-LIFE

Insofar as romance tends to involve an escape from monotony and to enrich everyday life with more color and harmony, it needs encouragement. More accurate knowledge of human nature will increase the interest you take in any one you meet, even casu-

Love-life, is supposed to have a value of its own and it plays a great part in relieving one of the daily routine. You don't necessarily have to be in love with the person involved. Indeed, the person is sometimes merely a means to an end; and the various people you may know, or may want to know, are valued not on their own intrinsic merits but on the contribution they make, respectively to your own private pattern—your love-life. It also offers new and varied experiences of a pleasant and profitable nature.

FRIEND. Your letter was late in getting to me. It has now been answered. Regret the inconvenience this delay may have caused you, and, please write me again.

T.T. Dear Prof. Herman: Just a short note to thank you for all that you have done to help us. You certainly can't get along in this world without friends . . . especially ones like you! May God help you to continue helping others find success and happiness.

K.P. Would marriage to a certain person prove successful?

ANSWER. A careful analysis of your question indicates the fact that this young man is indeed very much in love with you, and would try to do everything in his power to make you happy if you decided to accept his proposal.

J.D. Will we move soon? Does my future look successful? Will I get the job I have in mind?

ANSWER: I am very sorry, but only one question is answered in the column, due to the limited amount of space. I shall be very glad to help you, if you will write in for a private reply.

M.E.W. What do you suggest in regards to my present problem?

ANSWER: The papers that you have should be investigated thoroughly. You should also consult a good lawyer and let him handle the entire matter for you, as it seems that something good may materialize from this stock.

L.R. What part of the world is considered to be the cradle of civilization?"

ANSWER: The alluvial plains of Southwest Asia (including Egypt).

I.H. Who was Sancho Panza and what was his character?

ANSWER: The servant of Don Quixote in Cervantes' great work. He was foolish and dishonest, but faithful to Don Quixote.

Mrs. Margaret Whittaker Crowned Queen of Olivet

Mrs. Margaret W. Whittaker, member of the National Council of Negro Women and of the American Business Women's Athletic Club, was crowned "Queen of Olivet" for 1948 in the third annual Crowning of a Queen ceremony by Olivet Matron League, 981 East 35th street. Rev. W. R. Hutchinson, pastor of Olivet Baptist church, placed the crown upon Mrs. Whittaker's head while a capacity crowd looked on. She won the honor of queen by raising $421 for the building fund.

Wearing an ice blue satin gown and carrying a bouquet of chrysanthemums, carnations, and gardenias, Mrs. Whittaker regally marched to the beautifully decorated stage of the church and received the red velvet cape trimmed with ermine from the previous queen, Mrs. Selena Belvin, and had the jeweled crown placed upon her head by Rev. Hutchinson.

The entire club, including the Junior Matrons, acted as attendants to Mrs. Whittaker, with Harold Blake Jr. and Roland Perkins as pages. Orchids go to Miss Cleo Johnson for her able direction, to Miss Dolores Stepper for her accompaniment on the piano, and to Miss Ruth V. Walker who was mistress of ceremonies.

A delicious banquet was served in the church's dining hall, following the crowning. Guest speakers included Rev. Webb, of Washington, D. C.; Rev. Williams, of Texas; Rev. H. H. Collins Jr. of Pasadena; and Victor Nix, of Los Angeles. They were introduced by Rev. Hutchinson. Flowers by Willie Brown.

Among others who took an active part in the ceremony were: Mesdames Bessie Stepper, Fannie Blake, Rosetta Irving, Mary Monroe, Ollie Middleton, Mary Hampton, Maudella Perkins (Queen in '46) Selma Belvin (Queen '47) W. R. Hutchinson, Lois Black, Lessie Brickenstaff, Hazel Moaning (president) Zola Knox, Ruth Kuykendali, Elizabeth Scott, Misses Alice Webb, Sally Webb, Joan Perkins, Jacqueline Moaning, Geraldine Belvin, Margie Wright, Cleo Johnson, Ruth V. Walker (M.C.), Christella Perkins; Messrs Earl Davis, Clifford Moaning, Jackson Monroe, G. W. Hampton, Charles Williams, and Rev. J. E. Stott.

Your Coat

Here again watch the new look, it is so easy to make a mistake in ones choice of a coat at this time. Nor is it easy to hide figure faults with a fur jacket made of the long hair skins such as fox. Let your fur coat be of the short haired skins, all smooth furs such as Beaver type, Broadtail or Persians.

Truman Calls For Passage of U.M. Training

President Harry S. Truman, speaking before a joint session of Congress, in a radio address to the nation Wednesday morning, called for completion of action on the Economic Recovery Plan; urged prompt enactment of Universal Military Training; and asked for the temporary re-enactment of Selective Service.

The President stated that he was recommending these measures to Congress "to give support to free nations," and "in the interest of national defense."

Speaking from the Chamber in the House of Representatives, Mr. Truman cited the need for "immediate action to achieve a se-

Vain Attempts Made to Rescue Trapped Tots

Crowded housing conditions, previously reported by Rev. J. T. James of 928 East 118th street, was the cause of a fire Tuesday which took the lives of four little children. They are Clover May Thomas, 5, and her sister, Ida Bell, 4, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, 641 East 118th place; and the twins, Wilfred and Wilbert Dorsey, aged 3, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey, 635 East 118th place.

The children were playing in a ramshackle playhouse in the rear of the Thomas home. Three brothers, Dan, 18, Lewis, 23, and Oscar, 17, were in the Thomas home, while the children were playing house in the rear. Sud-

Third Party Qualifies For California Ballot

Reports that the third party, with Henry A. Wallace as its Presidential candidate in November, has qualified for the ballot in California was hailed throughout the state by supporters of the Independent Progressive Party this week. The announcement was made Monday night by Secretary of State Frank Jordan.

In addition to running Wallace for President, the third party will enter candidates in some of the contests for members of Congress and the Legislature, it has been reported.

Although the original purpose of the promoters of the IPP was to put Wallace on the November ballot as their man for President, it is believed that the new party will enter candidates in a number of the Congressional and Assembly races.

Los Angeles County tipped the scales and boosted the third party to its place on the

FEPC Measure Is Adopted in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHI — By a unanimous vote of the 19 members of the City Council, a Fair Employment practices bill was enacted into law during a regular session of that body held this week. Philadelphia thus has joined the ranks of other large metropolitan cities which have adopted equal employment opportunities for minority groups.

Although the bill had been approved by a sub-committee after a hectic preliminary hearing during which the opponents and proponents of the bill had vigorously conducted their positions, final adoption had been delayed at the last regular session of the body.

The final debate was conducted in an orderly fashion.

North Carolina Labor Union Appeals for Nat'l. Support

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C.—Local 22 FTA-CIO, one of the South's largest local unions, is in a life or death struggle, it was reported this week.

The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., which tried and failed to smash the union in last year's Camel cigarette strike, has notified the Local that it will refuse to bargain when the present contract expires April 30, and will use the Taft-Hartley Board in an attempt to destroy the Union. As soon as the company's position was made public, AF of L organizers appeared in town and announced that an anti-CIO "organizing drive" would be started.

Local 22 has successfully battled the anti-labor giant of the tobacco industry for five

Demo's Term Rent Control Bill 'Fraud'

A bill continuing rent controls for one year to April 1, 1949 was passed by the House of Representatives Tuesday night. However, the bill left to the 655 local boards—nominated by the various Governors—full authority to raise rents or to remove controls.

Action came amid Democratic cries that such delegation of power to local boards as unconstitutional, that it is "an abdication of responsibility" by Congress, and that many local rent boards are "stacked" in favor of landlords.

Republicans argued that the people at home know best how to take care of local problems.

The rent-legislation now goes to a House-Senate conference committee to iron out differences. In passing a rent bill last month, the Senate flatly rejected the "local option" provision.

The Senate bill would extend rent controls to May 1, 1949. House passage came after that body defeated, 117 to 29, a proposal to extend rent controls to June 30, 1950, and to roll back many increased

On The Sidewalk

By C. A. B.

What was once the Negro problem in the United States, has faded into what we know today as a world problem.

Perhaps if the American people, on both the white and black side of the equation, had tackled the so-called Negro problem with a determination to settle it, it would not at this time be a thorn in the flesh of our European rehabilitation and relief program. Nor would it so widely reflect our attititude in the partition of Palestine.

Some American journals tell a frantic story about the Russian revolution, the overthrow of the czarist rule in Russia which historically ended the struggle between the landowners and the peasantry or working people in the now Soviet Union.

Under the czarist regime, it is said that tne poverty and suffering of the people were indescribable, and paralleled in a way Negro slavery in this country.

THE striking difference, it appears, was that in this country there were slave-drivers. In Russia the landowners and priests were the persecutors.

At the end of the Revolution, the people rose up against their persecutors, including the churchmen, and drove them out of the country. And from this act came the legend—the Communists drove God out of Russia.

During the early days of Washington, first president of the United States, and of Crispus Attucks, first American to give his blood for American independence, the Constitution was amended ten times to meet the Civil Rights needs of the newly emancipated slaves. From all accounts, and along the same lines, freedom from fear and liberty for all alike has been established in Russia.

Whatever the Soviet plan is, one thing is sure. It does not include lynching. Nor segregation and discrimination against some of its citizens. From where I stand I am more concerned with the spread of justice than I am in the spread of Communism.

Realizing that my opinion is but a drop in the bucket, nevertheless I venture to suggest that our nation, which I reverence with the same devotion of any other loyal American, should stop long enough in its drive against Communist infiltration in this and other countries, to correct some growing evils that are as dangerous to a full development of Democracy as Communism.

We are hysterically calling for another shooting war.

The pangs and heartaches of the last war are not yet healed. Nor have we achieved the promised peace.

The United Nations, the high court of the world, is being hampered in the discharge of its duty by conflicting selfish forces at work in nations.

If the partition of Palestine were left in the hands of the United Nations, instead of the United States and British oil magnates—If the Italian people were allowed to choose the form of government they desire—And if the United States government officials who make wars, would stop breaking promises and hew to the line in fulfilling obligations to those who fight the wars, develop the national economy; and when permitted, register the wishes of the people, we would then begin to see the dawn of peace.

Housing Drive Gets Director

Appointment of Mary Rosenfield as Southern California director of the California Housing Initiative Committee was announced this week by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. O'Dwyer, chairman of the housing group.

The Initiative Committee's first project in a campaign to "put housing on the ballot in November" got under way recently when hundreds of volunteer petition carriers began an intensive drive for 204,672 signatures.

"The people of California have been waiting for action in the current housing crisis," O'Dwyer declared, "and we propose to give it to them."

GETS $36 A WEEK TO BURN BILLION DOLLARS

Husky Edgar Gary, 36 year old Washington, D. C. Negro, handles millions of dollars daily and burns a billion dollars a year, yet all he makes is $36 a week.

"Handling millions is all in a day's work," says the Treasury Department destructive employee.

Life of the average one or five dollar bill is nine months, Gary says. But his dollars go much faster than that.

Rally for Ingram Family Sun.; Lena Horne to Head Program

Momentum will be added to the struggle to "Save the Ingram Family" when actress Lena Horn appears as the main speaker at a rally to be staged at Phillips Temple CME church, 43rd and Wadsworth on Sunday, March 21 at 3 p.m. under the auspices of the Los Angeles Negro Congress.

Slated as a highlight in an intensified campaign being conducted by the Negro Congress, the rally will feature the following speakers:

Al Kaplan, International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, CIO; Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, president of the Los Angeles Negro Congress; and Rev. J. J. Hicks of St. John Methodist church.

Responding to an appeal by the Negro Congress, organizations throughout Los Angeles have been manning tables at street corners for the past week urging citizens to send post cards and wires to Gov. Melvin Thompson of Georgia and President Harry Truman, demanding the immediate release of the Ingram family.

Attention was first called to the plight of the Ingram family when a call was sent out by the Americus, Georgia branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

According to information received from the NAACP, Mrs. Rosa Lee Ingram, widowed mother of 12 children, and her two young sons are now under sentence of death for the crime of defending themselves against the murderous attack of John Stratford, a white farmer, who threatened to kill them with a hunting rifle.

A motion for a new trial was granted the Ingrams after floods of protest poured in from all parts of the nation. Indignation has also mounted over the illegal seizure and confiscation of Mrs. Ingram's personal possessions when she was confined to jail.

In a direct communication to the Los Angeles Negro Congress, W. R. Burleigh, treasurer, Americus NAACP, urged the Negro Congress to continue its activity on behalf of the Ingrams. An excerpt of the letter follows:

"We thank you for your telegrams of March 5 and urge that you continue your moral, financial and spiritual support. Any funds sent will be appreciated and used for their (the Ingrams) defense."

Supreme Court Ruling Hailed

The decision handed down by the Supreme Court last week ruling against religious instruction in tax-supported schools was hailed as a triumph for democracy by Rev. Stephen H. Fritchman at the First Unitarian church Sunday morning.

In a pulpit editorial, Rev. Fritchman said, in part:

"The Supreme Court decision's that religious instruction does not belong in tax-supported schools strikes a magnificent blow on behalf of American liberty. Members of every faith in

Crosswalk Approved For 52nd and Central

At a regular meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners the request of Councilman Kenneth Hahn of the 8th District for a crosswalk at the corner of 52nd place and Central avenue was approved, it was learned this week.

Councilman Hahn pointed out that Mr. Thomas Maddox of 5232 Co. Central avenue, the owner of the hot dog stand, said that there were many pedestrians who cross this corner daily, and that at the present time there was no crosswalk and it would be an additional safety measure on Central avenue.

UN, Not U.S., Should Control Palestine, Say Protest Meetings

Two special programs opposing the present trend of American imperialism in Palestine, were given last Monday evening in the Roosevelt and the Fairfax High schools.

Maurice Howard, screen cartoonists, representing the AFL; Ben Rinaldo, state chairman, AVC; Dr. Sanford Goldner, CIO; Albert Dekker, former member of the State Assembly; Rev. Hugh Weston, and Mrs. Phyllis Ziffren, were the principal speakers at Fairfax High.

At Roosevelt, Leon Clifton represting the AFL retail clerks; Edward Roybal, community service organization; Philip M. Connelly, CIO; Charles Brown, chairman ustice for Palestine Committee; Maurice Kompaniez, and Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor and publisher The California EAGLE, brought the message of the need for a united front to preserve the U.N. and so peace in the world.

"I come to you as an emissary from my people," said Mrs. Bass, "who are your natural allies in the struggle to achieve justice for all people in all parts of the world.

"We are your allies because when freedom is won for the Jewish settler in Palestine, it becomes easier for the Negro sharecropper in Alabama and the Mexican agricultural worker in California.

"We share with you your concern that the most effective instrument for world justice and world peace—the United Nations—is threatened with extinction.

"The strategy has been to by-pass and weaken the United Nations so that it would crumble, while at the same time to suppress all democratic forces at home and abroad which might fight world domination by American dollars.

"The forces which fostered the Truman Doctrine, the Taft-Hartley bill, the witch hunts and the Marshall Plan, are the same which influenced this government's latest position on partition.

"The very existence of the United Nations is threatened. The U.N. will stand or fall on Palestine. If the U.N. falls American imperialism will have a free hand. It all fits together.

"While it may be true that the people get the kind of government they deserve, we certainly deserve better than the bi-partisan block which now rules our destinies. We not only deserve better, we can do better.

"We must ask each candidate, from the assembly right up to the White House, how he stands on Palestine; on housing; on national health insurance; on genuine relief for Europe instead of the Marshall plan; on universal military training; on fair employment practices; on the poll tax; on anti-lynch legislation, and other issues vital to our interests.

"Whenever a candidate cannot or will not answer these questions to our satisfaction we must place our own candidates in the field. I have taken my stand on this. For many years I was registered as a Republican in the party of Lincoln. . . . But I have changed my registration, and have become a member of the Independent Progressive Party of California."

A ringing resolution urging that the United Nations be given power to police Palestine was adopted at both meetings. The United Nations, and not the United States, was the gist of both programs at the two schools.

Calls for Higher Old-Age Pensions

"To ignore human needs is nothing short of criminal," Henry A. Wallace today advised the Independent Progressive Party's platfor mcommittee, in a wire declarin gthat "the Federal Government has an obligation to extend to all citizens reaching 60 years of age a monthly pension of not less than $100.00."

His statement was in response to an inquiry from the platform committee which is drafting the new party's 1948 election program for submission to the IPP state committee meeting in San Francisco on March 21.

Wallace called "extension of adequate social security" to all groups "an essential responsibility of the federal government," and charged that our present social security programs "lag far behind the needs of our people."

FEMALE DISORDER

PREMATURE OLD AGE — REPRODUCTION — NERVOUSNESS

"Many women suffer from genital derangements. There is undoubtedly no clas of disorder which has so far-reaching an effect upon the nervous system as derangement of the genital organs. Chief among the irritating sources are:

1st. A sluggish state of the blood stream which is productive of congestion in the womb and ovaries, and creates an engorged state which interferes with the normal functioning of these organs.

2nd. The pressure of prolapsed abdominal viscera upon the reproductive organs and the distention and irritation of intestinal gas.

3rd. Repression of the normal instincts and function through psychological resistance, physical malformation, or misplaced position of organs.

4th. Rectal disorders, Piles, Hemorrhoids.

In each individual case you may look for one or more of the above causes, which must be removed if the patient is to enjoy perfect health. The digestive disorders may be corrected through proper attention and the prolapsus caused by weakened muscles of the abdomen may be overcome through development of muscular tone."

"Women who suffer are unhappy. They refelct their entire attitude and in many instances destroy the happiness of their home and family. Those who suffer from painful, scanty, irregular, or profuse periods—uterine fibroids; prolapsed, sagging or misplaced organs; childless, complexes — you would do well to take steps to correct the cause immediately.

It is impossible to estimate the amount of evil caused by an engorged colon (pot-belly), monopolizing several times its allotted space, crowding and hampering other organs in their work."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell, M.D., eminent physician, says:

"The most rational and practical manner of dealing with this . . . breeding place of disease is to wash it out. With me it has passed beyond the theoretical stage, for I have in my office fully 15,000 letters from grateful patients who have used this process, under my direction, with the most astounding results; scarcely a disease known to humanity, but has been relieved, and in ninety-five per cent of the cases, cures effected, while tens of thousands of gratifying messages have reached me from time to time; nor is the testimony in its favor confined to the laity, for hundreds of physicians (including some of the most prominent authorities) testify to the wonderful beneficial results achieved by its use."

Daniel C. Munro, M.D., says: "If I were to write the story of all the cases in which colonic irrigations seem to lift the patient from the very jaws of death, it would fill volumes."

'The UN Must Succeed,' Eleanor Roosevelt Says

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, a member of the Board of Trustees at Howard University, recently told over 300 Howard alumni and guests that the United Nations must be made to succeed and the peoples of the world must learn to live together in peace.

Speaking as Chairman of the United Nations Human Rights Commission, the former "first lady of America" said:

"I think this Commission, more than any other in the United Nations, has made what we thought of as a domestic question that touched up in this country, into an international question which effects our leadership—the leadership of the United States in world affairs.

"For what we are fighting for here is what thousands of people all over the world are hoping to be achieved by the acceptance of a pact or a covenant which will really write down in black and white the rights of human beings."

Mrs. Roosevelt expressed hope that the United States would be one of the first nations to ratify the human rights covenant, a preliminary draft of which has been written by the Untied Nations Human Rights Commission.

As chairman of the Commission, she asked the audience to study the draft "and pray for us next May when we meet to hear comments of all nations" on the preliminary draft.

"Because Congress has the final say as to this country's participation in the United Nation," she urged "election to our Congress of people who care about liberal progressive measures."

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Honored for his efforts to eliminate the poll tax, Rep. George H. Bender, Ohio At Large, is presented a testimonial plaque by Mrs. Virginia Foster Durr, (right) vice-chairman of the National Committee to Abolish the Poll Tax. Participating in the ceremony, is Mrs. Mary McLeob Bethune, president of the National Council for Negro Women. The presentation was made at a recent dinner given by the national committee. Bender is the author of an anti-poll tax measure which will soon be debated on the House floor.

Mt. Sinai Opens 2 New Hospital Wings, March 21

Sunday, March 21, will mark an occasion of great significance for those interested in the health and welfare of our community, when two, new hospital wings of the St. Sinai-Duarte National Medical Center are dedicated and opened to patients suffering from tuberculosis and other long-term illnesses, according to Louis Tabak, president of the Medical Center.

"The opening of these facilities will help relieve the dire shortage of hospital beds needed for the indigent ill in the community," he said.

The Mt. Sinai-Duarte National Medical Center operates the Duarte Hospital and Clinic, in Los Angeles, and the Los Angeles Sanatorium at Duarte. Patients at each of its medical units receive free treatment regardless of their race, color, or creed. Last year the institution provided over 110,000 hospital days of free care while more than 30,000 visits were made to its clinics.

Long Watts Transit Fight Ends in Victory for People

Citizens of the Southeast Los Angeles area, known as Watts, recently hailed a significant victory in their several years fight to force improvement of the community transportation system, privately operated by the Landiers Transit company. The company operates a fleet of busses under a franchise granted through the Public Board of Utilities. The peoples of the area had long complained that the Landiers company had failed to live up to specifications regarding schedules and up-to-date equipment for the area.

Last Friday, the Board of Public Utilities, in handing down a decision relating to the Landiers company's disregard of providing adequate transportation facilities for the peoples of the area following a six months wrangle, renewed the company's franchise "under protest," stipulating certain definite improvements which must be immediately made.

These improvements, many of which have already been made in the face of a threat by a group of civic-minded business and professional men to seek a franchise to operate a rival bus line, represent a total victory for protesting citizens of that area.

The California EAGLE and other newspapers and civic bodies also joined the laudable fight to get better transportation means for the more than 55,000 Negro and Mexican-Americans of the fast growing community.

Yale Law Journal Attacks Race Restrictive Covenants

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Inferior, segregated housing is "one of the primary causes of strained race relations" says an article appearing in the current issue of the Yale Law Journal.

This comment is included in a discussion of "Race Discrimination in Housing" in the Journal. The Yale law student authors attack racial exclusion in redevelopment housing and the restrictive covenant.

The constitutionality of private agreements barring minority groups from buying land was argued in January before the United States Supreme Court and is currently awaiting decision. The authors, Isaac N. Groner, of Buffalo, N. Y., and David M. Helfeld, of New York City, also attack the right of redevelopment housing projects to discriminate racially. This issue is currently on its way up through the New York State Courts in an initial test involving Stuybesant Town, Metropolitan Life Housing project in New York City.

Urges Opening Of Democratic D. C. Theatre

WASHINGTON — Rep. George H. Bender (R.O.) this week asked that the treasury department release the old Belasco theater, located near the White House, and being used as a storage building, so that the house may be used to present plays on a non-segregated basis.

In a letter to W. E. Reynolds, commissioner of public buildings, Rep. Bender said:

"It is a national scandal that the capitol of this, the greatest democracy in the world, has no legitimate theater which may be attended by persons of the Negro race. As long as this remains true, it reveals that serious gap between our ideals and some of our practices which the President in his message (recent civil rights address to congress) declared must be closed."

Bender is chairman of a house expenditures subcommittee on procurement and buildigs.

Negro Nominees On Ballot For AGVA Confab

The first national convention of AGVA will be held on May 7, 8 and 9 at the Hotel Astor in New York City. One of the nominees on the ballot is Jean Arthur, who was selected by the AGVA membership because of her conscientious efforts of combatting the plight of the Negro entertainers in the theatrical world.

In order to receive ballots from the New York home office it is necessary for the membership to have their correct mailing address on file. Miss Arthur states that "AGVA needs the Negro vote in order to become a democratic union. Return your ballot to AGVA, 1698 Broadway, New York 19, N. Y."

Los Angeles is allowed six delegates to the convention and six will be selected from 12 nominees. Jean Arthur is one of that 12.

Calls FEP Law 'Key' In U.S. Foreign Policy

NEW YORK — Enactment of a federal law to prohibit discrimination in employment because of race, religion, color or national origin, to demonstrate to the world "the justice and effectiveness" of the democratic system, is "a key element in our foreign policy," Rep. Jacob K. Javits (R., N.Y.) declared recently at a testimonial dinner given for the officers and directors of the National Council for a Permanent FEPC at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Among those honored at the $50 per plate dinner were Philip Murray, CIO president; William Green, AFL president; Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; former Judge Joseph M. Proskauer, president of the American Jewish Committee; Frank Goldman, president of the B'nai B'rith, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress.

ASTHMA

BRONCHIAL—CATARRH—SINUS

Don't be discouraged: Read what this famous doctor says:

"Difficulty in breathing is the most characteristic symptom of asthma. Inhaling and exhaling the necessary air for the body's use are accomplished mainly by the action of the diaphragm, which is a flat muscle separating the lungs from the stomach and intestines. When the diaphragm is contracted the patient exhales the air and poisonous gases, and when it is expanded, air is drawn into the lungs. If stomach or intestinal gases are pressing the diaphragm upward, the patient will have difficulty in forcing the pressure down sufficiently to inhale. A weak diaphragm will be unable to do its work properly under this condition, and there will be a struggle to draw enough air into the lungs, resulting in the peculiar wheeze of the asthmatic when attempting to inhale. Of course, there are contributing causes such as irritating dust and pollen of plants, also a deranged condition of the nervous system. The patient usually wheezes along to a good age, with the misery of seeing every proposed remedy fail, until he dies from the effect of drugs taken in an attempt to relieve his symptoms. It may be truly said that at first he is afraid of dying and then afraid he will not."

"If much bronchial mucus is present in the lungs, the cure will be slower but nonetheless sure. Advanced cases seem to yield as readily as those just beginning, so do not think you are an exception because you have tried everything from climate to vaccines, as I do not know of a single case coming under my observation where the cure was not complete and permanent if the patient followed instructions carefully. Probably the reason the old cases respond to this method of treatment as easily as the mild ones, is because the patient who has suffered so long will follow a strict regime without deviating in a single degree, whereas the patient whose symptoms are just beginning has hopes for a remedy which will relieve, and allow him to live without diet regulations. Do not waste time looking for an easier method; there is no other way."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell, M.D., eminent physician, says:

"The most rational and practical manner of dealing with this . . . breeding place of disease is to wash it out. With me it has passed beyond the theoretical stage, for I have in my office fully 15,000 letters from grateful patients who have used this process, under my direction, with the most astounding results; scarcely a disease known to humanity, but has been relieved, and in 95 per cent of the cases, cures effected, while tens of thousands of gratifying messages have reached me from time to time; nor is the testimony in its favor confined to the laity; for hundreds of physicians (including some of the most prominent authorities) testify to the wonderful beneficial results achieved by its use."

Daniel C. Munro, M.D., says: "If I were to write the story of all the cases in which colonic irrigations seem to lift the patient from the very jaws of death, it would fill volumes."

Medical Advice From Thomas Peyton, M.D.

WHY IS CANCER FEARED SO MUCH

I know of no disease as commonly feared as cancer. Almost everyone has had some experience with this serious complaint. They have had relatives, friends or acquaintances who have suffered the agony of the later symptoms and effects of the disease.

Although cancer is a disease, it is not to be confused with the habits of each diseases as tonsillitis or gonorrhea, or influenza—which are "catching" or contagious. Such diseases may be transmitted from one patient to another by contact, such as the use of towels or exposure to cough or by intimate association. This is NOT true of cancer and these facts are not generally known.

Cancer is, as far as is now known, a growth—not a germ—and therefore cannot be transmitted from one person to another. There is no danger therefore of contracting the disease at all by contact with cancer-stricken patients, whether this contact is intimate or otherwise.

The reason cancer is feared so much is because the cases which have been seen or talked of by the lay public were those hopelessly found in the latter stages. At these stages, medical advice or treatment does not offer any assistance for permanent relief. These, very cases at one time in their development could be cured! It is this fact that confronts my conscienceness every time I see a case of cancer, realizing that had I been able to see these cases at an earlier stage, the later serious and painful symptoms might never have occurred.

Now what can be done to improve this state of affairs? The problem has two main means for solution. One rests with the people, the other with the doctor. The people MUST be informed and then must act according to the advice given—the doctor must be ever aware of the possibility of cancer and must not hesitate to refer these suspicious cases to fields for diagnosis and classification.

For example, every case of bleeding piles should be examined by the experienced specialist for the possibility of cancer. If only this were done many cases of rectal cancer could be cured. Many patients, in fact ALL of the cases of cancer that I have seen, had been using some sort of "miraculous" cure in the form of salve or suppositories for years. The bleeding may have been checked, BUT the disease has gone on without proper diagnosis and when finally examined by the specialist, it is too late to cure I have been referred to many cases by doctors who are serious and willing to cooperate, but the patient even sought their advice at a late stage.

Cancer is feared because it is not understoo dand this perhaps is true of fear from almost any cause. It is also feared because it is not yet thoroughly realized that early cases of cancer CAN BE CURED! It is just that simple. In those cases where the disease can be seen and examined as in the throat, mouth, eye, rectum etc.—it can be cured by the three ONLY known means of scientific cure namely — SURGERY, RADIUM and X-RAY.

All other means, to date, have not proven consistently successful and even the treatment mentioned above MUST be employed at an early stage of the disease, before the growth has spread to other areas where it cannot be controlled. There is nothing at all to fear and one can be completely cured if the cases are seen early enough which means that the patient must present himself to competent medical sources for advise and treatment.

At a recent meeting of the Orchid Girls Club where I enjoyed a social evening as well as discussion of these medical problems, one of the girls was surprise to learn that one could enter the sick room of a cancer patient with safety. This fine club which enjoys its social meetings, also is interested in charity and is active in assisting various groups throughout the city and it was a pleasure to enjoy a few minutes of their audience while we discussed this and other problems relative to the health.

Subject of next Column—"Can piles be treated successfully without operation."

Au revoir.

Job Openings In Civil Service

Strange as it may sound, jobs are still going begging in Los Angeles. At least that's the way the Los Angeles Civil Service commission sees things.

The Commission announces that civil service examinations are scheduled for several city positions. They include brick masons, building inspectors, civil engineers, dairy inspector, public health nurses, public health laboratory technicians, clerk stenographers and children's librarian—just to name a few.

Information about these jobs and ho wto file for them—may be obtained at Room Eleven, City Hall, where applications are being received.

Cites Property Tax For L. A. County

Property tax levy for Los Angeles county government purposes for 1947-48 averages $17.76 for each person in the county, compared with the $12.89 per capita levied for 1941-42 and the $10.26 per capita levied for 1043-44, when the total levy was at its war-time low, California Taxpayers' association reported today.

'Care' Sends Aid To Needy Europe

CARE — the Co-operative for American Remittances to Europe, Inc. — has filled 4,000,000 orders placed by individuals and groups for food and clothing textile packages, it was reported this week. This represents 88,000,000 pounds of food and many thousands of new garments for tattered men, women and children.

CARE was set up by 27 of the leading welfare agencies of this country to provide a non-profit service. It has the approval of the United States government. It has agreements with the governments of the 13 countries it now serves that permit entry of CARE packages free of taxes and duties and without loss of regular rations to the recipients.

Depends on the point of view!

Seen from the outside, a well-lighted home delivers a message. To the family and to friends it says "Welcome!" reflecting a warmth and cheer they can feel before the door is opened. To thieves and prowlers it says "Keep Out. This is no place for you!"

So the outside of your house can be an invitation or a warning. Depends entirely on the point of view!

denly they heard an explosion. They raced outdoors to find the playhouse a mass of flames.

The boys tried to beat their way into the playhouse. They could hear the screams of the children as the flames leaped higher and higher. But the heat and the smoke were too intense.

Neighbors, attracted by the blaze, came running. Mrs. Dorsey fought her way frantically through the crowd to the door of the building, but by the time she got there she could see only the charred little bodies of her two baby boys in the ashes.

The fire department was called, but the firemen arrived too late. No one could account for the explosion. There was no gasoline near, the Thomas brothers said. The children may have had matches. But even so, with no volatile material in the building, there would have been no cause for the explosion.

The father and mother of the Thomas children were not at home at the time of the fire. The mother, Mrs. Roxie Thomas, was at work. The father, unemployed, was out looking for work.

The ramshackle building, although used only for a playhouse, was a hazard to the community. It was conditions such as this, with the horrible dangers of the tragedy that occurred to these two families, that Rev. James and others in the community have been fighting. They hope now, with such a fearful example to point to, their pleas will be heeded, and that better houses and more houses will be built for American citizens.

THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE

The Unexpected—The Third Party

Well, in spite of all the hurdles and the hopes that the contrary would happen, The Third Party, The Independent Progressive Party of California, has been born. It's a lusty youngster, with the promise of becoming stronger and lustier as the days advance.

With almost 20,000 signatures to spare there can be no doubt what the voice of the people is. When almost half a million people in one state raise their voices in protest to the established order of things, the politicians whose ears are supposed to be held to the ground, should definitely be able to catch the beat, beat, beat, of the millions of feet of working people all over the country, marching onward to a victory of the people. A victory which will establish once more a government of the people, by the people, and for the people in the White House.

It is a job well done. Those who worked tirelessly are to be congratulated. But the job is by no means finished. For now will come the greater task to get out the vote. The vote in June and the vote in November.

Having the Independent Progressive Party on the ballot, only to have its candidates defeated at the elections, would be a greater calamity almost than not to have won in the first place.

There will be more difficult work to do, even than in collecting the signatures. The press, the radio, all the means of influencing the people used so effectively by the big business interests, will have their guns trained against this usty youngster, born only this week.

There will be mud-slinging, lies, distortions of the truth, whispering campaigns, belittling inuendos, the sly attempts to crumble all the facts you have built up so carefully—all multiplied a thousand fold more than they were during the campaign to obtain the signatures.

For the signature campaign was scarcely a threat in some people's minds. They never thought it could be done! It was all just a freak idea of a few crackpots that would die aborning, and would soon blow away.

But the signatures were collected. Day by day, even far into the night, men and women trudged the streets, rang doorbells, button-holed everyone who looked like a registered voter—and at last the signatures were all written down on the petitions. And now they have been sent, in due process of law, to the Secretary of State, and recorded.

Nothing can change that fact now. The Independent Progressive Party is a full-grown political party of California. Yes, thoungh only three-days-old it is nevertheless strong enough and big enough to send both the elephant and the donkey into the jitters. Now— FORWARD is the command.

The unexpected happened in the birth of the IPP. Now make the unexpected happen next November in the overthrow of all those who oppose the will of the people. Elect a people's president and a people's Congress in November.

Unfortunate—But Necessary

The Wilson Packing Co., in a letter to its employees, said, "It is most unfortunate that the CIO union has decided to call a strike which would disrupt livestock marketings, and the flow of meat to consumers, thereby causing prices to rise again."

The old story—always blaming the labor union, always trying to set one union against the other, always trying to make the public believe it is the working people themselves who foolishly cause the rise in prices.

The real reason, of course, is not given. The rise in meat prices in order that the Wilsons and Armours may enjoy profits that soar to the sky. The necessity of their working men and women to strike for higher wages and better working conditions, in order that they may simply live. These reasons, of course, are not given.

But the vast majority of American people—working people all—are not being fooled all the time by the corporate interests, in the meat industry or in any other industry. They are beginning to think for themselves. And they are telling the public the necessity of striking, although unfortunate, in order to maintain a decent living.

President's Speech—War, Not Peace

President Truman's speech to the assembled Senate and House of Representatives yesterday morning, insured us nothing in the way of a promise of peace. As a matter of fact, it left us with the jitters.

He gave three specific recommendations to Congress in support of "the free nations of Europe," which in our opinion, will lead to war, not to peace. These recommendations are: Complete action for the economic recovery program. Prompt enactment of Universal Military Training program. Temporary re-enactment of Selective Service. "Voluntary re-enlistment is insufficient," he said.

All of these measures are aimed directly at the Soviet Union. He mentioned Russia or the Soviet Union several times as being the enemy against whom we must arm—in universal military training, and in the preservation of the democracies of Europe.

"The position of the United States must be made clear," he said. "The United Nations charter constitutes the basic principles to which we are dedicated. The UN principle is the means of securing the peace of all free nations."

Yet, under the leadership of Harry S. Truman, the United States of America has deliberately thumbed its nose at the United Nations and gone on its way, independently, to bring aid to Greece. And Turkey. To Chiang Kai Shek. And now we are planning a union of the western powers of Europe, against that of the USSR. And we are planning to supply them with military aid, not merely economic aid!

He told how Russia refused to cooperate. But he said nothing of what the US has done to force our way of life down the unwilling throats of the Greek patriots.

And because of what he says Russia has done, we are to sacrifice our boys again. To give up our homes. To suffer deprivation. In short, to fight another war. The president's speech yesterday was virtually a declaration of war. If Russia were not so long suffering, we might expect bombs to be bursting about us tomorrow. In self-defense, they could easily claim.

Negro in Business

Third conference on "The Negro in Business" sponsored by the United States Department of Commerce, will be held in Washington, D. C. April 1, 2, 3. Emmer Martin Lancaster, adviser to the Secretary of Commerce on Negro Affairs, is in charge of the Conference.

Two such conference, both very successful, have been held previously: in April, 1941; and in October, 1946. The latter conference was attended by 300 delegates representing 22 states, the District of Columbia, Liberia, Haiti, and the Virgin Islands.

Businessmen and educators have been invited again to take part in the conference to be held next month. All sessions will be held in the main auditorium of the Commerce Department and will be open to the public. Hon. W. Averell Harriman, Secretary of Commerce, will address a public mass meeting on Thursday evening, April 1.

In addition to all this there will be an exhibit of 200 or more photographs of outstanding businesses owned by Negroes, held in the main lobby of the Commerce Department.

All this is very encouraging, and should be but an expression in a compact form of the greater ideal of Negroes in business in the world. It should and must embody the greater hope of unity not only in the business world but in every form of activity of both Negroes and whites.

Negroes and white workers are slowly uniting, in spite of much opposition, in the world of labor. They must unite, too, in the world of business. This work together in the spirit of cooperation will bring about the real peace and prosperity for which the world waits. And for which the business men and the workingmen of the world have been praying for thousands of years.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

A Democratic government is the only one which provides for the revolutionary instincts of the human race.

This from a writer who is advertising in her informal conversational letters to the public, a well-known industrial product for a firm which ranks high among those whose profits are in the upper brackets, is truly heartening. It brings to mind the philosophy of Thomas Jefferson who said he was glad the American people rebelled when they refused to pay taxes levied by the Federal govrnment on whisky.

And although Jefferson agreed with Washington that the rebellion should be put down, it was that innate "revolutionary instinct" which Jefferson lauded, and which if fostered will prevent America ever becoming a country ruled by a dictator.

"The Dictator's way is for the strong to push the weak aside and keep his own liberty intact. The democratic way is for the strong to recognize the love of and the right to liberty in everyone. Whenever a question involving liberty arises, a point is found and fixed where liberty is greatest to each and its sacrifices least to both. This point we may call democracy."

That is very good philosophizing for a commercial writer. The trouble is that here in America, where we speak so glibly of democracy, we so seldom think of the other fellow. Under our boasted "free enterprise" system, we have degenerated into animals ruled by the law of the jungle, where each gets what he can from the other while the "getting is good." Today, especially, in the mad rush for profits on the one hand and the necessity to fight for something to eat and a place to sleep on the other hand, we step over and on our fellowman and his wants and his misery do not concern us.

We say this situation is abnormal. That it is the aftermath of war. But I wonder if our revolutionary instinct hasn't almost gone to sleep. Or at least if it isn't almost smothered in our own greed for profits. Our selfishness. Our desire to snatch from the other fellow that which we deem is a necessity for us.

For if that instinct were a burning fire within us, we would rebel against such conditions and the system which has forced upon us the ultimatum to be like animals or perish.

We do rebel, or at least we have the opportunity of rebelling every two years. We can change our government that often by voting in a new body of lawmakers in both state and nation. We can "overthrow" our government completely but peacefully every four years, and have not only a new body of lawmakers but a new head of the nation as well.

Once in a while we do make a thorough change. We did this in 1932 when we elected President Roosevelt instead of Herbert Hoover to take control of our ship of state. We need another "revolution" today. We can assure this by seeing to it that all progressive and liberal candidates, from the candidate for president on down to the least important in our own district, is elected in November by an overwhelming majority.

"We in America do not yet have a democracy," charges this commercial writer, boldly patriotic even while she is advertising goods for a big industry. "It is well to remember that there are others, nearer than we care to believe, to whom we may appeal only as a dictator. To the Negro American, the white American is a dictator. We have in our own selves the very thing we would destroy in others. But we have as well the possibility of change, and therein lies the seed of our Democracy. It's up to each of us as individuals to decide whether that seed will grow to a real democracy, or die."

The year of 1948 has been called the year of decision. A fearful responsibility rests upon each of us. For by our vote this fall—no, in the primary election in June—we can decide whether or not American democracy shall live and thrive, or whether it shall go the way of the German Nazi path which it seems in such terrible danger of doing.

The Road to Health

By I. L. SCRUGGS, M.D.

In a small town, like the one in which I once lived, everyone easily gets to know everyone else. The community's doctor, in particular, usually knows every family and the characteristics of each family member.

Allan Nelson was a neighbor of mine, a good husband and father, but one of the most stubborn men I have ever met. He would get some fixed notion, right or wrong, and all the talking in the world would not change it.

One of Allan's firm beliefs was that he was an exceptionally strong, healthy man who could never be seriously ill. If he ever did get sick, he often told me, he had a fine collection of medicines that would "cure anything." Doctors were fine, according to Allan, for most people, but they were never meant for him.

So last spring when Allan developed a cough that hung on and he kept losing weight steadily he thought it was j"ust a kind of spring fever." I met him in the drug store one evening and asked him how he was feeling. He admitted he was always tired, but that was because he was working hard to get a certain job done. He also said, with a laugh, that he was saving money these days because he had "lost his expensive appetite." But, he added hastily, he knew of a wonderful medicine that would fix him up and he was there at the drug store to get it.

The store was scarcely the place to lecture Allan on the dangers of prescribing for himself and I knew I would never get him to come to my office for an examination.

All at once I had an idea. The local tuberculosis association and the health department were about to conduct a chest X-ray program in the community. Allan liked worthwhile community projects and getting him to promise that he would participate proved easier than I thought.

As a matter of fact, when the program started, Allan was one of the first to be X-rayed. His X-ray revealed suspicious shadowss and further examination proved that Allan had moderately advanced tuberculosis. Believe it or not, when I told him this, Allan promptly answered that he had just heard of a fine medicine that "would reach right down into the lungs and cure tuberculosis in no time." I am afraid I lost all patience with Mr. Nelson.

"Allan," I told him sternly, "You have moderately advanced tuberculosis and that's serious. You might have avoided the disease altogether, or caught it in an early stage, if you had gone to a doctor at the first sign of that continued cough, weight loss and fatigue.

"You should never decide for yourself what your illness is and how to cure it. That's what the doctor is for. This self-cure is especially bad when tuberculosis is involved. You can blame yourself that your tuberculosis got the upper hand. While you were fooling yourself with medicines you had heard about, the disease was making headway in your lungs."

"But this new Sure-Cure is supposed to have helped hundreds of people with tuberculosis," interrupted Allan.

"Believe me, Allan," I said, "there is no bottle medicine that will cure or even help your tuberculosis. Complete bed rest and supervised medical care are the only things that will do the trick, and I am going to insist that you go to a sanatorium for your treatment. We hope some day to find a drug that will cure tuberculosis, but meanwhile we must depend on the accept-treatment—rest under medical supervision."

Rent Control—Real Or Fake

The National House of Representatives passed a rent control bill last Tuesday which would extend the control for one year, to April 1, 1949—IF the local rent control board want it that way. (The Senate passed a bill of its own several days ago.)

The bill permits the local boards to have full authority to raise the rents or to remove control altogether. This shuffling of responsibility was called a "fraud" by those opposed to the bill. They declared the local boards are oftener than not, "stacked" by friends of the landlords, and that such a law would be worse than none.

Nevertheless it passed the House by a vote of 251 to 132. Voting for the bill were 162 Republicans and 89 Democrats. Opposed to it were 57 Republicans, 73 Democrats, and 2 American Labor Party members. The bill now goes to the Senate where differences will be ironed out.

Our member of Congress, Helen Gahagan Douglas, had offered a bill which would have extended rent control to June 30, 1950, and which would have restored many of the measures of OPA. Needless to say, it was snowed under.

So - - - all tenants who fear an increase in your rent, all those who have no homes to live in, no matter what rent you offer—be sure to see to it that our friend Helen goes back to Congress this fall. And that she has a goodly number of people's representatives to uphold her in her efforts for us all.

Too many big shot moneymen are also big shot elders in our Protestant churches.—The Protestant.

War To Save Face

Those of us who heard Walter Winchell last Sunday, were surprised and delighted that in the midst of his gloomy predictions of war with Russia, etc. he had the courage and the honesty to say that we, the government of the United States of America, had committed some most unforgivable blunders in dealing with world affairs.

And among these blunders he listed as the worst of all the fact that we bypassed the United Nations in that stupidest of all stupid documents—the Truman Doctrine, now costumed in our newest world charity ball as the Marshall Plan.

"We are too stubborn to admit this," said Mr. Winchell, and intimated that because of this stubbornness we may be instrumental in augurating a third world war. A war made to save our face!

It is just because of these stupid mistakes, made by President Truman and then stubbornly adhered to by the administration, even if it means a world conflagration, that the people of the United States have turned against him and have declared, "We want no more of you."

"Everybody makes mistakes," say his friends. Of course. Even Franklin Delano Roosevelt made some mistakes. But he never made so many. Nor such stupid ones. Nor any that involved the peace of the entire world as those of Truman's do.

And if he had, he, Roosevelt, would have had the great moral courage to retract, not to save his face, but to save the world. He would have turned right about and led us back into the fold we are straying from today.

W. J. Wheaton Says

"Nobody knows what trouble I see: Nobody knows but Jesus." That tune been running in my head ever since that wonderful woman sang it at a concert the other night. Thanks for the tickets! Little Mary Ann was trying expain all those hi-falutin' songs to me 'bout these great Italians and German men who wrote some of the songs she was singing. But me, well, when she sang those down home songs, I just thought she was singing for me. 'Twas glorious.

Went to a meeting the other night and heard a man talking 'bout some man running for office. To hear him talk, this man was going to make over the world. Some great General or the other said something 'bout politics making strange bed fellows. There was a twinkle in Mary Ann's eyes, but her mouth sagged, as she said: "My Zeb used to watch one old specked hen when he wanted to get bait to go fishing. When she started to scratch, he would go there 'n' dig: Sure 'nough, he would find some big fat worms, 'n' he would say, "Where that old hen scratchn' there you'll find the worm.'"

The President has asked Congress to pass a law telling those folk back home to stop lynching folk 'n' making 'em pay for voting. Well, I'm going to stick with the 'old speckled hen' and maybe I'll find the worm.

Little Mary Ann read to me 'bout people wanting to make women-folk part of the regular soldier service, and that some of the men on the committee voted 'gainst it. Among them 'gainst it was a California congressman, a Republican, named Johnson. A Congressman who voted that all the women should be treated alike without any difference because of color, race or religion, was a Democrat from our District named Franck R. Havenner.

Seems like the Democrats are doing most for us folk. I don't mean these men back home. They are not Democrats. They are just haters of colored folk 'n' poor whites. They are 'fraid if the colored folk 'n' poor whites vote, they'll lose their jobs. If the real Democrats like congressman Franck Havenner and a number of others, have their say, we will get our Rights. The Rights we are fighting for.

I'm telling all our folks from back home to go 'n' register so they can vote. They couldn't vote back home 'n' they were awful angry 'cause they couldn't. Now they have the chance. So vote.

"Didn't you tell me that this was the first time that Negro news men ever went with a President on any of his 'trips,'" Mary Ann asked. Yes, we assured her, and moreover Negro press reporters have access to the Press gallery and are represented at the prss conference held by the President. They say that President Truman has ditched his intentions of keeping in the middle of the political road, and of trying to please all of the people; that he has veered to the left and become more liberal in his views. Can he be blamed for the deviation? He has seen the stricken, the toiler, the sad plight of racial groups, discriminated against humiliated, shorn of their political and economic rights—rights which the constitution bestows.

All of these the President sees, and like the Biblical Samaritan, has stopped by the wayside to minister aid. If we will but pause to consider, we will see that it has taken courage and intestinal fortitude to essay the course that President Truman has taken. He has championed the cause of the under-dog.

His opponents term him mediocre, vacilliating. This is wrong. All of that is campaign politics, and as time goes on, we can expect more of it. It's an old saw, "That if you want to know more about yourself, than know yourself; run for office."

It's dollars to the hole in the doughnut that if General MacArthur enters the political arena, he will be accused of kicking some GI in the pants or being accessory to feeding his troops tainted food.

We have seen the angelic painted black and the devil given the crown of gold. So we are not surprised when they call the parson a horse thief and the horse their parson.

The important thing is to know your man by what he does not by what he says or what he says he'll do. Who was it that said: "The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof?" It takes the experienced miner to tell the gold from the dross. So we would caution the unwary to think and think hard, before making a political decision; We may be chasing the pot of gold and when we reach the end of the rainbow find it dross. For one thing: We don't think it political wisdom to stake our present political status, with prospects of future gains, for something dubious.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Office of Grand Reporter Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World
Providence, Rhode Island

Dear Mrs. Bass:

You know, Mrs. Bass—no one knows it better—we have got to fight for every right with our might; hit every head that bobs up against us, and not MINCE words. That hydra-headed monster. Southern intolerance, as voiced by the Talmadges, Bilbos, and Rankins, never considers OUR feelings, and we should give them, as the late Bishop Henry M. Turner once said, "All the UNSHIRTED HELL that belongs to them."

You have noticed, perhaps, an item I saw in today's Providence Journal to the effect that the National House has passed "a bill permitting (Southern CONFEDERATE battle streamers to fly atop regimental colors of U. S. Army units!!"

That is just another manifestation, and proof, of the irreconcilability of the aggressive "rebel" South, to try to get back all the ante-bellum recognition it had before it blossomed into full rebellion against this Union whose post-war amendments (13th, 14th, and 15th) it has been steadily nullifying to our disfranchisement and denial of civil rights.

If the South continues to have its way, soon it will be asking the government to wipe off the official records all evidence of the fact that "Jeff" Davis, of Mississippi, was president of the Confederacy that tried to destroy this Union, and also to expunge the Civil War record that incriminates the South, and its unreconstructed Hellions, who are antagonizing with their last gasp Henry Wallace and everybody else who speaks up for justice and CIVIL RIGHTS, and enforcement of all constitutional provisions that have been upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court. These Southern states enact unconstitutional "laws" and put them into effect until they are nullified by the U. S. Supreme Court, but they DON'T obey the laws they were sworn to uphold when they were readmitted to the Union following their rebellion, 1860-1865.

We need outspoken men like Wallace and others, and we need The California EAGLE, and you to run it, in the interest of a free country and in the interest of all its patriotic inhabitants, including the self-sacrificing NEGRO.

As ever,

JOHN C. MINKINS.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I know you share with me a sense of deep gratification and pride for the manner in which Los Angeles welcomed the Freedom Train.

The American Heritage Foundation has described the local rededication program as the high point thus far in its campaign to raise the level of active citizenship in our country.

It is to the everlasting credit of you and your fellow committeemen that the message of the Freedom Train was carried to, and received such enthusiastic response by, the local population.

To my mind, the job of the American Heritage Rededication Committee for Los Angeles has just begun. The stop here of the Freedom Train has planted the seed. The committee, of which you are an important part, should be a continuing working organization to inspire and activate each individual citizen to a full appreciation of his responsibilities of American citizenship. We should endeavor to bring about personal participation in community affairs on the part of those who heretofore have manifested little or no interest.

Please accept my sincere thanks for your good work in this campaign. I know you will want to continue to do your part in demonstrating that the way of free men is best, that democracy should be made to work, not only nationally, and if possible in other countries, but right here in our own community.

Sincerely,

FLETCHER BOWRON,
Mayor.

To Secure These Rights

The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

(Installment No. 16)

THE ROLE OF THE SUPREME COURT

Throughout its entire history, one of the great responsibilities of the supreme court has been to protect the civil rights of the American people against enroachment, However, its chief responsibility in this respect was to enfore the Bill of Rights against the federal government. Few violations of the Bill of Rights were brought to the attention of the court and accordingly it rendered few decisions in civil rights cases before 1870. Thereafter, the three Civil War amendments provided a further basis for judicial protection of civil rights, but the court interpreted these amendments narrowly and thereby greatly restricted its jurisdiction over civil rights matters. Nonetheless, the protection provided by the court has gradually increased through the years. Since 1925, this protection has become extremely important as a result of new developments in the law of civil liberty.

One development is the rule now followed by the court that the 14th amendment extends the basic guarantees o fthe Bill of Rights into the areas of state and local government. As has been seen, the original Bill of Rights has always afforded protection against wrongful action by the federal government. There is evidence that the 14th amendment was intended by its framers to extend this protection against wrongful actions by the state and local governments. For 60 years following ratification of the amendment, the supreme court refused to sanction this point of view. But in Gitlow v. New York in 1925, and in Near v. Minnesota in 1931, the supreme court reversed itself. In a long series of cases since 1931, it has safeguarded the rights of the individual by invalidating state laws and setting aside certain state judicial rulings.

New doctrine

A second development has stemmed from the challenging of certain statutes as to constitutionality on the grounds that they interfere with civil rights. Through the years, the supreme court has followed the rule that any statute, federal or state, which is challenged as to constitutionality, shall be presumed valid unless its violation of the Constitution is beyond all reasonable doubt. In the last decade, however, the court has announced a new doctrine that when a law appears to encroach upon a civil right—in particular, freedom of speech, press, religion, and assembly—the presumption is that the law is invalid, unless its advocates can show that the interference is justified because of the existence of a "clear and present danger" to the public security.

These new developments have resulted in a striking increase in the number of civil rights cases heard by the supreme court. They have greatly increased the opportunity of the individual whose rights are encroached upon by a state or local government to seek the protection of the court. For example, in more than 20 cases since 1938 the court has dealt with charges that states or cities have violated the religious liberty of the Jehovah's Witnesses. In the great majority of these cases the court held that the action complained of was invalid.

It is not too much to say that during the last 10 years, the disposition of cases of this kind has been as important as any work performed by the court. As an agency of the federal government, it is now actively engaged in the broad effort to safeguard civil rights.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS SECTION EXPERIMENT

From the days of the civil rights legislation of the 1860's and 1870's, there remained on the federal statute books scattered provisions of the civil rights law. Responsibility for the enforcement of these laws rested with the Department of Justice. From time to time, it took prosecutive action under them but no coordinated program was developed. However, in 1939, to encourage more vigorous use of these laws and to centralize responsibilty for their enforcement, Attorney General Frank Murphy established a Civil Rights Section in the Criminal Division of the Department.

Imagination and courage

This agency has now had eight years of experience. The President's Committee on Civil Rights has regarded an examination of the Section's organization and achievements as one of its most important assignments. We wish to point out at once that we believe that the Section's record is a remarkable one. In many instances during these eight years, the Section, the FBI and the United States attorneys in work. They deserve the highest praise for the imagination and courage they have often shown. Indeed, we have found that the total achievement of the Department of Justice in the civil rights field during the period of the Section's existence goes well beyond anything that had previously been accomplished. Yet the record is by no means a perfect one, and it seems clear that the time has come to evaluate the experiment, to note criticisms of the program, and to suggest ways of improving it.

As our recommendations will show, one of the most important objectives of this Committe is to strengthen the federal civil rights enforcement machinery. We believe that the achievements of these agencies offer great promise for the future. But only by remedying some of the imperfections in the machinery can this progress be assured. Some of these imperfections will now be discussed.

1. Weak Statutory Tools

No new civil rights laws were passed by congress at the time of the agency's creation. It was compelled to utilize the remnants of the post-Civil War legislation. The three laws which have been of major importance are Sections 51, 52 and 444 of Title 18 ("criminal Code and Criminal Procedure") of the United States Code. All three statutes define federal crimes. Sections 51 and 52 are short, generally worded statutes which seek to protect undefined civil rights. Section 444 is also brief, but it protects one right only—the right to be free from peonage.

Section 51 is in form a conspiracy statute, making it a crime for two or more persons to conspire to "injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the constitution or laws of the United States." Persons convicted under the act can be fined up to $5000, imprisoned up to 10 years, and are to be "thereafter ineligible to any office or place of honor, profit or trust created by the constitution or laws of the United States."

Section 52, likewise, penalizes deprivation of "rights, privileges, or immunities" secured by the constitution and laws of the United States, but it is directed only against those deprivations of rights which are "willful" and which occur "under color of any law." Section 52 is thus limited to the protection of rights against interferences by public officers, whereas Section 51 may be used to prosecute private persons as well as public officers. Section 52 is not a conspiracy statute and may be used to prosecute one person. It differs further from Section 51 in carrying much lighter penalties—a maximum fine of $1,000, and a maximum prison term of one year.

Section 444, often called the Antipeonage Act, provides that anyone who "holds, arrests, returns, or causes to be held, arrested or returned or in any manner aids in the arrest or return of a person to a condition of peonage, shall be fined not more than $5.000, or impritsoned not more than five years or both."

Civil Rights Section

Section 51 and Section 444 had had considerable use when the Civil Rights Section was created in 1939, and had been held constitutional by the supreme court. Moreover, Section 51 had been successfully used to protect several specific federal rights against invasion by private individuals. With one exception, however, these rights were all relatively minor ones, such as the right to inform federal officers of the commission of a federal crime; the right of a witness before a federal tribunal to enjoy protection; and the right to make entries and hold land under the homestead laws. The one really important right which had been protected by Section 51 before 1939 was the right of a qualified voter to participate in a federal election, and to have his ballot honestly counted.

Section 52, on the other hand, had had almost no use and had not been tested as to constitutionality. Since 1939, these laws have all been employed by the Civil Rights Section in the development of a more comprehensive civil rights program.

Section 51 and 52 however, have presented serious difficulties as a basis for any extensive federal civil rights program. One difficulty is that both carry criminal sanctions only. The awkward results of this limitation are discussed at a later point. It is sufficient to say here that it has made the Civil Rights Section primarily a policeman prosecuting criminals.

The most serious difficulty which the Civil Rights Section has encountered in using these sections has been to determine the specific civil rights they protest. Presumably, the two laws protect any and all rights established by the constitution or by federal statute. But the constitution nowhere lists personal rights which may be protected by the government, nor does any federal statute enumerate them. In using Section 51 and Section 52 to protect specific rights, the Civil Rights Section has been compelled to employ an experimental technique and to endeavor to extnd the list of these rights, case by case. Considerable success has been achieved in this undertaking, and action in the future may expand further the list of rights under Section 51 protected against interference by private individuals. The list of federal rights running against interference by state officers and protected by Section 52 is a somewhat more definite one. Decisions of the supreme court in recent years have read many of the rights established by the first 10 amendments into the 14th Amendment. This has made them federal rights against state interference.

A further handicap under which the Section has worked has been the insistence of the courts that the use of these statutes should be governed by the traditional and wholly sound legal doctrine that criminal laws must adequately define the conduct which is forbidden. Because these statutes ar evaguely worded, the courts have sometimes been reluctant to see them applied in specific situations. They have taken the position that the accused had not received sufficient warning from the vague terms of the statute that his conduct was forbidden.

Narrow View

Another handicap has been the further tendency of the courts to interpret these laws narrowly and to limit the light of rights which they are intended to protest. This follows from judicial doubts about legislative intent with respect to the Acts. The legislative history of civil rights in congress since 1866 has been confusing. The repeal by congress in 1894 and 1909 of much civil rights legislation has led the courts to question some of the uses to which Section 51 and 52 have been put. On its face, each of these statutes has a potential usefulness of great breadth. In practice, each has proved to be an instrument of limited value. This is clearly illustrated by some of the cases in which the Sections have been invoked.

Screws v. United States, decided by the supreme court in 1945, illustrates an unsuccessful attempt to make Section 52 play the role of a federal antilynching act. In this case, a Georgia sheriff, aided by a deputy sheriff and a local police officer, arrested a Negro on a warrant charging him with the theft of a tire. The three men then proceeded to beat the Negro to death. Ultimately, the Department of Justice prosecuted the three men. It charged them with having, under color of law, deprived their victim of his federal right under the 14th Amendment to be tried by due process of law when charged with an offense against the state. They were convicted in the federal trial court. The supreme court set this conviction aside on the ground that the trial judge had failed to charge the jury properly. One of the components of the crime defined by Section 52 is willful action on the part of the lawbreaker to deprive his victim of a federal right. In the judgment of the supreme court, this requirement of the statute saved the law from the charge that its failure to enumerate the rights protected by it rendered it unconstitutional on the ground of vagueness. In other words, the supreme court held that a person cannot be prosecuted under Section 52 unless there is evidence that he knew of the existence of a specific federal right and willfully intended to deprive the victim of that right. The failure of the judge to analyze the law in this fashion in his charge to the jury entitled the defendant to a new trial. This clearly illustrates the technical difficulties under which the Civil Rights Section labors when it endeavors to use the ancient Section 52 as a basis for federal prosecuti in lynching or police brutality cases. When the federal government brought Screws and his associates to trial a second time, they were acquitted.

52 Still Useful

That Section 52 has not, however, lost all of its usefulness in cases of this type is shown by the decision of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in Crews v. United States, in 1947. Crews, a Florida county constable, arrested a Negro farm hand and alleged that he was drunk. He then proceeded to beat his prisoner with a bullwhip, and forced him to jump into the Suwanee River where the Negro was drowned. The Civil Rights Section prosecuted Crews on the charge that he had violated Section 52 by depriving his victim to the right of a fair trial by due process of law. The trial jury found Crews guilty. He appealed to the circuit court of appeals, arguing that his "act was solely one of personal vengeance and entirely devoid of official character and authority. . . ." He claimed that he thus could not, under color of law, have willfully deprived his victim of a federal right. The circuit court rejected this argument and upheld the conviction. Distinguishing the case from the Screws case, it held that the jury had been properly instructed that the defendant had to act willfully in order to violate Section 52, and that there was sufficient evidence that Crews had so acted. The circuit court said further that evidence indicating that a police officer mistreated a prisoner out of personal malice or spite is not inconsistent with the conclusion that the officer also willfully intended to deprive this victim of his constitutional rights.

This review of the language of the three key statutes, and the way the courts have handled them, makes it clear that the Civil Rights Section has been working under definite and serious handicaps.

2. Insufficient Personnel

At the present time the Civil Rights Section has a complement of seven lawyers, all stationed in Washington. It depends on the FBI for all investigative work, and on the regional United States Attorneys for prosecution of specific cases. Endorsement of the civil rights statutes is not its only task. It also administers the criminal provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Safety Appliance Act, the Hatch Act, and certain other statutes. It is responsible for processing most of the mail received by the federal government which in any way bears on civil rights. Although other resources of the Department of Justice are available to supplement the Civil Rights Section staff, the Section is the only agency in the Department with specialized experience in civil rights work. This small staff is inadequate either for maximum enforcement of existing civil rights statutes, or for enforcement of additional legislation such as that recommended by this committee.

By ROBERT E. WESTON
(In Six Articles, Art. 2)

To one newly introduced to the islands, St. Thomas appears most beautiful, especially after a week's voyage over unbroken sea. Rising above the verdure-clad shores are its gray-green mountains mottled with mauve shadows and highlighted with spots of brilliant sunshine. As the harbor is approached and the port of Charlotte Amalie is disclosed spreading upsea like a fan upon three hills, it seems a bit of the word from the Riviera gone astray.

Compared to the islands in store, however, St. Thomas is dull and drab—a land of monotones and of little scenic beauty. Even its one worth-while town filled with buff, white and pink buildings and red roofs, holds little of real interest or exotic charm to a traveler familiar with the more remote parts of the West Indian islands. Charlotte Amalie's shops do a thriving business, perhaps due to its existence as a free port and its location as a handy refuelling center for the ships which travel the high seas. Later, when I cover the Dutch Islands I will tell you of the contrast between this comparatively cosmopolitan city of Charlotte Amalie and the more picturesque villages of the Dutch settlement.

St. Thomas, by the way, is an American possession and is truly Americanized in every sense of the word. This is true also of St. Croix. In the group known as the Virgin Islands these tiny American possessions are most quaint in their names. Most of the Virgin Islands are practically unknown to the tourist. This is rather a pity, for it is in these outlying almost forgotten spots that one may find the most interesting and curious things.

Just a stone's throw, figuratively speaking, From St. Thomas is the tiny island of Tortola where the only white residents are the magistrate and a scant half-dozen representatives of the British government. Tortola's capital is the small city known as Roadtown.

Next on the list of out-of-the-way isles is St. Martin, although Anguilla as the Eel and Norman island, with many another tiny dot of land, lie in the 100-odd miles of ocean that stretch from Anegada to St. Martin. In one respect this island stands unique among the lesser Antilles for it is under two flags. The northern half of the island is French, its capital is Marigot, while the southern half belongs to Holland and the Dutch flag flies above the house tops of Phillipsburg. In points of scenery, St. Thomas is the most beautiful. Its loftiest mountain is Paradise Peak, 2000 feet in height, while the rolling, varied surface of the land, with conical hills, broad valleys, deep gorges and flashing streams, is richly green with tropical verdure. Largely, it is very fertile and its people—especially on Dutch territory—cultivate the land assiduously. Salt also adds to the revenue of this dual-flagged isle, for near the shores are immense lagoons which are used as saltpans, while cattle, pigs, donkeys, and poultry all add their quota to the island's revenue. As a result, St. Martin is quite prosperous.

Last of the Virgins, and third of the ex-Danish islands acquired by the United States is St. Croix or Santa Cruz, the island of the Holy Cross. If there was a bit of land worthy of being deemed the Emerald Isle, it is St. Croix. No lofty mountains tower above the impassable blue sea that gleams with turquoise above the white coral sand in the shallows; no dense forests clothe its hills, no tangled jungles fill its valleys, yet it possesses a beauty of its own, the beauty of greens of every shade, greens such as no painter has ever imagined, the beauty of smiling sun-flooded fields and valleys of dazzling white beaches and water of wondrous hues.

The island is one unending succession of rounded green hills, greener valleys, green fields and white beaches touched with the scarlet of poinsettia trees. Its allure is intensified by the patches of soft brown earth in the plowed fields, lighted by the dull yellow of Tibet-tree groves, and with highlights formed by white plantation houses and sugar mills and emerald in a band of silver set in lapis lazuli. And, as if to scorn comparison, like a true masterpiece, the island stands apart, alone in the midst of the Caribbean. Close to the sea and half hidden behind its screen of coco palms is Frederiksted or "West End" as the natives call it. Frederiksted is the port of call for most ships and the principal town. Intensely tropical and foreign looking, with its variously tinted buildings, its low, massive warehouses and stores with wide-arched doorways, its flower-filled patios and balconies, Fredriksted has little to offer in the way of commercial sights as attractions. About the first, last and only impression the visitor receives upon landing is that of a blinding glare. Everything is white or nearly so. Roads, walls, and buildings are full of white coral rock.

White dust covers much of the vegetation, and the place is fairly drenched with dazzling sunshine. And it is hot. One feels that an egg might be fried anywhere upon the surface of the streets, and to walk about Frederiksted at midday, or near it, is like wandering about in an active volcanic crater.

Eastward from St. Croix, and rising sharply from the sea, are two seldom-visited islands, both of which are of intense interest. sailing from St. Croix for St. Kitts, the first of these two isolated bits of upflung rock is Saba, a massive, sheersided, volcanic peak, rising abruptly from the sea to a height of 3000 feet—the most astonishing, the most topsy-turvy island in all the seven seas.

Lofty and impressive, St. Kitts appears almost continental after St. Thomas, St. Croix and the other Virgins. To one who has seen only those detached bits of land, it is a revelation; and even after one has become familiar with the grandeur and wild beauty of the more southerly Antilles, St. Kitts still lingers in one's memory. Four thousand feet above the sea, the summit of Mt. Misery is wreathed in clouds, and from these lofty heights to the breaking surf along its shores the island is one vast mass of intense green, almost black, in the ravines of mountain forests; tender green of springtime, where cane is newly sprouting from the rich plowed fields; the malachite of banana walks; the olive of pineapple fields; the thousand shades of green of pingles and "high bush." Everywhere are palms. They grow by thousands with their roots bathed in the brine and their fronds clashing in the trade wind. They cover hillsides in groves and forests. They are silhouetted against the skyline on very ridge for miles, the towering royal palms form double avenues along the roads and they nod like gigantic feather dusters above every house and hut and over the roof tops of the town. Wild, majestic, a place of upflung mountains, is the northern portion of St. Kitts, and, as the steamed slips steadily southward off shore, one readily can see, in the outline of Mt. Misery, the semblance of Saint Christopher bearing the Christ Child on his shoulder. This unique image of nature led Columbus to name the land after his own patron saint.

Southward from this crowning height the mountains and forests gradually give way to the lower hills, covered with acres of cane or patches of vivid red earth, until at Basseterre, the island's capital and chief port, St. Kitts is almost flat, and only isolated Monkey Hill breaks the contour of the down-like landscape. Attractive and pretty as is Basseterre, with its red roofs and its houses shaded by palms, it must be confessed that it holds very little of novelty or unusual interest.

However, St. Kitts possesses a delightful and healthful climate, and it should be a popular winter resort if properly advertised and promoted. Its scenery is magnificent and good roads completely encircle the island. There is excellent hunting and fishing, there is every tropical fruit and vegetable in abundance, and Mount Misery with its active crater invites a marvelous climate through virgin tropical forests.

However, the every epitome of downfall and decadence in the Lesser Antilles is Nevis—St. Kitts' next door neighbor to the north. Plainly visible from Basseterre and separated from St. Kitts by a narrow channel two miles in width, Nevis rises in a gigantic, perfectly symmentrical volcanic cone. Its summit hidden in drifting clouds, its feet in the level green fields sloping gently to the sea.

Trail Blazers: Bernard Jefferson

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

The man I met the other evening is a tall, quiet efficient-looking gentleman with a restful countenance not unaware of the grave problems facing the world. His convictions are deep and his outlook for the future unsure. Over the controversies of the rank and file he has abiding faith in the people.

Attorney Bernard Jefferson has been able to see this clearly because his background and previous experiences have defined his present position. Unlike many of our professional men, Jefferson has no inclination for selfish gain or personal glory. He proudlyl proclaims his alma mater, Harvard, but without offense or snobbery. People are drawn to him because of his quiet, unostentatious manner.

BERNARD JEFFERSON

Jefferson was born in Coffeeville, Mississippi. He received his early schooling in Coffeeville, Holly Springs, Mississippi, and Denver, Colorado. He was but a lad when his family moved to Los Angeles in 1921. At Manual Arts High, it is believed that he was the first Negro elected to the Ephebian society in the city. He delivered the commencement addresses from Manual Arts and UCLA because of his high scholastic standing. At both schools he was a member of the debating teams. And during his junior year he became the coach of the Freshman debating team and the first Negro to make Phi Beta Kappa on the UCLA campus. It was from this school that he graduated with the highest honors in political science. And it was from this school that he launched upon a collegiate career that was to build the foundations of a brilliant future.

Because Harvard has the reputation of having the foremost law school in the country, he did his law work there . . . graduating cum laude during the midst of the depression. He has known slim days . . . . from everything from porter to clerk, he worked to help pay his tuition. But these jobs only served as an incentive to move ever upward.

The same year of graduation he became a member of the California Bar and started teaching on the law faculty at Howard university, where he remained unutil 1941. At that time he was granted "sabbatical leave" for further study. He returned to Harvard and received an advanced degree in law, Doctor of Juridical Science.

It is this desire to compete in the mainstream of things . . . on the level of men regardless of race or religion . . . to comprehensively know law . . . to encourage our own and help those who seek legal counsel, that has won him unheralded respect and admiration.

In whatever capacity he serves, he gives his best. With the same zeal he attacked war jobs. The university gave him leave to serve with the Office of Civilian Defense and the Office of Price Administration, where he was assistant general counsel. In 1946 he resigned his position with the government and faculty of Howard to return to Los Angeles and engage in general practice.

Jefferson believes that the major problem among Negroes is "the general apathy about the injustices we suffer throughout the country and general apathy about fighting to regain the ground made during the war—both on the economic, as well as the civil rights front. We find few Negroes who are militant and taking every opportunity to ally themselves with the groups in the forefront in the fight for equal rights.

"But the rank and file seem too little concerned. And this seems especially true in communities where we enjoy some measure of equal political and civil rights. As a racial minority, we lack the necessary cohesiveness and solidarity to make our power felt. As a group we can gain a lot through the advancement of labor unions, which welds together people who think and act together in a common cause. Our trouble probably lies in the fact that we fail to inspire and develop leadership."

Jefferson is fraternally and civically affiliated with Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, field commissioner for interracial service of Boy Scouts, board of directors on Los Angeles Urban League, legal committee of NAACP, and Langston Law club.

Our trail blazer, who immensely enjoys his home, is married to genteel and successful Atty. Martha Jefferson and is the father of an eight year old son, Roland. Jefferson is an ardent follower of the Philharmonic symphony series and attempts to squeeze in as much time for reading as possible.

Hair Stylist Fashion Review One Of Finest Ever Held

Sadie Louise Davidson and members of her Hair Stylist Guild may justly feel proud over the overwhelming success of the annual Fashion Show, held this year in the smart setting of the Florentine Gardens on Hollywood Boulevard.

The fondest fashion dreams of any woman were turned into a reality, as the well poised models displayed fashions, artistically showing every detail that in most cases bespoke of fine workmanship on the part of the designers, tailors and milliners whose work was used in the fashion extravaganza.

The '48 fashion review displayed well planning and training on the part of the models who took their turns graciously. Outstanding was the model Lillian Giles, displaying the Ethel Boyd Creation "Lady in Red." The smartness in color and the freshness of design won the approval of all the critical onlookers, as Gussie Morris wore a new length suit complimented by a Beulah Johnson wide brim straw hat with matching bag and shoes. Angelle Stratton gave a good view of what can be done with the new silk scarf. Her cocktail dress was complete design of silk scarf popularity and she wore the garment very well. Adding a different air to the show that is oftimes restricted to women, was the display of tailored clothes by young taylor Joe King, who designed and tailored his own garments. Another interesting part of the fashion part of the show, was the floral hat and muff designed by Helen Janes Flower shop and displayed by Thelma Houston.

The climax to the entire show was a study in Arkin and Freeman Furs, displayed by such models as Dorothea Fearonce, Mary Yarber, and Doris Wilson. Creations in Platina, Persian Lamb, Silver Fox, etc. were described in every detail by M. C. of the show, Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew.

Hair Styles by Karl Jefferson, Hats by Robbie Slocum and the many other contributing designers made the '48 Hair Stylist Guild Fashion review one of the finest ever presented.

At press time this writer was informed that the Guild had been asked to repeat the show on a Sunday afternoon at the Florentine Gardens. To the Hairstylist Guild go Orchids for a fine presentation.

ELEGANCE was the keynote of the elaborate Hair Stylist Guild Fashion review at beautiful Florentine Gardens on Monday night. Some of the models depicting the different styles of the day are pictured above. At left, Dorothea Fearonce, displays a Grecia drape cocktail dress, Angelle Stratton, center, models a silk print new-length creation, while Helen Wright, shows the latest in tan suede sport dress with gold sandles. WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

TO THE MARCH CLUB alone belongs the distinction of presenting to this southland community the debutantes of the season. And no early spring custom is more delightfully fulfilled than the formal bow of the young ladies who have reached the debutant stage in local social circles.

This year, the ballroom of the Elks Hall will be transformed into a floral bower, with a special lane decorated for the 'Grand March.' The girls presented this year, will be gowned in bouffant models and will carry colonial bouquets. Mrs. Daisy Williams, who annually officiates the presentation, once again will introduce each girl as she steps down the lane, where her father will join her and escort her across the dance floor. The '48 crop of debs includes, Sylvia James, Artyene Thomas, Fannie Pickingpat, Betty Jean Alridge, Janis Fortier, Marvill Henderson, Norma Lee Winston, Harlette Flowers, Dossie Towns, and Lauretta Pruitt.

The annual March Club formal is to be held Friday night. The club this year is headed by Thaddeus Winston and the roster includes, Atty. Thomas Griffith, Dr. Eugene W. Hardimon, Mrs. Helen Watkins, Mrs. Grace Pickett, Mrs. Sadie Sheffield, Mrs. Vassie Brown, Mrs. Grace Boswell, Mrs. Edith Kemp, Mr. Archibald S. Parker, Mr. Wilfred Charles, Mrs. Gertrude Bartlett, Mr. Thomas J. Duckett, Mrs. Edna V. Elgin to name a few. . . .

DELIGHTFUL NOTES

When Louise Skanks Collier and Mary Jane Browning sent out the colorful shower invitations biding a group of their friends to help with the pre-nuptial celebrations honoring bride-elect Elizabeth Kennard, it briught an R.S.V.P. from many an offspring of age old pioneer families of the Angel City. Arrived at the 6th Ave., Skanks Abode, between showers, and I don't mean wedding showers, and found the affair to be very delightful, with the charming Elizabeth opening many, many beautiful gifts, and answering questions about her wedding that is set for April 4, at the St. Phillips Episcopal Church.

Hostesses, Louise and Mary Jane took turns at serving the many guests as they arrived at different intervals. The appointed table that was beautifully decorated in fresh cut flowers and very colorful and tasty condiments, was highlighted by the exquisite silver tea service, a Skanks family heirloom, having been a wedding gift of Louise' grandmother, the Mrs. Allen Allensworth. Our local school teacher Birdielee Brigh twas there with much interesting talk about her plans for motoring to Alaska along with her sister Connie and a friend this summer. Marion B. Jackson, who traveled with the comrades a few years back was all ears. Believe me, the Bright sisters are certainly well traveled ladies. Frances Bowdoin Vaughn, fell neatly in the line of Nursery chatter, being the proud mother of a young son, while Hortense Allen, Georgia Paybon, and Martha Cushnie found the coming Phylippa Schuyler concert of special interest. Willa Jean Ashford, had the new look, but definitely and Alice Watkins' rich tan costume complete with fur chapeau and muff, called for a second look on behalf of all the well dressed ladies present. Found time to chat with Corine Kemp on sorority affairs and Dorothy Galloway on future wedding plans. The lovely affair held sway between the hours of 3 and 6 p.m. with all attending having the usual good time. Mrs. Skanks assisted her daughter, and Mrs. Kennard the honorees mother was much in evidence. Some 70 guests were invited to the affair. . . .

In the mail this week are invitations to a party to be given by Bob Edwards for Winifred Allen and Dr. Ellis Toney; Elizabeth Kennard and Carl King. The dancing gathering is slated for 9 until, and is certain to be a perfect climax to the Saturday night Inter-frat game. Bob is best friends with the four betrothed afore mentioned. By the way, Marion Allen will be her sister's sole attendant when she speaks vows with Dr. Tony on April 25. The reception hostesses will be, Marcela Monroe Miller, oh yes, meant to tell you a few weeks back, that Marcela Monroe and Donald Miller called the calling off off, and eloped, to the surprise of many, last Nov. 1 . . . Back to the reception, other hostesses will be, Paulette Coleman, Connie Roberts, Gloria Bunch, Jewell Lockett, Hattie Brown, and your truly. . . .

The informal party given by Gloria Crouch on last Saturday nite showed off to perfection the friendliness of the local collegiate set. The affair honored lovely Vola Deloney, a newcomer to the city. The invitations read from nine until . The rugs were rolled back for a spot of dancing that carried on well into the night. Gloria, past president of the Alpha Phraterie group of L. A. City College, looked as cute as a "bugs ear" and was definitely the perfect hostess.

HERE AND THERE

Striking a serious note and proving of interest to the many philantropic groups that are looking for a worthwhile project, is the announcement that the Henderson Community Center caters to a large group of youngsters of summer camping age. To date, no camping fund has been established, however, according to Mary Lou Roberson, Director of the Center, the board of directors would appreciate the efforts of any club toward sending some of these youngsters to summer camp. The new ping-pong table in the playroom of the center is a gift of the Doll League Charity club. In answering the community needs, the sewing classes have already opened and can accommodate many more interested mothers. In two weeks the nursery will be open, any mother wishing to place her children is asked to contact the center as soon as possible.

Mildred Cook was hostess to the Crop 'N' Tail riding club on Sunday morning. The girls enjoyed breakfasting together and completing plans for the annual Barn Dance that will be held on April 24. As per usual, blue jeans and plaid shirts will be the order of the evening and the Crops are expecting this to be their biggest affair yet. Enjoying the informal meeting was Carolyn Hennington, who has been away for the city vacationing for several weeks. Crops Maethilde Kenner, Gloria Bunch, Dorothy Bass,

Leisure League New Club Group

A group of nine attractive young women in the business and professional fields has been meeting informally over a year, and decided to organize and call themselves "The Leisure League."

Meeting at the smart home of Benzelle Graham last Friday, the following officers were elected, Benzell Graham, president; Marjorie Scott Williams, secretary; Earline Hopkins, social chairman. Other members are: Ella Louise Pruden, Jacqueline Wilson, Eleanor Elkins, Verna Blanche Johnson, Armenda Haynes, and Earline Shaw.

The purpose of the club is to foster wholesome recreation activities and thus contribute to the joy of living.

Style Show Tea Huge Success

Members of the Barbers and Beauticians Progressive Civic Association of the West Coast held their first style show last week at the House of Beauty, 1477 West Jefferson Boulevard.

Highlights of the show was the exhibit of latest hair stylings and new techniques of the tonsorial profession. Mrs. Estella Jones, and Mr. R. Jackson, instructors at the American Barber College of this city were in charge of the show.

Organzied recently, the group consists of barbers and beauty operators of this city who are making an effort to acquaint themselves with new and modern techniques that are an integral part of their profession.

M. J. McCurthon, president of the group, announced following the style show, that additional shows will be presented in the future, and that greater effort will be made by officiers and members to present the public with all the modern improvements of the tonsorial profession.

Mona Lisa Formal A Colorful Affair

Members of the Mona Lisa Bridge club were hostesses to their many friends on Saturday night at the Elks Auditorium for their annual formal dance.

A garden scene with lovely flowers and card tables carried out for decoration, as if they were playing cards on a patio.

The members were beautifully gowned in white with president wearing red to carry out their club colors.

After the introduction and grand march, the guests enjoyed dancing the rest of the evening. A gay time was had by all who attended.

CULTURE, FINE ART, and encouraging students of the arts to continue studies, is the main work of the Allied Arts League. All proceeds from the Langston Hughes presentation, April 4, at Pepperdine College will go into the scholarship fund of the club. 'Get Acquainted' Reception Planned to Follow Arts Leags Presentation of L. Hughes

The fast moving Wilfandel contest, that has created much interest on the part of leading social matrons and debutants of the community, is centering its benefit spotlight this week on the Matthews Twins, June and Jacqueline, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Matthews, who are being sponsored in the contest by Mmes. Ethel and Antoinette Atkinson.

On Sunday March 21, from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. the Atkinson residence will be the scene of a festive cocktail party. The general public is invited to come out and take part in the benefit. The address is 1146 S. Kingsley Drive.

Miss Willie Avery, another contestant is sponsored by Mrs. Laura Fowler, who will serve as co-hostess with Mmes. Athinsons.

Following is a letter sent to Wilfandel contestant Agnes Moreland, winner of the Daily News contest:

Dear Agnes Moreland:

The Wilfandel Club is happy and proud of your victory. We women might do well to learn a lesson from you. As you came forward with dignified confidence and fearlessness to deliver your oration honoring Susan B. Anthony last Wednesday night every obstacle was surmounted. "I'm not white," you seemed to say, "but I have a brain—a body—a voice!" And you gave the audience what they seemed eagerly waiting for. It was as if the note a composer had been searching for was suddenly discovered in a musical composition.

Where are those who claim that color is a Handicap; that youth of today is dishonorable; those parents who believe their children cannot progress in a school dominated by one race? Where are those who claim there is no democracy? Keep deafened ears toward them, Agnes, for you have a gift which will be recognized as long as there are free men and women. You challenged the majority and won.

Sincerely yours,
The Wilfandel Club

Chapel Singers To Resume Sunday Vespers At Fishers

The Chapel of Remembrance Singers have commenced their second series of Sunday Vespers at the W. D. Fisher & Son Inc. Mortuary. Their initial season was met with success and heiled by the city as "competent melodic artistry." They return with an extensive repetoire of the world's best in music from the prolific pens of masters, both past and contemporary. Many of the selections include little known pieces of the immortals, but nonetheless beautiful.

The group has been active throughout the community in its musical endeavors and has worked with the County Sheriff's Dept. in touring various penal institutions. This coming Easter Week will find them taking part in the Easter Festival of Music at Long Beach, California.

It is well to note that some of the individuals are attaining their just laurels and merit as is the ensemble. The soprano, Miss Georgia Laster, has been commented upon by Mr. Frank Eng local music critic, as destined for concert halls and acclaim. Mr. Robert Williams, basso, is well known in the community for his dynamic tonal presentation and is at the threshhold of achievement.

With the Singers return, something new has been added. Mr. Walter Johnson, organist, accompanies the group at the Vibracho rd. a wonderfully new organ attachment. This revolutionary musical accessory is the only one installed in the city. It is said that its mellowed tones are "kin to the celectial vibrations." Another feature that is new is refreshing bit of narration that is injected with combined vocal and instrumental background.

The management of W. D. Fisher & Son Inc. Mortuary feel it their privilege to be able to present such an accomplished group of musicians every Sunday afternoon, free to the public, in an hour of song and music.

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

The weeks and months of discussion and disagreement on the proposal for Universal Military Training is reaching its climax. Congress should be ready to vote on the measure at the beginning of May. What will be the decision? Which way shall the world, and the youth who will be affected, turn?

In a series of discussions and debates in youth groups, I have been able to see how the young people feel about the plan. It seems that, in just about every case, the odds are about four to six against the plan. Yet, when the suggestion of an international police force is made, through the elimination of the veto power in the United Nations, these youths are whole-heartedly in favor of it.

TOPIC OF THE WEEK

Again the minorities are caught in the rip tide of national politics. Again they must be used as a political football by those seeking to gain more votes in the November election. But it's beginning to appear that the November election isn't going to matter—that it's going to be the January, 1949, election that will count—the day the electoral college boys have thei rsay. That is, unless Wallace stacks up the necessary votes to assure him of victory in the electoral college.

In Jackson, Miss., a few weeks ago, some policemen, out looking for a "suspect" (accused of what, I don't know), saw a one-armed Negro man walking down Farish St. They blew their whistles, and went dashing toward the poor man. In a few minutes, with the contention that he had tried to run upon being "arrested," they had beaten his body to a pulp . . . a veteran. He lost an arm fighting in the second World War. The 16 policemen then left him lying in the gutter, bleeding, his dark body almost pulverized by their devastating black-jack blows. A white man then walked u pto the bleeding mass and turned it over. "I would have done that much for a dog," he was quoted as saying. No aid from on-looking colored people would be permitted. The young Negro isn't dead, or wasn't at the time of this writing. Thank God!

There is Mrs. Ingram and her two sons, in Georgia, awaiting another trial for the self-defense killing of a man who beat her over the head with the butt of a shotgun. Awaiting trial, after being sentenced to death by Georgia justice. They would have carried out that sentence, too, had it not been for the reiterated protests of American citizens. What will be the verdict next time?

The scales of justice still remain unbalanced for the slaying of the two couples two years ago, in Georgia. And all along the Ghetto Country there are similar incidents of violence and discrimination in every sense of the term. What do our leaders do but allow the conditions to linger and do nothing in order that they might have something to promise the people in the election year. And anytime a vice-president spends three years in office, doesn't mention civil rights until he thinks his chances for getting elected again are slim, I say he should be eliminated from the political fields of this country once and for all. It is an outward attempt to use the race issue as a political football, to promise the people and lead them. It will become apparent that a man who promises in such a manner, will only make more promises after he gets into the office which he seeks.

The un-American activities committee—the Thomas-Rankin piece of machinery—is certainly infringing upon the rights of minorities. There are the people on Ellis island who are being threatened with deportation. Have they been given a fair trial? Have they had a fair chance to prove themselves innocent?

In this year, doubtlessly we should elect Wallace and end the exploitations of the minorities. Let us make America a complete democracy, a true democracy. End lynching, poll tax, and so forth, set up more and better southern schools, fight the killer of them all, heart disease and tuberculosis. Forty-eight for Wallace in '48.

Betty Hill to Serve as Camp Chairman for YWCA

Plans for camping have been in formation at Woodlawn Branch YWCA since September. However impetus to the work was gained recently when Mrs. Betty Hill, well-known in civic, social and political circles for her progressive and courageous out-look, consented to serve as camp chairman this year.

MRS. BETTY HILL

Mrs. Hill announced that plans for an extensive camping program calls for concentrated efforts in several areas of work. First of all interested individuals, organizations and businesses are being requested to make financial contributions to the camp fund. This is made imperative because of the high cost of living. Family budgets have been strained so that girls who wish to go to camp, but who are financially unable to do so, will be denied this privilege unless funds are raised now. Mrs. Hill stated: "It is the after-war lag that helps lower standards. We must not let this occur where the interest and well-being of our young girls are concerned. The primary objective of our work is to serve youth adequately."

The other effort is being made by the organized club of girls who with the help of a group of talented adults, will offer a production as a benefit.

Peoples Songs To Present A Politico-Musical Revue

A cast of 100 from Peoples Songs will present "High Time," a politico-musical revue, under the auspices of the Civil Rights Congress at the Embassy auditorium, 9th st. and Grand ave., Thursday and Friday evenings, March 25 and 26, to raise funds for the defense of the "Unfriendly Ten," motion picture figures recently indicted for contempt of Congress.

The revue, which will poke musical and satirical barbs at labor baiting, thought control and racial discrimination, is expected to attract widespread interest through its use of the light touch in songs and sketches instead of the heavy hand of political speeches.

"High Time" boasts a cast of 100 from Peoples Songs and the Actors Lab. Peoples Songs entertainers will feature Goodson and Vale, Shirley Gray and Lee Barrie, Gina Glazer, Rich Dehr and the 60 voice Peoples Songs Chorus; while Actors Lab players will include Art Smith, Stanley Prager, Will Lee, Al Hammer and Les Pine.

Educator Urges End of Bias in South's Colleges

DALLAS, Tex.—Race segregation in Southern colleges and schools "can be eliminated with profit and without serious, if any, untoward consequences," according to Dean Charles H. Thompson of Howard University, Washington, D. C. Moreover, he insists that "the South cannot afford to take the intransigent attitude toward the question which it has been wont to take in the past."

Dean Thompson discusses this civil rights issue, which is now before the courts of Texas and Oklahoma, in an article appearing in the Spring number of Southwest Review, well-known literary quarterly published by SMU's University Press in Dallas. He contends that there can be no such thing as "separate but equal" training for Negros in law or in any other area of education.

Miss Lily K. Haass, who has spent 20 years in China as a staff member of the Y.W.C.A. Foreign Division, was the guest speaker at a "Thank You" reception given by the Y.W.C.A. area committee of Watts last Sunday afternoon from three to six at the Youth Center, 10123 Beach street (USO building).

Mrs. Faustina Johnson, area chairman, stated that this reception carried a three-fold emphasis: the opportunity to thank the volunteers and the community for their splendid cooperation in the recent Y.W.C.A. membership drive; it gave an opportunity for interested persons to get first-hand knowledge of the conditions and life in China; and it brought an afternoon of entertainment for the area.

Mrs. Dorothy Woodson Gay was chairman for the special affair and with the help of the Y.W.C.A. volunteers saw to it that the public got a fitting "Thank You" for the way it is supporting the Y.W.C.A. program. Many persons called during the hours of the reception.

Seeks Site for New Playground

Acquisition of a site for a new playground in southeast Los Angeles is being sought by the City Recreation and Park Commission, which yesterday had requested the City Council to authorize condemnation proceedings on a tract of land 300 feet west of Avalon blvd. and extending from 88th pl. to 89th st.

The area comprising more than five acres, is recommended for purchase as one of the new recreational sites provided for under the City Recreation and Park Department's playground bond issue which calls for additions to the municipal system of playgrounds and recreation facilities.

Local Students Concentrate On Junior Red Cross Drive

Negro elementary and junior high school students, active the year around in Los Angeles Junior Red Cross programs, this week concentrated their efforts on the current Red Cross fund campaign seeking a goal of $2,409,000 here.

In special assemblies conducted this week, Junior Red Cross leaders brought key messages to spur the Red Cross fund-raising campaign and to assist in the solicitation of donations from faculty members.

One of the top meetings of the week was held at the Lafayette Junior high school where Henry Blair and, Jo Ann Marlowe, juvenile radio and screen stars, entertained student body gatherings arranged by John H. Martin, Junior Red Cross director for Los Angeles Chapter, and Evelyn Burwell, well-known Negro entertainer and long active in Community Service to Camp and Hospital programs in this area.

Participating in the Lafayette Junior high school program were Junior Red Crossers Celeste Poole and Mamie Russell. The special Junior Red Cross programs will be staged at schools throughout March — nationally recognized as Red Cross Month.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: The Kingdom of God. Lesson Text and Outline, Luke 4:16-20; Mark 4:26-29; Luke 17:20-21; Romans 14:17. Motto Text Matthews 6:10.

INTRODUCTION

The Kingdom of God includes his entire reign and dominion on earth and in Heaven, and in Heaven, past, present, and future. A New Testament church is "a congregation of Christ's baptized disciples, united in the belief of what he has said, and covenanting to do what he has commanded." A church is, therefore, a democracy of believers, all bound together in one brotherhood on the same level. But the Kingdom is an absolute monarchy with the scepter in the hands of God alone. It is the supreme entity in the universe about which we ought to know; and it has been graciously revealed to us.

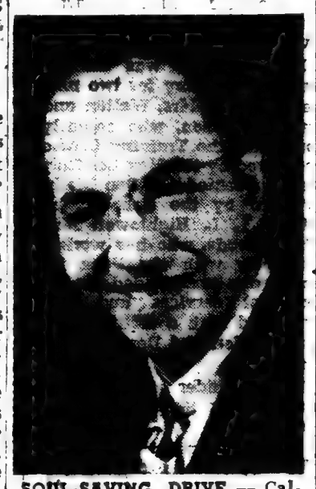
COMMENTS

1. It is good to keep sabbaths in solemn assemblies. The Jews had in their synagogues seven readers every sabbath, the first a priest, the second a Levite, and the other five Israelites of that synagogue. We often find Christ preaching in other synagogues, but never reading, except in this synagogue at Nazareth, of which he had been many years a member. The reading of the scripture is very proper work to be done in religious assemblies; and Christ himself did not think it any disparagement to him to be employed in it. The books of the Old Testment were in a manner shut up till Christ opened them.

2. The good seed of the gospel sown in the world, and sown in the heart, doth by degrees produce wonderful effects, but without noise. So is the kingdom of God; so is the gospel when it is known, and received, as seed in good ground. We know not how the spirit by the word makes a change in the heart, any more than we can account for the blowing of the wind of which we hear the sound, but cannot tell whence it comes, or whither it goes. Nature will have its course, and so will grace. Christ's interest, both in the world and in the heart, and will be, a growing interest; and though the beginning be small, the latter end will be greatly increased.

3. Those who confine Christianity and the church to this place or that party, cry, Lo here, or Lo there, than which nothing is more contrary to the designs of Catholic Christianity; so do they who make prosperity and external pomp a mark of the true church. Its glory does not strike men's fancies, but affects their spirits, and its power is over their souls and consciences; from them it receives homage, and not from their bodies.

COMMENT ON THE MOTTO TEXT



We should turn the word we hear into prayer, our hearts should echo to it; does Christ promise surely I come quickly? Our hearts should answer, Even so, come. Ministers should pray over the word: when they preach the kingdom of God is at hand, they should pray, Father, thy kingdom come. What God has promised we must pray for, for promises are given not to supersede, but to quicken and encourage prayer; and when the acomplishment of a promise is near and at the door, when the kingdom of Heaven is at hand, we should then pray for it more earnestly: thy kingdom come. We pray that God's kingdom being come, we and others may be brought into obedience to all the laws and ordinances of it. Let thy will be done conscientiously by me and others, not our own will, the will of the flesh, or the mind, nor the will of men, much less Satan's will, that we neither displease God in any thing we do, nor be displeased at any thing God does.
